Muhlenberg Wins Over St. Joseph's, 27-0, In First Game of The Football Season

Heavy Line and Speedy Backs Easily Crush Visiting Team

The 1932 edition of Coach Holstrom's Muhlenberg mules opened the football season with a decisive 27 to 0 victory over St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia in a game played under the lights on the local gridiron last Friday night, September 23. Intercepted forward passes paved the way for three of the 'Berg touchdowns, while blocked kicks were responsible for many losses for the Philadelphiaans.

A 60-yard run by "Reds" Weiner, Muhlenberg halfback, after intercepting a pass in the third period was the sensation of the game. Early in the fourth quarter Horine snatched at a St. Joe pass, it bounded from his hands and was caught on the run by Wavrek, who dashed 35 yards for a touchdown. Evanovsky went thru the line for the extra point.

Wavrek went over for the first score of the game in the middle of the first period, after a succession of line plunges had placed the ball on the visitors' one yard stripe. In the second quarter Muhlenberg had advanced to the St. Joe ten yard line, but fumbled and lost the ball. The Philadelphiaans attempted a pass which was intercepted by Sterner, rangy Muhlenberg end, who sprinted unmoled for a touchdown.

Near the opening of the second half, St. Joe attempted a kick from before her goal posts. The pass from center was wide and the receiver was downed behind his goal line for a safety. After Weiner's 60-yard dash to the visitors' three yard stripe, Evanovsky plunged thru the line for a touchdown on the first play.

Equipped with a splendid array of substitutes for the first time in recent years, Coach Holstrom made use of his reserve strength at every opportunity. Practically every one of the fifty men on the squad saw service at some time or another during the game. There was not a single Muhlenberg man who received an injury that would prevent his playing in the important Lafayette game this Saturday.

New Rulings Adopted By Student Council

Freshman Tribunal for Year is Elected

An organization meeting of the Student Council was held on Friday, September 16. Work was resumed on the budget, which was not yet completed.

The Freshman Tribunal elected at the meeting includes Sophomores: Levine, Krapf, Harrison, Saul and Schecterly. Juniors: MacMillan and Musselman. Seniors: Savacool.

The list of Freshman desiring to be excused from regulations because of previous attendance at another college was brought before the council for consideration. The council adopted a plan for the enforcement of freshman regulations, a summary of which follows:

Reports of violations of freshman regulations bearing, in writing, the offense, the offender, the date, and the signature of the reporter must be handed to a member of the Student Council or the Freshman Tribunal who will turn the reports over to the secretary of the Student Council.

Trials, conducted according to Article XII of the By-laws, will decide the truth or falsehood of reports and penalize either the offender or the reporter accordingly.

At a short meeting of the council, held on September 19, a committee was appointed to select the dates for the Soph-Fresh contests.

Muhlenberg Band Is Organized For Year

The Muhlenberg College Band assembled for the first time this year on Wednesday, September 21, in order to prepare for a season of unprecedented activity.

The band this year can boast of at least fifty well-trained members. Both Dr. Brandeis, the faculty director of the band, and Mr. Fisher, the director are well pleased with the manner in which the newcomers and transfer men have reported for the band. The musicians are working for a series of concerts which will be given to the student body during the regular assembly periods in the Science Auditorium.

College Day Speaker To Be Dr. Leroy King

Extension School Grads To Receive Diplomas

Dr. Leroy A. King, Professor of Education at the University of Pennsylvania, will deliver the address at the annual College Day ceremonies to be held in the Science Building auditorium on Saturday morning, October 1. An academic procession and invocation will precede his address.

Candidates for degrees from the extension and summer schools will be presented by Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, director of the School of Education at Muhlenberg College. Diplomas will be awarded by Dr. Robert C. Horn, dean of the college.

Luncheon will be served at the commons at 12:30 P. M. The Lafayette-Muhlenberg football game, played here for the first time in the many years of this keen rivalry, will furnish the entertainment during the afternoon. Fraternity reunions will be in order beginning at 5:30 in the afternoon.

Book By Dr. Amos Ettinger Is Praised Here and In Europe

Work of Alumnus, Son of Dean Emeritus Is Well Received

Dr. Amos Ettinger, son of Dr. George C. Ettinger, recently completed for his thesis a book which has proven itself to be of historical significance. The volume itself concerns Pierre Soule, the only Frenchman to be elected to the United States Senate. Soule, almost caused a war with Spain by recommending the acquisition of Cuba to the United States.

The book "The Mission to Spain of Pierre Soule", was cited by the "New York Times" in a double column review as "a work of conscientious thoroughness studded with footnotes." One chapter alone practically won for Dr. Ettinger the silver medal of The Royal Historical Society of London. For his excellent work Dr. Ettinger was also elected fellow of this illustrious organization.

Dr. Ettinger graduated from Muhlenberg as the valedictorian of the class of '21. After two years work he was granted his A. M. from the University of Pennsylvania. For two years he taught American History at Lafayette College after which he took a post graduate course at Oxford University in England. Here the degree of Ph.D. was conferred upon him.

Upon graduation from Oxford University, England, he taught a year in Yale University and is now continuing his research in England for his extended biography of James Edward Oglethorpe, the founder of Georgia.

First Student Body Meeting is Full of Debates and Action

Budget is Drawn Up, and Reso- lution on Staple's Death Passed

Budget balancing was the order of business for the first student body meeting of the year in the Science Auditorium last Thursday morning, September 22. Prevailing economic conditions induced a large number of students to attend in order to see where their money was to go, and to prevent it from going places they did not want it to go.

The meeting, over which president Richard Garnet was presiding, seemed destined to follow the uneventful course customary when this type of business is transacted, but after the proposed budget was read by the treasurer, Ray Bachman, things became interesting. Harry Dunlap, a senior, made a motion that $75 be taken from the appropriation of another organization, and given to the choir to buy gowns.

Immediately there was a protest from a representative of the organization from which the $75 was to be removed. For some reason or another, everyone seemed anxious to give the choir money for gowns. One organization after another was the target for fund seekers, and each organization found a skillful orator to defend its interests.

Finally it was decided that the $75 should be deducted from the funds provided for assembly entertainment. Mediocre talent in former years was the reason given for this move. The decision was the result of a unanimous vote. The fact that although there is first rate speaking talent among our own faculty members, and that we had been paying large sums to bring speakers to our campus who were often less than third rate, was an important factor in the decision.

Warren Smith, secretary of the student body, proposed a resolution upon the death of Jack Staples. The resolution, which was immediately passed, is as follows:

"WHEREAS death has taken from our midst our good friend and fellow-student, Jack Staples.

AND WHEREAS, we regret his loss from this assembly and remember him as one whose duty to his Alma Mater was always foremost,

Rev. Charles Boyer, Noted Educator and 'Berg Alumnus, Dies

Was Father of Dr. Carl Boyer, Professor of Education At Muhlenberg

Rev. Prof. Charles Clinton Boyer, Ph.D., a distinguished alumnus of Muhlenberg College, died at Drexel Hill, Philadelphia, Pa., on August 20, 1932.

He was born August 6, 1860, in Lewisburg, Schuylkill County, Pa., and was confirmed by the Rev. I. N. S. Erb of Orwigsburg, Pa., with whom he privately prepared for College.

He studied at the Keystone State Normal School, Kutztown, and entered the junior class of Muhlenberg College in 1883, from which he graduated in 1885 with second honors. After spending nearly a year in the Lutheran Theological Seminary on Franklin Square, Philadelphia, he continued his theological studies under Prof. G. B. Hanchen, Ph.D., in Kutztown, while himself teaching there, and was ordained in Trinity Church, Lancaster, in 1888.

Though he did considerable preaching, he was identified mostly with teaching at the Kutztown School, where he was professor of Psychology and Pedagogy from 1886 to 1891. In that year he was called as Pastor of St. John's Church, Boyertown, Pa., which position he filled for two years.

Dr. Boyer, after entering upon his duties as professor in Greek in the Pennsylvania Military Academy, was recalled to Kutztown to teach Psychology and English Classics, and again, after serving for two years at St. John's, Boyertown, was recalled to Kutztown to the chair of Pedagogy. He was elected vice-principal which position he held until 1928, when he retired and moved to Drexel Hill.

He was the author of the following books: "Concrete Psychology", "Principals and Methods of Teaching", "Waymarks of General History", "Modern Methods of Modern Teachers", and "A Family History of the American Boyers".

He is survived by his widow and one son, Professor Carl W. Boyer, who is now with us at Muhlenberg College as Professor of Educational Psychology; also two brothers, Drs. George and Frank Boyer, both of Allentown, and one sister, Mrs. William Merkel of Lewistown, Pa.

Hoover's Political Theories and Record

Mr. Hoover, like his three predecessors, has adhered more or less faithfully to the Hamiltonian tradition. The events of the last four years have forced him to adopt various paternalistic measures, but Mr. Hoover's paternalism does not embrace all classes. Like the high tariff, these measures were intended to protect and benefit one class: the wealthy.

The Hamiltonian tradition is essentially undemocratic. Its spirit is very reminiscent of the exclamation of John Quincy Adams, "The people, sir, is a great beast!" Its ideal is a government controlled by an oligarchy composed of great industrialists and magnates, an ideal that for all purposes has already been attained. Several years ago a list of "rulers of America" was compiled and published in the newspapers. If my memory serves me rightly, every man on that list was notable for his affluence.

The high tariff is, of course, a classic and integral part of Republican policy. Mr. Hoover's contribution in that direction was the Smoot-Hawley tariff, the highest in American history. This tariff evoked protests from a thousand leading economists and scholars. Judged by the pragmatic test, it has been a complete failure. Since its adoption our foreign trade has sunk to pre-war levels, while our internal economy is in an appalling condition.

One of Mr. Hoover's most interesting if unfruitful experiments in "paternalism" was the creation of the Farm Board. The theory was that if the farm board bought up sufficient quantities of cotton and wheat the price of these commodities would rise, with consequent improvement in the economic condition of the farmer. The plan might have met with success if, as Brazil did with her coffee, the Farm Board had burned its cotton and thrown its wheat into the ocean. Unfortunately the Board became tired of incurring heavy losses and "dumped" its holdings, in true Soviet style, here and abroad. The result was that commodity prices slumped again to their former low levels.

The R. F. C. (Reconstruction Finance Corporation), capitalized at $1,000,000,000, was created to protect banks and insurance companies. De-

Der Deutsche Verein Plans For The Year

Der Deutsche Verein held an important meeting on Monday, September 26 at Dr. Barba's home in order to lay plans for the coming year.

The members of Der Deutsche Verein made preparations which include plans for plays and other outside programs for the coming season. The club, in its endeavor to furnish programs of interest for its members, looks forward to a season of comparatively more outdoor programs than in previous years. Another subject which created much discussion was the important matter of the initiations of incoming members.

National Contest Won By Editor of Weekly

"America and Russia" Wins New Republic Award

"America and Russia", the article written by Charles H. Preston, editor-in-chief of the Muhlenberg Weekly, was awarded first prize in the national article writing contest sponsored among college students by the New Republic magazine, a leading weekly journal of opinion.

The article, published in the September 21 issue of the magazine, "America and Russia" is a plea for the immediate recognition of Russia by the United States. It was written as part of the work in the Journalism class, and it was submitted by the writer at the suggestion of Professor Simpson.

College and university students from all over the United States competed in the contest. The editors of the New Republic, who acted as judges, were greatly pleased with the interest shown in the contest and the quality of the work submitted.

Second prize in the same division of the contest was won by a student from Oberlin College and honorable mention was given to a student from New York University.

Freshmen Enjoy Week Of Varied Program With Sophs Absent

Have Reception and Learn of Campus Activities from Leaders

The Freshman Class was initiated to the routine of college life by a well-planned program, executed by O. D. K. and the Muhlenberg Christian Association in cooperation with the administration. Dr. Robert C. Horn, Dean, welcomed the new men, emphasizing the opportunity of a higher education in this period of economic instability. Class organization thereupon followed introducing the neophytes to the mysteries of freshman regulations.

Individual members of O. D. K. greeted the newcomers and assisted them in orientating themselves, giving them much-needed advice. The customary reception to the freshmen sponsored by the M. C. A. was instrumental in creating the spirit of fellowship and class unity among the yearlings. The Rev. Dr. Conrad Wilker, D.D., of St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Allentown, addressed the class, inviting them to identify themselves with one of the local churches.

Mr. H. M. Richards, '32, favored the assembly with a piano solo. Mr. Carl Fisher, student director of the Muhlenberg Band, rendered popular numbers on the Xylophone.

The program for the remainder of the week included a Psychological Examination, completion of Registration and the Physical Examination. Informal talks also were given by faculty advisors and leaders of campus activities.

Speaker Compares Present Con- ditions With Those of Century Ago

The sixty-fifth academic year of Muhlenberg College was begun on Friday, September 16, 1932 in the Science Auditorium. Dr. Joseph S. Jackson, Assistant Professor of History, delivered the opening address, "1832-1931, A Corollary." Dr. Jackson recently received his Doctor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1832 the world was just emerging from the midst of the Napoleonic wars and the subsequent movements for peace and security. Today we are in the midst of a similar movement for peace following history's greatest war. Dr. Jackson declared that the success of this outlawing of war movement depends largely on the action of the present generation. The cynicism which follows all great wars has already been somewhat placed in the background. We are rapidly returning to a normal life.

The second great similarity of the two eras is the cry of the reactionaries. A century ago the great movements for reform which flooded Europe were denounced as "Jacobinism." Today reform is being denounced as "Socialism." In 1832 Democracy was emerging in all nations. In America Andrew Jackson, a personification of Democracy, was re-elected to the presidency, and in England the passage of the Great Reform Bill was an omen of the coming era of Democracy. Today there is a decided dissatisfaction with the principles of Democracy. In Europe at present dictatorship is decidedly in favor, with only two of the important nations having unopposed Democracy. In America the intellectuals vehemently oppose Democracy as inefficient. In answer to the critics of Democracy, Dr. Jackson pointed out that the institution is only a century old and that the present generation is largely responsible in the task of raising the intelligence of the people who cast the votes.

Dr. Jackson pointed to the similarity of industry in 1832 to that of today. 1832 saw the beginnings of the Industrial Revolution, which in modern times is again making great progress. The policy of Laissez Faire,

Former Muhlenberg Debater Turns Hobo

Gains Experience in New York Bread Lines

Donald V. Hock, '32, who for the last three years had been Captain of the Debate Team, and Coach of Freshman Debating at Muhlenberg, took a trip during the summer to New York to spend a week in the bread lines to study the present conditions in that city.

Hock had a unique experience, for he, as a vagrant and hobo, fell right in line with the rest of the unemployed. In this week he lived in a ten cent "flop" house as is the custom. His meals consisted of dish-water soup, coffee, and bread. His most thrilling experience came while he was lying on the floor of the famous old "78" saloon. That night when every man was asleep he was awakened by a weird, sharp cry, and after investigating he found the man beside him dead—the victim of the denatured alcohol which killed twenty-two that day. One day he went to a Communist meeting where, upon his appearance as a loyal member, he was made a Communist Officer.

Because of this unique experience, he lectured to approximately twenty-five civic organizations throughout Lehigh County. Mr. Hock is now studying law at the University of Pennsylvania.

THE NEW GYM SCHEDULE

"We're all against it"

The Faculty Committee on Curriculum rendered a distinct service to the college and to the students by working out a plan of curriculum changes that enables Muhlenberg to adapt itself to the changing conditions in the educational world. Unfortunately, as often is the case when changes of major importance are made, there is one phase of the revised curriculum that does not function as it was planned. This feature is the new program of Physical Education for upper-classmen.

Briefly stated, opposition to the new gym schedule is based upon the following points: On two days a week, classes in physical education would last until 5:30 in the evening. This would be an unnecessary hardship for the commuting and town students—who would have their evening's study schedule materially hindered. A number of B. S. students have laboratory sections lasting until 5:15—some three and four days a week. An additional burden—the last straw for many—of four dollars for football shoes, and three to five dollars for a text book in the theory section would be required.

There are students who are only able to attend college because they work in the late afternoons and evenings. They would be prevented from working and consequently from attending Muhlenberg. Students doing practice teaching five hours a week would suffer an additional handicap. There are numerous other ways in which the new program works a hardship upon the students, we are prevented by lack of space from listing them here.

It is sufficient to say, however, that never has there been such unanimity among the students of Muhlenberg as there is in this opposition to the new gym schedule. Dorm students, town students, commuters, fraternity men, non-fraternity men, pagans, ministers, we're all united in our opinion on this question. We're all against it!

THE PASSING PRESENT

fenders of the administration contend that the creation of the R. F. C. has greatly lessened the number of bank failures. I have not seen the latest figures in this connection, but the recent debacle at Chicago where more than 30 banks failed within a few days, proves that the R. F. C. is not a perfect safeguard against bank failures.

The president has made strenuous efforts to increase employment by public works, loans to industries, etc., but so far without any perceptible effect. The railroads, into which hundreds of millions of dollars have been poured, have been consistently discharging workers and cutting wages, and are now pressing for an additional 20% basic cut. Soon after a number of industrial leaders, summoned to Washington, had promised not to attack the wage scale, a storm of wage cuts broke forth. It is safe to say that wages have been cut on an average from 10 to 40 per cent and even more. At the present time the number of unemployed is estimated to be between 10 and 14 millions.

The following comparison shows how much greater is the amount loaned to banks, corporations, utilities, etc., than that allotted to the relief of private destitution.

To be loaned to states for Relief Work$300,000,000
Federal Cotton and Wheat to the amount of 10,000,000

Work$310,000,000

To the R. F. C.$3,000,000,000

To Utilities, Corporations,
Railroads, etc., 1,500,000,000

Available for Business and Industry$4,500,000,000

The amounts are obviously disproportionate.

In closing I wish to make it clear that I have only meant to touch upon a few salient points in Mr. Hoover's political ideas and career in this necessarily brief study. I have not even broached the subject of his foreign policy, which is of as great importance as his domestic policy.

A word about Mr. Hoover. I do not think future generations will judge Mr. Hoover very severely because he failed to stem the tide of the greatest depression in history. For all the glib talk of the politicians, such a task would have required a complete scrapping of our planless economy.

Actions like the brutal expulsion of the veterans from Washington, his opportunistic insistence that the depression was over or ending, and his willful blindness to the bitter suffering of his countrymen, do more to lessen respect for Mr. Hoover than any mere failure could do.

(The subject of next week's article will be the political theories of Franklin Roosevelt.)

LIBRARY NOTES

It has been said that the library is the "Intellectual Workshop" of the entire College, one that will serve the tastes of all kinds of professors and students. Its purpose is to develop a lasting interest in reading both for pleasure and securing information. In order to create a keener interest and stimulate the desire to read in our students, the editors of this paper have consented to allow a certain space to be devoted each week to information concerning the library.

A new college year has begun, new students have arrived on the Campus and in order to better acquaint them with the functions of the Library, the space this week will be devoted entirely to a few fundamental points which every one should know.

The library has the capacity for holding 200,000 volumes and up to the date of writing there are 40,719 accessioned volumes on file. The entire third floor is devoted to the Stopp library, a private library, which was donated to the college several years ago. It contains a varied collection of about 6000 volumes. The Robert C. Horn alcove is another feature which is being developed and up to date contains about 140 volumes pertaining principally to Greek art and letters.

In regard to the use of the Library it is important that a few rules should be observed. Many of the new students have been accustomed to working in libraries with open shelves where the books may be examined before a selection is made. The college library has closed stacks and all information concerning the books must be obtained from the file where the cards are arranged alphabetically according to author, subject and title. The librarian at the desk will always be glad to be of assistance. Do not hesitate to ask for information or suggestions.

After a book has been selected, please turn to the back cover and note the few rules which are found on the card pocket. On the opposite page there is a date slip which states the date on which the book is to be returned. Be sure to return the book on or before that date. If it is necessary to keep the book for a longer period of time, simply ask the librarian to renew it for you. Your request will be granted unless there is some special need for the book elsewhere. A fine of three cents a day is charged for overdue books as well as the forfeiting of library privileges.

Reference books must never go out of the library. All the books in the reading room are for reference work only and are placed there for the use of anyone at any time. After securing the necessary information from these books please return them to their proper places on the shelves. Certain courses require a large amount of reference work. These books may be obtained at the desk and must be returned after they have been used. Always remember you are not the only one who has a special report or assignment; there may be fifty others doing the same thing.

These are a few of the most important rules concerning our own Library and with the proper cooperation of students, professors and the librarians we are certain to have a very pleasant college year.

Helen R. Richards.

M. C. A. HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF THE YEAR

The first regular meeting of the M. C. A. Cabinet was held on Wednesday, September 21, 1932, 4:30 in the Ad building. Henry Lubsen, president, was in charge. The budget committee gave its report and upon a motion by Rev. Cressman, the entire budget was placed in the minutes.

A brief discussion was held concerning the payment of the various smokers held throughout the year. It was agreed that the Cabinet meet jointly with the Student Council at some future date to settle the question.

After deciding to meet again on the third Thursday evening of each month at seven o'clock in the seminar room of the library the meeting was adjourned.

The Rev. Clarence A. Steigerwalt, '24, pastor of the Friedensburg Lutheran Parish, celebrated the fifth anniversary of his pastorate with special services last June 5.

FRESHMAN ENROLLMENT IS PRACTICALLY AT PAR

Many From Distant Points

Despite the prevailing economic conditions Muhlenberg's registration shows a total enrollment approximating that of last year. Fifty-five to sixty percent of the enrolled freshmen are of Lutheran denomination. The remaining percentage is widely distributed among other creeds. Listed among these are the following: Methodist, Catholic, Jewish, Greek Catholic, Reformed, Baptist, Church of God, Evangelical, Presbyterian, and Episcopal.

There has been a decided increase in enrollment of students from foreign countries. Tokio, Japan, Virgin Islands, and India are among these countries. Muhlenberg's academic sphere is also rapidly expanding to embrace the various parts of the United States. California is represented for the first time in recent years.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY THE FRESHMAN CLASS

The class of 1936 held its first election of officers, Monday, September 12, 1932. Of the six offices available, four were filled by graduates of Allentown High School. The secretarial position is held by a student from the American School, Japan.

The complete results are as follows: President, George R. Koehler, Bethlehem High School; Vice-president, Charles H. Kline, Allentown High School. The secretary is Edward P. Horn. The treasurer, Donald A. Hausman, is also a graduate of Allentown High School. Both monitors, Charles F. Miller and George B. Woodring, are products of the local institution.

The Rev. Rufus E. Kern, '09, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Hamburg, Pa., recently observed the tenth anniversary of his present pastorate.

John Staples, Popular Sophomore, Meets Death

John D. Staples, Jr., '34, of Hampton, N. J., was immediately killed when struck by lightning at Budd Lake, N. J., on August 31, 1932. The funeral, held on September 3, at Hampton, N. J. was attended by his brothers of Theta Kappa Nu Fraternity. Flowers in great abundance were given in memory of the popular young student.

LAFAYETTE GAME IS NEXT FOR 'BERG TEAM

Coach George R. Holstrom's "Muhls" are all set to throw their sharp hoofs here and there in a determined effort to shove-in the ribs of their traditional rivals, the Lafayette "Leopards", coached by "Herb" McCracken. The two teams will meet, for the first time in their long athletic relations, on the Muhlenberg college gridiron next Saturday afternoon.

Coach Holstrom has worked hard in rounding out his squad of nearly a half-hundred men into a smooth-running organization, and will have, as never before in his coaching experiences at Muhlenberg, a sufficient number of capable reserves ready for action at any minute.

The Lafayette squad, is undoubtedly proving the favorite to win, but the loss of eleven letter men thru graduation last June is being keenly felt. The absence of such 1931 stars as Reuter, Cook and Marsh has left big gaps in the Maroon line-ups. However, Coach McCracken is accomplishing wonders with his squad of thirty-seven men which have been drilling consistently at their training camp at Saylor's Lake, Pa.

Muhlenberg's record against Lafayette in previous years is anything but impressive. The scores of contests between the two institutions since 1925 are as follows:

Year	Muhlenberg	Lafayette
1926	0	35
1927	7	28
1928	0	56
1929	0	23

MUHLENBERG DEFEATS ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE

A large number of the visitor's received injuries, of those the most serious was a neck injury suffered by Frank Conner, St. Joe center, who was carried off the field and immediately taken back to Philadelphia.

The Muhlenberg line showed plenty of power and drive in smashing through to bat down St. Joe punts, while the visitors were seldom able to make gains through the first string Cardinal and Gray forward wall. There were numerous faults to be found in the play but this is common to opening games and will probably be remedied as the season progresses.

In spite of threatening rain, and a slow drizzle earlier in the evening, the stands were packed with spectators who had heard reports of the improvement in the Muhlenberg team over former years, and wanted to check up for themselves.

Between the halves the frosh entertained under the direction of some husky sophomores, and with the help of an obliging mule that had been hired for the occasion. This year's freshmen put on one of the best shows that has been seen in a long time. Realizing the leniency of the regulations they showed their appreciation by entering into the spirit of the occasion in a splendid manner.

And everybody's back again, settling down and getting ready for a year of work or play or something else that enters into making Muhlenberg a college that annually attracts more than 400 students. While in former years with "college bred" referred to as a "four year loaf", economic conditions being what they are, this year's college students find themselves fortunate in being able to return. They really mean to get the most out of their opportunities whether it be scholastically, socially or athletically.

Evidently this year's flock of students is not interested, either individually or collectively, in any theories of physical education which the venerable head of that department, Mr. William S. Ritter, B.S. (Muhlenberg) may expound. Perhaps they have no desire in participating in a Cedar Crest Play day unless the girls can join them. At any rate the majority of the student body has signed a petition addressed to the faculty, asking that the system of P. E. in force for the past so many years be returned this year. A petition to completely eliminate physical education might also be advisable.

There is no more ardent member of the Democratic party in the state of Pennsylvania than Oscar F. Bernheim, for the past twenty-five years one of the leading figures in the administration of the college. Mr. Bernheim, along with many other prominent men both in this city and throughout the nation, is predicting a great victory for Franklin D. Roosevelt on November 8. The reelection of Herbert Hoover, according to Muhlenberg's financier, would result in a greater depression than this country has ever known since it would be construed as an endorsement of the high tariff policy of the Republicans. That's Mr. Bernheim's opinion, and while it may be shared by others, this column has taken no sides in the political questions of the day.

The opening of college on Friday, September 16, was significant in the

WE ATTEND A POLITICAL MEETING

The County Republican meeting of two weeks ago had in attendance many of Pennsylvania's political leaders. The chief speaker of the day was Vice President Curtis. Those who came to hear a "dry" defend prohibition in a wet stronghold came in vain—Mr. Curtis discussed farm relief.

At the head of a party of three hundred Young Republicans was Howard Berry, 'Berg ex-'17 and later all-American fullback at Penn.

A freshman (name will be given on request) rises to remark that a boy of five has the brain of a politician (the name of the politician will not be given).

Congressman Watson speaks: "The bill came out of the committee into the senate. And what did they do? They killed the COMMITTEE—I mean the bill." (he was probably right the first time).

OLD SPORTS

In 1920 'Berg was walloped by Lehigh, 56-0, the next week, 'Berg scrambled Drexel, 82-0. (No comment necessary)....In the same year—the Frosh took the beds of sophomores, who were holding their banquet, and scattered them in all directions—some beds had a nice resting place in the trees on Chew Street...The basketball team of 1914 defeated New York University, Penn., Lehigh, Bucknell, and Susquehanna.

In 1913 'Berg had a FOOTBALL team.

Lafayette was held to a 7-7 tie. N. Y. U. was lambasted, 54-0 (Believe it or not.)

Gettysburg walloped, 20-6. Lebanon Valley defeated, 35-0. F. and M. steam-rollered, 25-0.

The Rev. Jonathan A. Klick, '99, pastor of the Hecktown-Farmersville Pa. Lutheran Parish, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his present pastorate with special services last June 26.

Many Marriages of Alumni this Summer

The past summer was an exceedingly active period for marriages among the recent graduates of Muhlenberg College. Five men, all of them quite active in student affairs while under-graduates, placed their names in the lists of the benedicts.

Henry M. M. Richards, '32 was married to Miss Adele Grace Wenner of Easton on July 14, 1932. The bridegroom was very popular among the Muhlenberg students, and served on the victorious debate team for three years. Mr. and Mrs. Richards are now living in Allentown.

Rev. Clarence Boyer, class of 1929, took in marriage the hand of Miss Margaret Nusbaum of Allentown, June 28, 1932. The Bride was an instructor at Muhlenberg Public School. Rev. Boyer graduated from the Mt. Airy Theological Seminary in 1932.

The Bridegroom was very active in college as the following few activities will prove: Author of the Student Body Constitution, Secretary of the Student Body, President of the same organization, Member of the Ciarla staff, and a charter member of Theta Upsilon Omega Fraternity. He is now serving as the Pastor of the Lutheran Church in Ramsey, N. J.

Miss Marion Walk of Lehigh, Penna., became the bride of Frederick S. Meckly, '30 at dawn, June 30, 1932. Mr. Meckly, besides being a member of the local chapter of the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity, was very prominent in Muhlenberg's extra-curricular activities. During the past summer he received his Master's degree at Harvard University. At present he is an instructor of History and Coach of Debating at South Whitehall High School.

Mr. Donald S. Mock, '31, took as his bride Miss Grace Detweiler, Marion, Penna., a graduate of Susquehanna University, last winter at Camden, N. J. The University of Pennsylvania bestowed upon him a Master's Degree last June. Mr. and Mrs. Mock are on their way to Colorado to attend the University where he received a Fellowship. Mr. Mock was exceedingly active here on the campus. He was a member of the honorary Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity, Editor-in-Chief of the Weekly, besides holding numerous other offices. Socially he was a member of the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity.

Vincent Takacs, Jr., '32, and Beatrice Handwerk were united in Holy matrimony by Rev. H. A. Benfer, Registrar of Muhlenberg College, at the latter's home on June 25, 1932. Takacs, star hurler on Muhlenberg's baseball team which trounced Lehigh and Lafayette last year, is a member of the Theta Kappa Nu fraternity.

Donald L. Steinhauer, '32 of Kingston, Pa., was married on Saturday evening, June 25, 1932 in Christ Lutheran Church, Kingston, to Miss Eleanor M. Hannaford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hannaford of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. which Adam Smith supported at the beginning of the nineteenth century, is being reincarnated by the supporters of "rugged individualism". The government, after years of intervention and cooperation, is being asked to remain out of business. How far the government's business control should proceed is again the problem of the present generation.

The last great similarity between the two centuries exists in the field of education. Today, as in 1832, a radical change is occurring in education. Modern education is entering new fields and exploring new ground; the conservative policy of prescribing old and tried subjects is being discarded and new subjects are now being taught. In 1832 the radical change was that of making education democratic; the worker's children as well as the aristocrat's obtained the right to education. In 1932 the attitude toward a college diploma is also changing; it is no longer being regarded as a marketable item to be obtained with the smallest possible amount of effort, but, rather as something for which the student must work.

In the absence of Dr. John A. W. Haas, who will not return until October 15, Dean Robert C. Horn was in charge of the opening exercises. Dr. Robert C. Fritsch read the scripture lesson, and Reverend Russel W. Stine offered the invocation.

Following the address by Dr. Jackson, Dr. Horn issued an invitation to friends of the student body to attend all college functions. Reverend Harry P. Cressman closed the program with the benediction.

Earl Laros, '10, prominent Easton, Pa., musician, and founder and director of the Easton Symphony Orchestra, received the degree of Doctor of Music from his Alma Mater at the Commencement Exercises last June 6.

history of Muhlenberg. But the peculiar quality which distinguished it from other academic events was the fact the President John A. W. Haas was absent. Dr. Haas has been present at every academic function for the past 27 years with the exception of those that occurred during his Sabbatical leaves. The doctor is at present writing and resting at his summer home in the Poconos and will return to college on or about October 15. Those students who are returning to Muhlenberg this year miss their distinguished president, his genial good personality and his abounding wit and are eagerly anticipating his return.

(With a Fast Camera)

Edward Detweiler, a member of last year's sophomore class, became the proud father of a baby boy. Here's luck to you, Edward, and may you have many more future Muhlenberg students—And here's to Miss Schwartz the genial secretary in the Athletic office who declares that she wouldn't go to see her hero play football no matter how madly in love she was with him, unless he'd accompany her to the game and sit in the stands with her. Now can you beat that?—Wilmer Wolf, senior associate editor of the Weekly, lost his treasured fraternity pin. He says he knows where it is and its place is being occupied by a Cedar Crest College honorary pin. Not so quiet Wilmer, as the boys would believe—During a blazing hot day last week, a freshman sauntered into the Registrar's office wearing a topcoat. No that's not one of the freshman regulations—Imagine Professor Coder sitting on a chair and having it collapse under him—The following Muhlenberg students enjoyed a "Night in Paris" at the Great Allentown Fair: Shucks, we better not use their names or we might have a few libel suits—More dirt next week.

FIRST STUDENT BODY MEETING IS FULL OF ACTION AND DEBATE

BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED, that we fully realize the extent of our bereavement as the Student Body of Muhlenberg College:

That we extend our sympathy to his family by presenting to them a copy of this resolution,

That a copy of this resolution be extended also to the local chapter of Theta Kappa Nu fraternity,

That a third copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting."

The student body meeting was then adjourned, but the president of the senior class, Charles Cooper, assumed charge of a meeting of his class. The meeting had been called to take action in protest against the new schedule of Physical Education for upper classmen. The juniors, also affected, were to take part in this meeting intended solely for upper-classmen, but the sophomores and freshmen, who would be affected later, demanded that they be allowed to take part. This was allowed.

Students in all parts of the auditorium arose in turn to tell how greatly this new schedule inconvenienced them. It was discovered that there was not a member of any group who was not adversely affected by the new program.

A call for volunteers to act as a committee to draw up and circulate a petition resulted in a large group of recruits. The "appendix" meeting was adjourned, and the students left feeling they had done a good day's work.

"Is Education A Profession?" Is Topic For Address By Dr. King

The Graduation exercises of the School of Education of Muhlenberg College were held on College Day, October 1, 1932, in the Science Auditorium. Dr. LeRoy A. King, Professor of Educational Administration at the University of Pennsylvania, delivered the Commencement Address, "Is Education becoming a Profession?". Dr. King is also a member of the State Council of Education in Pennsylvania. Class Honors and Degrees were awarded by Dr. Robert C. Horn, Dean of Muhlenberg College.

Dr. King called the attention of his audience to two general propositions: the past and present status of the teaching profession, and the developments in education tending to make education a science.

Dr. King pointed out that one of the most serious handicaps to the development of an American educational system was the contempt for teaching. This contempt was expressed in the words of Bernard Shaw, "Those who can do; those who can not teach." The reasons for this were that twenty years ago teachers' services had no more than a tenure of three years, teachers were pitifully unprepared, the salaries were meager, and there was an unequal competition with other occupations.

Dr. King then pointed out the following changes that have taken place during the last ten years: (1) the tenure of service has increased from three to eight years; (2) the necessity of more adequate training of teachers is so great that those who wish to teach in Pennsylvania in 1936 must have a college degree; (3) the teachers' salaries have advanced from $400 up to as high as $2350; (4) a national Education Association has grown from 10,000 to 200,000 members; (5) Teachers' Councils and Organizations which formulate salaries, text books, etc. have sprung up.

Dr. King advocated a State plan of Education whereby an equalized system will be had by all schools in the state. He concluded by exhorting the future teachers not to apologize for their profession because it is equal to medicine, ministry, and other professions.

Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, Director of the School of Education at Muhlenberg College, presented the candidates for degrees to Dr. Robert C. Horn, Dean of Muhlenberg College, who, in the absence of the President, Dr. John A. W. Haas, awarded the diplomas. The address was preceded by the Invocation given by Dr. Robert C. Fritsch.

FIRST INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL MEETING HELD

The Inter-fraternity Council, composed of representatives of the social fraternities on the campus, opened its season with a meeting at the A. T. O. house on September 27. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. Wm. Wilkinson.

The dates for the rushing season were scheduled as follows: Delta Theta, October 3 and 12; Theta Kappa Nu, October 10 and 13; Phi Kappa Tau, October 5 and 14; Philos, October 4 and 11; Theta Upsilon Omega, October 8 and 15; Alpha Tau Omega, October 6 and 17; Phi Epsilon Pi, to be arranged. The rushing season extends from October 3 to October 18, 4:15 P. M. Freshmen will receive their bids October 19 instead of October 18 as originally scheduled.

The Council is at present considering the addition of several more types of contests to the Intramurals.

New Plans For I. O. U. Contest Announced

Expenses Will Be Cut By Lower State Dues

Dr. Brown, head of the Department of English, and coach of Oratory, has announced radical changes in the system of conducting Intercollegiate Oratorical Union contests.

A reduction of state dues from sixty dollars to thirty dollars, for each state participating cuts off a large amount of expense. In addition, Miss Miriam Franklin, of Grove City College, Pennsylvania, announced that the fourteen orations will be printed and bound in one volume; the expense being assumed by the National Union. In previous years each state printed a pamphlet containing the speech of the respective winner of that state.

The centralization of the contests at one place, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois, has been achieved, in place of the regional, Eastern, Central and Western divisional contests. However, the representatives of each state will compete at a preliminary event in New York.

At the final word battle fourteen men will participate the first day, while six chosen men will fling forth their oratory on the following day, at which time the victor shall be named.

The old system of using the directors, or coaches of the speakers as judges will be abandoned, and in their places five judges will act in the preliminary event and seven in the finals.

Eight colleges comprise the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union, they are: Thiel, Allegheny, Grove City, Waynesburg, in western Pennsylvania; Ursinus, Gettysburg, Juniata and Muhlenberg in eastern Pennsylvania. The states, Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan, have twelve colleges in their association, but since the Union is constantly growing more popular these states are hoping to extend their membership.

Thiel College, at Greenville, Pennsylvania, will be the meeting place where our state's finalist will be crowned. The event is scheduled for the first Saturday in March.

Due to able coaching, Muhlenberg placed three state victors in success.

Phi Epsilon Pi Opens House With Reception

Fraternity Officials Present At House Warming

September 25 marked another step in the steady upward progress of the Alpha Nu Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi, when it entertained approximately 250 people at a reception given to celebrate the chapter's installation in its new home at 2207 Gordon Street. Since its change of national organization last February, the chapter has advanced to the point where it has become a leading factor in the affairs of the campus.

The house has been beautifully furnished practically through the sole efforts of the chapter itself, which is all the more remarkable as it possesses the smallest group on the campus.

Several prominent figures were present at this housewarming, among whom were Maurice Jacobs, grand traveling secretary of the fraternity, Dr. Ettinger, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Richard, Dr. Shankweiler, Dr. Zartman, Misses Ruth Bernheim, Margaret Schwartz, and Helen Richards, and representatives of various houses on the campus. Many prominent alumni were present to add to the color of the occasion.

Debating, Dramatics, And Oratory Are To Be In Intramurals

New Scholastic Program Offers Competition For More Students

This year, three more major activities, debating, dramatics, and oratory, will make their debut on an intramural schedule in the effort to draw students together in competition other than athletic games. Aside from varsity intercollegiate participation, these three highly cultural attainments have been sadly neglected. With the purpose of stimulating more active interest in these activities among the college students this movement has been started.

It has the full support and personal help of the faculty and is looked upon with favor from many sides, since it will not only include three important pulses of life on the campus, but will give several groups who are weak in athletics a fine opportunity to boost their averages in the point column. It will also provoke a new and more intensified interest in life on the campus itself.

Of course, those who have represented Muhlenberg in these endeavors in varsity competition will necessarily be barred, but this should serve to add more to the efforts of those thespians who are not Barrymores, those debaters who are not Darrows, and those orators who are not Bryans or Ciceros.

All the sketches, dealing with subjects representative of the Muhlenberg Campus, will be presented on one evening of competition during the week after Thanksgiving. Although no definite point system has been arranged as yet, this detail will be ironed out in the near future.

Mr. Coder, who has had much to do with the revival of dramatics here will coach the various competitors. Attorney A. T. Gillespie, coach of the highly successful debating team, will lend his time and effort to debating, and Dr. Brown will probably give a portion of his time and knowledge to the development of future I. O. U. winners.

THE PASSING PRESENT

BENJAMIN H. KEEN, '35

Franklin Roosevelt — Radical, Liberal or Reactionary?

Mr. Roosevelt's political leanings have for a long time been a matter of much doubt and speculation. The astonishing spectacle of Bernard Baruch and Senator Norris together on the Democratic band wagon proves what a variety of opinions exists as to Mr. Roosevelt's ideology. Wall Street regards him with deep suspicion and wonders if he is a "red," while the radicals regard him as a second Hoover.

The question of Mr. Roosevelt's radicalism is almost purely an academic one. Mr. Roosevelt might have been considered a radical in the days when the cry of "Liberty, Equality and Fraternity" was something new and strange, when 90% of the American people lived on farms, and the phrase "technological unemployment" was not yet invented. But times have changed and the use of words has changed with them. Radicalism today, let us admit, smacks much more of the "Communist Manifesto" of Marx and Engels than of the "Declaration of the Rights of Man."

With greater justice Mr. Roosevelt lays claim to the title of "liberal." Reading his campaign speeches one is reminded of Woodrow Wilson. There is the same well-meaning idealism, the same agreeable vagueness. Mr. Roosevelt's "New Deal" for the "forgotten man" is strangely reminiscent of Wilson's "New Freedom." What is meant by a "New Deal," and what Mr. Roosevelt proposes to do for the 14,000,000 "forgotten

Dr. Horn's Brother, Muhlenberg Alumnus, Succumbs At Ithaca

Had Been Resident Pastor At Cornell University Since 1917

Dr. William Melchior Horn, brother of Dean Robert C. Horn, and a graduate of Muhlenberg in the same class as the present dean, died at Ithaca, N. Y., on Wednesday morning, September 21, 1932. His funeral was held at Ithaca on September 23, 1932.

Dr. William Horn was born at Charleston, S. C., November 28, 1882. He studied at Charleston College, 1896-97, and received his A. B. degree from Muhlenberg College as the youngest member of the class of 1900, taking fourth honors. His A. M. degree was conferred by Princeton University in 1901; he studied at the University of Pennsylvania, 1901-02; graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, in 1904; and received his D.D. degree from Muhlenberg College in 1925. Ordained as a Lutheran minister in 1904, he served as assistant pastor of the Church of Advent, New York City, 1904-07, and as pastor, 1907-17; he has acted as resident pastor of Cornell University since 1917.

His work at Ithaca has been most successful. The beautiful church building and an active student congregation remain as memorials.

Among the affiliations of Dr. Horn, were the following: Secretary, Board of Education of United Lutheran Church; founder, Inner Mission Society of New York; president, New York Lutheran Ministers Association, 1912-14; Evangelical Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, 1914-17; chairman Board of Virgin Islands Missions, 1915-18; president, Ministers' Association, Southern Tier, New York; trustee, Ithaca Council, Boy Scouts of America. He was a member of Pi Gamma Mu Fraternity, Rotary Club of Ithaca and University Club of Syracuse, as well as a contributor to The Lutheran and the Lutheran Church Review.

Lafayette Defeats Muhlenberg By 6-0 Score After Cardinal and Gray Squad Shows Visiting Leopards A Hard Fight

Frosh-Soph Contest Dates Are Announced

Use Of Back Stairway Of "Ad" Building Is The Goal

On October 5, the Frosh will be given their first real opportunity to regain some of their lost prestige when a pushball contest between Sophomores and Freshmen will be staged. There will also be a tug-of-war and a football game on the 12th and 17th respectively. If the Frosh are successful in winning two victories over the Sophs in these contests their reward will be the use of the back steps of the administration building.

The football field will be the scene of the titanic pushball contest. A huge pushball will be placed in the center of the field and the opposing parties will line up on their respective goal lines. At a given signal a wild rush will be made for the ball, and each group will make a supreme endeavor to get the ball over their opponent's goal line. The stranglehold is the only unorthodox grip that is barred by the Student Council Committee—if they are able to detect its use.

The most colorful and interesting of these contests is the football debacle. All the new football rules, along with quite a few that were never written, will be needed to settle the arising disputes, if we may be allowed to use former Soph-Frosh games as a criterion.

Dr. Wright, former Alfred backfield ace, will be in there doing his part to keep the game from looking like a contortionist's reunion. "Haps" Benfer, our popular registrar, will act as head linesman and "chief bouncer" if the situation becomes a "bit unmanageable". No varsity men or players on the Freshman squad are allowed to participate. Needless to say there is always an intense rivalry and a great amount of enthusiasm shown in this particular contest.

Little Cedar Creek will hold the spotlight in the tug-of-war between the two rival groups, on the 12th of October. The purpose of this contest is for one group to drag, pull, or seduce their opponents to cross the creek (via the water), thereby assuring the losers a wet party. The only possibility of a draw is a broken rope, and the officials definitely assure both contesting parties that no ropes have ever broken.

Dramatic Recital Is Feature of Assembly

Max Montor Entertains in German and English

Max Montor of Vienna, American exchange of the Carl Shurz Foundation for Cultural Relations between Germany and America, gave a dramatic recital in the Science Auditorium on September 29 at 11 A. M. He has been to Yale, Columbia, Cornell and Princeton so far in his tour of the United States.

He gave two very expressive declamations in German from Schiller. These were followed by the Rialto speech of Shylock, from Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.

Mr. Montor impersonated the Jew, Nathan, in the Parable of the Three Rings from Lessing's Nathan the Wise. He gave a reading in German from Goethe's Faust, and in English declaimed the Ides of March and the death of Caesar episodes from Shakespeare's Julius Caesar.

Dr. Barba, head of the German Department, was instrumental in securing the speaker.

Jacobs Makes Lone Score Of The Game Early In Second Quarter

"MUHLS" LAUNCH ATTACK IN THE THIRD PERIOD

The Muhlenberg "Muhls" made a stubborn stand against the powerful Lafayette Leopards, and threw several scares into the ranks of the visitors before going down to a 6 to 0 defeat in the traditional game played on the local gridiron last Saturday afternoon, October 1. The lone score was made early in the second quarter by Jacobs, who crashed over the line, after a series of spinner plays and a forward pass had brought the ball to the Muhlenberg five yard stripe.

The first Muhlenberg threat came just before the end of first half. An unexpected kick carried the ball to the Lafayette twenty-five yard line. The visitors received a 15 yard penalty for holding, and 'Berg was penalized five yards. A lateral pass from Maass went wide and the receiver was brought down on his own five yard line. The Holstromites were out for revenge, but the period ended at this time.

The next scare given the enemy came near the end of the fourth quarter. Lafayette had been awarded a long pass and the Leopards believed that Muhlenberg would be vulnerable to this form of attack. Another was attempted, but captain Joe Matuska jumped into the air, caught it, and ran from mid-field to the visitors 32 yard line. Weiner tossed a pass to Evansky for a fourteen yard gain. Evansky crashed through the line twice and earned a first down for Muhlenberg. Line plunges by Evansky and Weiner carried the ball to the shadow of the Lafayette goal posts, but on last down with one yard to go for a first down, the Leopard line held and Evansky was stopped for no gain on an attempted thrust at tackle.

Muhlenberg in the first real test of the season, against a team that is ranked among the best in the East, showed an improvement in all departments over last year's squad. Contrary to other years, there was no man on the 'Berg squad who received an injury that will prevent him from taking part in later games. Lafayette had twelve first downs in comparison to Muhlenberg's two. Each team lost sixty yards through penalties. The stands were packed and spectators were perched in trees on the outside of the field to witness the first Lafayette-Muhlenberg game to be played in Allentown.

The first quarter was marked by cautious play on each side. Penalties and line plunges by Miller, Fox, and Wright brought the ball to the Muhlenberg fifteen yard line, but the Cardinal and Gray forward wall held and the Holstromites received the

CRITICS

"Critics we have with us always."

Well meant criticism is always welcome and solicited by the Weekly. We're not concerned about whether it is destructive or constructive. If it is destructive, it is our business to remedy the fault, and, to build something better in its place. But, if the criticism is carried on behind our backs, in a narrow minded, venomous manner, with no other purpose than to create misunderstanding, and to elevate the critic in the estimation of his audience, then we boil over.

When certain persons take it upon themselves to speak for organizations of which they are members, without the urging or consent of that organization, and to complain because that organization does not receive adequate space or a prominent place in our columns, they are pursuing a course that they will have reason to regret. If they complain about not receiving front page notice, and if they complain about not being given space far out of proportion to the news value of the event under question, they leave themselves wide open for attack.

If they can criticize us, not openly, but behind our backs, without the remotest understanding of the problems we face; then it is no more than right that we can criticize them openly in our column for their faults, and the faults of their organization. Henceforth that shall be our policy. We shall name names, and quote instances. We have plenty of each.

—C. H. Preston.

CONCERNING GYM SCHEDULES

"A Thought for the Future"

Now that the newly created gym schedule is a thing of the past, and although its banishment has been heralded by many as good riddance, it might be well worth while to pause and to analyze some of its underlying principles. It is the first real attempt at Muhlenberg College to introduce a well balanced physical education course. Unfortunately the program as outlined could not be adapted to fit each individual necessity.

One of the major objections to this program was the time arrangement. The Committee and the men on the campus who are working their way through school strenuously objected to this system because of the inconvenience and handicap the late hours would work on them. The facilities for carrying out so well rounded a program, needless to say, are lacking at Muhlenberg. In spite of the fact that this system cannot be introduced into the curriculum this year, it might be the foundation for a physical education system to be inaugurated in the near future.

HARRY DUNLAP ELECTED ORATORY UNION MANAGER

Harry Dunlap was elected Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Union manager at a special election held by the student body after the assembly program on Thursday morning, Sept. 29. This post was left vacant when Joseph Henry, elected last spring, did not return to college this term.

Dunlap's duties will include attending to the routine business connected with oratory at Muhlenberg, and accompanying the winner of the contest held here, to Thiel College for further competition at that institution.

MINISTERIAL CLUB MEETS

The Rev. Dr. Conrad Wilker of St. Michael's Lutheran Church, Allentown, Pa., will address the Ministerial Group on October 10 in the Bible Seminar Room. The theme of the address will be: "Ministerial Ethics." The committee for the evening consists of Christian Schenck, chairman; Russel Beazley and Frank Radcliffe.

SMOKER AND PARADE ARE HELD PRIOR TO THE LAFAYETTE GAME

Speakers, Cheers, and Songs Develop Enthusiasm

A pep meeting of mammoth proportions was held prior to the Lafayette-Muhlenberg game last Friday night in the Science auditorium under the auspices of the associate M. C. A. cabinet and the student council. After the meeting the freshmen in pajamas, the college band, and the rest of the students marched to center square and gave a demonstration of their enthusiasm under the direction of the cheer leaders and the Freshman Tribunal.

"Haps" Benfer, Carl Cassone, Guernsey Afferbach, and John Miller, captain of the first Muhlenberg football team were the speakers of the occasion. Each paid tribute to the spirit of the Muhlenberg squad, and the ability of Coach Holstrom. Cigarettes, tobacco, apples, and pretzels were given out during the meeting. Banners, music by the band, songs, and cheers, contributed to the spirit of the occasion.

LIBRARY NOTES

Here are the titles of a few of the recent library acquisitions: "Elizabethan Dramatists", edited by E. H. C. Oliphant; "Francis the First" by Jehanne D'Orliac; "The Rhetoric of Aristotle" by F. Seymour Smith; and Joseph Auslander's translation of Petrarch's Sonnets, which critics and reviewers have been praising throughout the past Spring and Summer. Among Dr. Haas' gifts are two books by A. C. McGiffert, "The History of Christian Thought" and "Jonathan Edwards". Our new fiction titles are rather good: "A Modern Hero" by Louis Bromfield, a novel that, Prof. Simpson, tells us, mentions Allentown as a good place to die in; "Life and Andrew Otway" by Neil Bell; "Captain Archers' Daughter" by Margaret Deland; "All Passion Spent" by V. Sackville-West; and "The Fountain" by Charles Morgan, an excellent novel that has won the praise of many discriminating critics and entered also the best seller lists.

One of our first "guest conductors" will be our head librarian, Prof. Stephen G. Simpson. We have asked him to do the honors for this column by reviewing a recent novel that he thinks worthy of this space. It is our intention to secure from time to time the critical reflections of other members of the faculty on books that have particularly struck their fancy.

A recent acquisition of which we are very proud is "The Mission to Spain of Pierre Soulé, 1853-1855", an historical study issued by the Yale University Press. The author is Dr. Amos A. Ettinger, son of Dr. George T. Ettinger and graduate of Muhlenberg College with the class of 1921. This, of course, gives us the opportunity of inviting Muhlenberg graduates and members of the faculty who have written books to make a gift of a copy to the library.

Henry Hazlitt, in the October Forum, has selected the few living American authors who, in his opinion, will remain for our great-grandchildren to read. Among our novelists he thinks that only Lewis and Dreiser have a chance of survival. Mr. Hazlitt resigns Ernest Hemingway, John Dos Passos, Upton Sinclair, Branch Cabell, Thornton Wilder, Sherwood Anderson, Thomas Wolfe, and the rest (a few thousand) to oblivion. We see a pretty literary controversy in progress! Marxists, Communists, Realists, Romanticists, Regionalists, and a dozen other "ists" will have trumpets to blast. Mr. Hazlitt continues, and discovers among our poets only one, T. S. Eliot. He is not quite certain about Frost and Jeffers, and Edna Millay he considers a meretricious and insincere verse-writer. Our only great dramatist is Eugene O'Neill, whose plays are likely to survive despite their psychological crudities and their absorption with neurotic types of character. No historians, biographers, or critics are likely to remain, although H. L. Mencken is important, at least historically. But all these writers are insignificant beside the one really great contemporary figure in American literature, according to Mr. Hazlitt. George Santayana is easily the most secure, he thinks; and readers who have gotten a taste of the half-Spanish poet-philosopher must acquiesce in this happy judgment. Santayana is one of the very few living writers with a feeling for style; and since the death of Lytton Strachey is secure on a lonely and proud eminence of stylistic greatness... Santayana, Dreiser, Lewis, O'Neill, and T. S. Eliot are Mr. Hazlitt's choice. What is yours? It's an old game, but a pleasant pastime.

September 21st marked the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Sir Walter Scott. John Buchan, in his biography of the Scotch romanticist, states that Scott has been translated into every tongue and no English writer since Shakespeare is so continuously reprinted in so many lands. This wide acceptance as a classic has had a paralyzing effect on the critical study of Scott. "Scott has always been taken for granted as if he were a statue in a public place", says Buchan. He repeats and analyzes the criticisms of Scott's style, the structure of his novels, and his method of presentation.

BEAT LEBANON VALLEY!

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

A new source of experience has begun to be unfolded to that most highly-esteemed gentlemen, the college freshman. That is, high esteem during the fraternity "rush" period.

After registration, he is whisked around during Freshman week, getting acquainted with the campus and the buildings.

Pervading the atmosphere is not the idea, much to his surprise, that because he is "fresh and green" he is dense; rather that he is entering upon four years in which to broaden his views and become intimately acquainted with humanity, four years to be filled with education and pleasure, which he shall never forget.

The temporary lord of college is told to be cheerful and well met, as snobs are not wanted at this educational institution. It is necessary that he dig in early so that he will not be left in the lurch when examinations come along.

Next come the explanations of the various extra-curricular activities. The frosh learns that these are limited, in order to prevent them from detracting from the more important part of college, studies. However, it is apparent that dinners for visiting debaters, choristers, and actors are quite plentiful.

It is at this time that the recruit faces his first major dilemma, that of filling out his schedule. Together with the rest of the men taking the same course, he carries his trusty matriculation book, (which it takes three or four hours to fill out), and enters into a concourse with the professors.

They are in good humor and he begins to form personal impressions of them, and how easy their courses will be.

The schedule arrangement begins. After the first fifteen or twenty minutes the color of his face changes from a rosy to a pale hue. An hour later his consternation is great, because already there are conflicts in his schedule. These are finally straightened out.

It seems as though the professors went to do their bit in relieving the financial stress of the country by changing the subject of economics to a science, and by "needing" the newest books, necessitating buying almost all new issues, and scraping rock bottom in bank accounts, (if any), to pay for them. Poor frosh. Well, it will at least increase the consumption of some poor professors' new books.

College opens. The realization dawns upon the first year man and his classmates that regulations are not nearly as strict as they have been formerly. The large green tag is not in evidence. Instead it is replaced by a rather attractive cardinal and gray button. Black socks have also been done away with. Nevertheless, the freshman knows intuitively that something is in the offing and what he must do is to wait patiently for it, and take it as it comes.

The big moment arrives! At first there is only light hazing.

One dark and dreary night the stillness is broken by piercing, agonized cries, when some wild animals, (Sophomores), break loose and teach the Frosh how to swim on land.

So this is college!

—Donald Hausman.

Faculty Activities

Dean Robert C. Horn spoke to the Young People's Society of St. John's Lutheran Church of Boyertown, Pa., at the Annual Rally Day services on Sunday, September 25. The subject of his talk was "Early Christian Symbols." David Longacre, pastor of St. John's, is a 'Berg alumnus, class of '16.

Professor L. J. Deck attended Columbia University this summer, where he followed courses in statistics and geometry.

Professor W. L. Seaman was in Hazleton on Wednesday, the 28th of September, for the opening of the Muhlenberg extension school, where he will conduct Spanish classes every Wednesday evening.

Dr. John V. Shankweiler extolled the beauties of wild life in its native haunts at the weekly dinner meeting of the Allentown Monarch Club at the Americus Hotel on Tuesday, September 20. He told of the various species of wild flowers found in this section and showed slides bearing pictures of the blooms. Dr. Shankweiler touched upon many phases that brought greater appreciation of wild plant life.

My, my, what a whale of a difference (apologies to some cigarette ad) one year can make.

It is pretty well conceded that the most popular sophomore—from a freshman point of view—is Ray Wieder. According to a report from the Freshman class, he will be royally entertained at the annual Yearling banquet. (That is, if Ray is in town).

A word to a wise frosh is always sufficient—Wieder's FATHER is sheriff of this County.

Seen in the Weekly, October 20, 1931 in the report of the Student Council, "R. Wieder was then called into the conference and found guilty of general insubordination to upper classman. The fine imposed was the wearing of "I am a fresh freshman" tag, for one week."

— RR —

Guy Ellsworth, recent winner of the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy for outboard motorboat racing, has entered Bucknell with the class of 1936. The trophy is worth $6,000.

It is certainly remarkable what a freshman can do nowadays.

— RR —

Don Hausman, treasurer of the freshman class, rises to say that a parasite is the large, loutish football player who piles on top of the other twenty-one for effect after the play is completed.

LEHIGH

A student poll will be taken to determine which sport of the university the students wish to abolish as an economy move. P. S.—Wait until after the 'Berg-Lehigh game.

Charlie Cooper of the racquet wielding sport is all smiles. And why not? Things look fine for tennis next spring. As a nucleus there is Cooper, Captain, and Hal Miller. Other likely prospects are: Herbie Hilton, former A. H. S. and A. P. S. tennis captain and present City Champion; Jim Seegers, former Germantown star; Bill Young, former Bethlehem tennis captain; Fisher, Germantown, Anderson and Charles Kline.

— RR —

There is a fine fraternity row on Gordon Street. The Theta Kappa Nu boys, original settlers in the 2200 block, now have as neighbors, the Phi-Ep and the Delta Theta fraternities. It certainly is going to be tough on the neighbors.

Sterner, loquacious end, explaining to Freitag of Allentown Prep, the higher technique of coaching . . . There certainly is a dearth of good football material in the freshman class . . . In the February 20, 1923 issue of the Muhlenberg Weekly there is a picture of the proposed new gymnasium to be built at 'Berg. It will cost $100,000; have a track, a pool, and a basketball floor. (Continued from Page One) ball on downs. From kick formation on third down, Evanosky broke loose for a fifteen-yard gain, but Klotz was forced to punt when the Leopard defense tightened. Tricky spinner plays and end runs by Wright, and line plunges by Irwin placed the ball on the Muhlenberg 15-yard line, third down, and five yards to go as the quarter ended.

As the second period began, Maass threw a pass to Wright who was downed on the Muhlenberg 8-yard line. Miller crashed thru guard for three yards, and Jacobs dashed over the goal line for the touchdown. The attempted kick failed. Score, Lafayette 6, Muhlenberg 0.

The Eastonians opened up a slashing attack, but some pretty tackling by Miller, and Watkins, and a pass knocked down by Matuska enabled the Holstromites to withstand the visitors' threat. Muhlenberg on an exchange of punts, and a heavy Lafayette penalty, had pushed the Leopards far back into their own territory. Miller, on a bad pass, was tackled on his own five yard line—the stands were clamoring for a blocked kick, but the half ended before the next play could be started.

In the beginning of the third quarter Wright and Fox ripped off some long gains, but the Muhlenberg line held. There was an unusual occurrence in the middle of this period. The ball, punted by Weiner, hit the wires that supply current for the lights in night games and went out of bounds near the Lafayette 5-yard line. The officials ruled that the ball was to go to Lafayette on their twenty yard line, as when the ball is kicked past the goal line.

At the end of the fourth quarter Lafayette was in possession of the ball on their own 15-yard line with the Leopard backs unable to break thru the stubborn defense of the Mules' forward wall.

The sensational stand of the Muhlenberg team against their opponents who were favored to win by from three to four touchdowns was regarded as one of the features of the day in national football circles. The Associated Press resume of the day's games placed it second only to the unexpected defeat of Navy and the tie score of Yale.

VARSITY TENNIS TEAM HAS BRIGHTER FUTURE

Encouraged by the record established last year, when the Muhlenberg varsity tennis squad enjoyed the best season since the introduction of tennis as a minor sport on the local campus, Captain "Charlie" Cooper is busy formulating a schedule for the 1933 season. Although only two members of last season's net squad remain, "Hal" Miller and "Charlie" Cooper, the prospects for a good record this coming year appear very bright.

It is evident that the services of "Whitey" Roehrig, lost through graduation, will be keenly felt, but there appear to be a large number of brilliant prospects in the Freshman class. Included in this number is Herbert Hilton, the tennis champion of the city of Allentown; Jim Seegers, former Germantown star; Bill Young, former Bethlehem High tennis captain, Fisher, Anderson, and Kline. As a means of unearthing future stars, Captain Cooper has arranged with the assistance of Joseph Friedman, as tournament manager, one of the most active fall tournaments ever opened to the student body of Muhlenberg.

Among the institutions with which Captain Cooper is arranging for tennis matches next season include the following prominent Eastern colleges and universities: Temple, Lehigh, Lafayette, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, and Albright.

FALL TENNIS TOURNEY REVEALS FROSH STARS

The annual fall tennis tournament, under the direction of Charlie Cooper, captain of the tennis team, and J. Friedman, tournament manager, got under way on Thursday, September 29.

In the first round, Bill Young registered a big upset over Jim Seegers, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5. Seegers, a former Germantown Prep star, was picked to go far in the tournament. Young, a transfer from Lehigh last year, is a former Bethlehem High School tennis captain. Other scores, Fisher defeated W. Kistler, 6-1, 6-1; Anderson defeated Hartman, 6-4, 6-4; Kline defeated Blackman; Kerzenberg defeated Feyrer.

'BERG HOPES TO HUMBLE LEBANON VALLEY TEAM

Muhlenberg and Lebanon Valley will clash in their annual pigskin classic next Friday night under the huge lights on the local gridiron, and it will be marked by the determination of the "Muhls" to regain some of the prestige lost during the past two seasons.

Coach Holstrom's boys have not been victorious over Lebanon Valley in the last two years, although they held the Annville aggregation to close scores each time, the scores being 14 to 12 and 7 to 6 respectively. Bad passes from center were a big item in the Cardinal and Gray defeat last season, when the Holstromites outplayed their opponents in every period, having piled up a total of fourteen first downs to five for Lebanon Valley, only to see the final score spell defeat.

Lebanon Valley has played only one game so far this season when they lost to Penn State.

Muhlenberg's score against Lebanon Valley for the past several years is as follows:

	Muhlenberg	Lebanon Valley

Dr. Horn announced the honor men of the three lower classes. Since these honors depend upon the entire year's work, the announcement of the victors was not made last June. The following men of the Junior Class received honors: George B. Ammon, Edward Diehl, George Hassler, Martin Ruoss, and Mervin Shelly. The following of the Sophomore Class: John C. Bennetch, John Carpella, Edwin Faust, and John Hollenbach. Luther C. Schlenker obtained the Freshman Class honor. Mr. Schlenker was also awarded the Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity Prize which is given to the Freshman that attains the highest average in scholastic work. Dr. Horn also announced that the Administration of Muhlenberg College is very happy and fortunate in having two more students attending college than last year.

Steve Fisher at the xylophone and Henry M. Richards at the piano captivated the attention of the audience by two beautiful selections. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Russell W. Stine.

GORDON B. FISTER, '34

"Where, oh where is the student body?" That was the cry of the faculty and administration of the college on Saturday morning when Muhlenberg held its annual college day exercises with a goodly number of alumni and townspeople and not even a handful of students present.

But if it had been only the faculty that had asked the question things wouldn't have been so bad. As it was, the rub came when the question was asked by the visitors present.

Muhlenberg offers more to its students than the work in the classroom. It offers them cultural advantages of which few small colleges can boast. The lyceum programs presented at the Thursday morning assembly periods are as rich in their cultural content as classroom work.

Enough said, but again, would it be possible for the student body to develop a bit of spirit?

— M M —

Max Montor, famed Austrian actor and dramatic impersonator who appeared in the college lyceum program on Thursday morning, will return to Muhlenberg in the near future to give a presentation of the well known "Faust." (in German?—Editor).

Are you wondering why we're not mentioning any names this week? Well here's the reason. Some of the timid souls whom we mentioned in the last issue have objected to being taken for a ride even though it is meant only in good natured fun. So don't blame us or don't blame the editor if we can't give you real dirt when it's the dirtiest.

DRAMATIC CLUB PLANS PROGRAM FOR NEW TERM

The Dramatic Club of Muhlenberg College held its first meeting on Tuesday, September 27, at 4:15, in the old chapel in order to discuss a program for the coming year.

The turnout for this meeting proved to be the largest in the past three years and a season of real activity is assured. John Hemmerly was appointed temporary chairman and a Constitution and Program Committee were also formed. Professor William D. Coder, faculty adviser of the dramatic club, offered tentative plans for a very interesting and active school year.

ASSOCIATE CABINET OF M. C. A. HOLDS MEETING

The Associate Cabinet of the Muhlenberg Christian Association held its first meeting Tuesday, September 27, 4:15, in order to formulate plans for the promoting of activities throughout the school year.

The primary function of this organization is to relieve the Chaplain and the Senior Cabinet in the promoting of such details as the creating of banners and posters to be used at Pep Smokers and parades, the direction of traffic at football games, sale of programs and field books, supplying ushers for chapel services, and the like.

..... IT'S TIME TO TELEPHONE HOME!

EIGHT-THIRTY P. M. is the time to telephone home!

The day's rush is over; the night's still young. There's plenty of time for a newsy, intimate chat. The family's at home, eager to hear your voice. (They'll be there for sure if you telephone as a regular habit, the same time each week.)

What is more, it is cheapest to telephone after 8:30 P. M. That is when the low Night Rates go into effect on Station to Station calls. For 45c you can then call as far as 140 miles away!

Yes, it's surprisingly inexpensive, as these typical rates show. But be sure you make a Station to Station call. Just give your home telephone number to the operator and hold the line. If you like, the charges can be reversed.

Prospects Are Good For Successful Year Of Frosh Debating

Large Number Of Yearlings Report To Coach

Donald V. Hock, coach of Freshman Debating at Muhlenberg College, has officially launched the second debate season at Muhlenberg with the Class of 1936. Mr. Hock has received many favorable comments from the faculty and students for his success in this experiment in which Muhlenberg is the pioneer. Last year ten members of the class of 1935 participated in thirteen debates and won eighty percent of them.

Because of the interest that was aroused during Freshman Week this year by Coach Hock, a record number of twenty-eight men came out. Freshman debating has caused so much publicity and gained so much popularity that it vies with the major sport, football, by claiming more than one quarter of the Freshman Class.

Some very interesting statistics were revealed by questionnaires that the applicants filled out: (1) two states and eighteen cities are represented; (2) twelve men have had experience, sixteen have had no experience in debate work; (3) six are seeking B.S. degrees, nine, Ph.B. degrees, thirteen, A.B. degrees. Intended professions range from the ministry, teaching and law down to politics.

Mr. Hock founded the team with a three-fold purpose: (1) to advertise the College; (2) to develop men for the Varsity; (3) to train men in the art of public speaking. In spite of the huge number, every man will be given at least one chance, for the main purpose is to train men, rather than to win. John R. Brokhoff, '35, is the manager of the squad.

DR. MARKS CONSENTS TO PLAY REQUEST PROGRAM

Dr. Harold K. Marks, Professor of Music, and organist in the Egner Hartzell memorial chapel has generously consented to arrange an all request program of organ selections to be played during the regular chapel period one day during the first week of November.

All students who have selections they are anxious to have played are requested to write the name of this particular selection on a slip of paper and hand it to Dr. Marks, any member of the Weekly staff, or to place it in the Press Box on the first floor of the Administration Building. It has always been the policy of Dr. Marks to bring the best of music before the students in an attempt to develop a real appreciation for this section of the field of culture at Muhlenberg. This should be kept in mind by those handing in requests.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB REVISES CONSTITUTION

A number of constitutional changes were made at the second meeting of the Social Science Club on the evening of October 4. These changes in the statutes included altering the qualifications necessary for membership in the organization and also procedure to be used in the dropping of members. The time of meeting was changed to every other Monday evening at 7:30.

Another highlight of the evening was the acceptance of Dr. Bowman and Dr. Mueller as faculty advisors. This brings the number up to four, the two original advisors being Dr. Swain and Dr. Jackson.

At the next meeting of the club, to be held on the evening of October 17 in room 103 of the "Ad" Building, Mr. Henshaw, the vice-president of the organization, will deliver an address on "A survey of current events during the summer".

Moll's Quartet and Soprano Entertain

Instrumental Selections and Soprano Solos Are Assembly Features

A program of instrumental music under the direction of Lloyd A. Moll was presented to the student body at the regular Thursday assembly, October 6, in the Science Auditorium. A quartette composed of four talented musicians, E. H. Berryman, piano; Lloyd A. Moll, violin; William Hunsberger, cello; and Godfrey Pretz, flute, and Miss Margaret Hetzer, one of Allentown's younger sopranos, as soloist entertained.

The program by the quartet included "Nocturne", by Chopin; "Voice of Love", by Schumann; "Gracieuse" by Dermerseman, and overture, "Des Marionnettes" by Geirlett. A trio composed of violin, piano, and cello played the First Movement from a trio by Mendelssohn, Opus 49.

Miss Hetzer rendered two groups of numbers in artistic fashion. Her first group included "Valse Song from Romeo and Juliet" by Gounod, "Pale Moon" by Long, and "L'Amour Toujours L'Amour," by Friml. In the second group she sang the "Kashmire Song," by Finden, "Roses of Picardy," by Wood, and "Giannina Mia," by Friml. She was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Berryman.

SOPHS CONQUER FROSH IN PUSHBALL CONTEST

Sophomores Know More Tricks Than Innocent Freshmen

After the din of battle had subsided and the debris of the frosh class had been carried away, the sophs were ruled victors in the annual pushball meleé last Thursday afternoon. The frosh strove vainly to knot the score in the closing moments, but to no avail. The close score of three goals to two was indicative of the hectic struggle.

The frosh were seemingly unable to cope with the vicious onslaughts made by the more experienced sophs. The opinion prevalent among the spectators was that the second year men knew a few more illegal holds than the yearlings. The frosh, however, in true sportsmanlike manner acknowledged the sophs superior in this one phase of athletic contest.

The battle was sufficiently rough to assure the sophs that they will have plenty of trouble on their hands in the tug-of-war at Cedar Creek. The frosh acquitted themselves nobly on the field of battle and with a semblance of organization should prove a tartar to the sophs. The first year men must annex the next two contests in order to be allowed the use of the "Ad" building steps.

DRAMATIC CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS AT MEETING

An important business meeting of the Dramatic Club of Muhlenberg College was held on Thursday, October 6, at 4:15, in the history room.

At this meeting John Hemmerly was elected president, John Hollenbach vice-president, Gordon Feller, secretary, and Asa Wohlson, treasurer. Professor Coder was chosen as the faculty adviser. A new constitution was adopted by the members of Mask and Dagger, the name given to this reorganized club, and the program committee also presented very interesting plans for the school year. A committee composed of Hollenbach, Friedman, Krapf, and Brokhoff was appointed to get the regular dramatic room in the basement of the library in a condition suitable for meetings.

Quite some discussion was raised as to the taking in of new members and the setting aside of a special night for the meeting of Mask and Dagger.

Dr. Haas Returns to Campus and Delivers Address To Students

College President Will Devote All Of His Time To Work On Campus

"Twelve years is the average mental age of the American people, and it should be the duty of the college graduate to act as a guide for the less fortunate in these times of stress," stated Dr. Haas in his first talk of the year to the students assembled in the chapel last Wednesday morning, October 5.

Dr. Haas pointed to the discontent which is almost universal at this time. The present disturbance in American life points to either a return to old, worn-out ideas or the beginning of a new era. The importance of the college man in this inauguration of a new era is, extremely important.

The first essential of a college man is sane reasoning. People are too inclined to regard everything with their eyes and their ears rather than their inner reason. Dr. Haas alluded to the present political campaign and its apparent lack of reason. He asserted that our political concepts are based on tradition and emotion rather than on a sane analysis of the facts. The same principle applies to our attitude toward prohibition.

The second essential of the college man should be high living. Dr. Haas carefully differentiated between high living and high life. The former he defined as meaning the understanding of those ideas and principles which make for common and individual happiness. High life was defined as implying liquor and women. The importance of high living among college men cannot be over-emphasized in spite of the recent criticism of morality. What we really should have is a realization of how best to apply the moral ideas which generations have found to be best. The present tendency toward morality is an attempt to be moral because of inheritance. College men should be able to carefully analyze moral principles and ideals.

Dr. Haas named sound religion as the final essential of every college man. He emphasized the need for faith during the present crisis. "The poverty stricken man who has faith in God is far more able to look at the world unafraid than are the insull brothers."

Dr. John A. W. Haas returned to Muhlenberg College last Monday. A (Continued on Page Two)

Norman Thomas and the Socialist Party

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, will gain an unprecedented number of votes in the coming election, but even the most conservative men of property are not sitting up nights worrying about it. There are two very good reasons for their absence of concern. The first is that not even Mr. Thomas himself expects to receive enough votes to obtain the election, and the second is that it wouldn't do him any good if he were elected.

Mr. Thomas and the Socialist party believe they can build up their ideal classless state merely by votes and education, without so mussy a thing as a class struggle or a revolution. They ignore one great factor in social, political, or economic progress. That is: No governing class will give up its authority without a tremendous struggle to retain it.

It is a recognized right of the possessor of authority to fight to keep it, and history shows that they always have used their right. The French and Russian revolutions are examples. Let us assume that the Socialist vote continues to grow, and

Fraternity Rushing Season Is Launched

Smokers and Dances Are Held

The fraternity rushing season was successfully inaugurated last week with two dances and three smokers.

Delta Theta had a smoker at their House on October 3. Dr. Ettinger, Dean Emeritus, Dr. Keller, Prof. Simpson, and Prof. Seaman gave short addresses. Mr. Ralph Wetherhold, Graduate Manager of Athletics at Allentown High School, and Mr. Henry Aschbach likewise addressed the assembly. The freshmen were entertained by the magician, Bill White-night. Luncheon was then served. The committee was composed of Messrs. Judt, chairman, Kunz, Ward, Wagner, and Young.

The Philos Fraternity held a smoker at their House, October 4. The speakers of the evening were Dr. Keller and Mr. Russel Struble, '29. Vocal selections were rendered by Mr. Edmund E. Kingley. Refreshments were served under the auspices of the committee, which consisted of Mr. Russel Kistler, chairman, Messrs. Altamus and Wasserman.

Phi Kappa Tau sponsored a dance on the sky-terrace of Hotel Traylor, Oct. 5. Music was rendered by "Steve" Fisher and his Virginians. During the intermission "Steve" Fisher entertained with solos on the marimba xylophone. Lester Fetter rendered banjo solos, while Mr. Henry M. Richards presented piano solos. The chaperones were: Dr. and Mrs. Isaac M. Wright, Dr. and Mrs. Carl Boyer, and Dr. and Mrs. John Shankweiler. The dance committee was composed of Boone, Brenner, and Underwood.

Phi Epsilon Pi gave a smoker at their House on October 5. Prof. Simpson, and Mr. Hyman Rockmaker, prominent attorney were guest speakers. Chas. Cooper, president of the senior class, was toastmaster. The refreshment and entertainment committee included Messrs. Wilker and Cooper.

Alpha Tau Omega sponsored a dance at their house, October 6. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. Swain, Prof. and Mrs. Hartman, Dr. and Mrs. Fasig. Music was furnished by "Bud" Rader and His Orchestra. Dancing continued from nine to twelve. The committee for the evening, which decorated the House and presided over entertainment, consisted of Samuel Bertolet, chairman, Arthur McTighe, Norman Ball, Lawrence Rupp, Jack Hemstreet, and Lester Smith.

Muhlenberg Shows Reversal of Form and is Given a 6-0 Defeat by a Hard Fighting Squad From Lebanon Valley

'BERG TO HAVE HARD SCHEDULE NEXT YEAR

Penn State And Fordham Are To Be New Opponents

Altho several of this season's varsity stars will be lost for the 1933 campaign by graduation, Muhlenberg College is looking forward to one of the hardest football schedules in its history next year. Two new rivals, the "Blue and White" of Penn State and the "Battering Rams" of Fordham, in addition to the regular contests with St. Joseph, Lafayette, Gettysburg, Franklin and Marshall, Ursinus, Lehigh and Dickinson will keep the Holstromites busy.

Only three of the nine scheduled games will definitely be played at home, being the ones with St. Joseph, F. and M., and Dickinson. The opening game with St. Joseph will be the only contest to be played on an illuminated gridiron.

There is a possibility, however, that Lafayette may come to Allentown again next season. The "marquis" came to the Queen city this season, to play the "Cardinal and Gray" for the first time in the history of their athletic relations, and drew a crowd which more than packed the stands. It was the general opinion that a far greater crowd saw the game here than would have witnessed it in Easton.

Fordham, back on the Muhlenberg schedule for next season, was an old rival of 'Berg's in pre-war days, but the two teams have not met in more than ten years.

Although there is a strong likelihood that the open date set for October 21 will stand, there is a slight possibility that a game may be scheduled with Moravian to be played in Allentown.

Following is the 1933 official Muhlenberg football schedule as released by Guernsey Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics:

Sept. 22—St. Joseph, at Allentown.
Sept. 30—Lafayette, at Easton.
Oct. 7—Fordham, at New York.
Oct. 14—Penn State, at State College.
Oct. 21—Open.
Oct. 28—Gettysburg, at Gettysburg.
Nov. 4—F. and M., at Allentown.
Nov. 11—Ursinus, at Collegeville.
Nov. 18—Lehigh, at Bethlehem.
Nov. 25—Dickinson, at Allentown.

FROSH-SOPH FOOTBALL DROPPED BY COUNCIL

Acting on the suggestion of the Faculty Committee, and because it was found impossible to secure uniforms from the Athletic Association, the Student Council decided that the Frosh-Soph football game would be removed from the schedule of class fights. The decision was made at a meeting of the group held in the Science Building last Thursday afternoon.

It was also agreed upon that all feminine visitors to football games and other functions must leave the dormitories before eight P. M. Permits for taking visitors into the buildings can be obtained from Council members living in the dormitories.

Coach George R. Holstrom was one of the guest speakers at a meeting of the Four Square Club, on Tuesday night, September 25, in the Hotel Allen. Coach Holstrom, in his talk, dwelt on Muhlenberg's football material, schedule, and the possibility of a good team this year. Other speakers at the meeting included Autsy Tate, football coach at Lehigh University, and J. Birney Crum, '23, Coach of Allentown High School athletics.

Determined Play Of Visitors, and Lack Of Punch By 'Berg Responsible For Loss

Uncovering a flashy attack and possessing the ability to tighten up its defense in the pinches "Hook" Mylin's Lebanon Valley team hammered out a surprise 6 to 0 victory over a "kickless" squad of Muhlenberg "Muhls" in the last night game of the season played last Friday night, October 7, on the local gridiron before a crowd of 5,000 spectators who had assembled expecting to see the highly rated Cardinal and Gray team gain revenge for the defeats of the past two seasons.

The score came in the middle of the third quarter, and was the result of a pass from Rust to Williams who dashed around end from the ten yard line after a series of passes from Rust to Feeser had advanced the ball from midfield. The Annville delegation, regarded as the underdogs after their 27 to 0 defeat by a weak Penn State team, and Muhlenberg's surprising stand against Lafayette, started things off with a big bang to take the ball to the Muhlenberg five yard line in the opening minutes of the game, only to lose the ball here after the dazed Holstromites had recovered from the surprise and tightened up their defense.

Near the end of the first half Horine ran back a punt from the fifty to the thirty yard Lebanon Valley line. A series of line plunges by Weiner and Evanovsky carried the ball to the visitor's fifteen yard line, but a pass from Weiner was intercepted by Lee who dashed to his thirty yard line and broke up the first 'Berg threat.

In the fourth quarter Muhlenberg had penetrated to the Lebanon Valley twenty yard line, but lost the ball here on downs. Later in this period, after a running attack centered around Padolin, Weiner, and Evanovsky had advanced the Cardinal and Gray team to the five yard line, the Holstromites again showed their lack of punch when needed, and Weiner was forced to throw a pass which was knocked down by the visitors who took possession of the ball on downs. Bloom was brought back from the line and let loose a series

O. D. K. TO SPONSOR A DANCE ON HALLOWE'EN

A Hallowe'en dance with all of the usual "trimmings", costumes, decorations, and refreshments, is to be sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activity fraternity, according to the information given out by Paul Gerhard, president of the organization after the meeting held last Monday evening, October 3. The dance will take place in the social room on the third floor of the library, and all students are urged to attend.

Last year Omicron Delta Kappa sponsored a number of these dances and all who attended were enthusiastic about the ability of this fraternity to stage a social event.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS ENTERTAIN FRESHMEN

A reception was tendered the Freshmen by the Lutheran Students Association in the social room of the library on October 6 at 7:30 P. M. Dr. Carolus P. Harry, Secretary of the Lutheran Students Association, briefly sketched the history of this organization and Dr. Brandes told of the good work it was doing on the campus of Cornell University.

Professor Stine gave the benediction after which refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Contributions are Welcome

Many students have asked us whether their contributions would be printed in our feature column, The Passing Present. Our answer is yes, decidedly yes. We started this column with the purpose of creating interest in current national and international affairs. We wanted the topic of "bull sessions" to vary from the usual theological and biological themes.

With that purpose in mind we selected the present contributor, because he seemed to us to be well fitted for the task. He did not disappoint us. But he has his view point on certain issues, other people have theirs. We and our readers want to hear both sides.

With this issue we complete a series of sketches on the major political parties and their candidates for the office of president of the United States. Some of you probably didn't agree with the viewpoint of The Passing Present. If you didn't, write an article repudiating the statements made. We'll print it. If at any time you have an original article on something not already discussed in this column, hand it in. If that is up to our standards we will print it. Mr. Keen would be glad for a week's vacation. Don't fear that you'll be offending him.

We're passing through an interesting era. Things are happening, and happening fast. There are big problems before the world. What do you think about them? It may be that you do not have the solution to the world's problems, but at any rate you might have something interesting to talk about.

low sham of democracy, and a dictatorship controlled by the vested interests would be established. Not debating upon the desirability or undesirability of a dictatorship, or as to who should control the dictatorship, we can readily see how effectively this would crush any further possibility of progress along political lines.

Let us give Mr. Thomas still another chance. Let us say that by some great marvel he and his party should gain office while their opponents weren't looking. Can anyone imagine that the lords of Gary, of Detroit, of the railroads, and the power trusts would calmly hand over their property after a legislative fiat?

We can look to the great nations of Europe, all further advanced than we in this great struggle and find in them an illustration of each of the points brought out. There is still another lesson we can learn from these countries. That is the fact that when a Socialist comes into office, he has a discouraging habit of forgetting his Socialism.

It is for a combination of the reasons stated that the men of property are sleeping soundly these cool evenings, untroubled by the horrid fear that some day they may awake and find Mr. Thomas in the White House ordering them to give up their precious possessions to the state.

Carl A. Erickson, died on June 3, 1932 at Bridgeport, Conn., while on his way to a Summer Camp of which he was director for the last ten years. He was coach of football and teacher of History and Chemistry at Belleville High School in New Jersey. "Pop", as he was affectionately known, was center on the Muhlenberg football team and was also the leader of one of Muhlenberg best bands.

CARDINAL AND GRAY TO PLAY DICKINSON

The Cardinal and Gray will meet another one of its traditional rivals when they journey to Carlisle and encounter the football squad of Dickinson College next Saturday afternoon on the latter's gridiron.

Last season Muhlenberg was defeated by Dickinson by a 14 to 6 score, in a game which decided the cellar championship of the conference. Majerik scored 'Berg's lone touchdown of the game in the first period when he caught a punt from Hughes in midfield and dashed down the side of the field for a score. The boys from Carlisle uncorked a brilliant forward passing attack, however, which resulted in long gains and consequently a victory.

Dickinson has participated in only one game so far this season, when it defeated Ursinus, last year's Eastern Pennsylvania Conference gridiron champions, who will encounter the "Muhls" October 22 in Allentown.

Muhlenberg's record against Dickinson since 1925 is as follows:

Year	Muhlenberg	Dickinson
1928	0	6

The Rev. Daniel I. Sultzbach, '04, pastor of the Sacramento Lutheran Parish, Valley View, Schuylkill Co., Pa., received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Central University, Indianapolis, Indiana, on May 24, 1932. After receiving his A.B. degree with first honors from Muhlenberg in 1904 and his A. M. degree in 1907 from the same institution, he was graduated from the Philadelphia Lutheran Theological Seminary in the class of 1907.

LIBRARY NOTES

Among the books ordered by the History Department are: "The Makers of Modern Europe" by Carlo Sforza, conte, the former Italian minister of Foreign Affairs. In this book are portrayed such characters as Franz Joseph, Foch, Lloyd George, Mussolini, Lenin, Trotsky, and others. An interesting biography of "Napoleon" by F. M. Kirchheim translated by Henry St. Lawrence. This is a very accurate and complete work valuable to students and interesting to the common reader. "Far Eastern Relations" by Morse, a book which describes the relations of the countries of the Far East with each other and with the nations of the West from the earliest times to the present. "Only Yesterday" by Frederic Lewis Allen a retrospect of the years from May 1919, to the present, giving a lively picture of the politics, morals, fashions, finances, arts and crimes of the period. Another interesting biography is that of "Philip II of Spain" by David Loth. The author obtained his material for this book directly from the documents which Philip left. It is the story of an unhappy king whose father left him one of the mightiest empires of all time. Other books are: "History of the World Civilization" in two volumes by Herman Schneider and "French Public Opinion and Foreign Affairs, 1870-1914" by Eber Malcolm Carroll.

Another book which has received much favorable comment is: "Man and Technics" by Oswald Spengler. It is an essay based on a lecture delivered in May, 1931 and is made up of a "few thoughts" taken from a larger work on the history of man upon which the author has been engaged for a number of years and which will serve as a supplement for his "Decline of the West."

New books in the Greek Department are: "Hellenistic Queens" by G. H. Macurdy, a study of woman power in Macedonia, Syria, and Egypt, a very fine book for students of the Hellenistic period. "Greek Cities in Italy and Sicily", as much of a travel book as a handy book for scholars. "Treasurers of Athens" by W. S. Furguson.

An interesting book is one on the "Italian Theater" by Joseph Kennard. This gives a detailed study of the Italian Theater from its inception to the present day, a project which has never before received full treatment in any language. This survey will be of value to students of Italian literature and history and to students of the drama in general.

All of these books were on display on our book display table in the library.

Recent donations to our library have been made by Mr. Arthur Freitag of the Allentown Preparatory School who has presented the library with a twelve volume set of "Campaigns of the Civil War". Mr. K. L. Reisner, of Temple, Pa., has added to our collection of old German Bibles by the gift of two German Bibles and a prayer book dating back to 1780. Mrs. C. M. Warrington of Allentown has very kindly presented us with about fifty books from her own library. These gifts are all very greatly appreciated.

slight indisposition caused by superactivity, prolonged his vacation at his summer residence near Henryville in the Poconos.

His physician has advised him not to exert himself as strenuously as he did last year. He will cease all his outside activities. This means that the college will be the theatre of all of his action.

During his vacation he wrote a series of articles on "Christianity and its Contrasts" and an essay on "Cardinal Doctrines of the New Testament". These will appear in a commentary issued by the United Lutheran Publication House.

Lectures on "Christian Evidences" will be delivered by Dr. Haas on Thursday at 11 A. M. in the science building, provided for by the Retiring Foundation. Because of economic conditions, Dr. Haas most generously will return the thousand dollars to the college.

A schedule of the lectures follows: Oct. 27—"Spiritual and Material". Nov. 3—"The Ethical and the Custodial".

Nov. 17—"Liberty and Law." Dec. 1—"Personal and Impersonal." Dec. 8—"Faith and Unbelief."

Dr. Haas will present five prizes to students presenting the best prices of these; $15, $10 and $5 and two autographed copies of the book of lectures.

of long, desperate passes as the game ended with thousands of Muhlenberg supporters returning home greatly disappointed over the poor showing made by the Holstromites of whom so much was expected.

First Quarter

Lebanon Valley won the toss and elected to kick. Smith kicked to Weiner who advanced to his thirty yard line. Weiner carried the ball one yard around end. Weiner kicked to Rust who was stopped on Muhlenberg's forty yard line after a run of forty yards. Whiting gained two yards through center. Rust was stopped and the ball went to Muhlenberg. Bloom kicked to his own thirty yard line. Feeser was thrown at the line of scrimmage. Bloom kicked to Rust who was thrown on his own thirty-five yard line by Evanovsky. Light gained three yards through guard. Whiting was stopped with a gain of a yard. Rose was replaced by Volkin. Rust kicked to Weiner who was tossed on his own forty-two yard line. Evanovsky advanced the ball five yards through center. Weiner advanced two yards. Bloom kicked over the goal line. The ball was placed in play on the twenty yard line. Matuska was replaced by Levine. Rust was tossed for a two yard loss by Martin. Rust kicked to the forty-seven yard line. GORDON B. FISTER, '34

November 8! That day of days for which the country at large is eagerly, breathlessly waiting is not quite four weeks distant and Muhlenberg college students and faculty are becoming more and more aware of the seething battle which is raging between the two political parties.

On the campus both faculty and students cannot veer their conversations away from the merits of their favorite candidate. Each one seems to have his own particular analysis of how the ballots will be cast. Each one has thousands of ways of justifying his own candidate. The discussion has seeped into the classroom itself.

One thing seems to be agreed on by the campus leaders of both parties, Mr. Bernheim of the Democrats, and Dr. Haas of the Republicans, and that is that Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, will poll a larger vote than that party has ever polled before.

Oh well, think about it until November 8 and then vote. But vote for the best man, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert Hoover, Norman Thomas, or William Foster.

A hearty welcome to President Haas from the entire student body. When the venerable Doctor arrived on the campus on Monday afternoon, following his "workation" at his summer home at Cresco, his presence was immediately felt and the faculty office became a mecca for his many friends both from the staff and student body.

Dr. Haas is filled with his characteristic zeal and energy as was evidenced by his address in Chapel last Wednesday and by his lectures to the senior ethics classes on Thursday and Friday. Press and public are commenting on the return of Muhlenberg's distinguished president and are applauding his leadership both of the college and in the city.

A group of Muhlenberg students and one member of the faculty will be admitted to the new Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg sometime in the near future. But lest you become alarmed—they are going there as the guests of the warden in line with their studies in sociology. They will be escorted by Dr. Charles A. Bowman.

Then there's the one they tell about Ira Wise who was highly incensed, chagrined or what have you, when a Freshman entered his holy of holies the other day and asked Ira whether he had "Wings." They're cigarettes, Ira, and sell for a nominal sum—6 cents for tax and four cents for the wrappers, ingredients, profits, etc. No we don't expect the college store to handle them.

A certain prominent senior, one of the smoother members of the class, is having quite a deal of "fair-sex" trouble judging from the questions he asked Dr. Haas during an ethics lecture on Friday. Be careful of your free will, Junior, and don't let it run away with you.

DR. G. W. RICHARDS IS GUEST SPEAKER FOR THE VESPER SERVICE

"Christianity Is Only Safe With Pastor's And Their People"

Dr. G. W. Richards, President of the Reformed Theological Seminary, Lancaster, was the guest speaker at the vesper services held in the chapel last Sunday afternoon, October 9. "Christianity always suffers when taken into the classroom. Christianity is only safe with pastors and their people", were the startling remarks made by Dr. Richards.

The speaker went on to explain that this occurs because in the classroom Christianity is viewed in the abstract, while pastors and their people are actually living Christianity. It is something real and a part of them. "Knowledge puffeth up, but love buildeth up", 1 Cor. 8:1, was the text of the sermon.

Realizing that this was an unusual sermon to deliver in a college chapel, since his audience was made up of seekers after knowledge, Dr. Richards went on to say that the statement he used as a text was made by St. Paul when he warned the Corinthians to stop their disputes about Christianity and to begin to live it. "It is impossible to find God through knowledge, one must trust and love Him in order to find perfect happiness." The speaker pointed out the fact that in all history the troubles of Christianity came from attempts to find truth through knowledge, rather than through faith and love.

"Only when we come to the despair of the prodigal son will we realize the emptiness of mere knowledge. We need a new heart, throbbing and pulsating with warm love for God and man. We need faith, hope, and love, but the greatest of these is love."

Sabin's "Bouree", Mattheson's "Aria", and Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor" were played on the organ by Dr. Marks. The chapel choir sang "Intercession" by Rutember. The lesson was read by Dr. Fritsch.

The Rev. Norman Y. Ritter, '04, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Perkasio, Pa., observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination in conjunction with the fortieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the original church and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the present church with special services on Sunday, May 23, 1932.

The four cheerleaders are A. H. S. men.

This proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that there will be an election this November.

Rumor doth have it that the Freshman and Sophomores will bury the hatchet (for a time at least) and jointly sponsor a dance. The date will probably be October 20. It means the beginning of a new tradition—a better spirit and feeling between the so-called lower classes.

They ought to have the two class presidents smoke a peace pipe.

A certain sophomore was given (so we thought) a riding in this column. Was he angry? No, he wants some more publicity. The idea. We absolutely refuse to publish Ray Weider's name in this column.

Every time a student council announcement with the list of erring frosh is posted . . . Lo—the name of Abe Rothberg leads all the rest.

One thing is apparent . . . ninety percent of the freshman class don't know the Alma Mater. Another thing is also apparent . . . sixty percent of the sophomore class don't know the Alma Mater . . . and fifteen percent "don't know they don't know it" (Credit Doc. Wright for the last remark). Something ought to be done.

Noted Dancer Gives Interpretive Acts In Lyceum Program

Goethe Film and Lecture By Dr. Barba Is Next

A program of dance interpretations was presented by Carola Oyarvide, a noted dancer and diseuse, to the student body on Thursday morning, October 13, in the science auditorium. Miss Oyarvide has been highly successful throughout the country in her portrayal of different phases of life through the medium of dance.

Her program was divided into three groups. In the first part she impersonated an up-to-date secretary of a business man in "Who Rules the Office?" Portrayals of a colored laundress and a dancer at a bull fight completed the first part of her offering.

Her second part was a four part portrayal of Queen Elizabeth in a sketch entitled "The Essex Ring." This showed the arrival of Lord Essex before Elizabeth, the discussion after the meeting of the council, the return of Essex from Ireland and the scene in the tower before the execution. She completed her program with her impression of Carmen.

The program was the third in the series of lyceum courses and was well attended by town people as well as students.

The feature of the assembly program on next Thursday morning, October 20, will be a lecture with moving pictures on Goethe, the great poet, by Dr. Barba, head of the German department.

This is the official German Goethe film prepared for the centenary of Goethe's death and lent by courtesy of the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation. It is a silent film of nine reels. The titles are partly in English and partly in German, and the film has been made at the very places where Goethe lived and worked, notably in Frankfurt and Weimar. The audience will accompany the poet on his trips through German lands and to Italy.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA DONATES SOPH PRIZE

A new award at Commencement, to be called "The Omicron Delta Kappa Sophomore Prize", is to be given this year to the Sophomore with the highest scholastic attainments; this prize of ten dollars is the gift of the Alpha Epsilon Circle of O. D. K., Muhlenberg's honorary activity fraternity. After the Commencement of 1933, the O. D. K. award will be given to the second-year men with the highest scholastic record for the first two years.

Plans for the Hallowe'en dance were completed by Omicron Delta Kappa at a meeting held last Thursday evening in their room in the library. The committee composed of Donald Schlotter, chairman Samuel Shimer, and Ray Heist, is busy preparing for a genuine Masquerade affair with all the appropriate decorations and refreshments; "Haps" Benfer, our genial registrar, is assisting. C. Steve Fisher's musicians will play. The nominal admission fee of 25 cents will be donated to the furnishing of the Reception Room in the Dorms.

The Committee on extra-curricular Activities, Robert Horn, Jr. and Henry Lubsen, is working on the point-rating of activities, to revise them into a rather permanent shape. They will welcome consultation with the various student organizations so as to learn the qualifications for admission into their groups. With the proper information at hand concerning all the college activities, the Activity Committee plans to do creditable work.

The time of regular meetings has been changed to Thursday night, instead of Monday.

Frosh Gain Victory By Drenching Sophs

After Losing Initial Class Fight, Yearlings Win Tug-of-War

The frosh came back at the sophs with a vengeance last Tuesday afternoon and atoned for their defeat of a week ago, suffered in the push-ball contest, by thoroughly ducking their rivals at the annual tug-of-war.

The scene of the time-honored battle was at the picturesque spot known as Cedar Creek. After no little argument concerning the rules of the conquest the two teams lined up on opposite sides of the stream. The sophs, with very little difficulty, pulled the neophytes through the ice-cold waters to win the first episode of the day.

Defeat seemed inevitable for the yearlings, but after exchanging sides they seemed to be endowed with the strength of Hercules and turned the tables on the Sophomores by dragging them over to their side of the creek. Many of the members of the losing side escaped a ducking in the second tilt by letting go of the rope.

The tension was intense during the brief intermission between the second and third periods. As the two rivals lined up for their final chance at victory the spectators bolstered up the courage of the frosh by giving helpful hints and suggestions.

The whistle was blown and little old Cedar Creek began to resemble the ocean off the rock-bound coast of New England. First the frosh were hurled into the Artic-like waters and then the sophs took their wetting. However, the yearlings seemed to have a better anchorage than their opponents, and soon were dragging the kicking and writhing sophs through the water to win the contest.

If this second scrimmage is any indication of the powers of the frosh it is quite doubtful whether the sophs will be successful in their next effort to subdue the "beginners."

NEW PRESS BOX AIDS VISION OF REPORTERS

The latest and most recent improvement to our athletic field has been the erection of a new and more convenient press box. There had been numerous complaints by reporters to the effect that work and vision was hampered because of the unsuitability of the former location. During storms or high winds the place of a sports writer was not enviable. The fact was also pointed out that since the extra stands had been built for the band, unbarred view of the game was practically impossible.

A project was set under way by "Haps" Benfer whereby plans were made to remedy this defect, the result of which is the newly constructed press box situated on the top of the south stands. It is an enclosed, glass-fronted booth supplied with desks enough to accommodate ten scribes. Vision from this point is perfect to any part of the field. The press box will be used for the first time for the Ursinus game.

DEBATE SQUAD MEETS TO ARRANGE TRYOUTS

Coach Arthur T. Gillespie called the first meeting of the Debate squad last Friday in room 103 of the Ad Building. Heist and Silverman of last year's varsity team, together with a dozen other aspirants for this year's squad, received the question for debate from Mr. Gillespie. Resolved: that no individual shall be permitted to inherit or receive by gift more than $50,000 during his lifetime or receive an income of more than $50,000 a year. Tryouts for the team will be held in the Assembly Room of the Ad Building, Wednesday, November 2, at 7 o'clock.

Joint Dance Of The Sophs and Freshmen Is Novel Innovation

Depression Is Given As Cause For Union

These are indeed trying times. The hazing sophomore and the 'dogged' freshman have heard the death knell of an ancient and honorable rivalry. No longer will a sophomore consider a newcomer to the campus as one of the dregs of earth. No, for lo and behold, they are now brothers under the skin. Instead of working against each other and attempting to kill one another, the two classes are going to co-operate and combat a common foe, the enemy of mankind—DEPRESSION—and jointly sponsor a Sophomore-Freshman dance. The date and site of this epoch-making event will be the social-room of the library on Friday, October 21. This plan was first created and nurtured in the brains of the second-year men, who because of love for the freshmen and also because of Old Man Deficit, decided to cast away their so-called sophomoric dignity and work hand in hand with the Yearlings.

The best orchestra in the valley (advertisement) has been selected to dispense the music at this peace conference; Art Mickle and his ten men comprise the lucky orchestra. Probably the best and most important news is that the price will be only forty-five cents stag and ninety cents a couple.

The dance will be a complex affair, since it is in the nature of a pre-election day dance, a pre-Ursinus game dance, a sophomore dance, a freshman dance, a peace dance, a traditional dance, and the opening-of-the-social-season dance. Efforts are being made to stretch it into a Hallowe'en dance.

Robert Stinson is chairman of the committee. Other members are: John Brockhoff, Jack Rehfus, Archie Breinig, Norman Miles, Bernard Frank, Bud Schechter, Myron Warshaw. The freshman members are: Keely, Hagy, Hodgkinson, Richter, Green, and Hoepfner.

THE PASSING PRESENT

RUSSEL L. KRAPP, '35

HOOVER HAS STOOD THE TEST

In times when the world is sick it is human nature that there arises criticism of practically everything and everybody. Today we have in the White House a man who is bearing the greatest burden of criticism ever imposed by the world upon a single pair of shoulders. President Hoover is the first individual ever held responsible for world prosperity. No former President of this nation has been expected to set at rights world economics. No previous President, indeed, has ever been held so mercilessly to account for the business well-being of America itself.

In the first one of the articles entitled "The Passing Present" found in the columns of the first issue of the "Muhlenberg Weekly" for this academic year, President Hoover's political theories and record were portrayed by the writer as only to protect and benefit one class—the wealthy. In backing up this statement various measures were cited, such as the Hawley-Smoot tariff, the Farm Board and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. I shall be forced through lack of space to limit this article solely to the refutation of the contentions brought out in that article.

In making his specious argument that since the adoption of the Hawley-Smoot tariff our foreign trade has sunk, that writer probably ignored the fact that the decline in foreign trade began more than six months before this tariff act became a law and therefore the decline in trade can not possibly be charged to it.

Likewise he took no account of the fact that the volume of trade between all nations fell from sixty-nine billion dollars in 1929 to forty billion dollars in 1931, due to world-wide price demoralization, depreciated exchange, overproduction, unemployment and the consequent reduced

Hoover, Recognition, And Repeal Favored

Thomas Shows Great Gain Over Last Year's Poll

Muhlenberg students favor Hoover for president, recognition of Soviet Russia, and beer, according to the results of the straw vote sponsored by the Muhlenberg Weekly staff among the students present at the assembly program last Thursday morning in the Science Building auditorium.

Hoover received 99, Roosevelt 70, and Thomas 35 of the votes cast. Repeal of the 18th Amendment was approved by 137 of the voters, while 60 believed conditions should remain as they are. Recognition of Soviet Russia was favored by 102, while 96 thought we should continue to ignore the "reds".

Hoover's supporters rejected recognition by a 59 to 33 margin, with seven not voting on this question. Roosevelt voters were against recognition by one vote, 34 to 33, while the Thomas supporters were practically unanimous in their desire for recognition, 33 to 2, with all voting on the question.

Repeal lost out by two votes with the Hoover voters, 44 to 46, but two ballots were marked "modification", and seven did not vote. Roosevelt men were strong in their desire to get rid of prohibition, the vote being 61 for repeal and 8 against, with only one not voting on the question. The Thomas men also were emphatic in their demand for repeal, the vote being 30 to 5, with all voting on the question.

Political oratory seems to neutralize itself, since the results are practically the same as those received in a similar poll sponsored by the Social Science club last year. The great exception however, is the Thomas gain, from five votes last year, to thirty five this year.

A similar vote was taken among the faculty, but the results are not as yet tabulated.

We extend our sympathy to Dr. Henry R. Mueller, upon the death of his mother.

The committee for entertainment included: Robert Dilcher, chairman, Malcolm Parker, Woodrow Kistler, John Brockhoff, and Luther Ziegler.

Theta Kappa Nu gave its smoker at the fraternity house, October 10. The assembly was addressed by Prof. Simpson; Rev. Belk, Province Archon Bruce L. Christ, and Messrs. Daniel W. Hamm and Nelson Kern, both of the faculty of Allentown High School. Refreshments were served under the auspices of Messrs. King, Ritter and Rohn. The rush dance was held at Hotel Shankweiler, October 13. An inviting dinner preceded the dance, to which Leon Cohen and his orchestra furnished the music. Dr. and Mrs. Keller and Prof. and Mrs. Koehler acted as chaperones. Messrs. Saalfeld, Breinig, Miller, and Watson constituted the dance committee.

The Philos fraternity held their dance at Hotel Traylor, October 11. "Art" Mickle and his orchestra supplied the music for the sixty couples; dancing continued from 9 to 12. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. Keller. The members of the Program Committee were Messrs. Wismer, chairman, Moyer, and Schupp.

Delta Theta held their dance in the Marine Ball Room of Hotel Traylor. Music for the forty-two couples was furnished by "Bud" Rader and his Orchestra. The chaperones included

PHI ALPHA THETA HAS INTERESTING SESSION

A regular meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, was held at the home of the president, Richard F. Garnet, on Thursday evening, October 13, at 7:30 P. M.

After a short business meeting, the group discussed the possibilities of Norman Thomas as a presidential candidate. Lee Graver, an alumnus, traced the development of Socialism, explained various types and showed the increase in the popularity of Thomas, due largely to the support given him by the younger generation. Following the discussion, refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

A. K. A. WILL INITIATE CEDAR CREST CHAPTER

A meeting of Alpha Kappa Alpha, national honorary philosophy fraternity, was held Wednesday evening, October 12, at the home of Rev. Russel Stine.

The host led the discussion on the life and work of Jonathan Edwards, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Stine.

The Muhlenberg College chapter will sponsor an initiation of the Philosophy Club of Cedar Crest, as the Delta chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha. The Alpha chapter of this fraternity was organized at Muhlenberg College in 1930. Since that time, Moravian College has become the Beta chapter, Gettysburg College the Gamma chapter, and Cedar Crest will now shortly be organized as the Delta chapter.

Play Was Marred by Frequent Penalties for Each Team

WILKINSON'S RUN WAS SENSATION OF GAME

Letting loose with a terrific kick in the final quarter, after being held scoreless in the first three periods, Coach Holstrom's Muhlenberg Mules conquered a plucky band of Dickinson Red Devils by a 13 to 0 score at Biddle Field, Carlisle, last Saturday afternoon. This was the first conference game of the season for the Muhlenberg squad.

Weiner dove off tackle from the one yard stripe to score the first touchdown after a series of three passes were ruled complete because of interference with the receiver. Weiner tallied the extra point with a placement.

In the closing minutes of the game Wilkinson broke loose from the 25-yard line, reversed his field, and darted, twisted, and plunged his way through the entire Dickinson team for a touchdown.

Interference with receivers was plainly visible, but the fans unable to understand the finer points of the game, went wild with fury and swarmed out on the field after the game to attack the luckless official who was escorted to the gymnasium by a squad of police. The mob even followed him to this place, a half mile from the field.

As it was, Muhlenberg received decidedly the worst of it, as far as penalties went, being put back a total of 110 yards, while Dickinson was given thirty yards in penalties.

Fine defensive work by Matuska, who intercepted a pass in mid-field, the third time in successive games, May who dashed through to recover a fumble on the Dickinson twenty-five yard line from which point Wilkinson ran for a touchdown, and Morrison who intercepted a pass on the twenty-yard line broke up the Dickinson threats.

First Quarter

Neither team was able to advance far, and there were frequent exchanges of punts. Penalties on Muhlenberg, and a pass from Weiner intercepted by Slivinski, together with line plunges by Slivinski carried the ball to the Muhlenberg thirty-five yard line. Gramley intercepted a pass, and after being unable to pierce the Dickinson forward wall, Klotz punted to the enemy's eleven yard line. Hughes was forced to punt and the Holstromites began to reel off gains through the line and around the ends. Weiner faked a pass and went around end to the Dickinson eighteen yard marker as the period ended.

ETA SIGMA PHI PLANS SEASON OF ACTIVITY

Alpha Rho Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, the classical fraternity of Muhlenberg college, held its first meeting in the Bible Seminar Room of the Library, Thursday, October 13, at 8:00 P. M., in order to outline a program of activity for the year.

At this meeting plans were made for the current year and it was decided that the general theme for the first semester should be Greek and Roman Archaeology. Guest speakers will be secured on various occasions. The club also plans to review the new books in the library and have thorough reports made at various meetings by the members.

A constitution was read and adopted. The officers of the Eta Sigma Phi are Martin Ruoss, President; Rudolph Novak, Vice-president; Wilmer Wolf, Secretary; Harry Dunlap, Treasurer; and Alfred Mattes, Sergeant-at-Arms. OMICRON DELTA KAPPA "Has Problem It Asks Aid in Solving"

Omicron Delta Kappa has received a great deal of criticism on this campus, because although the organization aims to include in its ranks the leaders of the student body, it does not. The members and officers of O. D. K. realize this fact and are attempting to change the point ratings of various student body positions, so that the real leaders can become members.

O. D. K. is restricted in its movements by the national organization, so that the points necessary for eligibility cannot be changed by the local group. The assumption is that if a man is popular enough, and has enough ability to be elected to, let us say president of the student body, he will naturally be involved in a great many other activities that carry points to make him easily eligible for membership in O. D. K. Unfortunately for Omicron Delta Kappa, but fortunately for the students of Muhlenberg, that is not the case here. Most of the men who hold office this year are not "activity hounds", they have the ability, but prefer to give all their time to one thing, and do that properly.

This state of affairs can result in the following paradox, that the president of the Student Body and of the Student Council, may not have enough points to make him eligible for membership in a club that is supposed to be made up of leaders of the student body. O. D. K. realizes that this is bad and is attempting to alter the points each office will give a man, so that it can truthfully declare that it is made up of leaders.

Omicron Delta Kappa asks the co-operation of the organizations on the campus in giving them details on the standards and the activity of each one, and the work required of the officers, so that although O. D. K. cannot alter the points necessary for eligibility it can make it possible for a man who is a leader, but not an "activity hound" to gain enough points to make him eligible for membership.

writer aware of the fact that when a bank is saved it preserves the savings laid aside by a family for a rainy day from being tied up indefinitely in a suspended bank? From the standpoint of direct benefit to the individual it would be difficult to conceive of any single measure calculated to reach and protect more people than is afforded by supporting and safeguarding the banks of the country.

Now let us turn to the railroads as the first "Passing Present" was also critical of the assistance rendered these institutions. Are the railroads not the backbone of the transportation system of the country? Are they not the largest employers of labor, employing more than 1,000,000 men? Are they not one of the largest purchasers of raw and fabricated materials of all kinds? Are not their underlying securities to the extent of many billions of dollars held by insurance companies and savings banks, which means that directly there is invested in them the savings of the American people?

And so on down through the list of those institutions being aided: mortgage companies, building and loan associations, joint stock land banks, agricultural credit corporations, etc., all affected with a public interest, all furnishing the medium through which not only the national credit structure may be reinvigorated but the individual citizen protected.

That article continued to assault the President for the so-called "brutal expulsion" of the veterans from Washington, when by the end of July the danger to the health of the city had become so great that the encampment had to be broken up. Does our critic believe that a body of voters can compel the government to give them a large sum of money to which they are not entitled? It is a very deadly corruption for a government to hand out money because a group of voters has become too strong to be refused.

In conclusion the writer stated that Mr. Hoover will not be judged very severely by future generations because he failed to stem the tide of the depression, inferring that the President will not be considered a very formidable statesman by his posterity. I have only explained in this article a few of the achievements of the administration of a man, who has proved himself a non-partisan leader of his people in a time of stress when other leaders failed. I quote, in conclusion, William Allen White, a noted journalist, as to Hoover's "historical value." Mr. White says, "America has had no president who has done in eight months such herculean work for the salvation of his country as Herbert Hoover has done since December 1931. If he has done nothing, else, if he was not a world leader in the cause of peace and international amity, his work with Congress, his leadership in this crisis would entitle him to a high place in history."

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The Pre-Medical Society of Muhlenberg College held its initial meeting Thursday, October 13, at 7:30 P. M., in the Biology Lecture Room for the purpose of reorganization.

The officers elected at this meeting were as follows: Woodrow Savacool, President; George Heintzleman, Vice President; Donald Schlotter, Secretary; and Harry Underwood, Treasurer. A program of activity was outlined for the current year and a Membership Committee was appointed in order to consider the eligibility of new members.

Dr. John Shankweiler discussed pre-medical requirements and the requirements of medical schools throughout the country.

LIBRARY NOTES

Among gifts received recently are a number of books from the "Lutheran Pastoral Association of Eastern Berks". This is the beginning of other donations to be made in the future. It is a splendid idea, for it establishes in the name of this association a very excellent choice of books as well as a fine addition to our library. Some of those received are "While Peter Sleeps" by Edward Boyd Barrett, a discussion of the need of reform in the Roman Catholic church, which has received very good reviews; "The Virgin Birth of Christ" by John G. Machen, an investigation of the origin of the belief in the virgin-birth of Jesus of Nazareth; and "Social Sources of Denominationalism" by Helmut Richard Niebuhr, which treats of the social character of the Christian churches.

Dr. Haas has added a number of new books: The Ethical Religion of Zoroaster" by Miles M. Dawson; "Types of Philosophy" by William Ernest Hocking, a book that is in many ways a welcome and original presentation of philosophical problems; "The Philosophical Aspects of Modern Science" by C. E. M. Joad, in which the author "brings both physics and metaphysics into relation with the familiar world and the worlds of the artist and the mystic"; and the latest work of Dr. Joseph Stump, "The Christian Faith". Professor Stump has received the honorary degree of Doctor of Theology from Muhlenberg College. "This book", says Dr. Haas, "is a very notable exposition of Christian faith from the Lutheran point of view."

Prof. Simpson is always a generous donor to our library. His latest gifts are "Finch's Fortune" by Mazo de la Roche and "The Rueful Mating" by G. B. Stern. The latter is very highly recommended by Prof. Simpson. It is the story of the daughter of an English sea-captain, a literary prodigy and her romantic friendship with another prodigy, a boy actor.

Grace Livingston Hill (Lutz) has written, according to the Lippincott blurb, "four charming and purposeful stories", which her publishers recommend very highly. "Mrs. Hill", we are told in flower-festooned phrases, "holds a unique place in the hearts of tens of thousands, as one from whom there has come an immeasurable amount of inspiration and happiness. Many who read her novels have felt impelled to voice their gratitude and appreciation in writing. She has received letters from people known and unknown from all parts of the country. Her novels number many and have sold nearly two million copies." Ah! the secret is out, the great American combine of Business and Sentiment, Unlimited—one of the few trusts that hasn't been tobogganed by the late depression. It only remains for her publishers to compare Mrs. Hill with Harold Bell Wright and Zane Grey, who between them could pay off the war debts with their royalties. Mrs. Hill, we might mention, is not a campus favorite. Shame on you!

The twelve least read novels in the library:

Ivanhoe, by Sir Walter Scott.
Quentin Durward, by Sir Walter Scott.
Woodstock, by Sir Walter Scott.

The Talisman, by Sir Walter Scott.
The Bride of Lammermoor by Sir Walter Scott.

Rob Roy, by Sir Walter Scott.
David Copperfield, Charles Dickens.
Oliver Twist, by Charles Dickens.
Martin Chuzzlewit, by Charles Dickens.

Old Curiosity Shop, by Charles Dickens.

Our Mutual Friend, by Charles Dickens.

Nicholas Nickleby, by Charles Dickens.

Shame on you again, or is it "who cares?" Your librarian blushes to confess that he's read every one of them and had a good time doing it. But that was long ago. Now he tries to read "The Hound and Horn". Oh, well!

DISCUSSION HOUR MEETING IS HELD

It had long been customary for the Freshman class to present to the late Dr. William Wackernagel, professor emeritus of modern languages, a turkey at Thanksgiving. The presentation was made before the entire student body and the actual presentation speeches were made in various languages. It was rarely that the Doctor was unable to answer in the language spoken: Greek, Ukrainian, Chinese, Low German, Latin, Italian, Czechoslovakian, Japanese, French, Spanish, Lithuanian, Penna. German, Swedish, Yiddish, Bohemian, Hebrew, Norwegian, Portuguese, Russian, Hungarian, and, of course, English. With the death of the Doctor this beautiful tradition was lost forever to Muhlenberg.

DANCER ENTERTAINS IN LYCEUM PROGRAM

Brief snatches of some of Goethe's greatest works: Faust, Werther, Goetz von Berlichingen, Iphigenie, and Tasso are interpreted. The presentation is enlivened by scenes from puppet plays and silhouettes. Goethe himself does not appear, but the personalities that surrounded him are portrayed and the influence of the poet upon his environment is excellently demonstrated.

The film has been prepared under the direct supervision of the German Custodian of Art Treasures, Dr. Edwin Redslob. Its purpose is to foster the cultural relations between this country and Germany.

On Thursday evening, October 20, the presentation is to be repeated in the auditorium of the Science Building, for the general public. There will be a nominal admission of twenty-five cents.

MUHLENBERG WINS FIRST OF CONFERENCE GAMES

Second Quarter

Lepore went through guard for four yards and a first down, and Horine dashed around end for a five yard gain, but Muhlenberg was given a fifteen yard penalty for holding. Hughes intercepted a pass from Weiner and ran to his thirty-five yard line. The 'Berg line tightened, and although again aided by penalties, Hughes was forced to punt. Bloom punted out of danger and Matuska intercepted a pass from Hughes to break up the Dickinson drive. Penalties, end runs by Bartley, and passes to Reeves brought the Red Devils to the Mules' twelve yard stripe, but the Holstromites tightened up and took the ball on downs. Horine, around end, and Lepore off tackle, gained seven yards as the half ended.

Score: Muhlenberg 0, Dickinson 0.

Third Quarter

There was a frequent exchange of punts, with Bloom kicking for Muhlenberg gaining ground each time. Horine after returning a punt, broke loose for a thirty-three yard gain on the next play. Dickinson tightened up and Weiner attempted a drop kick from the thirty-five yard line but it was short.

Dickinson was forced to kick. Weiner's pass to Horine was knocked down, but interference was detected and Muhlenberg had possession of the ball on the thirty-two yard line, first down. A five yard penalty and a six yard loss on an end run put Muhlenberg back eleven yards, but Wilkinson advanced to the twenty yard line on a pass from Weiner. Weiner's second pass was wide, but again there was interference, and Muhlenberg had a first down on the eighteen yard line. Weiner made three yards through center as the period ended.

Fourth Quarter

Wilkinson around end, and Weiner off tackle gained four yards. Weiner's pass was wide, but interference again was responsible for a first down, this time on the eight yard stripe. Line plunges by Weiner and Rosenberg advanced the ball to the one yard line, and Weiner smashed off tackle for the touchdown, tallying the extra point with a placement.

Score: Muhlenberg 7, Dickinson 0. Heavy penalties robbed the Holstromites of many yards, but May dashed through to recover a fumble made by the Dickinson receiver of Weiner's punt on the enemy's twenty-five yard line. Wilkinson, reversing his field, gave the most sensational performance of the game to dash through a broken field twenty-five yards for a touchdown. Weiner's drop kick failed.

BACK TO MUHLENBERG after a hectic battle in which his very life was in danger, is the latest episode in the thrilling life serial of that prince of good fellows Registrar Reverend Harry A. Benfer.

"Haps", according to his own version of the affair, visited Mrs. Benfer's parents at their home located in one of the hottest hotbeds of the Pennsylvania G. O. P.'s. "Haps" was stepping into dangerous territory but he was out to conquer, and his adversary was none other than his father-in-law, for many years a Republican County Commissioner. Even that was not enough of a red flag for the Muhlenberg warrior. Gathering up all of his courage he hurled the damaging thunderbolt and jokingly declared that he would cast his ballot for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

And then, sorry to say, he was sent to bed without any supper.

CAROLA, CAROLA, when will we see you back. Your charming personality, your poise, your eyes, your hair! INTRODUCING

PROF. CHARLES B. BOWMAN, A.M., B.D.

Our professor of Economics and Sociology has two hobbies: taking students to jails, poor houses, and hospitals—merely to observe, of course, and lecturing on economic and social problems before civic clubs. He has the distinction of being the only ex-mayor on the campus, having held that executive position for six years, 1914 to 1920, in the city of Naperville, Illinois. During this period he was also active as chairman of all war drives made in the county, as well as being county superintendent of schools.

Professor Bowman began his teaching career at what is now Albright College in Reading, Pa. He later taught for seventeen years at Northwestern College, and was elected Professor of Economics and Sociology at Muhlenberg in 1922. It was during his year of Sabbatical leave from Albright that he made a trip around the world, having many experiences of interest in the way.

Besides a full schedule of classes at Muhlenberg, Professor Bowman finds time to act as Vice-President and Secretary of the Board of Directors of the Slatington Slate Co., and to preach in his church at Cetronia, Pa. Fraternally, he is Phi Kappa Tau, and Pi Gamma Mu.

— MM —

MR. BERNHEIM has been having a streak of hard luck. Not content with having his pockets picked at the Lafayette football game, while escorting a party of churchmen and churchwomen through the chapel, he lost his glasses. But Democratic prosperity will bring it all back, with interest, and so, says the college financier "Vote Roosevelt."

— MM —

ACROSS THE HALL, Dr. Haas says "Vote Hoover" unless you want four more years of depression. And we say "Vote" whom you please and we'll be seeing you next week."

MUHLENBERG'S MULES PRIMED FOR URSINUS

The Holstromites are pointing for their annual battle with Coach Jack McAvoy's Ursinus College "Bears" next Saturday afternoon on the local gridiron. It will be one of the most important games of the season for Muhlenberg, since Ursinus holds the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference football championship which the "Muhls" are anxious to get and aren't bashful in admitting it. The Collegeville eleven last year was the only undefeated school in the conference, although their record was somewhat marred when Gettysburg deadlocked the champions, 6-6 in the final fray.

The "Bears" clawed their way through the Muhlenberg ranks last season to win by a score of 7 to 0. The "Cardinal and Gray" line could do nothing against the husky, scrappy Ursinus forward wall. "Dank" Giltner, playing end for the Holstromites, turned in a fine performance for his team, breaking up many forward passing attacks, and several times throwing the Ursinus ball toters for big losses. It is noteworthy that the "Muhls" last season were minus the services of Rosenberg, Majercik, and Wavrek for this game at Collegeville, and consequently never advanced very far into the Ursinus territory.

Year	Muhlenberg	Ursinus
1927	0	15
1928	0	6
1929	7	9
1930	14	13

Just what is
"rough cut?"

THE tobacco that is cut best for pipes might be termed "whittle cut" or "rough cut," like Granger. It requires a type of tobacco different from the tobacco used for chewing tobacco or cigarettes. Then again, Granger is made by Wellman's Method.

Granger has a pleasing aroma. It is slow burning and cool. Just try it!

... THE COLLEGE MEN'S TELEPHONE HOUR!

HERE'S a college tradition that's one of the best... "Half past eight is the time to telephone home!" It's not in the Freshman handbook; it's not in the Rules. But here's the reason for its popularity:

At 8:30 P. M. low Night Rates go into effect on Station to Station calls. These are calls for a telephone (like a local call) and NOT for a specific person.

Take advantage of the saving—just give the operator your home telephone number. The folks are probably at home at 8:30 P. M. But best of all, and to make doubly sure, keep a regular date to telephone home each week. Then you can always make use of the inexpensive Station to Station service.

Faculty Votes For Roosevelt In Poll Sponsored By Weekly

Recognition of Russia, and Repeal Are Also Favored

The faculty of Muhlenberg College agrees with the students upon the desirability of repealing the 18th Amendment and the recognition of Soviet Russia, but maintains that Franklin Roosevelt should be president of the United States rather than Herbert Hoover, whom the students favor. This was discovered in the straw vote conducted by the Muhlenberg Weekly.

Governor Roosevelt succeeded in obtaining fifteen votes to the President's eight. Just as in the student body vote, Norman Thomas showed a notable gain by registering four votes.

In the vote on the recognition of Stalin's Russia, fourteen of the Faculty recommended recognition, nine were emphatically intolerant of the "Reds" and five did not vote. The Hoover vote showed its essential conservatism by defeating the recognition amendment by a vote of four to three. The Roosevelt advocates recommended recognition by a vote of seven to four, while the Thomas men supported the Socialist platform by a three to one vote for recognition.

The prohibition controversy was settled by the faculty with a close vote in favor of repealing the amendment. Nine of Roosevelt's supporters favored repeal, two of the Hoover votes were cast for repeal and one Thomas adherent recommended the return of beer. Three Thomas votes signified their satisfaction with prohibition, and two Roosevelt and five Hoover votes favored retaining the amendment. The vote on repeal was therefore, thirteen votes for repeal and ten votes for the present system. Five of the faculty did not vote on the question.

MASK AND DAGGER TO PRESENT O'NEIL PLAY

The first regular meeting of the Mask and Dagger Club was held in the Assembly room of the Administration Building on Monday, October 17, at 7:30 P. M.

John Hemmerly, president of the organization, opened the meeting with a brief address, thanking the members for placing him at their head.

Mr. Coder, the faculty advisor, then explained what he expected of the members of the organization. He stated his plans for the coming season and also outlined the work to be done by several of the members, who were appointed to build trial sets for "Moon of the Caribbees". This production is scheduled to attain perfection sometime in March and promises to be one of the very best bits of drama ever put on by students of Muhlenberg.

The dramatics organization is beginning work early so that everything will be in readiness for the coming contests.

PLANS FOR PROM MADE AT JUNIOR MEETING

An important Junior class meeting was held on Tuesday, October 18, at one o'clock, in the Latin room, to discuss several questions pertaining to the Junior Prom. The meeting was called to order by President Harrison Straub, and then turned over to Leon Rosenberg, chairman of the Junior Prom Committee. After considerable discussion, a motion was passed to the effect that the class dues be set at five dollars for this year; the same to cover the dance assessment and subsequent expenses incurred by the class this year. No time, place, or orchestra have as yet been selected as final.

Frosh Soph Dance Interrupts Rivalry

Political Ball Sponsored By Classes Is Success

On Friday night, October 21, the Great Divide was finally bridged when the Sophomores and Freshman collaborated in sponsoring a political dance held in the Library Building. "Art" Mickey and his orchestra supplied the necessary music for the occasion.

The ball room was very adequately decorated in the pastels and colors of the leading political factions of the coming election. Approximately one hundred and fifty couples "strained" to the music of Allentown's leading orchestra.

The success of this dance may lead to further joint affairs. If it does, a traditional rivalry will become softened, but no one's pecuniary condition will suffer.

The committee for this harmonious gathering was Robert Stinson, chairman, John Brokhoff, Jack Gehfus, Alfred Breinig, Norman V. Miles, Bernard Frank, Allen Schechter, and Myron Warshaw. The Freshmen included were Hagy, Hodgkinson, Richter, Green and Hoepfner.

Guests of honor were Dr. and Mrs. John A. W. Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer, Professor and Mrs. Albert C. Fasig, and Dr. and Mrs. John C. Keller.

Goethe Film Shown In Assembly Period

German Club Also Presents Saengerbund At Special Program

A fine program of moving pictures was presented to the student body of Muhlenberg by the German Club during the regular Thursday Assembly Period at 10:30 A. M. The film, dealing with the life of Goethe was procured through the efforts of The Carl Schurz Foundation for Cultural Relations between Germany and America.

The reels were introduced and also explained by Dr. Barba, head of the German Department. He stated that in 1921 America had celebrated the 700th anniversary of Dante, in 1930 the 2000th anniversary of the Birth of Virgil and that therefore it was only proper that in 1932 we should celebrate the 100th anniversary of the death of Goethe.

The film showed many scenes in the life of Goethe: His early life and the puppet shows with which he amused himself, the paintings his father owned and served as a background for many of his later dreams; his life in Weimar, and then his flight to Italy.

Der Deutsche Verein sponsored a Goethe evening, October 19. The program was opened by the Lehigh Saengerbund under the direction of Professor Neuss. The first number was a popular German song by Schubert, "Am Lindenbaum." This was followed by one of Goethe's songs, "Unter allen Wipfeln ist Ruh." Two German folk songs, "Wo des Wellin fließen," and "Ach, du klarblauer Himmel" were delightfully rendered by the singers.

A large crowd of visitors and friends witnessed its showing which was repeated Thursday morning for the benefit of the student body.

Der Deutsche Verein wishes to announce that Max Montor, internationally famed actor, will return to Muhlenberg, to present Goethe's "Faust", Part I. Herr Montor comes to us through the courtesy of the Karl Schurz Memorial Foundation. He has impersonated more than 600 characters, as Hamlet, Shylock, Macbeth and Faust, before elite audiences of both continents. The Lehigh Saengerbund will again be present to render German songs. This unique program will be presented Thursday, November 3, at 8:00 P. M.

Kappa Phi Kappa To Aid Deserving Men

At the final meeting of the Psi Chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa last year a committee was appointed to discuss and formulate a plan for student aid. They returned the following report:

Since the recent tendency has been not to give scholarships but instead loans, the Chapter has endeavored to work out a plan to aid students.

Following are some conditions of the plan:

Only bona fide members of the Psi Chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa may apply for aid.

The officers shall constitute an Awards Committee who shall decide the eligibility of candidates.

The following points shall be considered:

1. The financial status of the applicant.
2. His scholastic record while at college.
3. The habits of living of the applicant.

A promissory note must be made out, payable in one year after date of leaving college. The awards are to alternate. Interest 5% (five per cent).

A meeting of the Mission Study Group of the Lutheran Students Association was held in the Bible Seminar Room of the Library on Monday, October 17, at 7:30.

The members decided to use the volume "Are Foreign Missions Done For," by Robert E. Speer, as their text during the year.

Muhlenberg And Ursinus Battle To A Scoreless Tie In Conference Game

Lehigh Smoker To Be Held Friday Evening

The traditional pre-Lehigh pep smoker will be held in the Science Auditorium on Friday evening, October 28, at 7:30 P. M.

The smoker will continue to emphasize the band and the cheer leaders, but a few innovations will be added. Henry M. Richards, '32 will render several piano solos and John Seifing will return with some new humor. Rev. Harry A. Benfer will deliver his own inimitable pep talk and Claude Laudenslager, a former football star, will help to give the player's point of view. Captain "Joe" Matuska will tell the student body what the team expects to do to Lehigh, and Coach George R. Holstrom may consent to speak.

Beside the usual smoker and refreshments, there will be a set of wrestling and boxing bouts which promise plenty of laughs. The usual pajama parade will be discarded, but there will undoubtedly be an exodus downtown after the smoker.

The committee, which has been placed in charge by the M. C. A., consists of Richard Kistler, chairman; Herbert Frankfort and William Mac-Millan.

Muhlenberg Expects Victory Over Lehigh

Holstromites Are Out For Revenge

Coach George R. Holstrom's "Muhls" are set for a repetition of their smashing victory of the 1930 football season over Lehigh when they encounter their traditional rival again on Taylor Field in Bethlehem this Saturday afternoon.

Last season the Holstromites went over to Bethlehem in an attempt to make it two straight over the "Brown and White", but the Lehigh gridmen ran wild against the puny opposition afforded by the "Cardinal and Gray" and piled up a 33 to 0 score—incidentally, the largest margin of victory that the Bethlehemites have gained over the 'Bergmen in the past decade.

The persistent line smashes, by Ware, Short, and Halsted broke down the resistance of the 'Berg forward wall so that Lehigh ran up a total of 20 points in the final quarter.

Coach Tate's machine, which entered the game last year as the underdog on the basis of early season performance, came through in a big way. Therefore, despite Lehigh's unimpressive record so far this season, a close, exciting game will be staged, as the "Brown and White" usually receive a hard-born power for the game with Muhlenberg. Lehigh has played five times this season.

THREE MEN INITIATED INTO PHI SIGMA IOTA

Phi Sigma Iota, the national honorary Romance Language fraternity, held the initiation of its new members on Monday evening, October 24, at the home of Professor Walter Seaman, Assistant Professor of Romance Languages.

Because of the high scholastic standing required to become a member of this honor society, there are few who are eligible for membership. Those initiated on Monday were Robert C. Fichter of Newton, New Jersey; John D. Carapella of Allentown, Pa., and Fred D. Oberlander of Syracuse, New York. Several alumni living in this vicinity participated in the adoption of the new members.

At the next meeting, November 28, at the home of Dr. Corbiere, reports on the French and Spanish novels since 1850 will be presented.

"Muhls" Register Ten First Downs To Seven For Visitors

Muhlenberg and Ursinus pushed one another up and down the local gridiron all Saturday afternoon in a battle for conference honors and the end of the game saw the score board as blank as when play began. The "Muhls" held a decided edge over the champion Bears, but were unable to supply the necessary punch when within scoring distance. Muhlenberg gained ten first downs to the visitors' seven.

The Holstromites had the ball deep in Ursinus territory during most of the game, with the Bears reeling off the majority of their first downs in the final period after "Jersey" Bloom, husky Muhlenberg lineman, was taken from the game. Wavrek, Evanovsky, and Sterner, Muhlenberg stars, were on the sidelines because of injuries.

The "Muhls" showed unexpected power against a strong, experienced team that holds the conference championship as well as victories over Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall. "Joe" Matuska intercepted a pass in midfield, the fourth time at the same place in successive games. Lepore gave a fine exhibition of line plunging, while Paul, visiting end gave one of the best performances ever seen on the local field.

First Quarter
Ursinus won the toss and elected to kick. Weiner was downed on the 40 yard line after Lodge's kickoff. Weiner made six yards through left guard. Horine went three yards off tackle. Weiner punted to Shuman who was downed on the five yard line. Lodge was tackled by Weiner after a thirty yard run around end. Ursinus lost five yards for offside. Eachus made four yards through guard. Tropp was tossed for a one yard loss. Levin punted to Lapore who was out of bounds in mid-field. After Horine twice failed to gain, Weiner tossed a pass to Horine who was out of bounds after a seven yard gain. Weiner punted to Shuman on the five yard line. Eachus was stopped at the line. Lodge punted to Weiner who was stopped on the Ursinus thirty yard line. Lepore ran nine yards around left end. Levin came through the line to throw Weiner for a yard loss. Weiner went through right guard for two yards and a first down. Ursinus was penalized five yards. Weiner was stopped at the line. Weiner crashed the line for a yard and the ball was on Ursinus' ten yard line. Lepore gained a yard through left guard and the ball went to Ursinus on its own nine yard line. A line plunge made one yard. Lodge went four yards off tackle. Lepore took Lodge's punt on Ursinus' thirty-five yard line. Horine cut through tackle for a yard. Weiner passed to Horine for six yards. Weiner ran through right guard for two yards. Weiner went through center for three yards and a first down. Horine was tossed for a yard loss. Lepore gained two yards around end. Weiner's pass to Horine was incomplete. Moyer and Young went in for Keebler and Bloom. Horine passed eight yards to Weiner but 'Berg lost the ball on downs. Lodge made two yards through the line. Lodge punted to Weiner who was downed on Ursinus' forty-three yard line. The quarter ended with the ball at a closer point to Muhlenberg's territory than at any previous point in the game.

Score: 0-0.

THE PASSING PRESENT

RICHARD F. GARNET, '33

"MIDGETS IN THE SEATS OF THE MIGHTY"

Nicholas Murray Butler, the eminent president of Columbia University, at the opening of the one-hundred seventy-eighth academic year of that institution gave a brilliant address, a reminder of which is very timely as we are entering upon another presidential election. He brought to the attention of the students this fact, that of all the men who have served as presidents of our broad land, only a few might really be called "great". He points out that the first four presidents—Washington, Adams, Jefferson, and Madison represent the very flower of the nation's intellect and character. Of all the successors to these, only four or five could measure up to the high standards inaugurated by these men. The others remain an uninspiring mediocrity, a few can be labeled as downright failures.

An inquiry into Dr. Butler's facts shows them to be correct. If we should investigate the lives and characters of the presidents since the World War, the utter lack of leadership and greatness displayed would be almost enough to discourage further study. Harding's "poker room" politics, Coolidge's country platitudes, his record of "When I was in the White House," and Hoover's flabby policies stand forth as glaring examples.

Today President Hoover is campaigning for re-election upon his record of having kept the economic condition of our country from falling farther than the present low levels—if that means anything at all. He is promising a continuation of the recent upturn—but it seems as if the president and his cohorts are the only ones who have found it to date. This he intends to do by continuing his support of tremendous tariff walls, that have been erected during his term, and which have done more to cripple international trade and prosperity than any single thing. In addition Mr. Hoover can boast of having had the most costly of all administrations. Surely this is an argument with a tremendous appeal to the tax payer. He can also point with pride to his negative qualities of leadership which arouse themselves to action only as a last resort. He is goaded from their natural reticence. This, too, is an admirable quality which to guide depressed America. Truly, we can say "Midgets in the seats of the mighty."

Our hopes for a leader were renewed when first we listened to the high-sounding phrases of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Surely, we thought, a man had appeared upon the horizon who could rival a Cleveland or a Wilson. But after waiting in vain for the Democratic candidate to "wind out," to quit his high School oratory and get down to the perplexing problems of the times, many of us came to the conclusion that his was the "usual line". It slowly dawned upon us that the story of the "forgotten man" was merely a stupid plagiarism, typical campaign material.

Since that time Mr. Roosevelt has proved himself to be the customary political opportunist and vote grabber. One day finds him lauding the western farmers and the next day negotiating with Tammany Hall. After winning the South, he clasps hands with Al Smith. After pleasing conservative railroad men by promising them everything they ask, he turns round and makes overtures to the liberal element by promising adequate

Allentown, Pa., October 26, 1932

To the Editor of the Muhlenberg Weekly

Dear Sir:

In examining the students' straw vote it is very apparent that many students need more information on two questions, namely, on the problem of repeal, and on the problem of recognizing Russia.

It is very easily explicable in view of the strong wet propaganda why so many people favor repeal of the 18th Amendment. But there has not been enough real balanced consideration of the facts on the other side. Those of us who have lived longer, and have known how much worse conditions were prior to the 18th Amendment, are not so easily swept off of our feet. We have seen the misery which the saloon created; we have known the fact that every regulation of liquor was transgressed. We have known the fact of what alcoholism has done to thousands of people. Then we saw the great change which came among the poor people with the removal of the saloon. We saw the improvement in student bodies from former years to the present. We noticed the increase of savings among poor people. All of these facts make us doubt whether the present evils can in any way be compared with former conditions. I would advise all students to read the latest number of the Annals of the Academy of Social and Political Science, where there is a full discussion of both sides. As far as Muhlenberg College is concerned, and its regulations, there will be no repeal and no return to any of the practices of decades ago.

Any one who has had direct information from Russia is not willing to recognize a land of tyranny and oppression, where there is no freedom of political opinion or of religious worship. Russia is a land where at present there is the wildest persecution of the Jews, and where children are compelled to become atheists. To think of getting some money at the expense of endorsing such a country would be a great moral mistake. It would be wise when voting on great questions if college students would endeavor to get more information.

Yours sincerely,

John A.W. Haas

federal control of public utilities. Then, as a mighty climax he promises the veterans their unmatured bonus as soon as the treasury balance permits it, knowing full well that the United States treasury will not be able to stand the strain at any time during the next four years. A shrewd way of making "no" sound like "yes." Clever? Diplomatic? Yes. But totally lacking those qualities by which we remember Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson. "Midgits in the seats of the mighty."

For weeks the American people have been receiving great quantities of political propaganda, wind, gas, bull—whatever you wish to call it. Every evening we might listen for hours over the radio. Its blatant superficiality fills many a column of our daily papers. The average political speeches which we hear resolve themselves to high sounding nonsense, clever straddlings of the real issues confronting a sick world. The candidates are weak and wobbly, puppets moving according to the master string pullers—shrewd, corpulent, baggy-eyed political bosses.

But the show goes on. The American public continues to be duped and fooled. Among these are thousands of college men and women, contentedly being swept along with the tide.

Blindly they carry on, selfishly engaged in their petty pleasures, or trifling with foolish academic abstractions. These are they who should rouse themselves from their sleep, take an increased interest in American politics and demand men of courage, honor, and intelligence as our public servants. It is a challenge to young America to awaken. The future of our land hangs in the balance.

Hoover had his defender. Where are all you Roosevelt men? Write an article in his defense for "The Passing Present." Where is the Roosevelt-Garner Club?—(Editor.)

LIBRARY NOTES

You know the old game of making lists of "The Hundred Best Books", "The Ten Best Novels", "The Twelve Greatest Authors", with which itinerant lecturers and culture club editors often weary us. Well, things have come to such a pass in the reading world that one is wearied of books, books, books and yet more books! When will the flow cease?—The idea today is not to make lists of "Best", "should read", etc., but "worst" and "don't read". Shall we try it? Here is my list of the twelve books written in the English language that one should under no circumstances ever read:

1. Confessio Amantis, by John Gower.
2. Pierces Supererogation, by Gabriele Harvey.
3. Shoemaker's Holiday, by Thomas Dekker.
4. A Dissertation on the Poor Laws by Joseph Townsend.
5. Scottish Chiefs, by Jane Porter.
6. Poems of Lydia, by H. Sigourney.
7. The Works of Thomas Dick, L.L.D.
8. Proverbial Philosophy, by Martin Tupper.
9. The Virginians, by William Makepeace Thackeray.
10. The Enchanted Barn, by Grace Livingston Hill.
11. The Man Nobody Knows, by Bruce Barton.

12. Dynamo, by Eugene O'Neill. There are more than twelve books that you should avoid, of course. But if you have already avoided these, you have made a good start.

We have just received, "The Poems of Emily Dickinson", the centenary edition published by Little, Brown & Co. The introduction is by Martha Dickinson Bianchi, who has been of inestimable service to poetry and literature in bringing her great relative more fully into the public consciousness. Emily Dickinson was born in 1830 and died in 1886. She was almost the most obscure contemporary of older poets like James Russel Lowell, Walt Whitman, Matthew Arnold and Hugh Clough; and poetry lovers who doted on Stedman, Saxe, Stoddard, Gilder, Sill and other celebrated mediocrities, had never heard of her. Only today has Emily Dickinson received just praise. Conrad Aiken says of her poetry, "Perhaps the finest by a woman in the English language." The late Amy Lowell, H. S. Cawley, Louis Untermeyer, Genevieve Taggard and many others have pumped her with their paeans of praise. A more judicious appraisal will come in time, of course, and Emily Dickinson will inevitably find her modest but secure place with kindred spirits like Christina Rossetti and her great compatriot, Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Politics seems to have entered literature. Two interesting articles have appeared in recent issues of the Saturday Review of Literature—One,

"What the President reads" by Christopher Morley, Sept. 24th, and the other, "What Governor Roosevelt reads" by Hendrick VanLoon, October 15th. Of course we wouldn't dream of expressing an opinion.

FACULTY NOTES

Dr. Carl Wright Boyer and Dr. Isaac Miles Wright were among the speakers at the fifth annual convention of the Eastern convention district of the Pennsylvania State Education association held on Friday and Saturday, October 21 and 22, at Reading. Dr. Wright is president of the training department.

Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, chairman of the education-in-Rotary committee of the Allentown Rotary Club, gave a very instructive lecture on "The Romance of Translations" at the noonday meeting of the club in the Hotel Allen last Friday, October 14. Dr. Fritsch fascinatingly presented the subject that covered more than thirty centuries and showed from the statements of eminent leaders of their days what the effect of translations of the Bible had been on various nations which had made and adopted them.

PROTECTING The Athletes

FOOTBALL PLAYERS are young and sturdy, yet the coach's first thought is for their protection—including headguard, shoulder pads and padded togs.

Another protection that students should have is Lutheran Brotherhood life insurance. Being young and healthy entitles you to low rates—which never increase (fixed by contract). And you can make your parents beneficiaries.

Write now, giving your age, and learn from us the low cost of student protection.

Times have Changed

Last year the freshmen were required to carry matches in order to provide the upper classmen with the necessary light. But this year, 1932, things are different—very different. The greenies ask the members of the Freshman Tribunal for matches. 'S a Fact. The incident occurred down town last week. The representative of that august body, the Tribunal, stopped several passers-by and procured a match for the freshman. Yes, indeed, the old place isn't what it used to be.

A Muhlenberg Senator?

Lawrence Rupp, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator and a Muhlenberg graduate, is conceded an excellent opportunity of winning. The recent mistrial of Senator Davis in connection with the Moose lotteries seems to have strengthened the chances of the Allentown man. Well, here's luck. Incidentally, Lawrence Rupp, Jr., is a member of the Junior class and the A. T. O. fraternity.

The Rev. Frederick C. PRESENTING

Dr. Henry R. Mueller

Dr. Mueller was born on July 21, 1887 at Marietta, Pennsylvania. He attended the Marietta public schools and later entered Lancaster High School. Upon completing his work at high school, he enrolled at Muhlenberg College and graduated in 1909 with an A. B. degree. Immediately after securing his diploma, he began his teaching career at Sedgwick Institute, and after a year at that school, he accepted a position on the faculty of Allentown Preparatory School. After four years service at the local preparatory school, Dr. Mueller enrolled as a graduate student at Columbia University. He received his M.A. degree in 1914 and was given a scholarship for 1915-1916 and a fellowship for 1916-1917.

During the war period Dr. Mueller saw service in the field artillery corps. In 1919 he resumed his studies at the Sorbonne in Paris. Before coming to Muhlenberg in 1920, Dr. Mueller taught for a short time at Carleton College in Northfield, Minnesota. In 1922 he received his doctor's degree from Columbia and was elected professor of History at Muhlenberg.

Although we definitely know Dr. Mueller's vocation, there is some controversy as to his avocation. Some students believe that his pet hobby is to discuss an issue and then refuse to draw a conclusion, leaving the matter, so to speak, hanging in the air. Incidentally conclusions sometimes are disputable.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

Mr. Henshaw, vice-president of the Social Science Club spoke on "A Survey of Current Events during the Summer", at a meeting of the Club in Room 103 of the Administration Building on Monday, October 17, at 7:30 P. His address embraced the seizure of the Catholic Church in Spain, the pending disarmament parley, the proposed changes in the German constitution, the Literary Digest Straw Vote, and the plight of the Flying Hutchinsons.

Mr. Krapf, the president of this growing organization, will speak on "The Platforms of the various Political Parties" at the next meeting, to be held on Tuesday, November 1.

Dr. Robert R. Fritsch was the guest speaker at an elaborate Rally Day program on Sunday morning, October 9, in Zion United Brethren Sunday-school in Allentown.

ALL THIS POLITICAL TALK, which since the opening of college has occupied the time of more bull sessions than any other single topic, had to come to a head sometime. We knew it. It couldn't be otherwise. And so, to climax matters, the freshmen and sophomores got together the other night and held an old fashioned ball—a political ball with the campus politicians whooping it up and having a grand time talking things over with a bevy of beautiful, yes they were beautiful, suffragettes.

The Teetotal ticket fought the Burp ticket and while they teetotaled they also burped. Figure it out for yourself. Dry S. Punk and Coyle N. Still may battle it out over at Schmitt's political arena one of these days. And if H. Edward Kroos is Dry S. Punk, which we don't believe, and Davy Smith is Coyle N. Still, which we won't comment about, we believe the Teetotals will win.

But it was a dandy dance. A clean dance. The kind of a tradition that will do much toward creating a real spirit on the campus. Hop to it and let's have some more hops.

OPERATIVE 13 sneaked into our sanctum the other day and reported that a certain quite respectable and sophisticated hostelry, patronized by no one but the best, to avoid all criticism had taken to serving NEAR beer in green bottles labeled "Ginger Ale Supreme." Now can you imagine Herbie Frankfort ordering ginger ale and getting "Ginger Ale Supreme"? Neither can we.

It's a lot of fun to write a column. You hear a lot of good inside stories. We wish we could publish all of them. If we did we'd leave Muhlenberg, by request of the faculty, exactly five minutes after the Weekly appeared.

But here's a good clean one. Scene, Taylor Field, Easton. Time, each quarter of the Colgate-Lafayette game. Characters, Dr. and Mrs. John Calvin Keller, the former a graduate of Colgate.

Dr. Keller: (repeating it every two minutes), "Come on Muhlenberg. Go get 'em Muhlenberg."

Mrs. Keller: (just as often): "Careful dear, you're rooting for Colgate."

SO GREAT CONFIDENCE does Dr. Haas have in the outcome of the election that he plans to retire at the usual time on November 8 and get up at the usual time November 9 and find that his friend "Herbie" has won hands down.

From Our Readers

It is wrong to imagine that aesthetic appreciation exists in any greater degree on the college campus than in the Arbogast and Bastian section of the town. Looking at it sensibly the people who live their lives in the shadow of the huge gas tank have some excuse for failing to see anything like beauty. But bring to the Muhlenberg campus the entire foreign element of the Allentown slums—put them into the College Chapel, and they would be awed into silence by the majesty of the building's proportions! Strike one mighty chord on the powerful bass register of the organ, and they would be hushed!

But the Student Body of the college has been trained not to react that way. That is the beauty of being a college man! Students can sit in a beautiful Gothic structure without the least reaction. The Junior Prom committee can discuss Guy Lombardo and Isham Jones during a rendering of "A Japanese Sunset"! They can put a Skinner organ to shame with the volume of their discussion! Oh to be a College Man!

But may we very gently remind this suave group of Babbits that there are those lesser ones—very much in minority, of course—who actually enjoy listening to an uninterrupted program of organ music. Just a very few of us find the daily round of college formalities rather nerve-wracking, and look forward to that twenty minutes of music every week as a sort of relaxation from these formalities.

It is certainly asking too much of the student body if we request them to appreciate the music. But we would be very happy if they would at least rise to the level of those people who have never been trained to be blasé—those people who dwell in the meat-packing and speak-easy sections of the town—and be quiet.

THEN THERE'S THE ONE they tell about the Democrats who stole the small square cards bearing the pictures of Hoover and the legend, "This is a Hoover Home," and tacked them on all houses with sheriff sale, for rent or for sale signs on them. Mr. Bernheim says that's a swell idea. Anyway it is a good Halloween prank. Now is that a suggestion? If not, why not?

OUT WEST, hitchhiking students have a new way of getting a lift. They stop a passing motorist and say "If you don't take us along we'll vote for Hoover." Only two of 19,867 students have failed to get the lift.

Muhlenberg Has More Students Than Ever Despite Depression

Lutherans, Teachers, and Pennsylvanians Are In Majority

Four hundred and fifty-six students are enrolled at Muhlenberg College, an increase of four over last year, according to the report just released by Harry A. Benfer, registrar. This statement shows that Muhlenberg is one of the few colleges that have made advances in this period of economic difficulty, and is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that no athletic scholarships, or subsidies for athletes are given out by this institution.

Most of students come from Pennsylvania, with New Jersey and New York following in the order named. Two students are from Japan, one from California, and another from the Virgin Islands.

Teaching is the chosen profession of the vast majority, with the Ministry and Medicine running practically even for second place. One enterprising freshman intends to be an undertaker, and in answer to the question of what course he desired on entrance, replied, "a pre-undertaker course."

Lutherans are overwhelmingly in the lead of the denominations represented, with nearly half of the students in this classification. Fourteen other religious classifications are represented, and twenty-two have no choice.

The B.S. course is the most popular, with the Ph.B. and A.B. courses following in the order given.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA HOLDS COSTUME DANCE

A very successful Hallowe'en Dance was sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa in the Library on Monday evening, October 31, 1932. The gayly costumed couples danced from nine to twelve o'clock to the rhythm of George Duddy's Clown Band of Bethlehem. The entire faculty was invited as guests.

True to the spirit of the season the floor was decorated with corn stalks and orange and black ribbons, bats, cats and witches. In keeping with this spirit the traditional cider and pretzels were served at intermission.

Following is the committee which had charge of the dance: Donald Schlotter, chairman; Ray Heist; and Samuel Shimer.

"Haps" Benfer, genial registrar of the college, greatly aided the committee in its work.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN INITIATES THIRTY-FIVE

Max Montor Will Present Faust—Part I

Thirty-five men were initiated into Der Deutsche Verein Monday, October 24, at 7 P. M., in the College Commons. The new men joined with the old members in singing German songs, and in enjoying German jokes and readings. In the business period plans were laid to produce German plays, organize a German band, and choruses.

The return of Max Montor to Muhlenberg, was announced and the members urged to hear his rendition of Goethe's "Faust", part one. The Lehigh Saegerbund at the same time will sing German songs, Thursday, November 3, at 8 P. M. in the Science Auditorium. Max Montor, it was decided, would be the guest of the club.

A report on the Goethe film enterprise was received, the meeting adjourning with a tasty sauer-kraut supper.

First Of Lectures Is Given By Dr. Haas

College President Speaks On "Christian Evidences"

Dr. John A. W. Haas delivered the first of his lectures on "Christian Evidences" on Thursday morning, October 27, in the science auditorium before an audience of students and distinguished leaders in the cultural life of the community.

His lecture, "The Spiritual and Material" was the first to be delivered on the basis of the Wilson M. Rehrig Foundation. Dr. Haas in introducing his lecture recalled some of the text books on Christianity used in the latter part of the nineteenth century in the various colleges. Petrie's "Christian Evidences" was the chief text book and another widely read book, although never adopted as a college text book, was "Proof from Nature of God."

In opening his lecture the college president carefully explained the terms spiritual and material from both the religious and the philosophical viewpoints and then contrasted the two as to their influence on the life and society of man.

"Christianity," he said, "is the only religion that is strictly personal, as in direct contrast with the other types of religion prevalent today. This is also in contrast with the theory of matter which does away with the personal viewpoint, and makes one merely an object end instead of the subjective."

Dr. Haas showed how Christianity, unlike the other religions does not deny the existence of any material value today. Even Christ and his disciples placed a high value on the body as is shown in the petition for bread in The Lord's Prayer. But their belief was not as strong as the pagan belief that the body is the prison of the soul.

"The practical materialist," he said, "who is without a spiritual truth, comfort and hope, is constantly deceiving himself and forever chasing after a will-o-the-wisp which he never catches. What is true of the material life is even more true in the large complex of social life. The dominance of the economic motive and pursuit has not produced a happy society nor a world at peace."

"The new social order which the world needs is not one of the material interest with chief emphasis upon machinery, industry, commerce and trade, but a new social order with the emphasis upon spiritual needs," Dr. Haas concluded.

The next lecture of the series will be presented this Thursday morning, November 3, and will be based on the subject, "The Ethical and The Customary."

WORK OF ALUMNUS IN MISSION FIELD WINS RECOGNITION

Dr. C. Luther Frey, '16, a graduate of Muhlenberg College, was cited as having been one of those men who was instrumental in the securing of data for the article, "The Missionary Enterprise," published in a recent issue of the Literary Digest.

Groups of research workers were sent out to China, Japan, India and Africa. Dr. Frey headed the groups that investigated conditions in India. After two years of research work an analysis was made of the findings of the different groups, and the following conclusions drawn: The missionary enterprise is at the crossroad of destiny. Christianity must no longer quarrel with the great religions of the East, but must make a cause with them against a common foe.

While at Muhlenberg Dr. Frey was enrolled in the A.B. course. He was active in sports and other extra-curricular work. Prior to entering Muhlenberg he studied at Allentown Prep. Dr. Frey is a member of the A. T. O. fraternity.

Frosh Win Majority Of Contests and May Now Use Back Steps

Sophomores Walk Away From Pole Battle in Disgust After Seeing Pennant

The frosh won the right to use the back steps of the Administration building last Wednesday afternoon by a default.

The contest was to be held at a spot that is dear to the hearts of the grads of 1868-1917, known to us as the grove.

Perhaps we are correct in drawing the conclusion that the sophs considered it beneath their dignity to fight for the right to climb a tree in order to retrieve a "Philadelphia Girls' High School" pennant. It would be a great catastrophe, you know, to have our "sisters on the hill" find out that the boys from Muhlenberg were resorting to tree climbing as a means of showing their affection for girls' schools.

Whatever the reason may be, it was very evident that as soon as the representative of the Student Council showed the pennant that was to be placed at the top of one of the trees the sophomores began to fade slowly into the background. When the clock struck the fatal hour nary a "wise fool" could be seen on the campus. Here and there, sprinkled like daisies, among the trees could be seen a freshman or two. Because there were at least some of the yearlings present the Council Representative pronounced the freshmen victorious.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION ENROLLMENT IS LARGE

The latest statistics concerning the School of Education, under the direction of Dr. I. M. Wright, show that at this time there is a total of six hundred-seventy-seven students enrolled, five hundred seventeen women, and one-hundred-sixty men.

Two men and twenty-one women are from Freeland, fifteen men and one hundred-twenty-five women from Hazleton, nineteen men and forty-nine women from Lehigh, and one hundred twenty-four men, and three hundred twenty-two women from Allentown.

THE AMERICAN STUDENT

It is rumored that a senatorial investigation of seditious activities in our colleges and universities is eminent. For the sake of the senatorial peace of mind we wish to assure the senators that their fears are groundless. Not a single red flag has been waved on our campuses; our students are too busy discussing football to debate the merits of Marxism, and in general, peace and smugness reign in our halls of learning. Here and there a lonely soul raises his voice in protest, but few listen to him.

The reasons why there is little or no radicalism in our colleges are few and obvious. In the first place, the bulk of American students has never been, as is the case in Europe, composed of impecunious young men, nor, until recently, have we had a large body of unemployed and dissatisfied intellectuals. Most of our students have come from upper middle class homes; few of them have known the bitter taste of poverty, and as a result they either do not sympathize with or do not comprehend the lot of the under-dog. Strange to say, the youth of America is even more conservative than its elders, if recent college straw polls are any indication. This economic aspect of the question is probably the most important one.

In the second place we have no real radical tradition. We have had no Mazzinis, Garibaldis, Herzens or Marats to inspire idealism in our youth. We had only one revolution, and a dull stodgy revolution it was. It was not very popular; its activity never evoked enthusiasm among the masses. And somehow the historians have managed to make Jefferson, Paine and Franklin a group of staid and respectable statesmen instead of the fire-breathing radicals that they were.

Finally, the American student is decidedly not a political creature. He simply doesn't care. If you quiz him, you'll probably find that he has no political convictions at all. He ambles gaily through four years of college, letting papa foot the bill; and if financial catastrophe does overtake him he can only wonder dimly conceiving its causes and vote for Hoover.

He studies economics, political science and a host of related subjects, and yet knows nothing of the causes of depressions, unemployment and poverty. To use a happy phrase, he is an "economic illiterate." He has no keen feeling of social injustice. He firmly believes that what was good enough for his father is good enough for him.

I have made the picture very dark, perhaps too dark. There are certain encouraging aspects of the college

Intramural Debate Schedule Is Released

Competition Will Begin Early in December

A tentative schedule for intra-mural debates was recently released by Donald V. Hock, Coach of Freshman Debating at Muhlenberg College. John R. Brokhoff, '35, Student Manager, will assist Coach Hock.

The schedule, which is subject to change, follows:

Friday, December 2—Preliminaries (ten teams competing).

Friday, December 9—Quarter-finals (four teams competing).

Friday, December 16—Semi-finals (two teams competing).

Friday, January 6—Finals (two teams competing).

The Rules concerning these debates are as follows:

1. As far as possible, Freshmen only will be allowed to participate. Where exceptions are made due to lack of Freshmen for debate work, Sophomores, not members of the Varsity, may enter following the decision of the Coach.

2. Each team will consist of two (2) men.

3. Time of speeches will be five (5) minutes for the main speeches, and three (3) for the rebuttal speeches. Each side will be allowed one rebuttal only.

4. No one question will be used in more than one contest.

5. Neutral and efficient judges will be employed; men and women with a knowledge of forensics.

6. In the preliminaries not only wins, but percentages will be recorded. The team receiving the highest percentages will thereupon become a contender in the "Finals" against the team winning in the quarter and semi-finals. This highest scoring team will be given credit for wins in the intervening rounds. The point system to be used in these contests in crediting teams for wins and ventures will be announced at a later date.

The first meeting of Freshman debaters regarding these intra-murals was held Friday, October 28, in room 109. Coach Hock stressed the point that all Freshmen are eligible regardless of any affiliation with the Freshman Debate Squad.

Muhlenberg Is Given A 25 To 6 Defeat By Lehigh Team In Traditional Struggle

IMPORTANT MEETING

There will be a very important meeting of the junior and senior classes in the old chapel room immediately after the regular assembly program on Thursday morning, November 3.

Plans for holding a formal dance sponsored jointly by these two classes in order to diminish the financial burden on the students will be discussed. It is to the interest of every person wishing to have his class dues cut in half to attend.

This combination dance will not establish a precedent for following years, but will serve as an aid in combating the prevalent economic difficulties.

Muhlenberg And F. & M. Will Clash Saturday

Keen rivalry will be displayed next Saturday afternoon when Coach George R. Holstrom's proteges encounter the "Lancaster Roses" in their seventeenth annual football conflict to be staged on Williamson Field in Lancaster. The Muhlenberg Franklin and Marshall football classic is always looked upon with a great deal of enthusiasm, the rivalry being exceedingly great, especially between the faculties and older alumni of the two institutions.

Last season a powerful, smooth-working "Possum" eleven overwhelmed the battered "Cardinal and Gray" forces by the score of 40 to 13. The star of the game was Britton, 200 pound F. and M. fullback, who made three touchdowns, reeled off long runs through the line, and made a sensational sixty-yard end run for a touchdown at the opening of the third quarter. "Bill" Horine, "Major" Majercik and "Fritz" Wavrek played a nice game for the Holstromites, but Coach "Bill" Holman's boys completely outplayed the "Muhls" from start to finish, except for brief spurts in the third and fourth quarters when Horine and Majercik each made a touchdown.

The "Cardinal and Gray" has not been victorious over an F. and M. eleven for the past three seasons, although in their last appearance in Lancaster they held the home team to a scoreless tie. From all appearances this year's game will be especially interesting as the 'Bergmen are set upon an attempted comeback.

Both F. and M. and Muhlenberg have already played Ursinus, last season's Conference champions, this

MEDICAL CLUB HEARS INTERESTING LECTURE BY HEAD SPECIALIST

Dr. W. H. Chase, M.D., prominent ear and throat specialist of Bethlehem, Pa., addressed the members of the Pre-Medical Society, Thursday evening, October 27. Dr. Chase opened his lecture with the reading and discussion of a paper from the Journal of the American Medical Association, dealing with the economic position of medical men and the increase of charity service.

With the aid of a plaster skull, the lecturer clarified the functions of the cerebral organ. He stressed the vital importance of thorough and accurate diagnosis, which often determines the life of the patient. Dr. Chase concluded with a discussion of the types of men who enter the medical profession. Statistics demonstrate that the average student, not the brilliant savant makes the best physician.

The meeting was adjourned; whereupon refreshments were served by Dr. J. V. Shankweiler, head of the Biology Department.

Long Runs by Halsted and Short Cause of Holstromites' Defeat

'BERG HAS TWELVE FIRST DOWNS TO SEVEN FOR LEHIGH

Coach Holstrom's Muhlenberg Mules were given a decisive 25 to 6 trouncing by Austin Tate's inspired Lehigh Engineers in the annual classic of the Lehigh Valley at Taylor stadium, Bethlehem, last Saturday afternoon before a crowd of seven thousand persons. Although consistently outplayed by the Muhlenberg squad, as a total of twelve first downs for the losers in comparison to the seven gained by the winners indicates, long runs by Halsted and Short for touchdowns enabled the Bethlehemites to send the Cardinal and Gray team home to Allentown on the disgraceful side of a lop-sided score.

Frequent fumbles, inferior kicking, penalties, and a regrettable tendency of the secondary defense to stand flatfootedly watching the Lehigh ball carrier trot down the field for a touchdown, were responsible for the Muhlenberg defeat.

Short took a long pass from Halsted and trotted the few yards necessary to make the first Lehigh score late in the first quarter. Halsted made the extra point by placement. The lone Muhlenberg touchdown was made in the third quarter by Weiner, who went thru the line for the score after he and Lepore had carried the ball to within inches of the goal stripe. Weiner's drop kick was blocked. Halsted broke loose for a beautiful sixty yard run for a touchdown later in the third quarter, this run was the sensation of the game.

Short, in turn went wide around end, through the entire Muhlenberg secondary defense for the third Lehigh touchdown in the final period, and a short time later Reidy went around end from the three yard marker for the final score in the field meet.

Muhlenberg let loose with a desperate series of passes in the final minutes, but penalties prevented a score,

LOWER CLASSMEN FIND DEFICIT AFTER DANCE

Social Success Is A Financial Flop

The sophomore and freshman classes of Muhlenberg College held a joint meeting in the Science Auditorium Thursday, October 28, 1932. John Gosztoni, president of the sophomore class presided.

Robert Stimson, chairman of the committee governing the dance, gave a cheerful report concerning the social success of the Frosh-Soph Hop held in the Library, Friday, October 21. He also reported with regret the utter lack of support of the members of both classes, resulting in a financial failure which will be borne by both classes.

The meeting was closed with an appeal to the members for support and interest.

BOOK BY AN ALUMNUS RECENTLY PUBLISHED

"Roger Williams: New England Firebrand" by James Ernst, '18, recently published by McMillan & Co., was well received in literary and historical circles. The author has made a careful study of organized documents in the British Museum and elsewhere, and presents a vivid picture of Roger Williams, with his strong conviction, his fiery enthusiasm, his vision and his tolerant spirit.

Mr. Ernst was active in campus affairs while at Muhlenberg, being an ardent devotee of sports. He also ranked well in scholastic endeavors.

Chapel Three Times Per Week

"In response to the request of several of the students, chapel attendance will be required three times a week." That notice was called to our attention on the average of four times a day by friends anxious to supply us with editorial subject matter. In view of the tremendous importance of the affair, and the interest shown by our fellow sufferers—as is attested by the fact that the notice is already smudged with finger marks, frayed at the corners, and deeply engraved by countless quivering thumb nails that underlined the words for students unable to believe their eyes, we resolved to do something about it.

This is what we did. We made a list of zealous chapel attenders, and we went after them—tracking them down and suddenly advancing upon them in their native haunts, we shot this question at them when they were least expecting it: "Are you the person that made the suggestion to increase chapel attendance requirements?" With unholy zeal we watched for a quivering lip, a blush, or a downcast eye. What were the results? Nil. Not a one of these zealous chapel attenders admitted his guilt, and we could find no indications of falsehood on the part of any.

Here are the replies of several of the more prominent zealous chapel attenders. Gordon B. Fister, "I thoroughly resent this question put to me, a man of spotless character, and a man with a glorious record of unwavering service to the students of Muhlenberg." Benjamin H. Keen, "Although I attend with great pleasure all chapel programs, I would never force others to attend more often than they wish—that would be in keeping with the iron dictatorship of such an autocratic government as Russia, and I am totally out of sympathy with it." H. Edward Krooss, "I think it is a fine idea, but I wouldn't have taken the effort to make the suggestion." These, gentlemen, are merely samples of the replies your editor received.

Herbert Frankfort, in an exclusive interview, stated, "Why does any one think I made the suggestion? I believe that it was made by several enemies of the Lutheran Students Association, who wanted us to work harder on checking attendance."

The editor is doing all that he can, prowling about far into the night, confronting students with the question, and eagerly watching for the all-revealing blush, or eyeshift, or hand tremble that will tell him that success is his, and that the guilty man is found. When the glorious day of success arrives, the picture of the guilty man will appear in The Weekly. The editor's work will be done, and it will be your duty to hand out the punishment, or the reward—you decide.

Until that day then, bear with us, if you hear footsteps in the Dorms late at night, if you see a pallid face peering in the window, if you stumble over a person crouched in a dark hall, don't shoot, don't throw anything—remember, it is only your editor trying to do right by the students in discovering the villain who has done wrong by you.

—C. H. P.

We Favor the Proposed Economies

The Weekly is strongly in favor of the suggested plan of combining the Senior Ball and the Junior Prom into one affair, thereby decreasing the assessment of each class by half, and insuring a financial as well as a social success. At this time when parents are making tremendous sacrifices to make it possible for their children to obtain a college education, it is not only desirable, but absolutely essential that we do our part in diminishing their burden.

It is up to us as college men to show that our education has at least developed within us a sense of justice. There is of course a small minority of the students who are fully able to afford many social functions. In the past it has been this minority that has led the rest of the student body into staging large, brilliant functions. We will not judge this group, however, on its past record, we shall wait and see whether they will cooperate with the majority this year.

Let us make our sacrifice now, not with a sense of self-denial, but with happiness in doing our share at a time when millions are in need. Let those who have a surplus of money give it to one of the many agencies that are serving the community.

LIBRARY NOTES

Obscure Destinies by Willa Cather, (N. Y. Knopf, 1932). Reviewed by Prof. Stephen G. Simpson.

This year I have encountered some readers who find, or say that they find, the works of Willa Cather dull and slow-moving. For such readers her latest book, "Obscure Destinies", is further basis for their opinion. No continuous outline, but three long stories; no sex conflicts, murders, or political intrigues; how can such a book please an admirer of "Sanctuary" or "Thirteen Men"?

On my book-shelves "Obscure Destinies" will stand on the same shelf with "O Pioneers!", "My Antonia", "Death comes for the Archbishop", and "Shadows on the Rock." It has the same simplicity and sincerity, the same unobtrusive fineness of workmanship, the same lesson that "All the dull least common things Have singing hearts and beating wings".

These virtues are all the more apparent because of the absence of suspense and surprise and coincidence and the usual tricks of novel-writers.

At the age of eight Willa Cather was taken from Virginia to a ranch in Nebraska. The new land fascinated the girl, "a tomboy with obstinate blue eyes and shingled brown hair". Her days were spent roaming the prairie, riding her pony over the rough red grass of the Divide for twelve miles to get the mail for her family and the other settlers. She played with the children of the other settlers, Scandinavian, Bohemian, German, French or Russian. She was acquainted with their mothers, and saw them at their foreign ways of cooking and baking, and learned of their old country lives. She regards among her closest friends those whom she knew in childhood in the West.

Out of such experiences have come the stories in "Obscure Destinies". Only out of loving memories could have come these pictures of everyday life and common people.

"Neighbor Rosicky" is the story of the last days of a Bohemian farmer, whose obedient, loving family consists of five sons and a daughter. His oldest son has married an American girl who had been a shop girl and Rosicky's only worry is the fear that his daughter will grow discontented with farm life and want to live in Omaha. Having worked in a sweat shop in London and lived in the slums of New York, the old man knows what city life is like. Warned by the physician that he has serious heart trouble and must do no hard work, he nevertheless takes out the horse-rake one day to gather up the weeds in one of the fields of his son. Taken with a serious attack he is nursed in his son's home by his daughter-in-law, sees her fine qualities, learns the secret that no one else has been told, and dies with his one worry erased. His burial place is in no artificial city of the dead but in the open country where the fields that he loved and the labors that he knew speak of life, not of death.

Miss Cather tells his life in a short story not because she does not know enough of it to make a novel, but because she is able in 68 pages to give us all that another writer would spread over 250 pages, Rosicky's boyhood in London, His youth in New York, carelessness and dissipated, and then his resolution to accustom the tender, pale hands of a tailor to the plough, to get back to the land. Miss Cather can make the hands of a Bohemian farmer more expressive than are the dazzling eyes, the swan like neck, etc., etc., of the character of lesser fiction.

The second story, "Old Mrs. Harris", is told in the same simple way with no sensational climax, with a succession of every day incidents minutely and sympathetically narrated, and with a rich background of previous history suggested by the reminiscences of the grandmother. The grandmother, hardly more noted by the family than a familiar piece of furniture, passes away, but will not her daughter some day fade likewise into the background?

Miss Cather's fame rests on a foundation of accurate knowledge, careful workmanship, keen feeling for beauty in scene and in character, and a sane philosophy of art, which excludes propaganda, and knows that "Beauty is its own excuse for being."

SOMETHING

Something spoke on that long night ago

Of our first meeting. Was it from the skies;
Or was it sleeping in the candle glow
And awakened at the flashing of your eyes?
Was it my destiny to recognize,
In you, a thing my heart was waiting for;
Or was it just a wind grown whisper-wise
To dreamers and to poets—nothing more?

'Twas gentle like the touch of butterfly;
'Twas subtle like the first, shy feel of Spring.
And, moth-like, as upon a broken wing,
This presence moved and struggled to arise.
Out of the trees it came and seemed to sing,
"Tomorrow thou art going to love this thing."

PUSHBALL

Among the more uncivilized on college campus the ancient game of pushball appears regularly. It had its annual occurrence at Muhlenberg early in the month of October, much to the delight of about fifty underclassmen. The game itself was, to all appearances, nurtured on the milk of the French Revolution and the spirit of the time, being played for the first at some point during the storming of the Bastille.

In answer to the call of the bulletin board the respective classes wandered on the football field one warm muggy afternoon. The Sophs appeared confident at first, but, intimidated by the looks of the Frosh, thought better, and drafted the Sophomore varsity football men. With this last-minute strategy the game began.

The Frosh were momentarily dazzled by a spectacular fifty yard run for a Sophomore score. However, bolstered by a fresh contingent of football men, the gentleman in the dinks pushed across two scores. That one point lead looked big to the second year men and they visualized their "prestige" floating away with the wind and a big white balloon. With the last few minutes of play waning, the Sophs used sheer force to tie up the score. Thus, the scheduled game ended, necessitating one, two, three, extra periods. Then the referee changed his "kickoff" rule in order that he, at least, wouldn't get smothered in the rush. Perhaps aided by this, the Sophs unleashed the big "push" and, using everything but hidden ball tactics, squeezed the deciding count over the line.

The Freshman consolation was voiced in "Wait 'til next year", but that was that.

—Ernest Seegers, '36.

CLASS FIGHTS

Recently, in colleges and universities all over the country, has arisen the problem of what to do about inter-class antagonism, in general; and, inter-class fights in particular. Formerly, the attitude of the sophomore class towards the freshmen had been such that it had become necessary for the faculty to issue warnings against "unnecessary roughness" to protect the poor frosh. Now, however, the practice of hazing seems to be dying a natural death for no apparent reason.

No longer does the sight of a freshman arouse stirrings of seeming anger in the hearts of the sophomores. Rather, the sight of a freshman seems to arouse a musing in the minds of the upperclassmen.

We have an excellent example of this on our own campus. The sophomore class went "broke" and then saw coming upon the campus the freshmen. Instead of razzing the "dumb frosh" every moment of their time, to the delight of the frosh they rather took things easy. The reason for this was soon forthcoming and as a result we had the Frosh-Soph Dance. It was too bad that after such an effort the dance went "in the red."

But this is merely an example of the change. Instead of having two brothers fighting all the time and scrapping, we have more a semblance of friends. Friends as long as they can use each other. Would things have been the same if the dance had not been planned? Possibly so.

But all this is merely to prove the lack of antagonism between the classes whether or not there is an ulterior motive. This peacefulness was shown in the class fights. At the banner fight or pole fight, whichever you wish to call it, the sophomores were particularly noticeable by their absence.

So the faculties are wondering what to do about it. If they order the class fights discontinued there will undoubtedly be a great outcry from the students who think their privileges are impaired. Yet these same students would not even go near such an affair. So we want to know:—What to do?

—Bertram Reese, Jr., '36

CULTURE AND WORSHIP

With a great deal of regret I read the letter of Messrs. Smith and Hemmerly in the last issue of Weekly. It seems impossible that there could be men at College so impervious to duty and to the harmony of fine music, that they fail to appreciate the great opportunity which is offered them. A Liberal Arts College is no place for men who have no cultural desire. Culture means the development of a taste for fine things in art. It is not a bread-winning taste, but one which will bring constant joy in the whole life of a person. The realist who has no sense for beauty is as bad as the man who has no eyes to see the world about him.

The man of culture also appreciates worship. In it man lifts himself beyond his surroundings and has communion with God. A worshipful man can worship anywhere. I have had occasion to worship in a beautiful service of the Roman Catholic Church, and I have been edified in a synagogue. A broad minded man finds God not only in nature but through beauty.

Our Chapel with its pure lines and its art windows of the highest type, its magnificent carvings, and its unsurpassed organ, is appreciated by many plain people. The College feels that men who have no sense of these fine things belong where they do not exist. Muhlenberg does not want any students who are mere grubbers after some knowledge, and mere workers for a diploma, but it wants men who in addition to mind have a soul for the best and highest things in life. This age demands no mere men given to utility, but men of large calibre, who can only be leaders if they have a full and rounded grasp of all that life offers. When knowledge fails duty still exists. When intellect is at sea there is still hope and strength in worship.

Herbert E. Frankfort has been appointed Director of the Recreation Hall by Henry L. Lubben, president of the Muhlenberg Christian Association. All Preparatory School students and outsiders will hereafter not be allowed in the Recreation Hall. It is hoped that the students will cooperate in making the "Rec" Hall as fine a student center as possible.

although Rogers went out of bounds on the Lehigh ten yard line after receiving a perfect pass from Weiner as the game ended.

The Holstromites were favored by many to win, and although they were admittedly the better team, they lacked the vital something or other that wins games. For this reason no one is doing any betting on the outcome of the Franklin and Marshall contest, important in the race for conference honors, since although Muhlenberg should win if functioning perfectly, past performances do not give too much promise of this.

The play by periods:

First Quarter

Muhlenberg won the toss and elected to kick. Weiner kicked to Koch who ran from his ten to the twenty five yard stripe. Halsted gained one yard thru tackle. Polk fumbled but recovered for a loss of five yards. Halsted punted out of bounds on the 'Berg forty six yard line. Padolin gained three yards around end. Wavrek crashed thru left tackle for six yards. Weiner dashed thru for five yards, but Muhlenberg was given a fifteen yard penalty for holding. Bloom dropped back and punted to Polk who was tackled by Miller on the sixteen yard line. Halsted went back in kick formation but Short ran thru guard for one yard. Polk was stopped at the line on an end run. Halsted punted from his ten yard line to Weiner who advanced from his forty to Lehigh's forty yard line. Padolin slipped through for two yards. Evanovsky threw a pretty pass to Deitrich who let it slip from his hands. Evanovsky threw a pass far over Weiner's head. There was a five yard penalty for Muhlenberg. Lehigh was given a five yard penalty for offside. Weiner punted from midfield to Short, who fumbled, but recovered. Halsted punted to Weiner who again advanced from his forty to the forty yard Lehigh line. Wavrek was stopped after a gain of two yards. Evanovsky passed to Martin who left the ball bounce into Short's hands. Polk earned one yard off tackle. On a triple reverse Halsted carried the ball four yards. Halsted punted over the goal line. Evanovsky made two yards thru center. Weiner, from punt formation, ran around end for six yards. Bloom punted to Polk who was tackled by Deitrich on the thirty one yard line. Polk was stopped after a two yard gain at center. Short ran into a brick wall at the line. Halsted punted to Weiner who twisted thru to his thirty yard line from his ten yard stripe. Time out for Lehigh. Evanovsky fumbled at the line and Kight recovered for Lehigh. Short broke thru tackle and was tackled by Deitrich after a gain of six yards. Polk was tossed for a one yard loss by Keebler. Halsted went thru guard for four yards. Polk's pass was batted down by Weiner. Muhlenberg's ball on their twenty three yard line. Weiner broke loose off right tackle for five yards. Padolin twisted his way thru for six yards and a first down. Weiner made a yard at center as the quarter ended. Score: Lehigh, 0; Muhlenberg, 0.

Second Quarter

Evanovsky crashed thru center for seven yards. Weiner dashed around end for four yards and a first down. Zamites was thrown for a loss of two yards. Zamites gained three yards around end. Muhlenberg called time out, as Keebler was injured. Keebler stayed in. Miller made a poor punt out of bounds at midfield. Halsted gained one yard at center. Polk picked his way thru a hole at guard for two yards. Halsted punted to Evanovsky who again fumbled and Lehigh recovered on the 'Berg twenty one yard line. Short broke thru and was on his way for a touchdown but fell after a gain of nine yards. Halsted went off guard for two yards and a first down. Reidy was tossed for a five yard loss on an end run. Deitrich broke thru and dropped Short for a ten yard loss. Halsted tossed a pass into the hands of Deitrich who was dropped on his twenty yard line. Wilkinson fumbled but recovered for a two yard gain. Wilkinson dashed thru but again fumbled and Lehigh recovered. Reidy gained five yards on a center rush. Reidy was stopped for a one yard loss. Reidy earned two yards at center. Short broke loose for a first down on the seven yard line. Halsted gained three yards off tackle. Short plunged thru for one yard. Time out for Muhlenberg. The Lehigh stands were yelling for a touchdown, and it looked as tho they were due to get it with only three yards to go. Short went off tackle for two yards. Halsted was stopped dead at the line by a determined Muhlenberg forward wall. Bloom punted to the twenty-five yard line. Martin tackled Short for a one yard loss. Halsted threw a beautiful pass to Short who trotted unmolested for a touchdown. Halsted place kicked the extra point. Score: Lehigh, 7; Muhlenberg, 0.

LONG AND DIFFICULT BASKETBALL SEASON FOR MUHLENBERG TEAM

Muhlenberg will enter into one of the most intensive basketball seasons in the history of the college, according to the 1933 schedule released recently by Guernsey F. Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics. Twenty games have been scheduled with teams from prominent colleges and universities in the Eastern part of the United States.

In the following schedule five new opponents have been added—namely, St. Thomas, Stroudsburg State Teachers' College, Moravian, Villanova, and Rutgers. On the other hand four of last season's opponents have been dropped—namely, Mount Airy, Long Island University, Pratt and Montclair A. C.

The last Muhlenberg court season was not what we might call a huge success from the standpoint of games won and lost. The team came thru with four victories and fifteen defeats.

Although the varsity has lost two of its stars by the graduation of "Stan" Carney and "Pogey" O'Brien, a good nucleus of varsity lettermen remain, including "Bill" Nixon, leading Muhlenberg scorer of last season, "Bill" Horine, "Eddie" Judt, Leon Rosenberg, "Joe" Matuska, "Reds" Weiner, and Edgar Steckel. In addition Coach George R. Holstrom has a group of potential varsity players from last year's Freshman team that won four of its seven scheduled contests. Included in this group are Gene Lepore, George Saul, "Beans" Dietrich, Roger Rohn, "Joe" Rodgers, "Jimmy" Voccaro, "Joe" Zamites, "Freddie" Blank and "Joe" Skrovanek.

The Muhlenberg College basketball schedule for the 1933 season is as follows:

Dec. 9—St. Thomas, at Scranton.
Dec. 10—Stroudsburg State Teachers' College, at Stroudsburg.
Jan. 4—Moravian, at Allentown.
Jan. 6—Franklin and Marshall, at Lancaster.

Weiner's pass to Sterner was far short. Horine went in for Wavrek. Weiner's pass was intercepted by Allison on the Lehigh forty three yard line. Lehigh received a five yard penalty for offside. Reidy was stopped at the line. Keebler replaced Bloom. Short broke thru to the Muhlenberg thirty yard line. Reidy gained five yards thru center. Short went around end for one yard. Short broke loose, but was forced out of bounds on the three yard line. Reidy went wide around end for the touchdown. More fans left in disgust. Kugler's drop was wide. Score: Lehigh, 25; Muhlenberg, 6.

'BERG TO HAVE FINE BASEBALL SCHEDULE

One of the most interesting baseball schedules arranged by Muhlenberg College in the last decade was recently released by Guernsey F. Afflerbach, graduate manager of athletics. The schedule calls for twelve games, the same number as appeared on the 1932 schedule. Exactly half of the games will be played on the local diamond.

The last Muhlenberg diamond season was very successful not only from the standpoint of games won and lost, the "Muhls" having won six games while losing only five, but also when it is considered the teams over which they were victorious. The Holstrom-coached outfit was the conqueror of Lehigh in two games, while they took one decision from such institutions, as Haverford, Temple, Pratt Institute and Lafayette. It is noteworthy that only Army, Princeton and Lehigh, besides Muhlenberg, were successful in conquering the Lafayette "Leopard."

Although the varsity has lost three of its stars by the graduation of "Vince" Takacs, last season's most dependable moundsman; "Stan" Carney, hard hitting first sacker; and "Dank" Giltner, captain and fleet-footed outfielder, Coach Holstrom is counting on the class of 1935, noted for its many and versatile athletes, for reinforcements. The squad will have as a nucleus the following experienced players—"Reds" Weiner, Lloyd Sterner, "Albie" Klotz, "Joe" Matuska, "Bill" Nixon, "Sam" Shimer, Otto Saalfeld, Edgar Steckel, "Johnny" May, "Art" Simensky, "Al" Kunz and "Johnny" Mitchell. Herbert C. Foster, '34, is student manager of baseball.

In the following schedule three new opponents have been added—namely, the "Red Devils" from Dickinson, the Swarthmore "Quakers," and the "Nittany Lions" of Penn State. On the other hand, four of last season's opponents have been dropped—namely, Lebanon Valley, Upsala, Pratt Institute and Drexel.

The Muhlenberg College baseball schedule for 1933 is as follows:

April 19—Lafayette, at Easton.
April 22—Haverford, at Allentown.
April 29—Dickinson, at Allentown.
May 6—Penn A. C., at Allentown.
May 10—Swarthmore, at Swarthmore.
May 13—Penn State, at State College.
May 17—Lehigh, at Allentown.
May 20—Penn A. C., at Philadelphia.
May 24—Moravian, at Allentown.
May 27—Temple, at Philadelphia.
June 3—Lafayette, at Allentown.
June 10—Lehigh, at Bethlehem.

season. The "Possums" dropped their game 6 to 16, because of the splendid overhead offensive displayed by the "Bears". Muhlenberg, on the other hand, who was rated the underdog, thoroughly outplayed the Collegeville eleven, but the powerful Ursinus defense held the "Muhls" to a scoreless tie.

The Holman coached outfit has played only four games so far this season, breaking exactly even with two victories and two defeats. The "Possums" have to their credit wins over Moravian and Swarthmore, while they have bowed in defeat to the University of Pennsylvania and Ursinus. F. and M. enjoyed an open date last week-end and will have had two weeks of rest in preparation for their battle with 'Berg next Saturday afternoon.

Muhlenberg's record against Franklin and Marshall since their athletics relations began in 1902 is as follows:

WITH OUR OPPONENTS OVER THE WEEK END

Gettysburg came out of the slump and displayed real form in defeating the erstwhile Conference champions, the Ursinus Bears, by a 7 to 2 score. Quarterback Jones of Gettysburg took the kick-off from his fifteen yard line and dashed 85 yards for a touchdown at the start of the second half.

P. M. C. rubbed the Dickinson Red Devils into the dust in running up a 25 to 0 score against this badly crippled outfit. The Chester military aggregation is getting better and better as the season progresses and will make things pretty hot for Muhlenberg when the two teams end the football season here.

Franklin and Marshall had no game and rested up for the Muhlenberg contest this Saturday.

Lafayette again took it on the chin, this time receiving a 7 to 0 defeat at the hands of W. and J.

Lebanon Valley handed St. Joseph's another setback to the tune of 19 to 0. This is a tough year for the Philadelphians.

Muhlenberg College will act as host to the Classical League of the Lehigh Valley at the semi-annual meeting of this organization to be held on the afternoon of December 3.

Dean Robert C. Horn, Dr. Harry Reichard, Dr. George Ettinger, and Dr. Robert R. Fritsch are Muhlenberg members of the group.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES FILLED WITH PERIL UP BY NORTHAMPTON

They take their Hallowe'en parties seriously up by Northampton way, if the one attended by Elmer A. Dech, a sophomore, is a fair sample. Elmer was seen hobbling slowly up the stairs in the Administration building, with yards and yards of gauze bandages wrapped around his head, and his left arm in sling. Several bruises, a black eye and a miscellaneous assortment of scratches were prominent on his face.

An enterprising Weekly reporter, sensing possibilities of a big story on a riot, war, or another fatality as the result of a game of "suicide basketball" in Muhlenberg's spacious gym, dashed after Elmer and eagerly demanded particulars.

Mr. Dech, squelching the reporter's ambition for a major "scoop", nonchalantly explained that it was merely the natural aftermath of a Hallowe'en party in which he participated up by Northampton.

Elmer, denying having taken part too eagerly in any boisterous game of "post office," or "spin the bottle," went on to relate what happened. He stated that there were fifty-two people celebrating the occasion in one room, and the floor, unable to cope with the strain, gave up the ghost and fell to the cellar—the Hallowe'eners with it.

Mr. Dech, not present at the time, he absolutely declined to state just where he was, did not know of the accident. He arrived later, and there being no lights there to warn him, he opened the door, stepped into the room and landed in the cellar—rather detrimental to anyone's dignity. The results were as stated above.

BIBLE DISCUSSION HOUR

The descent of the Holy Spirit and the birth of the Christian Church were discussed at a meeting of the Lutheran Students' Association Discussion Hour Group last Thursday evening, October 27.

The group decided to allow the Bible Seminar Room in the Library building to remain unlocked during the day in order to provide a place for students to go for rest and meditation.

LOVE, NOT LAW, IS NEEDED TO PREVENT INCREASE OF CRIME

Dr. H. D. Hoover of Gettysburg Seminary is Vesper Service Speaker

"The Untrod Road" was the topic for a brilliant sermon by Rev. H. D. Hoover, Ph.D., professor of practical theology at Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, at the community Vesper service in the Egner-Hartzel Memorial chapel last Sunday afternoon, October 30.

"This nation is at the dawn of a great age of progress and advance in Christianity, because man has unknowingly been forced to accept the Christian standard," was the statement of the speaker.

"All worry about lawlessness is caused by the emphasis on law rather than love. Christians now are averse to attempting to solve the great problems that confront us, and would rather spend their time in solving problems of their own making, such as crossword puzzles and bridge problems."

The chapel choir appeared for the first time in their new gowns, vestments of black with a deep collar of cardinal. These were purchased with funds provided by the student body and a very liberal gift by one of the college's closest friends.

The choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks sang "Judge Me O God" by Mendelssohn. Dr. Marks played "Festival Prelude on Ein Feste Burg" by Faulkes, "Air" by Handel and "Finale" by Grey. The devotionals were in charge of Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, Rev. Robert R. Fritsch and Rev. Russell L. Stine.

PLANS FOR A BUSY YEAR MADE BY CHOIR

"We are doing our parts: all we ask is that you do yours, and the coming year will be a success," said Dr. Harold K. Marks, Director of the Chapel Choir to the Choir at a recent rehearsal.

Built upon the foundations of the well-remembered Glee Club, the Chapel Choir is an enlarged and revitalized group of sanctuary singers without which an edifice such as the Muhlenberg Chapel would be incomplete. Although begun two years ago in a small way, with regular and consistent practice in the singing of sacred music, the work of the choir has advanced in a commendable fashion. With three scheduled hours of rehearsal a week, the singers receive a one-semester hour scholastic credit.

At the opening of the 1932-1933 team, the choir elected Richard C. Kistler its Student Manager and assistant to Dr. Marks. At the present time, two appearances have been definitely scheduled: at Lansford on November 20th and at Bethlehem on November 13th. There are tentative engagements with at least four more localities for appearances before the Christmas holidays.

Through the co-operation of the college authorities and the student body the choir was fully gowned this year. They appeared for the first time in these vestments at the Vesper Services last Sunday.

CAN YOU SEE beauty in the gas works? Do you appreciate the aesthetic value of those red brick buildings, defaced by age, or in that mammoth gray steel tower which is the reservoir for the city's gas supply? Do you see anything to startle you in iron rails running past ramshackle huts and hovels with worn clothes hanging on more worn lines in a filthy back yard? So can we. And we can likewise appreciate the aesthetic value of the Egner-Hartzel Memorial chapel, its stately Gothic walls, its heraldry, its symbolism. And we can appreciate the marshal music pealing from the $25,000 Skinner organ. But so can you, so why all this fuss and bother about something that we all can agree about. Now if you could put all that gas down around the gas works—but why think of it, it's impossible.

CONTRARY TO CHARLIE PRESTON'S idea, this column had absolutely nothing to do with that extra compulsory attendance at chapel. We find it hard enough to get in two a week, plus that one on Thursday. But it is the pause that refreshes in a busy, hectic day. Try it sometime and see how you like it. Adds rejuvenation and vigor. Makes you a new man in fifteen minutes. That isn't meant to be sacrilege. It's our idea of modernizing advertising for churches.

AND SINCE WE'RE talking about churches and chapels, what a whale of a difference the choir gowns make. What a whale of a difference the colorful hoods on the clerical gowns make. The sight is a thing of beauty and something more for our aesthetic friends.

NO MORE SPECIAL holidays will be granted by Dr. Haas before the student body or the football team earns them, says the president in an exclusive interview with the office. The Doctor says that whenever he declares a day vacation someone falls down on the job and he's disappointed at seeing the students back in their classes. And on top of that the Doctor is ordering a new suit—a cutaway coat and pin striped trousers to take the place of the old one which he says is "falling apart." Dr. Haas is aesthetic minded.

THIS IS THE LAST TIME you'll be reading this column before the outcome of the battle between the financier and the educator, the presidential campaign, will be known. Just at this moment the exponents of both parties on the Muhlenberg campus, Dr. Haas and Mr. Bernheim, agree on one thing—no matter who is elected, four months after the inauguration not a bank in the country will be open. Each and every one of them will be closed tight and there'll be a notice posted on the doors and the papers will be full of announcements and the shades will be drawn. But don't become alarmed, four months after March 4th is July 4th. Do you listen to the radio? Do it, there's some aesthetic value in it! By the way, see "Phantom President."

AND TALKING ABOUT Cedar Crest and the fairer sex, have you ever read "Three Weeks?" No, not by Elinor Glynn, by Ray C. Held, Jr., one of the cholly chunions. Read it! Ask him about it! It's a swell story. If he won't tell you we will. Office hours at Sixth and Linden Streets, each evening from 6 P. M. to 1:30 A. M. Well here's luck to you, Ray. Some day she may come along. Perhaps your aesthetic tastes are too highly developed.

ONE OF THE RAMPARTS of the local G. O. P.'s has fallen. Says Dr. C. B. Bowman, Dr. Haas's second in the battle of the century: "If the Democrats win, AND AT PRESENT IT LOOKS VERY MUCH AS IF THEY WILL—" the price of onions will be seventeen cents a dozen or what have you. Nothing aesthetic about that.

TALKING ABOUT YOUR AESTHETIC values, what about the appeal by President Haas to cut the social expenditures to the bone? The beauty of the language in which it was couched, the nobility of the sentiment that aroused it was of such a nature that the Associated Press, the acme of newspaper perfection, took it and had it published in papers throughout Pennsylvania and New York.

THE DEADLINE HAS been reached—has been passed. Ask Preston about that one. The political battle is still raging. Mr. Bernheim is still predicting and still expounding the theories of the party of the people, by the people and for the people. Our aesthetic tastes are becoming overdeveloped. We're back in classes on Monday morning as usual. Everything is under control. Dr. Boyer's chin growth is still growing. Dr. Wright is still writing. But the Weekly must get out and so must the man who holds the mirror. So must the editor. So eight, nine, ten, we're out.

DEAN HORN TO PRESENT REPORT BEFORE EDUCATORS

Dean Robert C. Horn has been requested to prepare a paper to be presented at a meeting of the higher education department of the College and University section of the Pennsylvania State Education Association. The meeting will be held in Harrisburg, Wednesday, December 28.

The subject of Dr. Horn's report will be a discussion of the relative merits of cutting the size of the faculty and maintaining the same salaries for those who remain, and retaining all members of the faculty and reducing the salaries proportionately.

Other men to speak are: Dean Tarbell of Carnegie Tech, Vice President McClelland of the University of Pennsylvania, Dean Warnock of Penn State, and President Lewis of Lafayette.

Dean Horn addressed over a hundred Muhlenberg alumni who were delegates at a convention of the United Lutheran Church in the Hotel Benjamin Franklin at Philadelphia on the evening of October 19. Dr. Horn spoke on the "Condition and Welfare of Muhlenberg". The delegates sent a telegram of greetings to Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of the college.

DR. HAAS MAKES PLEA AGAINST COSTLY PARTIES

Dr. Haas, president of Muhlenberg College, made a strong appeal to the students last Friday, October 28, to curtail their expenses during the year and to give the money thus saved to the various relief organizations that are giving aid to the distressed. Brilliant social functions in local hotels by classes and other groups were condemned as being unseemly in this period when millions are hungry, and even the college itself is operating on a reduced budget.

Dr. Haas ended his plea by citing the manner in which Christ aided Lazarus, the destitute vagabond.

Cross Blending?

an Artist

might explain it this way...

"Let's say you're painting clouds. You've got your primary colors here on the palette. But you haven't the clouds until you blend certain colors into the special tone you want.

"This is very much what happens in making a good cigarette. And I gather that what Chesterfield means by Cross-Blending is what an artist does with colors. Their Domestic and Turkish tobaccos—many varieties of each—are the primary colors.

They blend and cross-blend these tobaccos until they get the special tone they want—in other words, the Chesterfield flavor.

"And just as each color you use acts on the others to change and enrich them, so each Chesterfield tobacco partakes of the fine qualities of every other.

"You 'meld' different kinds to get a better kind. That's Cross-Blending!"

A Twelve Man Team

Santa Barba State and Occidental College will try out twelve-men teams in their game, November 4, to test the feasibility of the plan. The twelfth, acting as a field general, will not enter the actual physical contest, but will run around with the referee as an observer, advising his team in the huddle before each line-up where weaknesses appear to crop out in the opposing team. On the defense he will stand with the head linesman, taking no active part with his team's functions.

PRESENTING

DR. HARRY HESSE REICHARD

Dr. Reichard was born on August 27, 1878 at Lower Saucon, Pennsylvania. He prepared at Oley Academy in Reading, from which he entered Lafayette College, receiving his A.B. degree from that institution in 1901. After teaching Greek and German for five years at Lafayette, he received his A.M. degree from his Alma Mater in 1906. In 1911 Dr. Reichard received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, after taking graduate work at both the University of Marburg in 1903 and at Johns Hopkins University in 1908-11.

Dr. Reichard is capable in the field of Greek and Latin as well as in the German language and literature. Previous to coming to Muhlenberg in 1925, he had had a very extensive career in pedagogy, making him especially well qualified to cope successfully with the particular demands of his department. He has taught at Lafayette College, 1901-06; United States Naval Academy Prep School, Annapolis, 1907-08; Notre Dame of Maryland, 1908; Penn State College, 1911-1912; Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois, 1912-14; Atlantic City High School, 1914-24; Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, 1924-25. Dr. Reichard was elected professor at Muhlenberg in 1925 and has fulfilled the duties of that present position ever since. Dr. Reichard in conjunction with Dr. Preston A. Barba has aided the development of an interest and appreciation of the German language at Muhlenberg through his charm of manner in presenting his material, his sincerity, and his winning personality.

Professor Reichard has traveled extensively in the Mediterranean region, especially in Germany, France, Italy and Greece and his researches in these lands have contributed to his erudition. He has published a large volume on the subject "Pennsylvania German Dialect Writings and Their Authors," which subject he had used for the thesis of his doctor's degree. Socially he is a member of the Theta Upsilon Omega Fraternity. He also takes an active interest in Der Deutsche Verein.

"A Minister and his New Testament," will be the topic for an address by Dean Robert C. Horn before the Lutheran Pastoral Association at Philadelphia on January 9.

PIGSKIN ECHOES

(Reprinted from Lebanon Reporter)

Football players come and go, but the feats of some remain to be remembered long after they disappear from the field of battle. So with "Haps" Benfer, the famous Myers-town Albright football star of years gone by. Back to the time when Charlie "Pop" Kelchner was coaching football at Albright.

Remember Benfer? Probably the greatest all-round athlete ever to be graduated from a small college. And here is what a football player and sports writer said about him years ago. An echo of the past.

HEROES OF THE PAST

"Old Grant Rice started something when he selected his football backfield for all time and named Thorpe, Coy, Heston, and Eckersall. These players certainly were good, but there have been others who stood out just as well. For example, Vincent Stevenson, to our mind, was the greatest quarterback the game ever has seen, but no mention was made of his work. Stevie knew football as few players have in the past or present. Cool and calm under fire, he was able to run the team properly and seldom selected the wrong play. He usually planned his attack beforehand, and from personal experience we can say that his dope was effective. We played on the team with Eckersall and played against Stevenson, and our selection is the old Penn star."

Another man who apparently has been overlooked is Benfer, the famous fullback of Albright three years ago. Benfer played on a small college team and seldom got into the limelight, but at that he was one of the greatest backs who ever sunk his cleats into a gridiron. He weighed 205 pounds, was fast, could buck the line, circle the end, and punt, making an ideal combination man. Had he played on one of the large college teams the other stars would have been forgotten. In a game against Lafayette, Benfer was kept out of the first half so he could come back strong in the second. With him out of the game the Eastonians ran up 41 points and had things easy in the first two periods. When Benfer got into the game, however, things were different. Lafayette couldn't score and this was due entirely to Benfer's defensive play. He was a team in himself and stopped everything that came his way.

But the most sensational stunt was pulled soon after the second half began, and to my knowledge no one ever has duplicated the feat. After the kick-off Benfer took the ball on his own 8 yard line and bucked the line fifteen straight times until he placed the ball over the goal line for a touchdown. He took the ball every time, received little help from his teammates, and virtually waded ninety-two yards through stiff opposition for a score. Too bad the critics missed seeing him play."

ORGAN RECITAL IS GIVEN IN CHAPEL

The beautiful tones of the organ in the Egner-Hartzel Memorial chapel were enjoyed by a capacity audience last Thursday evening, October 27, Harry Banks, Jr., prominent Philadelphia musician and organist at Girard College, displayed his technique and also the power and versatility of the instrument.

The introductory number was, "Concert Overture in C Minor", by Hollins, the blind composer, a difficult number to execute since all the stops must be employed. "Etude", by the Russian composer, Scriabine, was followed by the impressive Bach, "Fugue in D Minor." Turning his music to modern numbers, the noted organist played two of his own compositions, one the very modern "Beyond the Aurora" and the light, lilting "Caprice." The "Improvisation on Caprice" by Jougen, the French composition "Pavane" by Ravel, noted for his "Ballero", the choral in A Minor, by Franck, the late American composition "Dreams" by Stroughton and the brilliant number "Festival Toccato" by the English composer Fletcher, completed the program.

scene that I have not touched upon. There is the progressive attitude of certain large college papers, such as the Columbia "Spectator". There is no doubt that the depression has had a salutary influence in stimulating students to thought.

But one may still exclaim concerning our college students, with the professor in Percy Mark's "The Plastic Age."

"If you are the cream of the earth, then God save the skimmed milk!"

The old man smiles knowingly. As the Senior takes her hand in his, Whispering words for her only, And, sealing his words with a kiss. Oh! Cedar Crest, thou art indeed A fair and fit bride For our Fair Muhlenberg.

Formal Dance To Be Jointly Sponsored By Juniors, Seniors

Assessments Will Be Cut in Half By This Emergency Plan

The Junior Prom and the Senior Ball will be combined into one large function to be jointly sponsored by the two classes as the result of a decision made at a meeting of the two classes in the Science Auditorium last Thursday morning, November 3.

This combination dance will make it possible to cut the assessments of the members of each class in half, and still permit a formal dance of unprecedented size and quality to be held.

The meeting on Thursday morning, over which Charles Cooper, president of the Senior Class presided, was addressed by Dr. James Edgar Swain, who presented a resumé of the conditions that made it advisable to take this step. Both he and Dr. Anthony Corbiere were appointed by the rest of the faculty to act as a committee to meet the students and discuss the question.

Dr. Swain stated that because economic conditions were so extraordinary, many students were extremely fortunate in being able to even return to college. The burden on their parents is so great that they are little able to cope with any other expenses. He also stated that the college authorities, in view of this fact, would not consider themselves justified in collecting the assessments for the two affairs.

After this introduction, Dr. Swain placed before the meeting a proposed plan of economy. It was merely a proposal, he said, and could be accepted or rejected. The plan was that of combining the Junior Prom and the Senior Ball into one function, and cutting the assessments in half.

There was considerable discussion by members of each class. Donald Schlotter, a senior, suggested that instead of holding one dance, two should be held, but each should take place in the social room in the library building. This place, he declared, was far superior to any of the sites of dances he attended in nearby institutions. With adequate drapes and decorations, he said that it would be just as good as a hotel ballroom. The savings could be made in the rental of a ballroom.

MAX MONTOR RETURNS TO PRESENT FAUST IN GERMAN PROGRAM

Max Montor, a famous German actor, returned to Muhlenberg on Thursday night, November 3, to present the first part of Goethe's "Faust," in a program sponsored by Der Deutsche Verein, in the Science Auditorium. A fine German song program was offered by the Lehigh Saengerbund chorus.

Mr. Montor first presented a synopsis of the main scenes of the play in English, in explanation to those not intimately acquainted with German. Dr. Preston A. Barba, head of the German department, introduced Mr. Montor.

Professor Neuss directed the Lehigh Saengerbund chorus which sang three numbers, "Uben Allen Gipfeln Ist Ruh," by Goethe, "Wanderes Nachtgebet," by Von Weber, and, "Das Stille Tal," by Klee.

DEBATE SQUAD MEETS

Sixteen aspiring debaters rendered short tryout speeches on the question, Resolved: That no individual shall be permitted to receive more than $50,000 inheritance during his lifetime, or receive an income of more than $50,000 a year.

A number of new men showed promise of becoming very valuable to the organization.

Pagan And Minister Groups Will Battle

Annual Gridiron Classic To Be Held Saturday

Science and religion will clash on the Muhlenberg gridiron this Saturday at 19 A. M., when the arts students of the school will meet the science students in the traditional Pagan-Minister football game.

Coached and captained by Bill Boone, the Ministers hope to supply enough punch and power to carry the ball to the Pagan goal line, thereby convincing the pagans that theology is supreme. Herbie Frankfort, the Ministers' elusive and flashy halfback, will be there to thrill the fans with his beautiful broken field running. The Ministers' line will be bolstered considerably by the appearance of Wohlsein, Stroudsburg flash, Dunlap, Schenk, Cooper and Oberlander. Ray Heist has decided to turn religious and will be in there fighting to turn back the Pagan horde.

Joey Friedman, all-Patterson linesman, will lead the Pagans, Brewer and Savacool, two of the best Pagans that ever cavorted on a gridiron, will probably take care of the wing positions. The Pagans hope to prove by scientific football that theology is entirely out of place on a football field.

"Haps" Benfer has agreed to referee the game. The head linesman will be an agnostic and the umpire a theist.

Dr. Dryer Addresses Pre-Medical Society

"Average Students Make The Best Physicians"

On Thursday evening, November 3, at a meeting of the Pre-Medical Society it was a pleasure to observe the enthusiasm shown by the large group of men. Business matters, entailing the changing of meetings to the first and third Thursdays of every month, the possibility of visiting various hospitals, and the announcement that Dr. Cotter Boyle, a graduate of Temple University, specializing in surgery, would speak at the next meeting, was rapidly finished. Announcement was made by Dr. Shankweiler that the mental aptitude test for men intending to enter medical school next year would be held on December 9. All medical schools list the test as a requirement for entrance.

An article, "The U. S. Army Medical Corps and its Relation to Health," and a talk presented by Dr. Dryer, a graduate of Toronto University, Canada, concluded the program.

Rather than to deal upon a topic related to men who are already doctors, the speaker briefly but concisely advised the men as to their conduct before entering medical school. "One must not let his textbooks interfere with his education. Do not concentrate on medicine in pre-medical school, but cultivate hobbies, otherwise medicine will lose its interest. Acquire interests when you don't have much work to do although you think the opposite. A physician must secure culture."

"Reading books containing character study will aid, for doctors must observe people daily. Philosophy is at the root of all medicine. After all we don't progress unless we philosophize a little."

"Read books such as Garrison's 'History of Medicine,' the biography of Robert L. Stevenson, any biography, John Ruskin's works, H. Van Loon's 'Intolerance,' Paul de Kruif's 'Microbe Hunters,' Kipling, Harvey Cushing, Conrad, especially 'Lord Jim.'"

"As to cramming, it will not help in the outside world, for if you cram you will be shifted out into the world unprepared. Learn how to learn. Formulate a definite method of studying, but don't overstudy, devote some time to a hobby."

Alumnus Is Given A Teaching Fellowship

Leroi E. Snyder, '31 has returned to Muhlenberg College on a teaching fellowship. Mr. Snyder will assist in the Language Department by teaching the fundamentals of Greek, Latin, and French to those who lack a foundation. Although he will teach, his status is primarily that of a student of Education.

Mr. Snyder's record during his four years as an undergraduate in Muhlenberg demonstrates his capability in the field of languages. He was an honor man in all of his four years at college, and at Commencement he was Valedictorian of his class and winner of the Clayton Bernheim medal for scholarship.

Mr. Snyder is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Sigma Iota. He is also a member of the Classical Club, and Cue and Quill, two organizations which have since passed out of existence. Mr. Snyder was also director of the Glee Club and of the student orchestra, the "Cardinals". In sports Mr. Snyder captained the tennis team for two years. Socially he is a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

MASK AND DAGGER TO SPONSOR A CONTEST AMONG HIGH SCHOOLS

A very amusing burlesque of Macbeth, under the direction of Mr. Wilbur Hemstreet, was presented to the Mask and Dagger on Monday, October 31, at 7:30.

Mask and Dagger is attempting to sponsor a one-act play contest for high schools which will bring men who are interested in drama to Muhlenberg. Drama among Intramurals was discussed and the following committee was named to form rules and dates: John Hemmerly, chairman, John Hollenbach, Luther Wenner, Joe Friedman, Robert Stinson, and Charles Schaffer.

At the next meeting Mr. Coder will speak on O'Neill and is also going to write a burlesque to be presented at this time.

"M" CLUB PLANS FORMAL

Preparations for a dance were made by the Varsity "M" Club at a meeting in the Commons on Wednesday, November 2.

The dance committee consists of Arthur McTighe, chairman, "Reds" Weiner, Fritz Wavrek, Charles Evansky, Albert Kunz, and Otto Saalfeld.

Dr. Haas Pleads For A Break From Blind Approval Of Customary

Strikes At Militaristic Organiza- tions In A Spirited Address

"I am heartily opposed to the policies of the D. A. R. and of other organizations that label as radicals, cowards, and un-Americans all people or groups that oppose their militaristic ideas," declared Dr. Haas in the second of his lectures on "Christian Evidences", before a large audience of students, alumni, and townspeople in the Science Auditorium on Thursday morning, November 3. The lecture was based on the subject "The Ethical and the Customary" and contrasted the teachings of Christ with the customary practices of man.

"People of today," said Dr. Haas, "have not rid themselves of the idea that the customary is always right. Children are taught in the home whatever the parents think fit to give them. These teachings are never entirely forgotten. So the whole world, also, lives mostly on the level of the customary. Even colleges find it difficult to break away from the old traditions of hazing. Men everywhere bow to the ideas of the leaders of society."

"It is a very common notion that SELF is all-important and through this belief, defended under the right of individualism, man has become self-centered. But no one can really live for himself or he'll die for himself, or as Jesus stated, 'What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul'. Jesus pleaded for the abandoning of lower levels to reach higher levels."

"No attitude other than love can solve the dispute between altruism and egoism. The law of liberty is the royal law of love. Love solves all problems. If we could persuade man to accept love we would arrive at a perfect society. The relation of love is the surest foundation for society."

"Mankind originally had a hard struggle to obtain food and shelter," continued Dr. Haas, "now this seems to have become the main aim in life. It does not cease with better living. There is no man possessing something who does not want more. Insatiable hunger and thirst after money and property grows with the growth of commerce. Human rights give way to economic power. There

Local Art Works To Be Shown In Library

Exhibition Planned By Luther Wenner To Open Nov. 18

As a result of efforts of Luther Wenner, '34, an exhibition of 75 to 100 works of thirty well-known local artists will be brought to Muhlenberg College. The exhibition will be opened on November 18 at 8 P. M. on the second floor of the library, by Walter E. Baum, an Allentown artist, and probably the leading interpreter of Pennsylvania scenes. During the opening of the exhibit a musical program will be offered. The judges will be, Walter E. Baum, John Berninger, and Luther Wenner.

Among the best known of the exhibitors are: Luther Wenner, '34, and David Ruhe, ex-'35, exhibiting landscapes in oil; Mrs. Preston A. Barba, exhibiting portraits and water colors done in Europe during the past summer; Mr. Mattern, who studied at the Grand Central Art School in New York, and exhibited in New York, Philadelphia, etc.; John Berninger, exhibiting block prints also on exhibit at the Print Club in Philadelphia; George Schiffrt, scholarship student at the Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia, winner of National Eldorado sketch contest in 1929; Homer Nearing, Jr., student at the University of Pennsylvania Art School; Mrs. Reily, of Bethlehem, exhibiting unique charcoals. Also a number of teachers and students in the public schools will exhibit their works.

Mules And Bullets To Meet On Saturday

Muhlenberg and Gettysburg Game Is Important In Conference Race

Coach "Hen" Bream's Gettysburg "Bullets" will come to Allentown this Saturday afternoon and attempt to clinch the championship of the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate gridiron conference. The battle on Saturday will make the fifteenth annual meeting of the two Lutheran teams. Gettysburg holds a decided edge in this series, having won ten games while dropping only five. The "Mules" have not been victorious over the "Battlefield Boys" since 1925 when they crashed through for a 16 to 6 triumph.

Last season after being a total flop in football prior to the Muhlenberg game, Gettysburg came bounding back into the ranks of the triumphant by toppling a ragged Cardinal and Gray eleven by the score of 26 to 0 on Memorial Field in Gettysburg, as the main Father's Day attraction. Using practically every man on the squad, the Orange and Blue displayed a herculean defense that did not bend before the crippled offense of the Holstromites. Coach Bream's proteges were able to complete forward passes at will. "Johnny" Howard's passing especially being one of the high spots of the "Bullet" offensive throughout the battle.

Gettysburg has made a fairly good record for themselves so far this season. They have played six games, winning four of them, while losing only two. The "Bullets" have defeated Swarthmore, Mt. St. Mary's, Ursinus, and Dickinson, while numbered among their victors are Juniata by a 3 to 2 score, and Villanova. Rated the underdog two weeks ago, in the game with Ursinus, last season's Conference champions, a Gettysburg bullet in the person of "Al" Jones, speedy quarterback, caught the opening kickoff of the second half and in a spectacular dash of 85 yards eluded the entire Ursinus team to score a touchdown which laid low the Ursinus "Bear" by a 7 to 2 score. The best Muhlenberg could achieve against the Collegeville eleven three

Nevonians Conquer Muhlenberg, 21 - 7, In Conference Game

Passell, Brubaker, and Brooks Are Too Speedy For Holstromites

WEINER MAKES MUHLENBERG SCORE

Coach Holstrom's Muhlenberg "Mules" were given a 21 to 7 lacing by Franklin and Marshall's fast moving squad in an important Conference game played on Williamson field, Lancaster, Saturday, before a crowd of 5,000 persons. The Holstromites were only able to gain seven first downs to the victor's thirteen.

Brubaker, Passell and Brooks were too fast for the Muhlenberg team and reeled off long gains around the ends and off tackles. The first score was made by Passell, who went off right tackle from the 'Berg three-yard line before the game was five minutes old. He later added the extra point with a drop kick.

Weiner made the only Muhlenberg touchdown late in the first period on a run around right end from the Nevonian five yard line after a sustained drive from the thirty two yard stripe. He also made the extra tally with a drop kick.

Brubaker, former Lancaster High School star, sliced through tackle for the second F. and M. score after a pass from Passell to Loeb and long gains through the line by Passell and himself had carried the ball to within inches of the Muhlenberg goal line. Passell drop kicked the point. Passell circled wide around right end and ran forty-five yards for the final touchdown late in the last quarter. He later added the point by a drop kick.

The Cardinal and Gray squad was sluggish and unable to cope with the fleet footed Blue and White backfield men. Klotz, Muhlenberg lineman, intercepted a pass in the third quarter and was well on his way for a touchdown when Padolin, a team mate wishing to dash ahead and give interference, pushed him down from behind.

Brubaker gave a fine exhibition of kicking, many times sending the pigskin out of bounds deep in Muhlenberg territory. The Holstromites were handicapped by the absence of Wavrek, Wilkinson and Watkins from the lineup because of injuries. Matuska played through the first half with a badly bruised shoulder.

Lepore played a scrappy brand of ball and made consistent gains in plunges through the line until he was carried from the field with an injury in the final period. The defeat suffered at Lancaster puts Muhlenberg in a third place tie with Ursinus in the Conference ranking. Gettysburg with victories over Ursinus and Dickinson tops the list, while F. and M. with a victory over Muhlenberg and a loss to Ursinus is second. Ursinus

PARTY PLATFORMS IS SUBJECT FOR SOCIAL SCIENCE DISCUSSION

The political platforms of the Republican, Democratic, and Socialistic parties were thoroughly examined at the meeting of the Social Science Club on Tuesday, November 1.

After a short business meeting, Russel L. Krapf presented a comparison of the Republican, Democrat, and Socialist political platforms, stressing the following planks: unemployment and relief, banks and the banking system, agriculture, the tariff, veterans, national defense, the eighteenth amendment, the negro, reorganization of government bureaus, Democratic failure, labor and immigration, and foreign affairs.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, November 16, at which time Cifton W. Gant will present a general survey of Soviet Russia.

PROPOGANDA AND THE SCHOOL

The word "propaganda" has always had a bad name in the western world. In spite of the fact that propaganda is nothing more than an attempt to persuade others of the truth of some conception or statement, it has been usually associated with radical agitation or seditious activities. Nevertheless, in our own system we have a number of agencies one of whose major functions is to propagandize; that is, to convince masses of individuals of the utter truth and justice of the ideals and principles by which that nation is governed. We do not, however, call these activities "propaganda". In the case of the schools we call them "instilling into our children the great American principles, etc., etc."

During the war the Creel Bureau did not issue "propaganda"; it was giving "publicity" to the heroic Allied powers. Our great advertising agencies do not propagandize; they are making the American public Listerine-"conscious" or radio-"conscious". For the past hundred years the schools of America have labored heroically and successfully to convince youth that an individual can benefit humanity most by looking shrewdly out for himself and that even the richest man can enter the Kingdom of Heaven. The tradition of "big business" was given the blessing and approval of the higher learning. Thus only two years ago the late notorious swindler Ivar Kreuger was signally honored by Syracuse University, being granted a doctor's degree. Our high school text books dwell on the excellence, the goodness of "the American System", as Mr. Hoover has called it, casually mentioning in a few lines the impractical ideas of a mediocre German economist called Karl Marx. Our colleges installed innumerable business courses, and all our bright young men dreamed of making fortunes on Wall Street. And, we must grant this; this propaganda was highly effective; not because of the moral values of our economy which was run not for the use of man but for the profit of certain individuals, but because for a while at least there was work for almost everybody.

But eventually the whole imposing structure toppled down. And since propaganda can be successful only in

Fraternity Politics

Must the degradation of secret fraternity politics continue to haunt the recesses of our deep seated learning? We, as individuals, are supposedly seeking to gain admittance to the higher realms of knowledge in order to lay petty things and childish ideas aside. And here we are, each one of us, striving in his own small, contemptible way, to secure a position of envy by promising support of someone else's candidacy, or lobbying and log-rolling until our campus is a miniature U. S. Senate, an august body of small politicians as small as any Swift could conceive. Isn't it just about time we wake up to this fact,—that the ghastly phantom "Fraternity Politics" has stalked our campus long enough to morally and mentally endanger our standards of what an ideal college gentleman is. We have been educated in various academic endeavors, and out of this is supposed to come a higher, more intellectual, and broader viewpoint. However, it is quite evident that we have not been educated enough to forget our prejudices and to act on a common intellectual basis and select a man solely on his merits and only because of his outstanding ability. Fraternity politics, a reason for the existence of fraternities, it seems, originates when an individual unfit for a certain position agitates, pleads, coerces, and sells himself to certain other individuals in order to gain his ends, perhaps defeating a far superior man. And our far-flung, much-heralded democracy breeds such evils. Are we so gullible that we snap at the bait that is more enticing, or better camouflaged by some artful manipulator of psychological reaction? How many men on this campus that have been unfit for the retention of an office have held them in the past? Shall this campus be a party to a monstrosity of this type and wallow in the mire of Fraternity Politics or elevate itself to the unprecedented heights of a common, superior, mental standard? Think it over.

"Sophomores Will Start Against Gettysburg"

"I shall use sophomores in every position for which they are available in the game with Gettysburg," stated Coach George Holstrom as this paper went to press. The Weekly is strong in its approval of this move. The only criticism we can find is that it was not done earlier in the season.

We are completely fed up with reports of how good our upper classman material is. We looked for it we've seen every game, and we couldn't find it. They've had plenty of opportunity, too much, to display their much heralded ability, and they've flopped—dismally. Now let some one else have a chance.

It takes courage for a coach to make a move of this kind, but we've seen it done before and with unbelievable success. If the sophomores don't have the same amount of experience—they at least will have spirit and determination. We're going to be out there cheering for them Saturday. Whatever their performance, it can't be worse than what we've seen before this season.

We're backing you up sophs—show us what you have.

weeks ago altho they outplayed them, was a scoreless tie.

A real battle is in store for all those that witness the conflict on Saturday. It may prove the deciding game in the race for the conference championship. The "Mules", too are determined not only to avenge that 26 to 0 humiliation of last season, but to regain some of the prestige lost by reverses suffered earlier in the present season.

Muhlenberg's record against Gettysburg since their athletic relations began in 1907 is as follows:

LIBRARY NOTES

Amateur observers and critics of society solemnly assure us that while the depression may be bad in its material effects, it, nevertheless, is making the people more serious-minded. Librarians state that readers have returned to the older and more solid fiction, Scott, Dickens and Thackeray, and that there are many calls for authoritative and popular works on economics and sociology. Here at Muhlenberg we are afraid that the students have become much too serious. Scott, Dickens and Thackeray are simply ignored as inconsiderable lightweights. They go in for such heavy and highly commendable reading as Herbert Spencer, Martineau, Sidgwick, Spinoza, Hume, Alexander, Nietzsche, Schopenhauer and other metaphysicians and students of Ethics. We are aware of Prof. Stine's course in Ethics, but we prefer to be idealistic and ascribe the present craze for such books to a highly cultivated and profoundly philosophic taste. The librarians fondest hope is that some time a book will be published that will be the right size, shape, and color to satisfy the urgent demands of these most ambitious students.

Dr. Haas' most recent gift is the first volume of "The March of Democracy" by James Truslow Adams. In this book the author of "The Epic of America" vividly narrates the actions and events of American history. This volume concludes with the beginning of the Civil War and is profusely illustrated from old paintings and prints, many of which have not been hitherto reproduced. A second and final volume is now in preparation.

Seward Collins, editor of "The Bookman," retorts sharply in the latest issue to a group of communist writers led by Sherwood Anderson and Waldo Frank. In the same issue Mr. Collins shows us a photograph of T. S. Eliot's "aristocratic hands". The rebuke to the communists was well deserved, for their questions were ridiculous; but the hands cannot be commended. Mr. Eliot's hands, we are quite sure, had nothing to do with the creation of, "The Waste-land". The Bible, Virgil, Dante, Shakespeare, Webster, Baudelaire, The Golden Bough—yes! But not the hands, not the hands!—Except the robbery, which may be a peculiar privilege of "aristocratic hands".

A Librarian in Michigan reports this one:

A soldier boy wanted "Goodbye to War". Since this could not be found he decided to take "Farewell to Arms".

The pirates seized our Bacchus, so we're told,
And fettered him with chains which from him fell
Into the glistening sea; "It tolls our knell,"
The pilot cried, not undismayed, but bold,
They sail,—she stops, and grape-vines slowly enfold
The oars,—a chasm like the jaws of Hell,—
The ship has sunk, and o'er it waves shall well,
Its decks entwined with gleaming grapes of gold.

The strains of magic flutes are softly heard,
And streams of fragrant wines do slowly flow,
Bacchantes wildly dance, and long carouse,
Unheeding of the day or of the night;
But Bacchus rules the senses of the weak,
And not the passions of the noble mind.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR CLASSES TO ECONOMIZE

This plan met with some approval, but it was generally conceded that it would be like seeing two average plays instead of attending a superior one. This was not in keeping with the ideals of college men. A motion to hold a combined dance was made by Leon Rosenberg, and it was passed after he had added several qualifications, as they were suggested. The assessment for each member of the two classes is not to exceed two dollars and fifty cents. It is strictly an emergency measure, and will establish no precedent.

Dr. Corbiere advised the committee to be careful in selecting an orchestra, and not to blindly accept the first price mentioned as final. Minor details were left to be taken care of by the presidents of the two classes and the faculty committee.

Muhlenberg Mirrored

By Gordon B. Fister, '33

MUHENBERG'S FOOTBALL team played at Lancaster last Saturday even though the student body and the athletic administration were determined that the whole affair should be a deep dark secret. It had also been decided that both the band and the cheerleaders were to be given a vacation even though most of the members of the band and a few of the cheerleaders would have been perfectly willing to work.

Muhlenberg's guarantee from F. and M. was $750. It costs $56 to charter a bus to make the trip. The commons could supply a box lunch. Now why should finances hinder sending the band with the team. Neither the student body nor the alumni nor anyone else should blame a football team for falling down on the job when they have absolutely no support whatsoever behind them.

There were some students and alumni in the stands at Lancaster on Saturday and one GOOD cheerleader, and by that we don't mean the head cheerleader, could have gotten just a bit of support for that gang that was representing their college.

— MM —

NOW F. AND M. SHOWS good spirit. Why their spirit is so good that they'll even cheer a fifteen yard penalty when its given to the opposing team. And when their own team comes out of the slump and is on the upper end of a 14 to 7 score they'll cheer them like the heroes they are.

— MM —

WELL, TO TURN FROM THE SUBLINE to the ridiculous and regain our sense of humor we'll tell you one of those deep dark secrets that's told on a certain member of the faculty. It seems that in this person's younger days he came home with two bicycles after starting from home with but one of the sporting vehicles. His explanation was as follows:

"My girl and I were out for a ride and we stopped to rest. After a while I kissed her. Then I put my arm around her waist and asked her how that was. She said it was great so I kissed her and squeezed her again."

"Golly," she said, "that's great. You can have anything I have."

"So," says that august person, "I took her bicycle." They say the same thing happened to Herbie Frankfort when he was a little boy up in Lancaster.

THE SAFETY VALVE

SOPH-FROSH DANCE

The article published in last week's issue of The Weekly was written by Hertram Reese, '36, as a theme for the Freshman English class. He believed that only his instructor would read it, and was as surprised as Mr. Stinson to see it in The Weekly. The editor feels that with this explanation, those who read the following contribution will regard it merely as an adequate defense of the Sophomore viewpoint and not as a justified attack on Mr. Reese. The Weekly feels that in publishing both sides of this question it has served to clarify a situation about which there has been much discussion.—Editor.

Isn't it strange that a member of the freshman class can be so well informed about the financial condition of the Sophomore class when he can not find time to attend a meeting of his own, let alone one concerning the results of the recent Soph-Frosh Dance?

May I, as a member of the sophomore class, ask Mr. Reese where he got sufficient information to warrant a statement such as he made in last week's issue of the Weekly? (e. g. "The sophomore class went 'broke'.")

For your own information Mr. Reese—THE SOPHOMORE CLASS HAS NEVER, AT ANY TIME, BEEN BROKE. In fact, it is the first in many years to be able to show an even balance. True, the class of '35 owes an amount to the CARLA. If you were a little better informed you would know that this bill is not one that is considered due until the year after the publication of the year book. In other words, this bill was not included in our budget of last year, but is to be included this year and will be paid in the near future.

As for the dance, may I ask just what the freshman class did to support the Soph-Frosh Hop? I'll tell you! The freshmen class did nothing to speak of! I am excepting, of course, your class president and approximately 12 others who are members of a freshman group that numbers 145. If you think that the YEARLINGS' contribution toward the dance was more than a drop in the bucket you are a "dumb freshman". If you require figures to convince you I will gladly supply them upon request. If you consider (and I'm giving the frosh the benefit of the doubt) that about $10.00 at the most was taken in from the freshmen class, and if you consider also that the expenses were over ten times the above amount perhaps you will be able to figure out the percentage of support received from your class.

In your article of last week you stated that the sophomores were friends of the freshmen as long as they could use the frosh, and visa versa. If we could have used you perhaps the financial result of the dance would have been different. (When I say "you" I mean your class as a whole). No, my friend, we were not trying to "use" you. The only reason the dance was ever held was because the class of '35 has a president who is broad-minded enough to see that you neophytes certainly needed all the help you can possibly get from the older and more experienced men. Therefore he suggested to the Sophomore class that it invite the freshman to combine with them and give the dance that is causing so much controversy. Please remember that you, and the rest of your class, always have a vote. You could have voted it down, you know.

It might be of interest to you, Mr. Reese, to make inquiries among the members of the junior and senior classes concerning the financial result of their freshman dance; compare their figures with those of your class. There will be quite some difference I assure you.

If I thought for a moment that you voiced the opinion of the entire freshman class I would most certainly do my best to see that your class was once more put upon the level that was customary a few years ago. It can be done very easily you know, especially since many of the sophomores are beginning to see that their efforts toward friendliness are being taken as a joke.

By the way, Mr. Reese, I can back up any statement I have made with facts and figures. Can you do the same about your statements?

"BOB" W. STINSON.

ONWARD MUHENBERG

This article is not written to arouse animosity between the athletic board and students. It is written, not in haste, but with the greatest reflection.

It has been my privilege to see the football team in action every game in the season of 1932. There is little if any criticism to be given the players; they played some excellent football and some careless football. However, it is not they that are to blame. It seems that with the size and ability of the present squad that there is something faulty somewhere on the sidelines. It is a well known fact that fellows giving everything in a game are due for some consideration from the sideline. It has appeared to the attention of the spectators and very clearly, that some of the men out on the gridiron were laboring under physical disabilities and could barely carry on the good name of Muhlenberg in a manner such as they would like. It appeared thus to the spectators, and not to those seated on the sidelines. It may be that the spectators are more advantageously seated, if this is so, it might be suggested that those

LEHIGH FROSH WIN OVER BERG YEARLINGS

The Lehigh Yearlings duplicated the performance of their big brothers and sent the Muhlenberg freshmen down to a 14 to 0 defeat last Saturday afternoon on the local field.

Bennet made both touchdowns for the Brown and White in the second quarter, one by a line plunge and the other by a run wide around end.

Muhlenberg started Ferris and Jacobs at ends, Purinsky and Koehler tackles, Weiner and Lichtenwalner guards, Green center, Stout fullback, Salfeld and Haufmeister halves, and Gaisel at quarterback.

This was the first and only game for the 'Bergmen this year.

The Rambling Reporter would like to inform the three students who read his column that The Rambling Reporter and the Rambling Poet are not the one and the same. We have received several comments concerning our supposed poetry and naturally we don't want to receive credit for something we have not done. Therefore it is our humble hope that the budding poet will look through a dictionary and find for himself another and better term.

Last week the Rambling Reporter had the honor of gazing at the most beautiful red, red, red pajamas in creation. The proud owner of the bull antagonizing outfit is none other than Bill Horine. The pajamas were sent to Bill by an 'adoring admirer' who lives in Reading. The pajamas are on view for the general public from 9-11 A. M. and 2-4 P. M. every day. There is no admission charge.

The Muhlenberg band was all hot and bothered two weeks ago; they were to broadcast over the local radio station. So thither they betook themselves on the evening of October 28 to show the vast radio audience some real music. The strange part was that the band had their dates mixed and were a week too early. P. S.—They haven't broadcasted yet.

Once upon a time there was a student who persisted in clanging the gong on a trolley car at Twelfth and Hamilton Streets, following the Lehigh-Muhlenberg football game. So a big policeman took the little boy to court and had him tell his tale to a judge. A nice man appeared for the student and told the court that the defendant meant no harm, but was only celebrating the good showing his college had made. But the 'dweat big ogre' fined the clanger of gongs $5 and cost of 24 hours, but pending good behavior, the sentence was not imposed. There is a moral to this story and his first name is David.

Nobody loves a bad sport. Dickinson seems to lie awake nights worrying about that Muhlenberg-Dickinson football game. First of all, glancing over the DICKINSONIAN, we read that a resolution was passed in the Men's Senate to bar Earle Killinger, referee of the 'Berg game, from officiating at any varsity athletic games at Dickinson. Then they have an article on the first page with these headlines: "ANGRY MOB CONTROLS OFFICIAL. Decisions Decide Game." To climax the matter, there is an editorial which begins with this sentence: "The sad feature of the spirit exhibited at the game with Muhlenberg on Saturday was that it came an hour too late".

on the sidelines should be seated in the spectators' places and put the spectators on the sidelines where such things are not noticeable to them and thence would not call forth this constructive criticism. On several occasions, and not only in games lost, several of the players have been very groggy and on every occasion it has cost Muhlenberg dearly, for several scores were made through these men not being able to bear up, there is no use for such actions.

In one game it was necessary for the referee to suggest that a substitution be made. Beyond a doubt every man of Muhlenberg was looking forward to a grand and glorious season in football; we had all the material that any college could desire to have. We were conceded an excellent chance to do great things on the gridiron. We started great, finishing—well, it is not the players' fault.

There are men willing to give all just for a chance to play in the game, and when a man is tired or crippled, why should a man physically well, and just aching to get in the game and practically of the same calibre as the player that started the game, be kept watching the game from the sidelines?

It has been previously stated that two teams could be placed on the field on a par with each other; if this is true and it is, why should a crippled man be kept in the game. It is injurious to the man; it is injurious to the morale of the team, for an opponent quarterback is foolish not to drive his plays through the weakest position on the team and this has resulted in losses for Muhlenberg. There is no excuse as lack of material as in 1931 for there is an abundance of fine spirited, red-blooded men wearing the Cardinal and Gray. We should have had a winning team. This article is written solely with the intention of arousing some person or persons on the sidelines. It is a justifiable statement to make and for the sake of the players and for the good of the school we advise the use of fresh men in the place of an injured player. We still have two games to play, a victory over Gettysburg will mean a tie for the conference at least. Here's hoping the criticism will be accepted in the same spirit as given. Let's go, Muhlenberg.

present Muhlenberg

The annual fall convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States will be held at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa., on November 18 and 19 as the guest of the "Gettysburgian." Muhlenberg College will be represented by Charles H. Preston, editor-in-chief of the Weekly, and H. Paul Gerhard, business manager.

This conclave promises to be one of the largest ever held, bringing together delegates from twenty-five colleges and universities, and representatives of some of the best papers in this section of the United States. Over seventy official guests and many visitors are expected. Approximately one quarter of the representatives will be women.

Delegates from the following schools are expected:—Muhlenberg, Susquehanna, Lehigh, Washington and Jefferson, Bucknell, Swarthmore, Cooper Union of N. Y., Haverford, George Washington University, Allegheny, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, University of Delaware, Ursinus, Franklin and Marshall, University of Pittsburgh, Albright, Cedar Crest, Dickinson, Drexel, Juniata, Lebanon Valley, Stevens Institute of Technology, Westminster, and Gettysburg.

Several committees, on extension, publicity, and the constitution are functioning at present, and will report to the convention.

The official headquarters of the convention will be located at the Hotel Gettysburg. The banquet is to be held in the Blue Parrot Tea Room. It will be a formal affair on Saturday night, November 19, at which time Bill Duncan, feature writer of the Public Ledger will be the chief speaker. On the first night of the Convention, the Pan-Hellenic Dance will be an added attraction. On Saturday afternoon there will be a football game between Gettysburg and the Penn Jayvees, to which the guests of the convention have also been invited.

MUSICAL PROGRAM WILL ENHANCE ART EXHIBIT

Gallery Open To The Public
Day and Night for Three Weeks

At the opening of the first art exhibit on the Muhlenberg campus, on Friday, November 18, there will be a pleasant surprise in the musical program, greatly enriching the artistic atmosphere.

A noteworthy feature of the exhibit is Mrs. Barba's pastel of Dr. Mueller's daughter. Among the outstanding exhibitors are three public school teachers: Miss Ruth Redpath, Miss Esther Scheirer, and Mr. Marvin Stark, physical education instructor at Allentown High School. Miss Irma Metzgar will exhibit a series of pencil sketches; the work of Mr. Aoki, a Japanese artist, will be on exhibition; and Mr. Amedeo Arbanzani, who has done ornamental plaster work in the Convention Hall of Atlantic City, will exhibit portraits.

Some of the younger artists are: Julia Skilos, Alvena Seckar, Leonore Edel, Andrew Horvath, and Edward Polanica.

The hours when the exhibit will be open are from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., and from 7 to 9 P. M., on weekdays; from 8 to 12 A. M. on Saturdays. The exhibit will continue from November 18 to December 5, excluding the Thanksgiving holidays.

"Love of Christ Would End Wars", States President

Stating that Armistice Day should be observed as a hope for universal peace, Dr. John A. W. Haas delivered the Armistice Day address in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial chapel on Friday, November 11.

He declared, "If the world continues in its present trend, clinging to a nationalism which deems war the only true demonstration of nationalism, no amount of wealth, progress or education will save it from destruction. The ideal of the late war—a war to end wars—could be realized if Armistice Day were interpreted as the beginning of the era of brotherhood among nations."

"When the misinformation, lies and old antipathies against other nations are replaced by the love of Christ and the leadership of the Cross, the world will be a better place in which to live." The Chapel Choir sang an anthem for the occasion.

MUHLENBERG TO HAVE INTRAMURAL DEBATES

Donald V. Hock, Coach of Freshman Debating, met the representatives of the various fraternities that are participating in Intramural Debating on Friday, November 11. Final plans were made for the preliminaries to be held Friday, December 2. Information regarding the members and coaches is not complete at this time.

The following teams will debate in the Assembly Room Friday, December 2:

ARTIST FOR ASSEMBLY BREAKS ENGAGEMENT

Homer Rodeheaver, Trombonist,
Disappoints Audience

Mr. Homer Rodeheaver, famous singer and trombone player, and formerly the director of singing for "Billy" Sunday, disappointed a large audience when he failed to appear for his engagement in the science auditorium on Thursday morning, November 10.

The auditorium was filled almost to capacity by students, faculty members and a large group of prominent people of Allentown who were attracted by the promise of another of the excellent programs which have been given throughout the past weeks.

Mr. Rodeheaver, scheduled to appear at 11 o'clock, did not arrive until 11:45. Everyone had left after waiting for nearly a half an hour. He explained that his booking agency had stated 12 o'clock as the hour, and that he was also held up by a muddy road in New Jersey.

He offered to appear at whatever time in the future he was wanted. No statement has as yet been made as to when this will be, or if it will be.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

The Thanksgiving holiday will begin at noon Wednesday, November 23, and end at eight o'clock Monday morning, November 28. Students are reminded of the ruling that double cuts are given for absences on those days immediately preceding, and immediately following the holiday.

There will be an issue of the Weekly appearing Wednesday morning before the vacation, but as is customary, there will be no issue for the following week.

Pagan Horde Slays Ministers; Theology Fails On Gridiron

"Joey" Friedman Makes Only Touchdown In Traditional Football Contest

In a football game replete with thrills the Pagan horde subdued the saintly Ministerial clan Saturday morning on the prep school gridiron. Every inch of ground was bitterly contested up to the final whistle.

"Joey" Friedman, the Jersey City flash, after intercepting a theological pass snaked his way fifty yards for the only score of the game. This sensational run was aided by perfectly formed interference that quickly mowed down the opposition. The contest thereafter saw-sawed back and forth with neither side being able to gain an advantage. The embryo ministers threatened the pagan goal line several times but they always lacked that final drive necessary to tally and knot the score.

The ministers led by the bone crushing backs, Novak and Krauss, had a slight edge on first downs, but as yet the exact number has not been tabulated by the statisticians who are still wrangling over the figures.

The pagans were weak at the wing positions, but the rest of the line was a bulwark of strength and the ministers hurled themselves against it numerous times to no avail.

At times the game resolved itself into a punting duel between Nixon, the Stroudsburg Comet, and Boone, the former Roxborough High satellite. Oberlander (not of Dartmouth) and Brewer played a whale of a game for their respective teams. Both squads displayed defensive strength that would be the envy of big college teams. In their final assault on the pagan goal the ministers resorted to the aerial game.

The game was ably, if not over-officiated. The officials were as follows: Dr. Dwyer, referee; Marzolf, umpire; Wilkinson and Savacool, line-men and H. Miller, general assistant and acting field judge.

THE PASSING PRESENT MASSA H. HIMENO, '33

THE HOUR OF BEWILDERMENT

Regarding our economic and industrial system, thoughtful people quote from representative clergymen, a railway president and a publicist to the effect that our capitalism is on trial. And yet a statement like this had to do with only one feature of that system: the prevalence of unemployment and attendant insecurity. It is not necessary for us to invade the territory of economics and politics. The essential fact is that if both democracy and capitalism are on trial, it is in reality our collective intelligence which is on trial. We have displayed enough intelligence in the physical field to create the new and powerful instruments of science and technology, but we have not as yet had enough intelligence to use these instruments deliberately and systematically in order to control their social operation and consequences.

The first lesson which the use of scientific method teaches us is control. Such a control is co-ordinated with knowledge and understanding. Where there is technique there is the possibility of administering forces and conditions in the region where the technique applies. Our lack of control in the sphere of human relations, national, domestic, international, requires no emphasis. It is the proof that we have not begun to operate scientifically in such matters. The public press is full of discussion of the five-year plan and the ten-year plan in Russia. But the fact that the plan is being tried by a country which has a dictatorship foreign to all our

Dr. Boyer Addresses Students In Chapel

Education's Growth Since 1750
Was Topic

Dr. Carl Wright Boyer, Professor of Education at Muhlenberg College, explained the development of Education as a science during the regular chapel period, Wednesday, November 10. Dr. Boyer stated that the purpose of education is to provide the opportunity for all to develop their particular abilities for the welfare of society.

He traced the development of education from the eighteenth century. In 1750 there were many changes. Up to this time education was considered from the point of view of preparation for the future life. The only books used were the Primer, Speller, and the New Testament.

Dr. Boyer then pointed out the fact that up to 1835 the method of teaching was purely by recitation. There followed a period of transition—the rise of Liberalism due in a great measure to John Locke. The great change was the altered purpose of education. Now the ideal was to prepare for life here and for service to the state, rather than to prepare for future life and the church. Another change was the beginning of Education laws. Before 1820 people in this country weren't much concerned about education.

The stimuli for development were: the tremendous growth of cities caused by the Industrial Revolution, the extension of the suffrage, and the alignment of groups in the interests of education.

Dr. Boyer then gave a few great developments of the nineteenth century. The pro-educationists had to battle for the school tax which the conservatives resented. Eventually the pauper and the sectarian schools were eliminated. State Universities soon came into existence and a National University was the goal of such educational enthusiasts as George Washington. Dr. Boyer told an interesting fact, George Washington left a con-

HERBIE SAVES THE DAY

Knowing that something was wrong when he did not hear the "victory" bell ringing after the Gettysburg game, Herbie Frankfort dashed madly across the campus and up to the third floor of the Ad building where ten freshmen were desperately attempting to get into the room where the bell rope was located.

Herbie produced the key which they needed to gain admittance, and the freshmen went eagerly to work giving one of the best exhibitions of bell ringing ever heard in these parts. Herbie had again saved the day.

"MUHLENBERG NIGHT" IS NEW CAMPUS FEATURE

The first "Muhlenberg Night" was conducted by the Lutheran Students' Association for the benefit of the student body, on Friday, November 11, featuring Dr. Brandes of the faculty, Mrs. Benfer, and Edward Horn, a student from Japan.

Dr. George Brandes demonstrated the values of science-studies to students, especially pre-theological students, by reason of the better understanding of current problems. Mrs. Harry Benfer sang several selections appropriate to Armistice Day, and Edward Horn pictured Japanese life as he has seen it for sixteen years. The evening was enjoyed by students, and concluded with refreshments.

A series of "Muhlenberg Nights" is planned to continue this year, presenting Muhlenberg talent for the pleasure of the student body.

DR. G. C. REES SPEAKS TO MINISTERIAL CLUB

Hymnology and the Common Service Book of the Lutheran Church was discussed by Dr. Gomer C. Rees before the Ministerial Club, on Monday, November 7. As a member of the national committee who worked on the preparation of the Common Service Book, Dr. Rees presented first-hand material of great and wide interest. Martin Luther, it was explained, led the Protestant churches in appreciation of fine sacred music, for he himself was a musician. And today the Lutheran hymnal is nationally recognized as perhaps the finest selection of English hymns, being recommended by the Librarian of the Congressional Library. The meeting was enjoyable to all those present.

P. M. C. "RED RAIDERS" TO DESCEND ON 'BERG

Pennsylvania Military College's "Red Raiders" will come to Allentown this Saturday afternoon, when they will encounter Coach George R. Holstrom's "Mules" and from all available records this will be the first football contest ever to be staged between the soldiers from Chester and the "Cardinal and Gray." The Holstromites will ring down the curtain on their 1932 season's endeavors on the gridiron in this game on Saturday. The Cadets replace "Dick" Harlow's "Green Terrors" of Western Maryland as the opponents of the "Mules" in their final pigskin classic of the season, but only for this year—the Dickinson "Red Devils" being scheduled to provide the final opposition of the 1933 season.

Coach Judson Timm's P. M. C. eleven, although not sporting an exceptionally fine record, in regards to the number of games won and lost, so far this season, had proved to be wonderfully defensive players, but had had little to offer in the way of offensive until three weeks ago in the game against St. Joseph's. Since then the Cadets have developed a sparkling offensive, which in addition

REVAMPED MUHLENBERG SQUAD UPSETS THE DOPE

Spurred on by a sensational ninety yard run for a touchdown from the opening kickoff by "Reds" Weiner, Muhlenberg quarterback, the revamped squad of Mules kicked the Gettysburg Bullets all over the home lot to win by a 26 to 7 score last Saturday afternoon.

Coach Holstrom's "scrub" lineup displayed beautiful blocking, interference and tackling, and paved the way for Si Padolin, and Lloyd Sterner to reel off long gains through the surprised Gettysburg squad, the former with plunges at the line and broken field running, and the latter by receiving long passes from Weiner, once over the goal line for a touchdown.

Carter, Muhlenberg tackle, blocked Howard's kick in the final quarter, and dashed through to drop on the ball behind the goal line for the third 'Berg touchdown. The Holstromites snapped out of their long slump and played heads-up football all through the game, getting better and better as the time passed and taking advantage of every break that came their way.

This was the first Muhlenberg victory over Gettysburg since 1926 and it was all the more noteworthy since the Cardinal and Gray squad was not conceded an outside chance to win over the Battlefield aggregation that was leading in the Conference race. Miller, Weiner, and Evansky were the only Muhlenberg "regulars" to start the game, even Capt. Joe Matiska was on the side lines with a bad shoulder and Max Levine occupied the center position during most of the afternoon. The spirit and the team work shown by the men, most of whom were sophomores, that were given this opportunity to show what they had, was all that even the most rabid enthusiast could have expected.

The lone Gettysburg score was made in the opening of the final quarter with a perfect low pass thrown with deadly aim by Howard to McCarthy who ran thirty five yards for a touchdown. Padolin a few minutes later, after a ten yard gain off tackle, went wide around left end, reversed his field and ran thirty yards, behind fine interference, for the final tally of the game. Muhlenberg lead Gettysburg by the narrow margin of 6 to 0 at the end of the first half, but came back strong at the opening of the third quarter when Weiner tossed a pass into the arms of Sterner over the goal line after Padolin had plowed through the Gettysburg line from midfield and was brought down from behind after a gain of thirty five yards.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN ENJOYS COMEDY SKIT

The comedy skit, "Doktor Kranich's Sprechstunde", was presented by several members of Der Deutsche Verein, under the direction of Dr. Barba and Dr. Reichard, on Monday evening, November 7 at the regular meeting of the Verein. The farce, although given in German, was readily understood and enjoyed by all.

During the business session, it was decided to present the German-made film "The Bremen—the Story of its Construction" on Monday evening, November 21, at 7:30 P. M., in the Science Auditorium. The public, especially those students of the German Department, is most cordially invited to attend this exhibition of German engineering.

After enjoying German refreshments and singing German songs, the meeting was adjourned.

Contributed Articles

The columns of the Weekly are always open to those who have anything to say that is of interest to the students. If there is something you like and want to call to the attention of others, the space is yours. If there is something you dislike, your contribution will receive the same attention.

One thing must be understood, however, the editorial columns are the only ones that express the opinion of the editors. This seems obvious, but it is often forgotten. We are prepared to support any statements we make here, but we are entirely neutral concerning the contributed articles. Sometimes we agree with their authors, sometimes we have no opinion, and often we totally disagree.

We merely keep our columns open to you, what you make of them is your concern. We do hope to maintain a Weekly that is a true forum for student discussion.

There is entirely too much griping on this campus, and not enough genuine effort in attempting to solve the problems that arise. Students seem to get a sadistic pleasure in criticizing others behind their backs. If you have anything to say, or anyone to criticize, learn to do it openly and give those who are attacked, or those things you don't like, a chance to defend themselves or be defended. That is our primary purpose: to present both sides of every question.

When we issued the first Weekly after our election, we made the statement that we would refuse only those contributions that are obscene or insipid. We have refused only this type of article, and we hope that the Weekly shall continue to be your forum.

We aren't asking for student opinion. If any one has a real opinion, he won't need coaxing to present it. We'll get plenty during those dreary months after the football season. We're merely reminding you of your opportunity.

We will correct grammar and punctuation for those who desire it. We say this, not because we can pose as experts, but because we know that there are many who do not express their opinions in written form because they fear ridicule for their mistakes.

TEAM

You redeemed yourselves in a big way last Saturday. There is only one thing that is feared on the campus and in town. That is that you might let it go to your head, and duplicate the post-Lafayette game performance. In fact we were told many times to write up the game as though you won by breaks, in order to prevent swelled heads.

But you didn't win by breaks. You won by playing the best brand of football that was seen on the Muhlenberg field for a long time. And you won it because you had spirit, and the kind of cooperation that made it possible for the stars to make long runs. It was you as a fighting team that won the game.

And that is what Muhlenberg and its supporters expects from you. Don't let us down this Saturday. P. M. C. has the heaviest line you ever met. They're tough, but we expect a victory. Give it to us. Thanx.

"COMMERCE & INDUSTRY" PRAISES DR. HAAS' WORK

Dr. Haas was lauded as one of the foremost contributors to the higher aspects of our educational system in the November issue of Commerce and Industry. This particular magazine in glowing terms points to the Muhlenberg College President as a progressive in the field of education.

The article says, "Muhlenberg College, one of the oldest institutions in the East, has been a great leavening force in the educational scheme of America. It has turned out men of the finest type to enrich the nation in all fields of endeavor."

Our president has been complimented on his work here at Muhlenberg and on his nation-wide reputation for high ideals and educational standards.

Dr. Haas has been asked to contribute his treatises and volumes on the higher aspects of Christianity to a cooperative Lutheran Commentary which will be published by the Lutheran Board of Publications.

LIBRARY NOTES

The life stories of some of our modern writers are extremely interesting. This week we shall present a brief sketch of an author who has won unlimited praise for her interesting and realistic pictures of Chinese peasant life.

Pearl Buck, American novelist of China, was born in the ancient city of Yochow, far in the interior of China. She was the daughter of American missionaries, named Sydenstricker, whose families lived in Virginia and West Virginia. Pearl was next to the youngest of the Sydenstricker children and due to difficult living conditions she and one brother were the only two to survive. When she was a child the Sydenstrickers moved to a city on the Yangtze river called Chiankiang. A chief figure of her childhood was an old Chinese nurse who lived with the family for eighteen years and who told Pearl tales of her childhood and of the Tai-ping rebellion through which she lived. In the house in Chiankiang Pearl's sister was born. "Here we played together," Mrs. Buck recalls, "and here my mother taught me and fitted me for college. She taught me everything and made alive for me music, art and beauty". So it happened that "the beauty of the country and the feeling of the Chinese people became a part of me that cannot be lost." At fifteen she went to a boarding school in Shanghai. By this time, she says, "I had almost ceased to think of myself as different from the Chinese."

When she was seventeen she went "home" to America where she completed her education at Randolph Macon College in Virginia. She was unable to adjust herself to American college life and lived a remote, secluded existence. She majored in sociology and took great interest in her English classes, altho it is on record that one of her English professors gave her a low grade because her style did not follow the conventional pattern.

After graduation she returned to China and two years later married John Lossing Buck, a graduate of Cornell and student of rural economics and sociology. Her husband's work took her to a town in the north of China where they lived for five years. These were five of the most difficult years of her life, for they were forced to endure terrible hardships because of famine and banditry, and there were times when they were the only white people in the town. Later Mr. Buck was called to the University of Nanking, where he is now head of the department of farm management.

Before Mrs. Buck began to write her novels she spent a long apprenticeship. In the space of ten years she read all the novels of China, a task requiring the knowledge of at least ten thousand Chinese characters. She, of course learned the classics too, memorizing them from the lips of Chinese scholars, but her most ardent hours of study have been spent in an effort to find the real Chinese, blunt and plainspoken with their "immense zest for ordinary living". And it is these common men of the soil that she presents so vividly in her novels, which are the best evidence of her love for China.

The novels of Pearl Buck are, "East Wind, West Wind" (1930) "The Good Earth" (1931), the Pulitzer prize novel. This is a truly beautiful story of the real people of China, involving no complex situations, but a sincere, true picture of the people as they are. The Theater Guild made an attempt to dramatize the story with little success. It is a difficult task to make plays out of novels and while the Guild has done well, nevertheless playgoers will find the play somewhat short on entertainment. Her latest book, "Sons", appeared this year. Dorothy Canfield Fisher says, "If anyone doubted that the author of 'The Good Earth' was an artist, his doubt will vanish when he reads 'Sons'." The Saturday Review of Literature acclaims it to be an even more powerful novel than "The Good Earth."

BULLETS TO RIGHT OF THEM! Bullets to left of them! Out of the valley of death rode the eleven! And what a ride it was! A ride from the depths of defeat into the heights of victory. A ride to the count of six—thirteen—nineteen—twenty six!

In that one hour of play the stocks, both common and preferred, in Holstrom Incorporated rose to heights that have been unprecedented since they were placed on sale in the local market. The agitation which for the past few weeks has been demanding the Mule driver's head, suddenly turned into volumes of praise for the change in policy which made the victory possible.

For Muhlenberg had stopped the bullets—had made dum-dums of their pointed backs, and Gettysburg went back to the battleground of the Civil War with the sting of the Mules' kick that they have not felt for six years.

THAT LITTLE BOY Russel Krapf, the enterprising Weekly reporter, has found divertisement of an exceptionally entertaining variety. Not being able to be in Pittston during the school year he had a charming part of that charming little town transported to the big city, just a few blocks away from the college campus. Well she's O. K. Russell. You see we kept our promise and didn't mention her name. We have no money with which to defend ourselves in libel suits.

SINCE THE ELECTION it looks very much as if Muhlenberg will again be represented in the United States Senate. But here's the secret! No matter which of the candidates for the junior senatorship from Pennsylvania the voters would have placed in that exalted position, Muhlenberg would still have been represented. For Lawrence Rupp and James J. Davis both hold honorary degrees from your Alma Mater. And they got them in the same year—on the same platform.

AND AS THIS COLUMN goes to press the fires are still burning on the hearth, burning even more brightly than when the president made his little speech, because its become considerably colder since then. And even though we've gone up and down Hamilton street with a fine tooth comb we've been unable to find a blade of grass coming up between the cobblestones or in the cracks of the macadam. And so both Dr. Haas and Mr. Bernheim and their political allies agree that things might not be so bad after all and that perhaps it was a good idea to change horses in the middle of the stream.

HERE'S FOR A BIG Muhlenberg turnout at the Junior Cabaret at Cedar Crest on Saturday night. It's not too late to get a date. Talk to her nicely over the telephone. Take her to a show and perhaps she'll break the one she already has with that man from Lehigh. If it's too late, wage a campaign for the next dance. They may beat us on the gridiron but socially, well they can't invade Allentown too strongly without some competition.

MUHLENBERG CRUSHES GETTYSBURG 26 TO 7

Coach Holstrom was delighted with the performance of his Cardinal and Gray proteges, but stated that no man is certain of his position in the lineup for the P. M. C. game. Choice will be made from the showing made during this week's practice sessions, and as soon as any player shows signs of letting up on his efforts he will immediately be pulled out of the game. "If we run out of men who are willing to give everything they have for sixty minutes of the game, we will quit playing football," he stated.

Albert Kunz, Muhlenberg guard, had tough luck when his ankle was broken during the game. He was playing for the first time this season, and since he is a senior, it was his last game. He was taken to the hospital where he is resting comfortably.

The reporters in the press box were taking Joe McCarron, Sports editor of the Morning Call, for a merry ride because he had predicted a Muhlenberg victory when every one else had given up hope before the game. Just then Weiner broke loose on his ninety yard run. Joe put his cigarette in his mouth backwards, and the other reporters kept quiet about the prophecy.

tion to their strong forward wall, has enabled them to run up big scores against stiff opposition.

P. M. C. has played seven of their nine scheduled games, winning two, dropping three, while one ended in a 0 to 0 stalemate. The lads from Chester after losing their first three contests have shown a remarkable reversal of form. Several weeks ago the Albright College "Lions", in defeating "Jud" Timm's proteges 13-0, were forced to use an aerial attack after failing to gain against the powerful forward wall of the "Reds." Three weeks ago the Soldiers played the Dickinson football squad completely off their feet, scoring a four-touchdown victory, while two weeks ago they tied the strong undefeated Susquehanna University "Crusaders". Last week the P. M. C. gridmen played an Armistice nite battle with the University of Delaware in Convention Hall, Atlantic City, winning 7 to 6.

The "Mules" will face a towering 200-pound line of man-mountains which include Thwaites, 200 pound guard, "Jim" Finch, 210 pound tackle and Weaver, 190 pound end. It is probable that P. M. C.'s starting backfield will be composed of "Mid-get" Willard Britten, quarterback, who tips the beam at only 130 pounds; "Reds" Pollock, left halfback; Frank Melinsky, speedster in totting the pigskin, who fills the right halfback rôle; and "Bud" Andrew, fullback.

The record made by P. M. C. so far this season is as follows:
Oct. 1—P. M. C., 6; Rutgers, 20.
Oct. 8—P. M. C., 0; Lehigh, 7.
Oct. 15—P. M. C., 0; Albright, 13.
Oct. 22—P. M. C., 25; St. Joseph, 0.
Oct. 29—P. M. C., 25; Dickinson, 0.
Nov. 5—P. M. C., 0; Susquehanna, 0.
Nov. 12—P. M. C., 7; Delaware, 6.

Just Cheese

A water battle in the dorms is not a rarity; fist engagements have been known to occur; pillow fights have been known to occur; but last week a new sport entered the arena. It consists of taking a sweet smelling substance such as limburger cheese—as was used in this case—and placing it behind the radiator. The result was an odor—without its parallel in the history of Muhlenberg College—that circulated throughout League Hall and sent its inhabitants scurrying to cover. The Rambling Reporter on first entering the hall had a very, very strong suspicion that one of the so-called "nimrods" who had gone hunting on the opening of the season had brought back a couple of "pussies" with long tails. However investigation proved that the odor originated not from a skunk, but from something infinitely worse—limburger cheese. It is to be hoped that hereafter the inhabitants of League Hall will be more aesthetically minded when the primitive urge to fight comes upon them, and select better and nicer things to fight with.

A prominent realtor committed suicide in one of the fraternity houses this summer....the house was vacant at the time, and was just occupied by the fraternity at the opening of the school term....A certain member of the sophomore class with tendencies that are perhaps too radical for this campus will leave for Russia next summer....Remember Vicki Baum's book...."And Life Goes On".... Among the newcomers to the campus is Ray Anderson of Glendale, California....he attended Glendale Junior College and came east to 'Berg to complete his career....and while there he won the California I. O. U. contest....Incidentally I. O. U. does not mean Oratorical Contest....get the joke?

The Secret Revealed

Professor Simpson has a volume of the book "Wise Cracks" written by Carrie Otto Fredericks and Elmer Emory Fredericks, the latter a Berg graduate.

The book contains wit, wisdom and fun suitable for use on all occasions—EVEN THE CLASSROOM.

However let him who is without sin cast the first boulder.

The Rambling Reporter also has a volume.

It used to be two-minute eggs, now, according to G. R. Holstrom, it's two-minute football players....Incidentally now that the Presidential election is over....the grandstand quarterback session is on....It's the open season for throwing brickbats at the coaches....Things are running according to form on the campus....Everybody has sold their athletic books and is buying hammers....And the Anvil Chorus sounds sweet to some of 'Berg's loyal students....Boy, they just love...to take somebody over the coals.

As for the arguments they use... Well, take any article written by the Knights of the Royal Crabbers—take the verbs out—delete the paragraphs...then burn the paper...and you have all the arguments in concise form... No, it seems to me, a student has more to do, more things to worry about than why or why not the coach should be...or why fresh men wrapped in cellophane should be sent into games....It's the same formula every year...football practice...victories...losses...couple more losses...then the blare of bugles and the favorite sport of baiting coaches begins...and somebody writes articles that will please not offend anybody but which goes out of its way to offend everybody.

DR. WOODRING SPEAKS AT VESPER SERVICES

Says That Faults Of Christians Is Greatest Enemy Of Christianity

Dr. E. S. Woodring, D.D., bishop of the East Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical Congregational Church was the guest speaker at the community vesper service in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel last Sunday afternoon.

He stated that the faults of the members of Christian churches are more of a menace to Christianity than the efforts of societies that distribute atheistic literature.

The topic of his sermon was "The Faultless One." "Jesus," Dr. Woodring said, "was the only faultless human. We must concentrate in overcoming our own faults rather than continually criticizing others. Men find fault with each other in order to cover their own weaknesses."

There was a large audience made up of Muhlenberg students, residents of Allentown, and members of Dr. Woodring's congregation.

The chapel choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, sang as the anthem "Song of Praise" adapted from ancient Netherland melody by Kremser. Dr. Marks played as the prelude "Chorale in A Minor" by Guilman.

Dr. Fritsch, conducted the opening service, President John A. W. Haas read the scripture lesson and Rev. Russell Stine offered the closing prayers and pronounced the benediction.

The guest preacher at the service next Sunday afternoon will be Rev. A. O. Reiter, pastor of St. John's Reformed church.

FRATERNITY ROW

On the damp, dreary night of November 9, when most of the men of the A. T. O. house were at the movies, a few stay-at-homes were listening attentively to the Crime Club hour over the radio. All the lights were extinguished, leaving only the glow of smoldering logs to cast weird shadows upon the faces of the listeners. In the course of the program, the murdered man—pardon me, one of the murdered men—fell against the electric doorbell, which insisted on ringing violently. Such a situation will set anyone's nerves ajar. When the momentary tenseness of the situation had decreased, the horrible clanging was resumed. Everyone leaped from his chair, with icicles crystallizing on each spine. This time the doorbell of the A. T. O. house was responsible. It was found that the little devil Bob Stinson had formulated this diabolic joke. Incidentally, Mr. Land almost had a stroke.

After 1870 there was another great step taken when the preparation of teachers was introduced. Psychology now played an important part.

Dr. Boyer concluded with the statement that today there are great movements such as developments in Industrial, Agricultural, and Religious Education. The latest trend is towards the education of mentally and morally deficient persons. The leading men of the present are Dewey, Thorndike, Carter, Haggerty and Dalton.

BODY IS WORTH MUCH MORE THAN 97 CENTS

Dr. Zartman Disagrees With Dr. Haas

Dr. Zartman, in the interest of science and in order to raise the value of mankind, went to work and figured out the potential value of dead individuals. All this activity on the Doctor's part was induced by Dr. Haas' remark that the human body is worth approximately ninety-seven cents. By cubing and squaring, Dr. Zartman came to the conclusion that the body was worth infinitely more in terms of energy.

His deduction is as follows: matter and radiation are equivalent. If the body of a man weighing 150 lbs. would completely disappear, enough energy would be released to light the football field for 5,000,000,000 years. Figuring out the cost of all these kilowatt hours in dollars and cents John Erie, our 400lb. agile cheerleader would be a millionaire—dead. However, there is a catch to this, even though the process is scientifically correct, science as yet has been unable to ensnare this released energy.

The Drexel Triangle plotted returns from the student straw vote into a normal distribution curve. By some mysterious mathematical maneuvering they made the assumption that the great majority, the more moronic, were Hoover men, the somewhat mentally superior were Roosevelt supporters, and the intellectuals were for Thomas. Don't blame us for this, blame Drexel, or the statistics.

Muhlenberg Holds P. M. C. To Scoreless Tie In Mud Battle

Cardinal and Gray Squad Ends Season In Drab Game Played Under and Above Water

Heavy Lines Helps Visitors

Two football teams representing Muhlenberg and P. M. C. swam up and down the local field on Saturday and the only result was a 0-0 score and a great deal of mud. Muhlenberg had a slight edge over the Chester Cadets in the first half but in the second half the visitors revealed a powerful offense, rolling up eight first downs to none for the Holstromites.

The game was marked with numerous fumbles and at best the game was not a thrilling encounter as the two teams wallowed about in the mud. After sixteen hours of constant rain the field was in an excellent condition for a water polo game. The mud also prevented the fans from seeing the sight of an entire red-clad eleven. Instead P. M. C. wore red and yellow jerseys and the regular moleskin pants.

'Berg Never Threatens

At no time did the Cardinal and Gray eleven seriously threaten the visitor's goal line. Both teams scored two first downs in the first half but it was an entirely different story in the last half as the P. M. C. backfield clicked off first down after first down. In the third quarter, Malinsky received Bloom's kick on his 35 yard line. From this point the visitors began a sustained march toward 'Berg's goal line which ended only after the Muhlenberg line held for downs on the nine yard stripe in the fourth quarter. With Malinsky, Andrews, and Pollick taking turns carrying the ball, the Cadets advanced the ball to Muhlenberg's 31 yard line after three consecutive first downs as the quarter ended. As the last period began, Andrews ripped off six yards on two

Drs. Wright and Boyer Attend Arts Conclave

Syllabus and Statistical Report of Dr. Boyer Well Received by Educators

Dr. Isaac M. Wright and Dr. Carl W. Boyer represented Muhlenberg College at the Conference of the Departments of Education in Liberal Arts Colleges held at Harrisburg on Thursday and Friday, November 10 and 11.

It is the purpose of these conferences to draw a sharp distinction between the functions of the State Teachers' Colleges and the Liberal Arts Colleges. At present State Teachers' Colleges are granting certificates which qualify for teaching in secondary schools. The trend of the conferences would confine the granting of certificates by the State Teachers' Colleges to elementary teaching, leaving the field of secondary education to the Liberal Arts Colleges. Inasmuch as the Liberal Arts College saves the State a great deal of expense, there has been some discussion as to the advisability of discontinuing the State Teachers' College. However, such a plan will probably not be carried out.

Syllabus is Presented

Dr. Boyer presented his Syllabus on The History of Education, and also presented a statistical report concerning the cost of preparation of teachers in Liberal Arts Colleges as compared with the cost in State Teachers' Colleges.

Dr. Wright is a member of the Executive Committee of the Association of Liberal Arts Colleges for the Advancement of Teaching, the organization which sponsored the conference at Harrisburg.

Sophomore Class To Enforce Regulations

The Sophomore Class, at its meeting on Thursday, November 16, was advised by the Freshman Tribunal that freshman regulations would be more strictly enforced.

It vested the class treasurer with the power to appoint a committee to assist in the collection of class dues. A motion was passed to appoint a committee to draw up a constitution, subject to the approval of the class. Another motion was passed to send cards to Rudolph Koster and William Henshaw, who are ill.

The next meeting of the class will take place on the first Thursday following the Thanksgiving holiday.

Muhlenberg Chapter Of Eta Sigma Phi Is Guest Of Lehigh Club

Eleven Become Members At Joint Chapter Ceremonies; Faculty Wives Are Guests

Members and pledges of Alpha Rho, Muhlenberg chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, national honorary classical fraternity, were the guests of the Lehigh, Alpha Epsilon chapter, at the home of Dr. Wright, head of the Latin department of Lehigh University, on Wednesday evening, November 16th. The faculty members of both Lehigh and Muhlenberg, and their wives were the guests of honor of the affair.

Initiation ceremonies, which included both Lehigh and Muhlenberg pledges began at approximately 8:15 o'clock. Dr. Wright and the Alpha Epsilon chapter men assisted in receiving into membership the following Muhlenberg men: Professor Russell W. Stine, as honorary member, and Richard C. Klick, alumni member of the former Classical Club, and the following pledges: Christian Schenck, John Bennetch, Russell Beazley, Gordon Feller, Gerald Jacoby, Edwin M. Faust, John B. Freeman, Roy F. Siegel, and Arthur Hottel.

Speeches are Made

Mr. William Strawbridge, president of the Lehigh chapter delivered a speech of welcome to the Muhlenberg men and Mr. Martin Ruoss, president of the Muhlenberg chapter in behalf of Alpha Rho.

The entire group was entertained with a program replete with humor, presented by the newly installed Lehigh men. New members of the Muhlenberg chapter gave brief addresses.

Following the formal meeting, the remainder of the evening was passed in closer fellowship with the men of both groups and social entertainment occupied the center of the program.

Tasty refreshments, prepared by the wives of the Lehigh faculty members brought the affairs of the evening to a delightful close.

The present officers of the Muhlenberg Alpha Rho chapter are: Martin Ruoss, '33, president; Rudolph Novak, '33, vice-president; Wilmer J. Wolfe, '33, secretary, and Harry Dunlap, '33, treasurer.

The members of the Muhlenberg chapter are preparing a series of reviews of archeological and classic influence, which will be presented in the successive meetings, as originally planned. Guest speakers, who have not as yet been selected, will be announced at the proper time.

Dance Committee Meets

The committee for the joint Senior-Junior Formal consists of twelve men. The co-chairmen Woodrow Savacool, Leon Rosenberg, the two class presidents Charles H. Cooper, Harrison D. Straub, and the other eight: John Hemmerly, Ray Bachman, Warren Smith, Frank Bianca, Samuel Shimer, Angelo Bianco, James Kilpatrick, and Edgar Oberg.

Tentative plans as to date, time, place, and orchestra were discussed. Nothing definite resulted—but wait.

First Art Exhibit Held At Muhlenberg Shows Social Talent

Artists of Lehigh Valley Portray Local and Foreign Scenes. Musical Program at Opening

The first art exhibit held at the college was formally opened by Dr. Haas on Friday evening, November 18, at 8 o'clock, on the third floor of the library. Approximately one hundred seventy paintings, mostly oils, are being shown by artists of the Lehigh Valley.

Prominent among a score of contributors are, Mrs. Preston A. Barba, Mrs. John H. T. Riley, Mr. John Berninger, Mr. Walter I. Mattern, and Mr. Melville Stark. The pictures depict, for the most part, local landscapes, altho other parts of the United States are also represented. The travels of Mrs. Barba have influenced her contribution to the exhibit in that many of her paintings picture European scenes of peaceful country life. Several of her portraits are also prominently in evidence.

Many of the artists have succeeded to a great degree in capturing the rural beauties of this section on a canvas, showing them in their true colors, and in an interpretation that is rarely seen. There are also several very well done pieces on "Still Life," diversely distributed by several of the artists.

Wide Range in Ages

The contributors range in age from fourteen years to maturity. Many of the artists are members of the Charles Kline Foundation, directed by the well-known artist Walter E. Baum.

The musical program of the evening was furnished by the Leeds String Quartette, composed of Thomas Burg, violin, Louise Fromm, piano, Barbara Bastian, Leon Miller, D. Fisher, and Joseph Reichard.

The hanging committee comprised Luther Wenner, who is greatly responsible for the exhibit, Walter I. Mattern, John E. Berninger, and Melville Stark.

The exhibit will continue from November 18 to December 12, and will be open from Monday to Friday, 9 to 5, evenings 7 to 9, and Saturdays 8 to 12.

History of Muhlenberg Is Sketched by Dean Horn in Speech

Dean Robert C. Horn, in his outline of the history of Muhlenberg given in the chapel on Wednesday, November 15, related many interesting facts about Muhlenberg, unknown to the majority of students heretofore.

Muhlenberg College, a continuation of the Allentown Seminary, established 1848, and the Allentown Collegiate Institute and Military Academy, established 1864, was established in 1867, to fill the need for an institution to prepare Lutheran ministers. It was named after Rev. Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, a patriarch of the Lutheran Church who came to this country from Germany in 1742.

The college was established at Fourth and Walnut Streets in Allentown, the present site of Allen Park. What is now Trout Hall was then about one-fifth of the college. The president was Rev. F. A. Muhlenberg and the principal, Rev. T. G. Seip.

The second president was Rev. Benjamin Sadler who held office from 1877 to 1885.

Endowment Enlarged

The endowment fund of $42,000 was enlarged by the efforts of Dr. Theodore L. Seip, who was president of the college up to 1904. In 1904 Dr. John A. W. Haas became president and the college has prospered and expanded under his leadership.

In 1904 the Administration building and the power house with a chemical laboratory were built on the present site at Twenty-third and Chew

O. D. K. Point System Undergoes Revision

A revised point system for the eligibility for membership was adopted by the Alpha Epsilon circle of the O. D. K. at the meeting on Thursday in the O. D. K. room. Paul Gerhard, president of this honorary extra-curricular fraternity, presided.

The revision allows a student to become a member of this organization at the end of the first semester of his junior year. The previous regulation, that the aspirant had to have at least the standing of a senior, left no nucleus upon which the club could begin its work. This new point system will be published as soon as it is adopted by the national organization.

The dance committee, composed of Don Schlotter, chairman; Ray Heist, Sam Shimer, and "Haps" Benfer, reported that although there was a slight deficit, the dance proved successful.

Pre-Medical Group Hears Dr. Delio Talk On Medical Schools

Society Lays Plans For An Interesting Series of Speeches During The Winter

Dr. Dilio, a graduate of New York University Medical School, presented an interesting speech on "The Choice of a Medical School" at a meeting of the Pre-Medical Society last Thursday evening, November 17.

"There are few nondescript medical schools existing, for Medical Boards have raised their standards to a high position. In choosing a school, consider the faculty; determine whether the school has a good practical research staff, fine clinical facilities, and well equipped laboratories. Hospitals in big cities present more clinical material to work with, and one can learn more at the bedside, from practical experience, than from hours and hours of reading.

"It is not true that there are too many applicants, for good students get into most of the schools if they can be accommodated. If a student's rating is high, his chances of entering are extremely good.

Intercollegiate Newspaper Association Convention Held At Gettysburg; Spring Meeting May Take Place At Muhlenberg

MUHENBERG TO BE HOST

After the tentative offer of the Muhlenberg Weekly delegates to act as hosts for the Spring Convention of the I. N. A. was accepted, the Muhlenberg representatives immediately began to work on preparations. Several difficulties have already been overcome, and it seems practically certain at this time that Muhlenberg will be the scene of this important conference during the month of April.

True Christian Life Is Had Only Through Both Liberty And Law

Modern Christian Must Show Respect For Christ and State To Benefit Society

"The liberty which is ours by faith in Christianity does not give us permission to break civil laws," declared Dr. Haas in delivering the third of his series of lectures based on "Liberty and Law" before a large audience in the Science Auditorium on Thursday morning, November 17.

"I object to the evangelical Christianity," he continued, "which uses its religion as a basis of breaking civil law. Liberty in a social order means the acceptance of several natural restrictions. The Bible states that all powers are ordained of God and that whoever resists the power resists also the ordinance of God. The royal love of liberty is the royal love of law. The true Christian is obedient to the law of the state."

Four Fundamentals

Dr. Haas gave four fundamental observations of Christianity which would pay the people of today to take into consideration. The first was that we cannot be vital Christians by way of the law. We are only Christians through faith that lives in Christ and not through legislation.

Secondly he stated that liberty which is ours by faith is not an individually appreciable freedom but must apply to society as a whole if any benefit is to develop from it.

His last two observations were that the Christian is obedient to the law of the state, and that the Christian knows that the forbidding cords of law lead to transgression. He stressed the fact that though opposed to them, the true citizen will obey those laws until they are either repealed or annulled.

Immediately after the lecture Robert Heistand, a local Boy Scout executive, made a plea to the students to help the community by giving as liberally as possible to the Community Chest.

Dr. Haas' lectures will continue with the first assembly program after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Kappa Phi Kappa Has Initiation For Seniors

Seven seniors were initiated into Psi chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary professional teaching fraternity, at formal ceremonies held Monday afternoon in the educational department's rooms in the administration building.

Those admitted to membership were Charles R. Eisenhard, John W. Mitchell, Wilmer J. Wolf, Joseph Matiska, Howard Miller, Benjamin Watson, and Nevin Singer.

The ceremonies were in charge of Dr. Wright, professor of Education and faculty advisor of the organization, and were followed by a banquet in the Commons.

Delegates From Fourteen Institutions Attend Business And Social Gatherings

Major Changes Are Made in Constitution

Constitution changes of major importance were made at the annual fall convention of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association held at Gettysburg last Friday and Saturday. Delegates from fourteen college newspapers assembled as guests of the "Gettysburgian," the student newspaper of Gettysburg College. The Muhlenberg Weekly representatives were Charles H. Preston, editor-in-chief, and H. Paul Gerhard, business manager.

Speeches, dances, discussions, business meetings, a football game and a formal banquet supplied plenty of activity to occupy the time of those attending.

Muhlenberg's Offer Accepted

The tentative offer of the Muhlenberg Weekly to act as host for the Spring convention of the association was accepted. The Muhlenberg delegates explained that it was first necessary for them to secure permission for this move, and to investigate the possibility of securing adequate facilities.

The policy of pooling expenses of traveling to and from conventions was eliminated after the report of Alfred Alspach, Ursinus editor, and chairman of the Auditing Committee was given. The Muhlenberg delegates strongly supported this move, since the Muhlenberg Weekly had been fighting for the abolition of the "pool" for several years.

Charles H. Preston, Muhlenberg, was appointed as a member of the constitution committee that worked out the details of many changes that were later adopted at the business session. He also spoke on "The Front Page" at a meeting of the editorial staffs and lead a spirited discussion on the merits of many elements pertaining to the front page.

German Club Shows Educational Films

Detailed Lecture Given On Construction Of The Swiftest Ocean Liner By Dr. Spaeth

The Deutsche Verein of Muhlenberg College presented to the student body and the public a moving picture of the construction of the transatlantic steamship, Bremen, Monday evening, November 21 in the Science Auditorium. Mr. Theodore Spaeth, a nephew of Dr. Duncan Spaeth, lectured upon the Bremen's construction and explained every minute detail so well that his audience was highly interested and pleased.

The Bremen is the world's largest, fastest ship. It crossed the Atlantic Ocean, from Ambrose Lighthouse to New York, in the record breaking time of 4 days, 16 hours, and 40 minutes. The picture was shown through the courtesy of the North German Lines. To defray expenses a collection was taken. After the picture the Deutsche Verein held a short business meeting.

The Deutsche Verein will present another interesting, educational picture of a cruise to the North Cape to the public. This will be shown on the same screen Monday, December 5.

The members of the Verein are anxiously awaiting the celebration of their annual Christmas Program to be held at the residence of Dr. Preston A. Barba, Professor of German at Muhlenberg College.

The "Student"

During the past week we have heard much comment upon the attitude displayed by the Student Body during Dr. Haas' lecture in last week's assembly period. Undoubtedly the demonstration on the part of a group of supposedly cultured college men is a serious indictment of the American student, and it seems to support the general contempt with which he is regarded.

However, it is a more serious indictment of the American educational system with its eternal authority. We cannot expect any thinking from a group which is forced to attend chapel services against its will. We cannot expect a group of students to attentively listen to a series of lectures on an extremely deep subject when that group is involuntarily present. As long as we continue to regard the American student as a person who requires someone to think for him, we will meet a justly criticized lack of seriousness. It has been the purpose of our system to force education into the American student. This purpose has been extremely successful, but it has resulted in the death of whatever intelligence and self-reliance the student may have had. It has resulted in that contemptible creature whom we ironically term, "student."

Praise When Praise Is Due

There is an organization on this campus that has consistently been doing fine work. It renders a distinct service not only to its members, but to all the students of Muhlenberg, the faculty, and to the people of Allentown. That organization is the German Club.

It not only ranks among the highest in academic requirements in its field, but it also is the largest of all extra-curricular groups. Yet mere size is no standard, the German Club has spirit, it is alive, it does things. For its members it provides a medium for the mutual enjoyment of all that is finest in German culture. For outsiders it furnishes frequent opportunities to gain an understanding of why this nation holds its peculiar charm for those who are familiar with it.

In securing entertainment of outstanding merit for members and non-members alike, for promoting successfully the ideas they hold precious, for maintaining an intense interest among its members, and for creating and developing a far sighted program for the future, we extend our congratulations to the German Club.

Reflections After The Elections

The elections of 1932 have ended. Undoubtedly, they will be recorded in history as one of the most diverting of the always amusing exhibitions with which the American people are edified every four years. What Broadway comedy ever assembled such a cast of high-class comedians as this farce did? There was Franklin D. Roosevelt, the friend of Tamany, Hearst, and at the same time of Norris; the inevitable Herbert C. Hoover, with his "rugged American Individualism"; and a whole host of lesser lights like Gene Tunney and Albie Booth. To those who could still be amused by duplicity, opportunities and dullness, the elections of 1932 must have seemed an excellent jest.

And so poor Mr. Hoover will go into retirement. Somehow Mr. Hoover makes a much better appearance in defeat than he ever did in the days of his pride. One recalls his positive qualities and passes over his negative traits. Mr. Hoover had such pathetic faith in himself. He was so positive that the poorhouse would vanish from America. There was such a ring in his voice when he declared over the radio, "Let us be glad that we have a government at Washington that knows how to deal with a mob!"

But at least Mr. Hoover was consistently reactionary. His successor does not even have that virtue. Speaking over the radio on election night, Mr. Walter Lippman commented upon the results of the election, saying in effect that the peaceful and orderly manner in which the election was held, proved the efficiency and value of democratic methods. It is possible that Mr. Lippman is right. One might, however, conclude that the American public has proven itself to be exceedingly gullible and exceedingly ignorant. It has permitted itself to be tricked by vapid slogans and arguments. It has correctly defeated Mr. Hoover, but for the wrong reason and the man whom it has elected is far from being a great or even slight improvement. It has, in short, conclusively proved its inability to govern itself.

In this election there was only one presidential candidate of any importance whose campaign speeches were cogent, not platitudinous, and who did not angle for votes regardless of the bait used, as did the two major party candidates. That man was Norman Thomas. The miserably low vote that he polled shows the high regard which the American public has for integrity, plain-speaking, and progressiveness.

I have an idea. In 1936 why not take a tip from George Kaufman's and Morris Ryskind's play "Of thee I Sing" and have both candidates run on a platform of love and sex-appeal? Benjamin H. Keen.

LIBRARY NOTES

Nobel Prize

John Galsworthy, English novelist and dramatist, whose works are popular in America has been chosen as the winner of the Nobel prize in literature for 1932. His latest novel, "Flowering Wilderness" has just been published, but he is best known for the chronicle of the Forsyte family, which is included in six novels embodied under two titles—"The Forsyte Saga" and "A Modern Comedy." Mr. Galsworthy has been a frequent visitor to America having spent the winter of 1930-31 in Arizona. He was educated at Harrow and Oxford and his first work was published in 1898. He is classified as one of Britain's "Big Four" of literature. The others are, H. G. Wells, George Bernard Shaw and G. H. Chesterton. The winners since the prize was established in 1901 have included such illustrious names as Rudyard Kipling, Maurice Maeterlinck, Romain Rolland, George Bernard Shaw, Sigrid Undset, Anatole France and Thomas Mann.

Explanation of Prizes

The Nobel prizes are awarded from a fund established under the will of A. B. Nobel which directed that the interest of the bulk of his fortune should be apportioned as follows: one share, respectively, to the person who shall have made the most important discovery in physics, chemistry, physiology and medicine, literature and finally one share to the person who shall have best promoted the fraternity of nations. The prizes for physics and chemistry shall be awarded by the Swedish Academy of science in Stockholm, the one for medicine by the Caroline medical institute in Stockholm, the prize for literature by the Academy in Stockholm and that for peace by a committee of five persons to be elected by The Norwegian Storting. No consideration should be made of the nationality of the candidates. Madam Marie Curie is the only person who has received prizes from more than one section both in Physics and Chemistry.

William Butler Yeats

William Butler Yeats, dean of Irish poets, who, with G. B. Shaw, has just founded an Irish Academy of Letters, arrived in New York last week.

Before setting out on his speaking tour Mr. Yeats went to see his latest play, "The Words Upon the Window Pane"—a play about Swift, Stella and Vanessa—given by the Irish players from the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, now acting in New York. Mr. Yeats spoke briefly from the stage. The New York Times says: "He is a solid man with straight white hair; he wears bone glasses, and when he speaks about Swift and Ireland he is very much in earnest. To a prosaic New York audience he comes like a man filled with the fire of the heavens."

Mask and Dagger Group Hears Talk About O'Neil

During a short business meeting of Mask and Dagger on Monday, November 14, at 9:00, in the dramatics room in the basement of the library, the subject of dramatics in intramurals was discussed. Professor William Coder then presented a fine resume of a series of short plays written by O'Neil including "Moon of the Caribbees," the presentation of which is the goal of the dramatic club.

Throughout the week John Hollenbach and Gordon Feller have interviewed approximately twenty talented freshmen interested in dramatics.

For the first time in history waitresses are being employed in the Washington and Lee dining hall. This has been done, "for a change of atmosphere and scenery, and also to increase patronage."

Six students of Oberlin college were recently arrested for campaigning in behalf of Norman Thomas. They conducted a public meeting without the permission of the mayor.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE PILGRIM'S FIRST WINTER
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by Herbert Roe, celebrated painter...inspired by the bitter hardships endured by America's first settlers in their conflict with raw, wild nature (1620). "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Who said Sport Writers Are Infallible?

Mr. Nehf of the Muhlenberg football team, an enterprising and wide-awake young chap, decided that it was time that he broke into the scoring columns. As a result when Mr. Carter, also of the Muhlenberg football team, blocked a punt in the Gettysburg game, the alert Mr. Nehf followed the ball until it rolled over the goal line and then fell on the pigskin for the coveted six points. However the fourteen or fifteen occupants of the box perched on the south stands took inventory and found that no one KNEW WHO HAD MADE the TOUCHDOWN. Most of them rather suspected that the exuberant gentleman who was bouncing up and down on the gridiron, Mr. Carter, had made the touchdown; they figured that since he looked so happy he must have made it.

Rambler to the Rescue

However the sports writers didn't want to take a chance, so they delegated the Rambling Reporter to find out which 'Berg man had scored the six points. Let us follow the course of the Rambling Reporter as he dashes down the steps, stopping here and there to pop the question "Who made that touchdown?" and always receiving the same answer, "Don't know." Let us follow his course as he dashes around the track until he meets Mr. Donald Schlotter. Ah, at last an answer. "Carter made the touchdown." Let us follow the course of the Rambling Reporter as he dashes back up the steps of the south stand and, breathless, bursts into the press room. All eyes are upon him. He pauses to get his breath, and then, he utters these ill-fated words "Carter blocked the kick and made the touchdown." Typewriters click, pencils are hurriedly writing those words—and thus it is that Mr. Nehf of the Muhlenberg football team, an enterprising and wide-awake young chap, did not get into the scoring columns.

The P. M. C. Game

Sixteen hours of constant rain did something to the Muhlenberg football field that even the best architects in the country couldn't do—it turned it into an excellent mud pool with all accommodations for raising swine. Imagine the dismay of the football players, who are notorious 'sissies', when they had to play on a field like that. If the game had been played in the 'good old days' the players would have held out for twenty dollars a game. But this being the period of 'lily white' football, the players had to put on their old moleskin outfits instead of their 'Sunday go to meeting' grid suits, and go out and wallow in the mud without a cent of compensation. As far as the game is concerned, P. M. C. substituted seven elephants instead of seven football players in the line—imagine, if you can, seven mudscocks and you have a mental picture of the P. M. C. line. During the second half the rain ceased, and at one period the sun came out, took one look at the P. M. C. line, and then hid itself in shame.

plays. Pollick ran the ball to the 23 yard line for a first down and on the very next play carried the ball to the 13 yard line with inches to gain for a first down. Pollick carried the ball again to score a first down on the Cardinal and Gray 11 yard line. Muhlenberg took time out to figure out a means of stopping the P. M. C. attack. On the resumption of play, Andrews gained two yards. But after this, the Berg line held and stopped Pollick and Malinsky, and the Cardinal and Gray received the ball on downs, immediately kicking out of danger.

Disappointing Season

The Muhlenberg 1932 football season was disappointing and marked with many surprises.

Beginning the season with a 27-0 victory over St. Joseph's, the team showed great promise. Optimism was heightened by the team's holding Lafayette to a 6-0 score, but Lebanon Valley pulled a surprise by winning 6-0. Dickinson was defeated in the first conference game, 13-0, but Ursinus held 'Berg to a scoreless tie. Hoping for victory over Lehigh, the team seemed suddenly to have lost confidence and was defeated, 25-6. F. and M. won easily, 21-7, but the team recovered with a smashing victory over Gettysburg, 26-7. P. M. C. was held to a scoreless tie in a battle of mud. Result—three victories, four defeats and two ties.

APTITUDE TEST DATE IS ANNOUNCED AS DEC. 9

The Medical Aptitude Tests, as administered the last two years by the committee of the Association of American Medical Colleges have been scheduled for December 9, 1932, at 3 o'clock in room 305, Science Building. The total working time required for taking the test is one and a half hours. A fee of one dollar from each applicant is required to defray the expenses of the committee.

During the school year 1930-1931, approximately seven thousand applicants were accepted for admission to medical schools. The startling fact is that this group was selected from among more than thirty thousand applicants.

Value Investigated

Aptitude tests have been correlated with two year's work in, medical schools for 963 students, and with first year medical school grades for 4811 cases. High standards were obtained with both groups. Investigation was made to determine the relative value of the aptitude tests as compared with other methods, for predicting success in the medical school. Considerable study proved that the tests, in order of their value, were: aptitude test, grades in pre-medical subjects, interview ratings given by medical school admissions committees, and number of semester hours credit offered in pre-medical college work. A combination of pre-medical grades and test results proved to be the most valid test. Thus, the test has become one of the normal requirements for admission to a medical school.

Men intending to enter medical school in 1933 should make arrangements with Dr. Shankweiler immediately to take the test on Dec. 9.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT UNCOVERS NEW MATERIAL

With the close of the Fall Tennis Tournament recently held much dependable material was unearthed. The matches themselves proved to be one gruelling contest after another. In the final match Albert Herzenberg, captain of the Franklin (N. J.) High School tennis team, proved himself to be undisputed king of Muhlenberg racquet wielders. In a hard battle he vanquished Earl Koch, former Prep School star, by the score of 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

To qualify for the finals Herzenberg overcame Herbert Hilton, former Allentown High School No. 1 man, in a vigorously fought contest 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. Koch, in order to qualify defeated Monroe Shack, a junior class representative, 6-4, 6-2.

Among those defeated by Herzenberg were Hilton, William Peiffer, and Ted Fischer, Germantown star. Ernest Seegars, also of Germantown High School, entered the quarter finals only to be eliminated by Koch, after three gamely fought sets.

As smokers become more experienced, they demand milder cigarettes. Chesterfields are milder. Their mildness is just as much a feature as the beauty of their package.

Muhlenberg Mirrored

By Gordon B. Fister, '33

AT THAT MUHLENBERG—P. M. M. C. game on Saturday afternoon some one should have started singing "Muhlenberg Will Shine Tonight." For Muhlenberg did shine on Saturday night from about 8:30 to 12 o'clock when the collegians on the neighboring Cedar Crested hill entertained at their annual Cabaret dance.

Muhlenberg completely outdid Lehigh, and the men from the hills over at South Bethlehem, were lost amid the army of loyal Cedar Crest supporters who call Muhlenberg College their alma mater. Two out of every three girls had a Muhlenberg student or alumnus as her escort and that does mean something to those who were telling us that Muhlenberg didn't rate Cedar Crest this year.

FOR THE SPECIAL BENEFIT of those who weren't present on that eventful night we'll devote a large part of the Mirror to telling tales about some of their friends who did manage to get there. And speaking of tales there was Dick Kistler who was there with two tales, both of them on his coat. Joe Smooth is not content with the ordinary tux and has taken to strictly formal attire for a strictly formal dance. The suit was a good fit and the white tie and waistcoat were immaculate—even after the dance. We'll be looking for it again at the Senior-Junior Prom.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE just a few hours will make. Those heroes of the gridiron who by 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon were covered from head to toe with good Muhlenberg mud, by 8 o'clock were all slicked up in well pressed and laundered black and white. Among them Miller and Young and Rohn, Bloom and Horine, and a few others whom perhaps we didn't notice. John Erie was with them too—a perfect black and white tent.

THE A. T. O.'s and the T. U. O.'s were close contenders for the first honor among the various fraternity groups at the Cedar Crest Shindig with the Phi Kappa Tau's, the Theta Kappa Nu's and the Philos and Delt boys good runners up. The Non Frats were also fairly well represented. Therefore, if social debts are honored, we'll see a good percentage of Cedar Crestiads at some of our larger and more interesting dances—if there are to be any such animals.

CANDLE LIGHT IS A NOBBY idea at a dance. You can easily blow out the candles and then there is no light unless the chaperones say "Let there be light" which they didn't on Saturday night. So the boys (and the girls) all managed to have a good time. And by the way, the Cedar Crest Alma Mater in jazz time, made quite a hit—or shall we call it a sensation.

HERE COMES THE GREAT EXIT, with a happy Thanksgiving and the warning to watch the Turkey—and in particular the mince pie and the plum pudding.

Morton Rutsky Speaks

Business meetings and social functions were well balanced. Friday afternoon was taken up with registration, addresses of welcome by Dr. Thomas L. Cline, head of the department of English, Gettysburg College, and Gordon D. Whitcraft, editor-in-chief of the Gettysburgian, and by routine business. Mr. Morton S. Rutsky, of College Publishers' Representatives spoke on the subject of advertising in college newspapers. His informal talk was filled with illustrations of the problems that constantly arise in this field.

Friday evening Dr. H. W. A. Hanson, President of Gettysburg College gave an eloquent speech on the need for persons who were willing to fight for an ideal, and to feel the overwhelming influence of the great leaders of yesterday. The editorial and the business staffs then separated and discussed topics of interest to the groups.

At the conclusion of these sessions the delegates were guests at the Pan-Hellenic dance held in the Eddie Plank Memorial Gymnasium.

Formal Banquet Held

Saturday morning the constitution changes were voted upon, and in the afternoon the delegates attended a football game between the junior varsity teams of Gettysburg and the University of Pennsylvania. Saturday evening the climax of the convention was reached when a formal banquet was held at the Blue Parrot Tea Room. Prize winners were announced in the News and Editorial contests.

Dr. Thomas L. Cline was toastmaster. Mr. Richard M. H. Wharton, vice-president and managing editor of the Harrisburg Patriot gave information on the history of newspapers in the United States, as well as details on business staff problems.

Gordon Mackay, former sports editor of The Philadelphia Record, gave a colorful and humorous description of his experiences in reporting. He spoke for nearly two hours and kept his audience constantly in attention.

Prize Winners Announced

Prize winners in the News Contest were: The Reporter of Polytechnic Institute, first with an exact copy of the New York Tribune in all divisions of make-up; The Pitt News of the University of Pittsburgh, second; and The Phoenix of Swarthmore, third. The Editorial division prize winners were: Cooper Union of New York, first for general quality of the editorial page and aptness of editorials. The Pitt News second, and the Brown and White of Lehigh, third.

SCIENCE CLUB LEARNS ABOUT THE COSMIC RAY

Professor Ira Zartman gave an interesting survey concerning the recent development of the cosmic ray to the members of the Science Club on Monday, November 14, at 7:30, in the physics room of the Building. After a general discussion on the topic refreshments were served, and the meeting was adjourned. A visit to the Chronicle and News by the members of the club will be the feature of the next meeting.

PRE-MEDICAL GROUP HEARS DR. DELIO TALK ON MEDICAL SCHOOLS

they are getting stricter every year. The Board wants practitioners who can practice thoroughly, not men who merely pass examinations. The examiners make a thorough investigation of previous scholastic records, delving back into the high school days.

The average cost of a medical education is $1000 a year; this is subject to change for some endowed schools require tuition rates of only $150, others, $500. But a poor boy can work his way through although he should save enough to carry him through his third and fourth year without working, for these years are filled with constant clinical observation.

The average practitioner earns $5000 a year, a surgeon from $10,000 on up, and in later years many men average as high as $50,000 yearly.

Plans for an interesting group of meetings have been prepared by the Pre-Medical Society. On Thursday evening, December 1, a film depicting the development of a fertilized rabbit egg will be shown, at the same meeting four internes of the Sacred Heart Hospital: Dr. Hajaze, Dr. Adamiak, Dr. Dzienes, and Dr. Fortunato, will present various topics. Dr. Katz will occupy the speaker's platform on December 15; Dr. Moble on January 5, at which time a film showing the development and use of snake serum will be presented. A joint meeting with the Lehigh Pre-Medical Society on January 19, will precede the yearly trip to either some Philadelphia or New York Hospital to view a few operations. A surprise is in store for the dental students as a prominent man in that field will speak on February 16, after the showing of the film concerning the relation of nutrition to the teeth. All dental students are invited—no charge.

Students and faculty members of the University of Southern California are spending their spare time laying brick sidewalks on the campus.

Taps are blown at eleven o'clock each morning on the campus of Ohio State in commemoration of the World war dead. Everyone stops and men students remove their hats.

Something for pipe smokers to think about!

ABOUT 1864, farmers began to grow White Burley Tobacco. A few casks were taken to the St. Louis Fair in 1867 and sold for 58c a pound.

White Burley Tobacco is used to make Granger. It is the best pipe tobacco that grows.

You will notice the difference as soon as you light up your pipe of Granger. It burns slower, smokes cooler and never gums a pipe.

Ten Freshmen Intramural Debate Teams To Compete Friday

Preliminary Contests To Be Held In Assembly Room Of Administration Building

Ten debate teams, each representing a particular fraternity of Muhlenberg College will compete in the first annual Freshman Debate intramural preliminaries that will be held Friday, December 9, at 7 P. M. in the assembly room of the Administration Building. Although the Inter-Fraternity Council has discarded the suggestion of awarding to victorious teams points toward the winning of the annual intramural trophy, intramural debating will continue in order to give the thirty-five applicants for the Freshman Debate team an opportunity to participate in active debates, and to give the Coach of Freshman Debating valuable information in regard to the material for the regular Freshman Debate team. These intramurals are being conducted by Donald V. Hock, Coach of Freshman Debating, and John R. Brokhoff, Student Manager.

Of these ten teams that will debate in the preliminaries, the one receiving the highest percentage score will be held over for the finals, being privileged to waive the quarter and semifinals.

- The Lineups
1. Theta Upsilon Omega (John R. Brokhoff, Coach; Joseph Keiper, Norton Behney) vs. Theta Kappa Nu (Fred Storeh, Coach; Bertram Reese; Robert Miller). T. U. O. is upholding the affirmative side of "Resolved that Modern Advertising is Detrimental to the Best Interests of Society."
 2. Philos (Warren F. Smith, Coach; Frank Radcliffe, Gabriel Lucas) vs. Phi Epsilon Pi (Morton Silverman, Coach; Julius Bricker, Harold Weiner, Herbert Gorin, Alternate). The question has not yet been decided upon.
 3. Delta Theta (Roger Minner, Coach; Fred Thomas, Geza Bolez, Alfred Geschel, alternate) vs. Grays (Robert Laubach, Coach; Ralph Ebert; Henry Klausfelder, Walter Guigley, alternate). Delta Theta will uphold the negative side of the question, "Resolved that the Press Exerts a Greater Influence Than The Pulpit."
 4. Phi Kappa Tau (Ray Heist, Coach; R. C. Decker, T. L. Fisher, Russel Derr, alternate) vs. Cardinals (Russel Krapf, Coach; Paul Hoepfner, John Whittaker, Wm. Peiffer, alternate).

Muhlenberg Is Host To Classical League

Dr. Reichard Elected Vice Pres.

Muhlenberg College was the scene of the annual fall meeting of the Classical League of the Lehigh Valley last Saturday afternoon, December 3. The meeting was held in Room 201 of the Administration Building.

Two very interesting original papers were presented. Miss Mary L. Hess, a member of the faculty of Liberty High School, Bethlehem, offered the first one, on the subject, "The Secondary Schools of Germany, with Special Reference to the Study of Latin and Greek." The second paper which was on the subject, "Tomar and Alcobaca" and illustrated by slides, was presented by Dr. Earl Le Verne Crum, a professor at Lehigh University.

A social hour was held in the Omicron Delta Kappa room, in the Library building. Among the hostesses were Mrs. Robert C. Horn and Mrs. Harry Hess Reichard.

Dr. Harry Hess Reichard, of Muhlenberg College was elected vice-president of the group. Rev. Russell W. Stine, newly elected faculty advisor of the Alpha Rho chapter of Eta Sigma Phi at Muhlenberg, was elected into membership.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Initiates New Men

The initiation of Charles Cooper and Wilmer Wolf into Alpha Kappa Alpha, took place at the meeting of this Philosophical fraternity at the home of Rev. Stine on Wednesday evening, November 30.

"The Philosophy of Thomas Payne," was the topic presented by Richard F. Garnet and it brought out considerable discussion on the part of those present. After the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Stine, the meeting was adjourned.

Senior-Junior Ball Name Contest Starts

Contest Opens December 7, Closes December 14. Unique Cup To Be Prize Of Winner

A cup will be awarded to the winner of a contest held to secure a name for the Junior-Senior Ball, according to the announcement of Woodrow Savacool, co-chairman of the Ball committee. This contest opens on December 7 and closes on December 14.

The cup, according to the statement of the committee chairman, will be awarded on December 15 during the regular assembly period. Any student is eligible to compete except members of the committee. The unique cup that is gained by the fortunate winner is being furnished by the company that received the contract for the favors.

The name or names are to be placed in a sealed envelope and dropped into the Press Box on the first floor of the Administration building.

The date of the dance has been set as February 18, and it will be held either in Mealey's Auditorium or in the Hotel Americus ballroom. Isham Jones is under consideration to supply the music for the occasion.

Delightful "M" Club Frolic Well Attended

George Duddy's Band Delights Dancers At First Formal On The Social Calendar

Two hundred couples enjoyed the strains of George Duddy's orchestra which furnished the music for the "M" Club frolic last Friday night, December 2, at Mealey's Auditorium.

The affair was not only entertaining, but educational, as many universal questions such as—"How Deep is the Ocean?" and "How High is the Sky?" were answered in music by Duddy and his boys.

The unusual number of beautiful ladies present lent an air of distinction and refinement to the occasion.

The committee in charge was: Arthur McTigue, Chairman; Albert Weiner, Frederick Wavrek, Otto Saalfeldt, Albert Kunz and Charles Evanovsky.

The chaperones included: Dr. and Mrs. Wright, Prof. and Mrs. Fasig, Registrar and Mrs. Benfer.

Chapel Choir Gives Program At Lansford

The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks was at Trinity Lutheran Church, Lansford, Pa., in which Rev. E. Richard Aeker, a Muhlenberg alumnus, is serving as pastor, on November 20.

The programme was almost entirely musical. The preludes, played by Dr. Marks were "Boorée in 8" and "Fountain Reverie".

The choir then sang a group of six anthems, prominent among which were "Jubilate," in German, by Zander; "Gloria in Excelsis," by Mozart; and "An Even Song," by the Welsh composer, Protheroe. "Thanksgiving," by Demarest, and "Finale from Sonate in A," by Grey, played by Dr. Marks, concluded the programme.

President Haas Gives Final Word About Chapel Attendance

Muhlenberg College wants it clearly understood that it is a Christian College. If there are any students like H. E. K. who do not like it they are kindly asked to leave. We are a college like Gettysburg, Dickinson, Ursinus, Franklin and Marshall, which were founded and are sustained for Christian culture. Those who do not wish it should not come to such colleges. And those who are too stupid and slow to follow lectures which any average man can understand, and those who are so narrow-minded that they only want a few subjects to suit their restricted tastes, are out of place in a college which stands for broad culture. The college does not want men who are rebellious against its traditions and provisions,

Dr. Haas Contrasts Real and Unreal In His Lecture Series

Proves That The Christian Concept Of God Is Personal As Opposed To Impersonal

"The Head of Christianity is the Personality of Jesus," declared Dr. Haas in contrasting "The Real and The Unreal" in the fourth of his series of lectures on Christian Evidences in the Science Auditorium on Thursday morning, December 1.

"The problem of whether the earth is fundamentally impersonal or personal is usually one for philosophers but nevertheless it also affects Christianity. Christianity does not only deal with values but also with existences. The average man lives outside of himself. Objects occupy him most. He usually lives in things and attaches himself to them. This prejudices him toward the Impersonal. But Christianity tells him to live within himself. The inner life makes for personality.

Science is Impersonal

"Every science is an abstraction," continued the president in discussing the personal and impersonal sides of science. "Physics reduces all things to atoms. Now if the world is only composed of atoms it is a great impersonal thing. Chemists find chemistry in stones and chemistry in the earth but it is nevertheless only a process and has nothing to do with the person. Geology is purely impersonal in its study of the different strata of the earth. Biology has the same impersonal process. In 1850 Darwin brought out his theory of Evolution. But in this entire theory there is no place for a personal view of life."

Dr. Haas further used three questions in proving the Christian concept of God as Personal as opposed to Impersonal. "What is the first cause?" he asked. "What is the nature of that cause?" and "How does that cause operate?" The answers to these questions were the basis of his conclusion that Christianity's concept of God is personal.

Dr. Haas will conclude his lectures on Thursday, December 8, with the theme, "Faith and Unbelief". At this time the prizes for the best reports on the lectures will also be awarded.

Inter-Fraternity Council Has Meeting On Monday

The Interfraternity Council decided to sponsor Intramural Dramatics and Debating, at its meeting Monday evening, November 21, at the A. T. O. fraternity house. Although these events are not officially recognized and will not be rewarded by points, no group will be prohibited from participating in such contests if it so desires.

The Council further considered the possibility of officially sponsoring an additional intramural sport, such as Touch Football. After considerable discussion, the meeting adjourned.

which include the realities of religion and worship. Muhlenberg is no place for pagans in spirit, and it asks them to apply for their letters of dismissal. We shall not surrender our precious heritage for any men who are Bolshevik in attitude, and who have been infected with the virus of unbelief, which today is destroying the best in our civilization. We are a Christian family in spirit and attitude, and we welcome all who want to live in such an atmosphere, but we are no stamping-ground for restless and rebellious minds, who confuse breadth of learning with an anti-religious attitude and with the modern cynicism which is undermining American life.

Mask and Dagger To Hold Unique Dance Friday, January 13

Fritz Wavrek Will Decorate Library Social Room With Sensational Scenic Effects

The newly organized "Mask and Dagger" is endeavoring to prove to the students and faculty of Muhlenberg that it is more than "just a name" on the campus. Its first exhibit of proof is to be in the form of a dance to be held on Friday, the 13th of January. It was learned from authoritative sources that the affair will cause quite a sensation. One of the reasons for the prophecy is the receipt of information that the library is to be decorated by none other than Frederick Wavrek whose artistic ability is well known to 'Berg. Mr. Wavrek has planned a scenic effect that has never come anywhere near being equaled either at, or near Muhlenberg. In addition to this artistic touch the organization is trying to secure the services of a well known entertainer whose specialty is puppets. He not only gives sketches or skits with his wooden actors, but actually enacts famous stage productions.

George Duddy Will Play

George Duddy and his musical masters will furnish the music. He has been chosen because of his increasing popularity brought about mainly through his success at the "M" Club and O. D. K. dances.

Although final arrangements have not as yet been made, dancing will most likely continue from 9 until 12. The library has been selected as the logical place to hold this function because it has very definitely proved, both by the Soph-Frosh Hop and the O. D. K. Dance, that an affair of this kind can be a social success when held on the campus, contrary to the convictions of some students heretofore.

A complete selection of the committee has not been made, but to date it is as follows: W. S. Stinson, Chairman; Lubson, John Hollenbach and Wilbur Hemstreet.

Phi Sigma Iota Has An Interesting Meeting

"The Spanish and French Novels from 1850" was the topic of discussion at a meeting of Phi Sigma Iota, national honorary Romance Language fraternity, held at the home of Dr. Anthony Corbiere last Monday evening, November 27.

Dr. Corbiere gave a resumé of the French novel from the scientific point of view, and Professor Seaman discussed the Spanish novel from the historical view point. After these reports there was an interesting discussion with all members taking part. French songs were sung and refreshments were served by Mrs. Corbiere. The next meeting of this organization will be held on the evening of December 13 in the Administration building.

Science Club Visits "Chronicle and News"

On Monday evening, November 27, the Science Club visited the Chronicle and News and inspected modern means of printing newspapers. Donald Carpenter, a student of Muhlenberg who is employed at the local concern, directed the members of the club through the plant and explained various steps in the printing of the paper.

On Wednesday evening, December 7, the Science Club plans to visit the Allentown Water Works.

Moll String Quartet Offers Fine Program

Chamber Music Comprising Works Of Classical Composers Presented To Large Audience

A concert of the Moll String Quartet, of Allentown, was presented by the college in the Science Auditorium on Monday evening, December 5, at 8:15. The audience was delighted with the fine program of chamber music comprising the works of classical composers. The program occurred as follows:

1. Quartet, by Haydn, Op. 64, No. 5 Allegro Moderato; Adagio Cantabile; Menuetto; Finale.
2. A. Andante Cantabile from Quartet by Mozart, No. 17. B. Minuet from Quartet by Mozart, No. 14.
3. A. Andante Cantabile from Quartet by Beethoven, Op. 18, No. 5. B. Theme with Five Variations by Beethoven.

A silver offering was taken in behalf of the artists of the quartet who are as follows: Lloyd Moll, first violin; Harold Hammond, second violin; Winfield Wavrek, viola; Kenneth Samson, cello. The latter is professor of mathematics at Lehigh University and the brother of Carl Samson, accompanist of Fritz Kreisler.

Pre-Medical Society Enjoys Rare Film

Dr. Shankweiler Gives Lecture In Conjunction With Picture; Business Session Is Held

The Pre-Medical Society, which held a meeting on Thursday evening, December 1, decided to subscribe to two magazines, "The Hygeia" issued by the American Medical Association, and "The Health Magazine" published by the Kellogg Company. All students will have access to these magazines for they are going to be placed on the library shelves.

After a short business session Dr. Shankweiler delivered introductory notes explaining the various stages in the development of a fertilized rabbit egg. The fertilized egg secured from the ovary of the female was seen in various active stages, this action being pictured as taking place 369 times faster than it normally would occur. Special photography produced this effect. The egg was taken from the body of the rabbit and placed in a fluid similar to that of its own body.

Only two such type of films are extant in the United States. Thus their value as a means of exposition is greatly enhanced.

History Fraternity Hears Lausanne Report

At the regular monthly meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity at the home of Dr. Swain on December 1, Richard F. Garnet presented a report on activities of the Lausanne Conference.

Considerable discussion was offered on this topic by the members of the organization. After a short business meeting, followed by refreshments, the meeting adjourned.

Basketball Squad To Open Current Season On Friday Evening

Team Quickly Developing Into Smooth Working Outfit; Faces Difficult Schedule

A comparatively large number of aspirants for berths on the Muhlenberg College basketball squad reported to Coach George R. Holstrom on Monday afternoon, November 28, in the Allentown Preparatory School gymnasium and held their initial practice in preparation for the 1932-33 season. The team will face an exceptionally heavy schedule of twenty games with some of the leading colleges and universities in the East.

Although the varsity has lost two of its star performers by the graduation of "Stan" Carney and "Pogie" O'Brien, a good nucleus of experienced upper-classmen remain, including "Bill" Nixon, leading Cardinal and Gray scorer of last season; "Bill" Horine, fast and dependable guard; Edgar Steckel, sub-center of last season; "Eddie" Judd, Joe Matуска, Lloyd Sterner, and Leon Rosenberg and "Reds" Wiener, both of whom reported late last season. Sterner, although forced out of active competition last season because of an appendicitis operation, is an experienced basketballer, having been a star performer while attending Allentown High School and the leading scorer of the 1930-31 Freshman team at 'Berg.

Many Good Sophomores

In addition, from the present Sophomore class, noted for its many and versatile athletes, a large number of potential varsity stars reported for practice. Chief among these were several luminaries of last season's victorious yearling outfit. Outstanding in this group are "Joe" Rodgers, a guard, whose work on the local teams of Allentown is well known; Gene Lepore, a forward, who comes with a good reputation from Ocean City, N. J.; George Saul and "Beans" Dietrich, both guards and former Reading High School stars; Roger Rohn, a center from Catasauqua High School; "Joe" Skrovaneck, a forward from Allentown; "Joe" Zamites, another forward, who gained his experience at Keystone Academy and on other courts in the Anthracite coal region. "Jersey" Bloom from Lavallette, N. J., and Chris Riley from Millville, N. J., two husky fellows who played tackle on the recent football team, are expected to report to Coach Holstrom in the near future and attempt to land varsity berths on the basketball squad.

Eugene Twining, '30 Wins Unusual Honor Is "Law Review" Editor

Gene Twining, '30, has received the unusual distinction of being elected to the editorship of the "Law Review," a University of Pennsylvania Law School publication, for the second consecutive year. The qualification for this coveted position is based purely on outstanding achievement. Raymond Leemhuis, '19, was the only other Muhlenberg graduate to receive this honor. However, Mr. Leemhuis held the office for only one year.

While at Muhlenberg Mr. Twining was active in scholastic and extra-curricular activities. He was an honor student in his senior year. His achievement is all the more notable because of the fact that he has devoted a portion of his time to tutoring in order to work his way through law school. When Mr. Twining was first elected to this office he was unable to give sufficient time to the publication of which he was the editor. In spite of this handicap which appeared to be a means of eliminating him automatically for re-election, his ability was recognized and he was again successful in being chosen for the position.

Football

We Suggest A Schedule

NEXT YEAR the football team plays Penn State and Fordham in addition to Lafayette, Lehigh and the customary Conference games. We're not enthusiastic. Nobody is. Just why can't we stay in our own class? There is no honor in being a set up for some gridiron giant that wants a "breather" before an important game.

But the ridiculousness of the situation is apparent. Here is our suggestion. Since Muhlenberg gives no athletic scholarships, and since it is a small college by choice; why not make a schedule that will include games with other small colleges, and if possible with those that have the same standards?

We'll be even more definite. Here is a schedule that we recommend. Lehigh, Lafayette, Franklin and Marshall, Ursinus, Gettysburg, Dickinson, Haverford, Swarthmore, and Albright. We suggest further, that we have our last game against the same opponent every year. This would provide a real goal and aid not only in spirit, but in the quality of the team's play. That game would become traditional, and as our opponent we select Albright College.

This game would be a natural. There is keen inter-city rivalry, the distance is short, there is a large number of prospective cash customers, and Albright is good. They showed Ursinus that. If there are any more needed, why not select Moravian? There also remains a number of fine small college teams, of which Juniata and Susquehanna come first to our minds.

We submit this plan in an honest, sincere desire to improve the athletic condition at Muhlenberg. What is your suggestion? —C. H. Preston.

Intramurals

And The Intra-Fraternity Council

WE NOTE the fact that the Inter-Fraternity Council has rejected the plan of awarding points towards the Intramural trophy for competition in Intramural debates, dramatics, and oratory. That is a deathblow to the far-sighted program of cultural activity that would have made Muhlenberg a leader in this field of collegiate life. Upon the Inter-Fraternity Council was placed the responsibility of adopting this broader plan of Intramural activity. They failed, and because of their failure we are all losers.

Does Intramurals merely mean the opportunity for the expression of athletic ability? Or can it be broadened to give a chance for those whose talents lie in other fields? After all, this is a college. We always supposed that the purpose of a college was to encourage the latter. The college itself is doing that—why can't the students show some initiative of their own? Must they always be led?

Why does this body fear to take an original step? Because Intramurals always has meant athletics, does that mean it always shall? Will the Inter-Fraternity Council wait until other colleges all have made this forward step, and then meekly fall in line?

Debates, dramatics, and oratory as a part of Intramural competition offers the following advantages: They provide a medium for the expression of undeveloped talent, they offer training in those fields that would be a benefit not only to those participating but to the various campus organizations. These proposed contests would stimulate undergraduate interest in cultural activities. They would give spirit and entertainment during the long winter months. Finally, and perhaps most important of all, they would be a distinct help to the fraternities themselves.

By having an Intramural program that included not only athletics, but these cultural activities, the fraternities would be stimulated in attempting to gain a more balanced membership. That in itself is a worthy goal. The "Weekly" wants to know why Muhlenberg can't be first in this progressive movement. We ask the Inter-Fraternity Council to re-consider its action.

—C. H. Preston.

BASKETBALL SQUAD TO OPEN CURRENT SEASON ON FRIDAY EVENING

First Game Friday

Heavy practices were held every afternoon since the men reported last week, and it is the Coach's intention to continue such a policy so that the squad will be in shape for the start of the season on Friday night. In their first game they will oppose a veteran St. Thomas' College outfit in Scranton. The following day the Cardinal and Gray courtmen stop off at East Stroudsburg and play a strong East Stroudsburg State Teachers' college quintet. Although practising under difficulty in the Prep school gym, the Holstromites are fast rounding out into a smooth-running organization. The home games will again be staged on the Allentown Y. M. C. A. floor.

LIBRARY NOTES

A Cultural History of the Modern Age, Egon Friedell, Alfred Knopf, New York City, 1932.

The third volume of Egon Friedell's "A Cultural History of the Modern Age" has been presented to the library by Dr. Haas. In this volume Herr Friedell brings to a brilliant close his great history, which has already taken a place in the minds of cultivated readers alongside "Spengler's Decline of the West". The third volume, however, despite its great brilliance and adroit flourish, suffers badly from a disproportion very much in favor of the German cultural forces, a disproportion which became quite noticeable in the second volume. Readers will remember that in that volume, to take one instance of egregious injustice, John Milton was disposed of in one conventional page, whereas Klopstock had seven or eight pages devoted to his tedious muse. Perhaps the greatest injustice was levelled at the classic period of French literature, which Herr Friedell discussed brilliantly, to be sure, but with such evident malice that one wonders whether he could ever fit himself to interpret the age sympathetically.

Germans iss der Best

In this third volume the disproportion becomes greater, and we find the historian dealing with such German mediocrities as Grabbe, Herwegh, Gutzkow, Freiligrath, Geibel, and Heyse, while he forgets even to mention the great English figures, Coleridge, Keats, Hazlitt, Jane Austen, Landor, Tennyson, Arnold, Thackeray, Meredith, Francis Thompson, and Thomas Hardy, to mention only a few. Herr Friedell is either amazingly ignorant of English literature or else cynically reckless. To omit John Keats from a "cultural" history is a piece of crass stupidity and perverted aesthetics. We shall not tax Herr Friedell with similar injustices in the domain of French literature.

Book is a Rare Work

The book is, despite these obvious omissions, which everyone will deplore, a successful and brilliant close to a great study; and we should look to the larger designs and implications of Friedell's work for a basis of our final judgment rather than to the figures and personages he uses to fill out the picture. We may disagree with him in his conclusions, which he arrives at anyway by paradox, by guesses, and by flights of the imagination; but we cheerfully acquiesce in the judgment of the majority of critics and readers that he has achieved that very rare work: a readable, and at the same time substantial history, or rather, philosophy of history. Perhaps the outstanding achievements of this third volume are his treatment of the Hegelian philosophy, the sympathetic analysis of Schopenhauer, the development of the Franco-Prussian War, and his superb characterizations of Tolstoi and Dostoevsky. Herr Friedell arrives, by paradox, at the startling conclusion that Friedrich Nietzsche was the last of the Church Fathers!

Egon Friedell is a profoundly erudite scholar in the tradition of the universal, of which the Germans afford us the best examples. In brilliance of thought and style, in varied and profound knowledge he is second only to Oswald Spengler. We forgive him his lapses, and hasten to recommend the book to everyone.

Hello, Everybody, Are You Listnen? Picture yourself sitting at a cozy fireplace, an excellent book in your hand, and wonderful music on the radio. A perfect picture of contentment. AND THEN—the music stops, a pause, and then these uncalled-for words, "You will now listen to Gordon Brong Fister of the "Morning Call" Staff giving the daily "Morning Call" sport chat and news flashes." Personally speaking, the Rambling Reporter thought the talk was clever, until a glance at the paper the following morning revealed that Mr. Fister had been reading the leads of the various articles. When interviewed on Monday by the Rambling Reporter, he immediately supplied the alibi that he had been running just before the broadcast and as a result, was out of breath.

Speaking about Mr. Fister who is a member of the Muhlenberg Press bureau, reminds us that he is closely affiliated with the head of the Cedar Crest Bureau (name given on request).

Because of the four-way tie between Muhlenberg, F. and M., Gettysburg and Ursinus for the Conference title, a plan was broached to have the teams meet in order to select a winner. However the coaches vetoed the idea, saying that such a plan would result in at least three games, and that as far as they were concerned, the season was over.

This was followed by an exposition of Russian drama by Benjamin Keen who stated that although the present Russian drama is merely propaganda, yet there are many excellent plays which have not received due consideration by other nations.

'Berg Football Team Awarded Mythical National Football Championship For '32

Rambling Reporter Trophy Given in Recognition of Superb Showing of Holstromites.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Muhlenberg College football team was awarded the Rambling Reporter Trophy for winning the football championship of the United States. This award is presented every year by the Rambling Reporter to that team which receives the highest ranking in his scoring system. The fact that the Reporter is a Muhlenberg student of course had no influence in his selecting the Cardinal and Gray for this great honor, since he merely gathers his statistics, adds, subtracts, and multiplies and lets the result dictate the choice.

Muhlenberg received top ranking because the Holstromites out-pointed every team on their schedule and in addition ranked far above the various sectional leaders of the nation. The scoring system is very complex. It is the result of many years work and none, but the members of the national committee understand it. As soon as an outsider discovers the details, he is made a member of the committee in order to prevent its being revealed.

The scoring system has won favor with the most renowned figures in sport. Dave Delong of the Chronicle and News praises it highly, saying, "it's one mess of figuring". Others are still more complimentary. The Sports Editor of the Associated Press states that every once in a while some nut with more spare time than brains goes off on a tangent and proves that dear old Oshkosh is six touchdowns better than Notre Dame. The Rambler does even better—he proves that Muhlenberg is 110 points better than Notre Dame.

Follows the official report of the national committee that was received by Coach George Holstrom yesterday:

THE OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

"This I beheld or dreamed in a dream."

In our estimation, after perusing the scores of hundreds of college teams, Muhlenberg College of Allentown, Penna., has, beyond a shadow of a doubt, the best football team in the country. Never in our years of compiling scores have we seen a team with such a record—a team that stands helmet and cleats above any eleven in the country.

Muhlenberg showed her superiority by defeating Gettysburg 25-6. This gave the Mules a 19 point advantage over the Bullets. This advantage may consist of 3 touchdowns and one extra point kick or one touchdown, one extra point, and four field goals or one safety, two touchdowns, two extra point kicks, and one field goal. However this is immaterial as long as there is a 19 point advantage.

The Bullets defeated Ursinus, 7-2, which gave the National Champions a 24 point lead over the Collegeville eleven. Ursinus defeated F. and M. 16-6, and Drexel, 28-6, which put 'Berg in front 34 and 46 points respectively over the Statesmen and Dragons.

Drexel defeated Juniata, 20-0, which gave the Holstrom coached thingamabob a 66 point advantage over the Juniata team.

This is Bully

Moravian sent down to Defeat

Juniata sank Moravian 51-6, which makes 'Berg 111 points better than the Moravians. It is our recommendation therefore that Muhlenberg should not play Moravian next year. As an interesting sidelight, it so happens that Muhlenberg is a Lutheran school which also make the Lutherans 111 points better than the Moravians.

Lehigh Scrambled

Gettysburg defeated Swarthmore, 14-0, which sends Muhlenberg in front by 33 points. Swarthmore walloped John Hopkins, 6-0, and so the latter is disposed of by 30 points; they, in turn, defeated Lehigh, 12-6, which establishes a 45 point advantage better than Lehigh. However since the latter defeated Muhlenberg in one of the country's biggest upsets, 25-6, in all fairness we must admit that the Allentown institution is only 26 points better than the school on South Mountain.

On To The National Championship

As explained before, the aggregation from the Dutch capitol has a 46 point advantage over Drexel. This consists of seven touchdowns and four extra points or two touchdowns and twelve field goals or (Do your own figuring). Drexel defeated Delaware, 13-0, which gives 'Berg a 49 point advantage. The latter lost to Wake Forest, 7-0, which only leaves a 42 point lead. The Wake Forest eleven, realizing that 'Berg outranked them, sank South Carolina as revenge, 7-0. If this scoring system is still correct, 'Berg is eight touchdowns better than the state south of North Carolina. South Carolina smacked Villanova, 7-6, which makes Muhlenberg and the Lutherans 49 points better than the Main Line institution and the Catholics. Villanova defeated Temple, 7-0, the advantage is raised to 56 points.

Lafayette Walloped

Bucknell lost to Villanova, 13-0 and then defeated Lafayette, 14-6. The 62 point advantage over Bucknell is increased to a 68 advantage over the Easton team.

Lebanon Valley Cleaned Up

Villanova socked Boston College, 29-9. The latter defeated Fordham, 3-0, which gave a 63 point lead to 'Berg. The Fordham boys sank Lebanon Valley, 52-0. All of which means that Muhlenberg leads Lebanon Valley by the stupendous score of 115 points. In addition we would recommend that Fordham be dropped from Muhlenberg's 1933 schedule, since the

Holstrom Selects An All-Opponent Team

P. M. C. Places Three Players On Team; While F. And M. And Ursinus Each Land Two Positions

With the close of the current football season, which may or may not have been called successful, Coach George Holstrom picked an all opponent team composed of men who gave the most difficulty to the fighting Mules. These gladiators were judged not only by their showing against Muhlenberg, but also by past performances.

The left end position was captured by Paul, of the Ursinus Bears. Finch of P. M. C. was given a tackle position, with Cannon of Franklin and Marshall as his running mate at guard. Kawal, flashy Cadet snapper back was assigned to the pivot post. On the right flank we have the dauntless Wermuth of the Lafayette Leopards. A teammate, Kolasky, is beside him at tackle. At guard the Bears again are represented in the personage of Parunak. The signal caller for this mythical team is Rust of Lebanon Valley. To the Brown and White of Lehigh go both the halfback positions in the capable hands of Halstead and Short. Pollock, that sturdy red headed Red Devil of P. M. C. fills the fullback position. Honorable mentions go to Tropp of Ursinus, Wright of Lafayette, and Howard of Gettysburg.

According to this lineup P. M. C. gained first honors with Lafayette running a very close second.

YOU would be astonished too, if you could see this machine that turns out 750 Chesterfields a minute... and every one as near perfect as cigarettes can be made.

But please bear this in mind. It is what happens before the tobacco goes into this machine that matters most. Rolling and packaging are important, but not nearly as important as the selection, blending and treatment of the tobacco.

That's why we keep telling you about the tobaccos used in Chesterfields. They're fine, mild, and pure tobaccos. We tell you about ageing and curing the tobaccos... about blending and cross-blending them... because they are things that count.

Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. Prove it for yourself... Just try a package.

MUHENBERG STUDENTS may have had it, but thanks to the makers of Lifebuoy soap, they've gotten rid of it. Even your best friend wouldn't tell you and since he wouldn't, things got so bad that this enterprising company had to step in and solve the problem. Rather than put up with that annoying what-you-may-call-it they supplied every student and member of the faculty with a cake of their soap guaranteed to make every Muhlenberg man clean in body, mind and spirit. Now his presence will no longer be offensive to his fellow students who because of alphabetical precedence are forced to sit near him. Once again we can all go to our social activities without that grim spectre haunting us. Page the makers of Listerine and Peppodent.

— MM —

PERHAPS THE PRESENTATION of that cake of soap was the first step in Dr. Bowman's plan to make Muhlenberg a co-educational college. The sociologist believes that such a move would make some of the local collegians brush their teeth twice a day and would make Si Padolin wear a tie. There's one drawback to a co-educational school. Dr. Bowman would have to give up his entertaining travelogues and Prof. Simpson's symposiums on English would lose just a bit of their flavor. For that reason this column is unalterably opposed to making Muhlenberg co-educational.

— MM —

THE ADMINISTRATION SEEMS to be agreed with that, because the annual Christmas program with Cedar Crest as the guests of Muhlenberg seems to have been abandoned for the year. Blame it on the depression.

— MM —

WE HATE TO STEAL THEIR thunder, but the managing editor of the Cedar Crest "Crestiad" tells us to watch the answer to the MIRROR dealing with their dance the other week, which will be published in the next issue, if that ever comes out. We can't blame her for answering us for in spite of the efforts of the local boys she's still partial to Lehigh men. Why, we can't tell. Can you?

— MM —

NOW THAT THE DEMOCRATS have been elected, Mr. Bernheim delivers the pay checks to the faculty on the twenty-third of the month and claims that if Hoover had been elected there wouldn't have been any pay checks at all. That's his opinion and this column is repeating it simply as such without any comments except that we believe that the Republicans and the Democrats would have been willing to pay the staff for their invaluable services.

— MM —

BEFORE WE LOWER THE CURTAIN we might remind you that Charlie Preston was seen carrying a hymn book away from the chapel the other day—just to prove that he had been there. Paul Gerhard tells us that when he did it he thought he was carrying one of the regular editions of a work published by the Fleetwood Press. We understand that it's a pretty good press at that. Gerhard is the authority for that crack.

Brown and White

"Listerine is 2 per cent of boric acid, 23 per cent of alcohol, and 75 per cent of water, and while it will cover signs of halitosis, an onion would do as well.

"The Senior of absorbine Jr. was a horse liniment, and the junior is merely a dilute form containing an acetone extract of worm wood with oil of sassafras and menthol.

"The new Peppodent which is safe because it is twice as soft as polishing materials in use, is largely composed of a coarse grit of precipitated calcium phosphate, needle crystals, and broken fragments of spherulites. These are insoluble in water and presumably in mouth acids, and some are hard enough to scratch glass."

All this was stated by Dr. Harvey A. Neville, associate professor of chemistry of Lehigh University at a meeting of the Chemistry society recently.

Presenting

Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of Muhlenberg College

The Weekly takes pleasure in presenting a few facts about our president, Dr. Haas, that are not generally known by the student body.

Dr. Haas was born in Philadelphia on August 31, 1862. He received his preliminary education at Episcopal Academy. After graduation from this preparatory school he entered the University of Pennsylvania where he received an A.B. degree in 1884. He then attended the Lutheran Theological Seminary and received the degree of B.D. from the U. of P. in 1887. Not satisfied with an American education he went abroad where he studied at the University of Leipzig during the years of 1887-88. Dr. Haas then returned to the U. S. where he received his degree of D.D. from Theil in 1902. It is seldom that we find a man possessing three LL.D. degrees, but it is true of our president. One was conferred in 1914 by the U. of P., another by Augustana College in 1917 and the third by Gettysburg College in 1922.

Very often we find that men who have attained high academic honors are satisfied to rest upon their laurels and sink back into their easy chairs to watch the rest of the world do the bulk of constructive work. Not so with Dr. Haas—in 1915 his first book was published, the title of which is, "Trends of Thought and Christian Truth." Again Dr. Haas contributed to the world of literature by writing another book whose title is, "In the Light of Faith", published in 1922. President Haas was fast becoming known throughout the academic realm as a philosopher of the highest order. Because of this recognition, students of religion and philosophy demanded more of Dr. Haas' works. To satisfy this demand another book, "Freedom and Christian Conduct" was published in 1923. In 1926, "The Unity of Faith and Knowledge" was released. Again in 1927 a book by Dr. Haas, "The Truth of Faith" was put upon the market to enjoy great popularity, both in academic and ministerial circles. It was thought that the book written by our president in 1922 called, "What Ought I to Believe?" reached the peak of modern philosophical art, but as usual Dr. Haas has done the unexpected, for upon investigation we find that he has just finished a book that is now on the press and bears the title, "Christianity and Its Contrasts".

Rev. Dr. Haas has the distinction of being a member of the Authors' Club in London, England and also an honorary member of the Lehigh Rotary and the Lehigh Country Clubs. Not only has President Haas lectured before innumerable college and church groups in this vicinity and in distant cities, but he was at one time a preacher at Harvard University. Incidentally, the Weekly at this time would like to call attention to the fact that Dr. Haas has many, many times refused to accept payment for his lectures and when he does accept, it is not unusual for him to donate the amount to our college, to charity, or to some other worthy cause. In fact, he has given away sums the size of which is unknown, because it is his wish that he receive no publicity for his charitable acts. The Weekly calls attention to aforementioned contributions solely because it feels that the students of Muhlenberg have a right to know the true character of their president.

Dr. Haas was for a number of years president of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania and has had many interesting and humorous experiences while attending meetings of this group. One of the more humorous incidents, as told by himself, occurred just after he completed his last term as president. During the course of regular business a motion was made to the effect that the office of president of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania should carry with it a stipulated salary to be set by that convention. When the chairman asked for discussion, one elderly Pennsylvania German arose and said, in a resounding voice, "I can't see the advantage of paying out good money to the president of this organization when Dr. Haas was so good for nothing." This of course caused a great deal of hilarity, Rev. Haas especially enjoying the joke, and as a result his friends never tire of reminding him of it.

This little incident goes to prove that philosophers, contrary to the usual conception, do possess a keen sense of humor. We might well call Dr. Haas a philosopher since he is rated by leading authorities among the ten greatest contemporary philosophers in the world.

Dr. Haas has done a great deal toward making Muhlenberg one of the most picturesque colleges in the East. When he first came to the school there was nothing on the campus but the Administration building and the Dormitories. During the years he has been here he has done much to bring about the building of the Library, the Science Building, and the Chapel. It is hard to believe that so much can be done in such a short time.

Dr. Haas says that he will not cease his activities on the Muhlenberg campus until his dream of a new gymnasium has materialized.

The Seawanhaka reports that after the night watchman at the girls dorms reported his job as being unexciting, forty-three men withdrew their applications for the position. . . . Ho hum. . . . And so to bed.

'BERG FOOTBALL TEAM WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

latter is 63 points better. The game, in our opinion, would only result in a walkaway by the Allentown team.

Here Is Some Real Fun

Muhlenberg is 56 points better than Carnegie Tech because Temple tied the steel boys. This also gives the Lutherans an advantage over the Scotch. Pitt defeated Tech, 6-0. Therefore Muhlenberg has a 50 point advantage over the Smoky City eleven. By virtue of the latter's victories over Army and Notre Dame, the Cadets are disposed of by 55 points and the South Bend Institution and the Irish by 62 points. However on a recheck, we find that Notre Dame defeated Carnegie Tech, 42-0, which makes 'Berg 104 points and not 56 points better than Carnegie Tech. Since the latter lost to Pitt, 6-0, the advantage is raised to 98 points and not 50. By virtue of Pitt's victories over Army and Notre Dame, the Cardinal and Gray rates 103 points better than the Army and 110 points better than the Irish. However on another recheck, we find that Notre Dame socked Carnegie Tech, 42-0, which gives 'Berg a 152 point advantage and not 104 better than Carnegie Tech. Since the latter lost. Now that you have the idea, keep on until you reach two million.)

Far Western Winner Outranked

As explained before, a 63 point advantage exists over Fordham. The latter walloped Oregon, 8-6, which sends 'Berg in front by 65 points. Oregon State lost to Southern California, 33-0, but this still leaves Muhlenberg 32 points or five touchdowns and one safety better than the Pacific Champions.

Big Ten Winner Also Walloped

Since on our first compilation, 'Berg was 62 points better than Notre Dame, the former is 74 points better than Navy who lost to the Ramblers, 12-0. Navy tied Princeton which automatically means that a 74 point lead also exists over Princeton. The latter lost to Tulane, 6-0. Therefore Muhlenberg outranks the Big Ten winner by 67 digits.

Auburn Outranked

As shown before, a 48 point advantage exists over S. Carolina. The latter lost to Tulane, 6-0. Therefore the 42 point advantage over Tulane enables 'Berg to outrank Auburn by 30 points because Tulane lost to Auburn, 19-7.

Colgate Far Inferior

Fordham defeated N. Y. U., 7-0, which means that 'Berg outrates N. Y. U. by 10 touchdowns and 10 extra points. N. Y. U. lost to Colgate, 24-0, but Muhlenberg completes the season with a 56 point lead over Andy Kerr's boys.

Therefore we do proclaim Muhlenberg's football team the best in the country.

Signed,

BERNARD FRANK,
Chairman Executive Committee.

"FRAT" is a "horrid word". It is a vulgar abbreviation and is avoided by "men who know", on more sophisticated camp. Just because it is more easy to say "frat" than fraternity is no excuse for its use, and it will be noticed that it is used frequently among high school students. The word "Fraternity" stands for an organization whose purpose should not be made light of. This expression then, should be absolutely excluded from our collection of "campus slang". The very sound of the word is sufficient to outlaw it.

Students Fall Upon "Herbie", Cut His Hair, And Give Him A Ride

Frankfort, Chapel Attendance
Tabulator, Makes Surprise
Visit To Cedar Crest

There were big doings on and off the local campus last Tuesday night when a number of the boys got together and took "Herbie" Frankfort, over-zealous dorm proctor and chapel attendance, keeper for a ride and gave him a free haircut. Enraged by the recent suspension of six fellow-students whose dismissal was blamed on Frankfort's overzealousness in pursuit of his official duties, the group took this method of showing their disapproval.

The sinners began to gather about seven thirty o'clock on the back campus. There were approximately seventy-five fraternity and non-fraternity men comprising this group. However, the program was temporarily suspended because of the absence of the victim. Meanwhile there was an attempt made by telephone on the part of "Herbie's" room-mate to warn him of his impending danger.

Finally someone informed the group that "Herbie" was at the Rosemark, and a grand stampede took place in that direction. People living on Twenty-third street thought that another contingent of the B. E. F. was passing through. The gang waited until "Herbie" left the Rosemark for his room in the Dorms, and then in a very graceful manner they politely removed the only remaining obstacle in their pathway, namely another one of Frankfort's roommates. With this individual removed the boys thought that they had a sufficient number of men to subdue their victim.

To Cedar Crest

In spite of his vehement protests, Frankfort was quickly ushered into a waiting automobile and driven towards Cedar Crest. Some thoughtful individual decided that "Herbie" needed a haircut before meeting our sister students on the hill. This job was apparently taken care of by an

In the midst of a true German atmosphere and filled with the joy of Christmas, the members of the German Club thoroughly enjoyed a real old-fashioned Christmas party at the home of Dr. Barba on Monday, December 12.

During the course of the evening, St. Nicholas, in the person of Dr. Reichard, made his appearance amid the jingling of sleigh bells and the prancing of his reindeer. Before they received their gifts, the guests were compelled to do their bit in the way of a short speech or song. Dr. Corbiere delighted the gathering with his presentation of two French songs. Both Dr. Ettinger and Dr. Brown rendered short gems of German poetry which were received with much enthusiasm. A humorous German anecdote was the contribution of Dr. Marks, who also accompanied Mrs. Marks as she sang "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

The president and members of the Deutscher Verein were happy to receive recently from the president of the Goethean Literary Society of Franklin and Marshall College the following congratulatory letter:

Mr. President:
"I note with pleasure your group's recent observance relative to the life, works, and centennial of the death of him whom many have seen fit to call 'the universal mind of modern time.'"

Garnet, Ruoss, Bennetch, and rig Foundation Prizes

Prizes for the best reports on the Rehrig Foundation lectures were awarded by Dr. Haas after his concluding lecture on Thursday morning in the Science Auditorium.

Richard Garnet, president of the Student Body and the Student Council, was awarded first prize consisting of $25.00 and a book containing the lectures. Second prize of $15.00 and a book went to G. Martin Ruoss. The third prize of $10.00 and a book and the fourth prize of $5.00 and a book were given to John Bennetch and Christian Schenk respectively.

Fifteen students had entered the contest, but after the first lecture this number dwindled down to eleven.

Juniors Compete In Oratorical Contest

Feller and Leaman Are Winners; To Compete With Two Seniors In January

An oratorical elimination contest, to choose two Junior oratorical representatives, was held in the Assembly room of the Administration building on Thursday, December 8, at 4:15 A. M. The winners of this contest, Gordon Feller and Gerhard Leaman, will compete with the two Senior representatives, Richard Garnet and Harry Dunlap, on January 19, 1933, to decide who shall be the I. O. U. representative from Muhlenberg. The judges of the contest were professors Brown and Simpson.

The four contestants were as follows:

Thomas Berg, whose topic was "The Open Road," stated the need for more men with the courage to accept the challenge of the uncharted, open road to achievement.

John Bennetch, using the topic "Scars," said that few men are willing to bear the scars of ridicule and humiliation to stand firm by their convictions and live up to the ideal which they know to be most noble.

Gerhard Leaman, taking the subject "Bearing the Burden," showed how the brunt of the burden of the depression is shouldered by the middle class of society.

Gordon Feller, speaking on "Prohibition or Liquor, Which?" said that "prohibition at its worst is better than legal liquor sale at its best!"

Sophomore Class Votes Upon New Constitution

At 12 o'clock last Thursday in the Science Auditorium, Sophomore Class President, Gosztanyi asked the Freshmen to co-operate by wearing their regulations. The freshmen were then dismissed. The first five articles of the proposed constitution for the Sophomore Class were read, discussed and voted on.

Council Formulates Resolutions After Recent Disturbance

WHEREAS the Student Council of Muhlenberg College feels obligated to take some beneficial action concerning the hazing of Mr. Herbert Frankfort, and the events associated therewith.

AND WHEREAS the Council does not interpret these actions as an expression against Mr. Frankfort personally so much as a protest against the authority which he exercised.

BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED that any authority or proctorships which Mr. Frankfort may possess be taken from him, and also any keys to campus rooms or campus buildings which he has no personal right or reason to enter.

AND BE IT RESOLVED that unless definite charges are brought before the Council, the Council will refuse to take action against anyone connected with the affair.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that all dormitory proctors be removed from office, and that hereafter they be appointed by the President of the College on the recommendation of Student Council.

AND BE IT RESOLVED ALSO that hereafter students shall be urged to give more formal expression to any dissension, referring the matter to the Faculty through the Student Council;

AND TO THE SAME END, BE IT RESOLVED that the Student Council support wholeheartedly the program of the Muhlenberg Weekly to give free expression to any opinions; since in the opinion of the Council, this opportunity is one of the chief assets of the college paper.

ALSO, BE IT RESOLVED that Student Council express their wish that more of the cases of students requiring disciplinary action be referred to them.

AND FINALLY BE IT RESOLVED that a copy of this resolution be submitted to the Administration, and one to the Faculty as a whole; that a copy of this resolution be posted on the bulletin board of the Administration Building; and that this resolution be published in full in the forthcoming issue of the Muhlenberg Weekly.

Adopted by Student Council, December 7, 1932.

Rev. Cressman Gains "Purple Heart" Medal For His War Service

College Chaplain Is Also Given Verdun Medal Recently by French Government.

Another distinct merit award has come to the Muhlenberg College student pastor, Rev. Harry P. Cressman, with the announcement last week that he had been awarded the "Purple Heart" by the United States government.

A few weeks ago Rev. Cressman had received the Verdun medal from the French government for distinctive and meritorious service under fire during the battle of Verdun.

The "Purple Heart" decoration consists of a heart shaped medal with its center of purple enamel. On the obverse is a relief bust of George Washington in the uniform of a general of the Continental Army. On the reverse appears the inscription "For Military Merit" and the name of the veteran to whom the medal is awarded. The Washington coat of arms is incorporated in the ring which attaches it to a purple ribbon, bordered with a narrow white stripe.

Under the regulations governing the award of the Purple Heart for acts or services performed prior to February 22, 1932, the award is confined to those persons, who, as members of the army, were awarded the meritorious service citation certificate by the commander-in-chief, A. E. F., or who were wounded in action under conditions which entitled them to wear a wound chevron.

Rev. Cressman, serving as first lieutenant chaplain with the 311th Infantry, 78th Division, A. E. F., was wounded under fire October 8, 1918, in France, and hospitalized in France for some time. He was finally returned to America as a casualty on

Eta Sigma Phi Plans For Progressive Future

Plans for a progressive future were discussed at the meeting of Eta Sigma Phi, national classical fraternity, on Thursday, December 8. After the business meeting, four members of the organization gave excellent reports on four books. Faust, Freeman, Schenck, and Hottel chose respectively: Maggoffin's "Lure and Lore of Archaeology," "Magic Spades" by Maggoffin and Davis, Woolley's "Digging Up The Past," and "Archaeological Excavations" by Drooye. Refreshments were served after the reports were discussed.

Dr. Swain Lectures Upon "William Penn. International Man"

History Professor Delivers Address Commemorating Penn's Arrival In America

Attributing the greatness of William Penn to his international viewpoint, Dr. James E. Swain, professor of History at Muhlenberg College, presented to the Student Body an analysis of the founder of Pennsylvania during the Wednesday Chapel service, December 7.

William Penn was born during the reign of James II when England was experiencing a period marked by religious persecution, numerous wars, and much factional strife. Penn's father was second in command of the royal navy, but defeat and misfortune lost him his position.

Penn first became acquainted with the teachings of Charles Fox when he was thirteen years old. At that time Quakerism was much scorned for its sympathy with peace. Some years after his original acquaintance with Fox's teachings, Penn became a Quaker and published his exposition of the religion, "No Cross, No Crown." This book sold fifty editions, the last being printed in 1931 just before the opening of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Pennsylvania.

Penn is most famous for the founding of Pennsylvania, the land of which he received from Charles II in payment of a debt. Penn demonstrated the mixture of idealism and materialism in the Quaker when he desired religious toleration and at the same time compensation therefor.

His dealings with the Indians were always marked with fair dealing. As

The services were led by Dr. Wilker, who also delivered a short sermon on "Prayer and Worship."

Coach Is Needed For "Mask and Dagger" Play

Drama Group Has Great Difficulty In Finding Director for Three-Act Play

At a special meeting of the "Mask and Dagger," held on Monday afternoon, December 5, at 4:15 o'clock in their club room in the Library building, definite plans were made as to the method to be used in selecting a coach for their proposed three-act presentation.

It was reported by the president, John Hemmerly, that the group of faculty members, who had expressed themselves interested in drama, had in an interview declared that they would wholeheartedly support a three-act presentation. When asked suggestion for a coach, the president reported that they all thought it should be a man connected with the college, but every faculty member approached declined to accept the responsibility.

The club was perplexed, but decided that it would again attempt to find a coach connected with the college, but if it failed, the president was empowered to appoint a committee to select a coach not connected with the institution.

John Gosztanyi, due to the late arrival of Chairman Robert W. S. Stinson, gave a very encouraging report on the progress of the dance committee. Frederick F. J. Wavrek has been secured to do the decorating and he has many novel ideas which he will put into effect. George Doddy and his orchestra will furnish the syncope. The dance will be held in the college library on Friday evening, January 13, 1933.

"Faith And Unbelief" Is Topic For Final Lecture By Dr. Haas

Brilliant Discussion Holds Interest Of Large Audience At Thursday Assembly

"Faith and Unbelief" was the topic of the concluding lecture delivered by Dr. Haas in his series on "Christian Evidences" in the Science Auditorium on Thursday morning, December 8. The series of lectures was sponsored by the Rehrig Foundation.

"Sometimes men have made an attempt to contrast faith and reason, but these two really work together," said the president. "Reason demands Faith, and Faith uses Reason as a defense for the attitude it takes. Great financial operations rest on faith, for credit is really nothing but faith. The real contrast is between Faith and Unbelief."

Dr. Haas then went on to enumerate the contrasts existing between these two:

"Unbelief states that we do not want anyone to rule over us. But regardless of this, everyone follows a master of some sort. In art, literature, and music we are always guided by some master who leads us on. Even as great a man as Goethe was plainly dependent on Spinoza. Jesus' influence as Master in Christianity comes through his directness and simplicity. He states truths directly. And his masterhood is shown not only in what he teaches but in what he is. He himself is meek. He walks in willingness to serve men. There is a masterhood in him that is above anything found in the leaders of men."

Christianity is Redemptive

"Moreover, Christianity is a redemptive religion. It needs a redeemer. It believes that sin must be removed. It believes that there are tendencies both of evil and good that come down to us. Examining the sciences we find that some authorities in biology believe that all evil is the outcome of certain ills in a man. Some sociologists believe that we are creatures of heredity and environment and cannot help ourselves. According to still another idea, if we could only give the people enough to eat and drink we could produce a state of society in which no evil

M. in the assembly room of the Administration Building of Muhlenberg College. Theta Upsilon Omega Debate Team, coached by John R. Brokhoff, was a very close second, gaining one of the three votes for first place and two votes for second place. Donald V. Hock, Coach of Freshman Debating, and John R. Brokhoff, Student Manager, are conducting these Intramurals in spite of the Interfraternity Council's opposition.

Ray O. Bachman, '33, officiated as Chairman of the Debates. Malcolm M. Parker and Charles Klein acted as Timekeepers. Mr. Stanley Matsick, Mr. Clayton W. Hensinger, and Mr. M. K. Lichty were the Judges.

The Fraternities rank in the following order: (1) Phi Kappa Tau, (2) Theta Upsilon Omega, (3) Grays, (4) Phi Epsilon Pi, (5) Non-Frats. The last two won by defaults. The Phi Kappa Tau will waive the Quarter and Semi-finals, and debate the winner of the Semi-finals in the Finals. The Quarter-finals will take place immediately after the Christmas Holidays.

Congratulations

During the last week Muhlenberg authorities were faced with a serious situation. The low rumblings of rebellion might easily have developed into the reverberations of a major conflagration without the competent and diplomatic handling by which the entire affair was governed. The crisis of this condition, the Frankfort incident, was seen in its true light by the administration, which is to be highly commended for the manner in which steps were taken to restore campus activity and student opinion to their natural state.

Probably the most phenomenal result of this occurrence was the stimulation into action of the Student Council, who, in our opinion, responded nobly in accepting the responsibilities of a seemingly undesirable position. Their accomplishment in evolving their resolutions entirely compensates for any previous dormancy there might have been.

We sincerely hope that the students will avail themselves of the opportunity presented to them to express their views in the "Weekly". We offer our congratulations to all parties concerned in the fracas for their part in bringing about the unusually peaceful ending to this latest dramatic episode in the life of the college.

—Morton Silverman.

Christmas

Christmas-tide revives our spirit, and our hope for spreading joy among fellow students and acquaintances. The strenuous months of school are forgotten during the holiday week, the circle of friends is changed, our home beckons to rest and companionship, and the beauty of Christian centuries culminates in worship of the new-born King. The youthful soul casts off pedantic and cynic bonds to lose itself on the wings of song. There's no talented voice for us all but we make melody in our hearts to the Lord of all.

Surely the least fortunate of us sympathizes with the baby of the stable, and determines brighter things for the oncoming new year. A crisis in our student life may well occur in the short weeks after the holidays until the semester closes. The strange thing is, we will joke about the drudgery of college, but be very happy to greet one another upon our return in January. Every year we plan to study during vacation, but our mind is carried on from one joy to another, failing to concentrate on class work.

Let the "Weekly Staff" wish for you the happy Christmas and New Year which they would like to have.

amateur, if we may judge his ability by the job he did on the former proctor.

Now that Frankfort was fully prepared for his social visit the next problem was to get him inside Curtis Hall without being shot by the night watchman. No one interfered, and the now thoroughly frightened Frankfort was carried into the reception room in a coma.

After having partially disrobed their victim the boys made an orderly retreat. When Frankfort awoke he probably thought that he was in heaven with all those angelic faces surrounding him. The girls offered to convey "Herbie" back to earth (Muhlenberg) by automobile. However, Frankfort, feeling that he needed air, decided to walk home unaccompanied. Thus another chapter of adventure was written in the life of Herbert Frankfort.

Because a local reporter wrote an erroneous story of the event, newspapers all over the Eastern section of the country carried a description of the affair that made it seem as though there had been a concentrated student uprising, with the college president sticking to his guns in a fierce battle against a pagan revolt. It was good news copy, but untrue, as a well known press association was informed when they eagerly requested more details from a local member paper.

The Student Council, contrary to newspaper reports, performed its duty well, and there was complete cooperation and understanding between this body and the Administration. Students enjoyed reading the rather sensational stories that had been clipped from the large metropolitan papers, and placed on the bulletin board.

In identifying Karl Marx a co-ed at Bucknell stammered: "He must be the fellow who plays the harp, isn't he?"

A group of startled young women at Penn State found a freshman, ink in hand, wandering around the second floor of their sorority house. Upper classmen had told him that he could find his English professor there. Well, one can never tell.

Official Muhlenberg College Christmas cards are now on sale in the offices of the Treasurer and the President in the Administration building. They make an attractive and appropriate token to send to a friend.

LIBRARY NOTES

Few citizens of Allentown know that there lives among them a most eminent writer in the Penna.-German dialect, in fact the most distinguished writer of prose in the annals of Penna.-German literature: Charles More. Mr. More, now in his eighty-second year, resides with his son at 723 Gordon St., Allentown.

If and when the Penna.-Germans recover from their inferiority complex, they may then also be sensitive enough to feel humiliated in the knowledge that Charles More, honored abroad for his literary achievements, came home to spend the evening of his life among his own, and his own knew him not, a living example of the prophet who is without honor in his own country. Despite disappointments, Mr. More looks back upon his long and eventful life with that ironic geniality that marks genuine greatness of character. Honors can mean little to him now.

Some time ago, Dr. Barba of the German Department, suggested to Mr. More that he leave his literary remains, manuscripts of published and unpublished works to Muhlenberg College. Mr. More very kindly responded to this suggestion and today these manuscripts repose in the vaults of the College Library. They will very shortly be catalogued by Professor Simpson, so that they may be readily accessible to future students of Penna.-German Literature and philology.

Muhlenberg College is very grateful to Mr. More for this valuable gift.

Dr. Harry Reichard, in his work "Pennsylvania-German Dialect Writings and their Writers" writes of More as follows:

"Charles C. More had opportunities that were not vouchsafed to any other writer of Penna.-German, and he did not fail to take advantage of them. He was born in Allentown in 1851; his paternal ancestor had come from Alsace Lorraine, on his mother's side they were from Switzerland. Her father, Jacob Blumer, familiarly known as Father Blumer, was the second Reformed preacher at Allentown, and it was during his incumbency as pastor there that the "Liberty Bell" was buried under the floor of his church to save it from the hands of the British, who occupied Philadelphia.

At Allentown More attended the public schools, and later the seminary, where he studied Latin under the Hon. Jeremiah S. Hess. At the age of seventeen he went to Europe and studied in Berlin and taught German and French in Geneva, Switzerland, and in England, remaining in Europe nine years. In 1876 he returned to America, but the same year went back to Europe again and was appointed clerk of the American legation in Berlin under Bayard Taylor, and remained ten years. On his second return to America he entered upon the editorial staff of "Weltbote" and "Friedensbote" at Allentown and remained fourteen years, after which he entered the service of the Victor Talking Machine Co. as translator.

While in Europe he had become familiar with different German and French dialects; these he was wont to compare with his own Penna.-German dialect and as he did so he became convinced that it has as good a right to be as the best of them; he felt it ought to have its Fritz Reuters, its Klaus Groths, its Berthold Auerbachs or Hermann Naders. With Berthold Auerbach he was personally acquainted and he believed that Pennsylvania might have such dialect writers if as honest and as patriotic effort were made to foster the dialect as dialect writers were fostered abroad.

It was such thoughts as these that led More to make his first literary attempts at short-story writing. Eventually More developed a technique that can be compared favorably with that of the great German "Novellen" writers of the nineteenth century.

More has also written some very fine poems, but his pre-eminence lies in the field of the short story and the Novelette.

The German Academy two years ago saw fit to bestow upon the writer a medal for distinguished literary achievement. Today Charles More is looked upon as the finest writer of prose in the Penna.-German Literature.

BERNARD FRANK, '35
Morning Becomes Electra

The presentation of the O'Neil play at the Lyric Theatre last week was viewed by approximately one-third of the student body. In fact, anybody who could scrape, steal, or borrow fifty cents was there—with the possible exceptions of Herbie Frankfort, who was not in the mood to see any plays last week, and Lehman Richman, who was unavoidably detained at a place one block from the theatre.

It was indeed a colorful audience, the gallery was packed with pretty girls and Muhlenberg students. The surprise of the evening was Si Padolin (Morning Call: "One of the fastest halfbacks in small college circles.") He was well-dressed, spotlessly clean, and wore a tie. All of which makes front-page news. During the one-hour intermission between the first and second play, Mr. Padolin developed a superiority complex and refused to sit in the gallery with the proletariat; he sat on the first floor.

The Gerhardt twins were also present, attired in brown suits, green shirts, and red ties. Both wore glasses, and paid to get in, which is also front-page news. Others gracing the gallery by their presence were: Paul Gerhard, Russel Krapf, Martin Ruoss, Christian Schenk, Bertram or Byrant Schrieber, Don. Weinsheimer, etc.

P. S. The play was also worthy of note.

Correction—the prodigious sophomore or junior returned the athletic book to the owner several days ago. . . . The author of the "Passing Present" articles has passed out of our midst. . . . Benjamin Keen no longer graces this institution . . . as stated before in this column, the next stop is ROOSIA. . . . Albright College is calling the Eastern Penna. Grid Conference names because of their inability to enter it. . . . They put forth the suggestion that perhaps they have too good a team for the conference as their recent crushing defeat of Ursinus perhaps indicated. . . . We must admit that Albright certainly has wonderful grid elevens and this admission would strengthen the Conference. . . . In addition, their presence on the 'Berg schedule would pave the way for a keen rivalry between the two institutions. . . . WE WANT ALBRIGHT.

Good News For The Boys

Muhlenberg supporters and Muhlenberg football players will rejoice in the fact that some of the leading sport writers have already named Fordham as the next year's national champions. Last year, the "Rams" had a sophomore eleven; those boys were juniors this year; next year, they'll be seniors. In fact, only two are graduating from the entire varsity squad this year. Among the teams that 'Berg meets next year is this formidable Fordham team. Certainly there are no pleasing prospects in that fact. It is folly to think that 'Berg is a fit opponent for the "Rams" even in an ordinary season, let alone meeting them when they have their eyes focused on the national championship.

For the last two years, the Rambling Reporter has devised a system whereby Muhlenberg outranks the best teams in the country. The only fault with the system is: "Woe unto him who believes it". It appears as if the local schedule makers believed the system; they schedule Penn State, Fordham, Lehigh, Lafayette, etc., and then sit back in smug security and expect the eleven to play a schedule like that. There certainly is no thrill in getting pushed around by some of the country's potential leaders in national ranking. Lebanon Valley defeated 'Berg this year and was then scrambled by Fordham 52-0. What can we expect?

WE WANT TO PLAY COLLEGES WE HAVE AT LEAST A CHANCE OF BEATING. IT IS FINE TO EARN MONEY BY LARGE GATE RECEIPTS AND GUARANTEES, BUT NOT AT THE EXPENSE OF OUR FOOTBALL TEAM. FOOTBALL WASN'T INSTITUTED HERE SO THAT THE TEAM COULD PLAY SUCH COLLEGES AS FORDHAM FOR ONLY ONE PURPOSE—money, Money, MONEY.

The Goethean Literary Society of Franklin and Marshall College was founded in 1835, only three years after the death of the great German poet. Of the many Goethe Literary Societies existing in the world today, this is the oldest. Its seal bears Goethe's head, and the motto: "Let there be light," which is a symbolical interpretation of Goethe's last words. Since 1846 it has owned its own hall. The Society also owns a valuable library of some 10,000 volumes, which since 1927 have been catalogued with that of the college. Its Alumni members number about 800 men, and among its past honorary members are such well known names as those of Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Washington Irving, Henry W. Longfellow and Mark Twain. The Goethean Literary Society continues to be the guardian of the finest traditions of Franklin and Marshall College.

The Christmas vacation will begin at five-fifteen on Friday, December 16, and continue until Tuesday, January 3, 1933, at noon. We wish you all a Merry Christmas.

St. Thomas and East Stroudsburg Win Over Basketball Team as Season Opens

St. Thomas, 40; 'Berg, 29

Stroudsburg, 51; 'Berg, 36

George Holstrom's Muhlenberg College varsity cagemen made their debut of the 1932-33 basketball campaign, last Friday night, against a strong St. Thomas College five. The game was played in Town Hall, Scranton, and the Holstromites were surpassed by the "Tommies" by a 40 to 29 decision, before an unusually large number of fans. Not being used to making straight shots the "Muhls" were severely handicapped by the low rafters, "Joe" Rodgers being the only "Cardinal and Gray" player able to shoot without a great deal of effort.

Coach "Joe" Zinder's "Tom Cats" were aided by the fact that Freshmen are allowed to participate in varsity contests at the Scranton institution. Consequently "Dick" Roach, star of last season's Old Forge High School team which won the Pennsylvania state championship, and others were able to take part and their presence helped their team considerably. The real star of the "Tommies" was, however, their center, a tall lanky fellow by the name of "Eddie" Deitch, who was able to almost drop field goals through the mesh at will. McGrath, St. Thomas forward, led his team in scoring with four field goals and two fouls for a total of ten points.

"Joe" Rodgers, making his debut as a Muhlenberg College varsity basketball player, held the high scoring honors of the evening and was the star of the game for the Holstromites, sinking in four field goals and three fouls for a total of eleven points. "Bill" Nixon, playing his last season of collegiate basketball, garnered five points with two field goals and one foul.

Coach Holstrom started his second team, composed of Judt and Lepore at forward; Rohn jumping center, and Matuska and Rodgers playing at the guard positions. This team jumped into an early lead which St. Thomas overcame without much difficulty after two minutes of play. The Scrantonians were never topped from that time until the final whistle blew. The score at half time was 24 to 11 in favor of the "Tommies."

In a game which provided few thrills, the Stroudsburg State Teachers College basketball team decisively trounced the Muhlenberg aggregation to the tune of 51-36. The contest was devoid of spectacular play of any kind despite the brilliant passing and floor play of the Mountaineers. Although completely outclassed, the Mules gave a fair account of themselves and gave no little amount of trouble by their long range shooting. Brown, the rangy center of the Teachers, and Mankeulinas, stellar guard, captured scoring honors by garnering 21 points between them.

The floor play of Evans must not be overlooked, for although only scoring four points, he was a bulwark on the defense. For the Mules, Rodgers and Stern took scoring honors with four twin pointers and a foul apiece. Bill Horine, by playing a remarkable game at guard deserved the grand ovation which was given him on his exit late in the second half. The score at half-time was 29-13 in favor of the Teachers. Stroudsburg had previously defeated Lafayette 56 to 33.

"Church and Depression" Is Topic for Pre-Ministers

The Rev. William C. Schaeffer, Jr., D.D., pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Allentown, was the guest speaker at the December meeting of the Ministerial Club held last Thursday evening, December 8, in the Bible Seminar room of the Library. The address was based on the subject "The Church and the Depression," and was a scholarly survey demonstrating the great work being done by the church in alleviating starvation and disaster in the present economic upheaval.

Christian J. Schenck, '33 was in charge of the devotional part of the meeting while Russell S. Beazley, '34 led the singing. A delightful meal was enjoyed by the club, prior to the meeting, at the college commons, under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer.

The results are as follows:

1. Grays (Robert Lauback, Coach; Ralph Ebert, Henry Klausfelder, Walter Guigley, Alternate) defeated Delta Theta (Roger Minner, Coach; Fred Thomas) upon the question "Resolved that the press exerts more influence than the pulpit." Grays upheld the Affirmative side.

2. Theta Upsilon Omega (John R. Brokhoff, Coach; Norton Behney, Joseph Keiper) defeated Theta Kappa Nu (Fred Storch, Coach; Bertram Reese, Robert Miller) upon the question "Resolved that modern advertising is detrimental to the best interests to society". Theta Upsilon upheld the Affirmative.

3. Phi Kappa Tau (Ray Brennan, Coach; R. C. Decker, T. C. Fischer) defeated Cardinals (Russel Krapf, Coach; Paul Hoepfner, William Pfeiffer, John Whittaker, Alternate) upon the question "Resolved that no individual shall be allowed to inherit or receive by gift more than $50,000 during his lifetime or receive an income of more than $50,000 a year." Phi Kappa Tau upheld the Affirmative.

Austy Tate of Lehigh in selecting his all-opponent eleven places Luke Miller on the first team in the right tackle position. One realizes the honor as one peruses the entire eleven selected by the Lehigh Coach. The rest of the selections are made from Columbia, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Rutgers, and Lafayette. Such players as Matal of Columbia, Colehower of Penna., Billings of Princeton, Engle of Penna., Montgomery of Columbia, and James of Princeton are included. All of them received all-Eastern honors and a few of them All-American honors. Muhlenberg can indeed feel proud of Luke.

Muhlenberg Mirrored

By Gordon B. Fister, '33

IT'S A GRAND OLD COLLEGE after all, for a little excitement now and then is relished by the wisest men. From this day on, henceforth and forever more, whosoever calls Muhlenberg students "lilies" is relegated and condemned to spend the remainder of his worthless life in the deepest part of the River Styx.

There's a five thousand ruble prize offered by the Muhlenberg "Window" for the best story on "Dear Old Alma Mater's Most Eventful Twenty Four Hours." The prize has already been awarded to Haps Benfer, for his story was the most complete, the most gripping, the most sensational. At that Haps deserved the rubles for the trials, tortures and persecutions he suffered in his effort to make ends meet. Congratulations, Haps.

BUT WHEN BILL RITTER SEES BULLETS—good old lead bullets, Bill gets excited. Who wouldn't get excited to find a mere boy with two guns and the bullets to fit them. The suggestion has been made that the student body be frisked daily to see that no one violates the Witkins firearms act. But who cares, as long as you're a Muhlenberg student you can get away with most anything.

THERE'S A CERTAIN MUHLENBERG student by the name of Richard who lost what he calls a moustache just before the battle royal in which Herby lost a bit more than a moustache. That's just the difference between voluntary and involuntary hair slaughter.

LEHIGH STUDENTS ARE A NOISY bunch, according to the columnette who taps a typewriter for the Crestiad, a local spasmodic publication. The columnette further says that this columnist is a liar. But we can prove by lies, blankety-blank lies or statistics that Muhlenberg men are more popular at Cedar Crest than the South Mountaineers. And that's that in spite of the belittlin' of the ficklelites and the Anti-Cedar Crest-ites.

MAGGIE LEVINE WAS IN THE BLACK MARIA when it made its social call at the Ad building last Wednesday. He was forced into it, and but for the kindness of one of Allentown's big hearted bluecoats would have been given a nice little ride. He wasn't and that spoiled a good story.

AND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THOSE who have been asking so many questions, H. E. K. is none other than Hermann Edward Krooss, a nice little boy with some rather naughty ideas. H. Edward, you are a native born Lutheran from New York state and remember that in spite of what Mencken or Jimmie Walker may say.

SANTA CLAUS IS COMING soon—much too soon and it won't be until next year that Preston will get ready to put out another issue of this little black and white paper. So here's a Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year, a pocket full of money and as the poet said, we might have beer by Christmas. Someone told us last night that you can get it now. That's terrible and we'll just bet the congressmen and senators don't know about that. And until next year—don't cut chapel.

would be done. This is false, in reality, for the poor are more virtuous than the rich. Americans are now trying to reach salvation by getting drunk.

Work of Church

"Christianity believes there is a remarkable spiritual order different from the natural order. In this order exist events above the scope of man, known as miracles. Unbelief on the other hand says there is no such thing. The order of nature, according to them is absolutely fixed.

"The Christian believes that there is a necessity of fellowship. Therefore he believes in the unity called the church. What has the church done? It really began the hospitals. It gave the inspiration for their founding. The child's relation to society was redeemed through the means of the church. The church has had an influence on Civilization. It is a foster mother of most of the schools and colleges. It has developed architecture and literature. It started the great art movement during the Renaissance period. And today it is striving for peace.

"Christianity believes in the future," Dr. Haas concluded, the Christian wants a hereafter for the sake of seeing Christ. If this world is all

Voltaire said, Penn's treaty with the Indians was the only one not ratified by oath and the only one never broken.

Penn an International Man

As important as Penn is in American history, his internationalism is far more important. Dr. Swain emphasized the fact that there have been few genuine internationalists. "The international man", as defined by Dr. Swain, "is one who can rise above his own and even his country's aims for the progress of mankind as a whole." Such a man was Penn.

In the foundation of Pennsylvania's government, he put the thesis that government is a part of religion and that good men will govern themselves but bad men need external law. Penn also advanced the position of trial by jury immeasurably when he defended the principle of trial by jury without interference by the judge. It was the defense of this principle that placed him in jail.

Penn supported religious toleration in his colony and he abolished the punishment of alleged witches. Dr. Swain emphasized the importance to Penn the Internationalist of justice to the weak as well as the strong, a point which seemed to have been forgotten by the people of the era.

Rittenhouse and Penn Squares serve to remind us of the importance of Penn in America, but the League of Nations should also remind us of the Quaker's extreme importance as an international man.

we have to live for, there is nothing left. The hope of the future and the faith in immortality is a great asset to Christianity and in it Unbelief misses a great opportunity.

Drastic Changes Are Made in Policies of The College Store

The Management of the College Store is Taken Over by the Student Loan Fund.

A definite step in the progress of Muhlenberg College was taken when the management of the college store, formerly in the hands of the Athletic Association, was given to the Student Loan Fund, under the direction of Dr. Henry R. Mueller and Dr. James E. Swain. These two professors advanced the money to finance the adventure.

The entire profits are to be used for needy students under the conditions of the Student Loan Fund. Ray Heist is the student manager and has as his assistants Roy Siegel, Donald Weinsheimer and Lee Graver. Books are to be sold at ten per cent less than list price and all other articles in the enlarged stock are being sold at as low prices as possible.

Improvements Are Made

The appearance of the store has been entirely changed. A general house-cleaning was carried on during the Christmas vacation, the fixtures were re-arranged, the walls painted, bright orange curtains hung at the windows, and two benches installed for the convenience of patrons. Service is notably much speedier than heretofore.

In an interview with the "Weekly" reporter, Dr. Haas stated: "Whatever profit accrues from the store will be used for the benefit of students who need financial help and qualify for the conditions of the Student Loan Fund. We hope that this new idea, which was begun by a number of professors, will meet with ready response. The first action to show this response is to support the college store."

Senior-Junior Ball Plans are Completed

Teddy Black and His Famous Musicians Will Play at Ball To Be Held At Mealey's.

At a meeting of the Junior-Senior Dance Committee held on Wednesday evening, January 4, at the Phi Epsilon Pi House, plans with a definite finality were formulated. The dance will be held on Friday evening, February 17, at Mealey's Auditorium, and is to be called the Dyad. In explanation, this is a Greek derivative meaning combination. Hence the inference.

Ted Black and his well-known musicians will play for the occasion. The charge for the affair is two-and-a-half dollars for Juniors and Seniors, and three-and-a-half dollars for all others. The co-chairmen of the committee arranging the affair are Woodrow Savacool, Phi Kappa Tau, and Leon Rosenberg, Phi Epsilon Pi. The rest of the committee is comprised of James Kilpatrick, Edgar O'berg, Samuel Shimer, Woodrow Kistler, Angelo Bianco, Frank Bianca, and Warren Smith.

Kappa Phi Kappa Has Interesting Meeting

Vital plans were discussed at Kappa Phi Kappa's business meeting, Thursday, January 5, in the Educational Psychology Laboratories of the Administration Building. The substance of these plans will be disclosed at some future date. There followed an interesting report by Jerome Baer on the school system of modern Germany, including a survey from the lower grades up to the universities. He emphasized the changes since the World War, and contrasted the system with that of the American schools, stressing the mutual advantages and disadvantages of both.

Social Science Club Hears Short Talk

"A History of Russia preceding the Soviet Regime," was the topic presented to the Social Science Club by Clifton W. Gant on Thursday evening, January 5.

The membership of this growing organization was enlarged by the acceptance into membership of Marlin Herb and Norman U. Miles.

Frederick Schlick will speak on "War Debts and Reparations" at the next meeting on Thursday, January 12, and at some time in the near future, the members of the club will be favored with an address on "Technocracy" by Prof. Charles B. Bowman.

Student Body Enjoys Fine Piano Program

Unusual Novelties by Madame Pickhardt Aid in Making Program Very Successful.

Madame Ione Pickhardt gave a fine rendition of piano music before the student body and numerous visitors at the regular Thursday Assembly, January 5. It was the pianist's third appearance on the Muhlenberg campus.

Mme. Pickhardt's selections were mostly of her own composition. The program included a "Sonata in C Minor," a waltz, and selection from "Heaven and Sky". She also played three scores which she has only recently composed and which have been accepted by Mr. Stowkowski, leader of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, to be given when he returns from his vacation.

Novelties Pleased

Two novelties aided in making the program a complete success. In the first she numbered the keyboard and then requested any form numbers appearing on the dial of the telephone with which she proceeded to compose a tune. In the second novelty she called for any theme which she could use for a composition. Here Rev. Cressman, who had charge of the program, responded with the theme of a car running out of gas, a predicament which Mme. Pickhardt had passed

Victor Rhinefleish Out for Track Team

Popular Freshman Is Training Hard—Intends To Run Hundred in Coming Season.

Victor A. Rhinefleish, of Philadelphia, well known member of the freshman class, who resides in "G" Hall and uses it as a center for his activities, is sacrificing a great deal in the interest of his dear old "Alma Mater." Mr. Rhinefleish is dieting—depriving himself of breakfast seven days out of the week—for the glory of Muhlenberg. He has announced his candidacy for a berth on the 1933 Muhlenberg track team and isn't hesitant in saying it either.

In true "Dizzy Dean" fashion Rhinefleish announces that he will report to Coach "Scotty" Renwick, at the first call for track practice, in tip-top condition. "Vic" sadly intimates that he weighs around 184 pounds and must reduce exactly twenty-four pounds before track season begins, as his ideal weight is 153 pounds. When he tipped the scales at that weight two years ago, "Rinny" says that he ran the 100-yard dash in nine minutes and eight seconds for Brown Prep. It was with deep regret that Rhinefleish admitted to a "Weekly" reporter that his attempt to run the 440-yard dash at Prep school was to no avail.

He plans to concentrate on the 100-yard dash at Muhlenberg, and with a man who ran that distance in 9.8 at Prep School, 'Berg is well fortified. Coach Renwick's worries are over. A successor to Majercik has been found.

Buchman, Muhlenberg Alumnus, Leads Growing Religious Cult "The Religion With A Sex Appeal"

Buchmanism, the doctrine of the Oxford groups, and a religious movement of world-wide importance, claimed by competent observers to have more driving force than any other organization in Protestantism today, had as its founder, and has now for its leader a Muhlenberg alumnus, Frank N. D. Buchman, '99.

Buchmanism has earnest workers seeking converts not only in America, but also in England, Holland, Germany, South Africa, Greece, Siam, China, India, and Australia. These workers search for and get converts from among the wealthy and powerful—from Queen Marie of Roumania, ex-King George of Greece, to William Gilliland who confessed that he "Once supplied the liquor for the students at Penn State College."

The "house party," an innovation to religious circles by Frank Buchman, is widely and successfully used in gaining converts.

Cult Began in College World

Buchmanism had its origin in collegiate circles and was concerned chiefly about the secret sins of undergraduates and seminarians. The confession occupies an important position in this creed, and this, many say, is a return to the ideas of first century Christianity and to the doctrine that "honest confession is good for the soul." For a long time its existence was unknown to the general public, but it worked unobtrusively in undergraduate groups.

At one time it threatened to make a Pentecost of Princeton, and President Hibben, after an investigation, issued a bull expelling it from its sacred halls. From the campus it spread until now the public press is full of accounts of house parties in which the flower of the "four hundred" take part. Several recent books are concerned with the phenomenon of Buchmanism, among them is "For Sinners Only".

The recent trend is towards the salvation of the younger married set. "Give up your cocktail shaker and loose living," is one of the demands. Upon conversion the individual is given a new rule of life. He rises an hour earlier than usual in order to get "Into the tune of the infinite", after which the Holy Spirit tells directly the program of the day. Buchmanism is given much credit for introducing many people of high station in life to religion.

Old Friday 13 Jinx To be Proved False By Mask and Dagger

Tango Artists Secured for Entertainment of Patrons During Theatrical Dance.

Final arrangements have been completed for the first annual Mask and Dagger Dance, to be held in the Library, Friday night, January 13th. George Duddy and his orchestra will supply the music and dancing will be from 9 until 12. The committee in charge has decided that forty cents per person will be the admission price.

There has been an air of mystery prevailing around the Library the past few days. It is an impossibility to find out just what the decorations are going to be like, but judging from the amount of material that the committee was seen carrying into the Library the other day they certainly are going to be lavish, to say the least.

Fritz Wavrek Decorates

In an exclusive interview with Fritz Wavrek it was learned that those attending the dance will view a type of interior decoration that has never been attempted in Allentown before. Other than that slight hint nothing definite could be learned.

It is said that the programs will be made up in the form of a theatre program. This idea is to be carried out in every detail—even to the listing of dances, which will be called scenes instead of just the ordinary numbers. There will be about ten dances and these are divided into two acts, with a short intermission intervening. During the intermission a unique entertainment has been planned.

Theatre Is Theme

The theme of the theatre has been followed out even to the tickets which have been made up in the form of a reserved seat pass. The type of ticket will do away with a good many "crashers" as each person will be required to keep the stub in his possession and will be asked to present it at the door after intermission.

It is hard to believe that a dance of such high calibre can be given for such a small admission price. It has been explained, however, that the Mask and Dagger is resorting to this method of familiarizing Muhlenberg with the type of organization it represents.

Delightful Lecture Given Pre-Medical Group by Dr. Noble

Two Interesting Films on the Action of the Heart Were Shown After The Lecture.

Dr. Noble's vivid presentation of the topic "Superstition and Folk-lore of Menstruation" delighted a large group of men at the meeting of the Pre-medical Society on Thursday evening, January 5. Parts of the reading were amusing, parts serious, and as to content Dr. Noble traced the superstitions of menstruation from the Bible on up, including statements of Hypocrates, Levy, Ellis, Schweig, and Frazier; explaining tribal superstitions, and present day beliefs.

Prior to Dr. Noble's talk Dr. Shankweiler presented a scientific treatment on the subject of "menstruation", thus portraying to the audience a clear conception of the invited speaker's topic.

Two films were shown: one, "The Action of the Heart Valves" presented an animated drawing showing the structure of the heart; the course of blood through the heart, and actual photos of the bicuspid and tricuspid valves in operation. The other film on "Antivenim" portrayed the various snakes inhabiting the East, the method of handling the reptiles; the manner of extracting poison, and the production of "Antivenim".

Literary Magazine Announces Contest

"Hound and Horn", a magazine of high standing in the field of modern literary work, announces the posting of its first annual prize of one hundred dollars for the best piece of fiction, and a prize of fifty dollars for the best piece of verse by an undergraduate of any American college or university. The winning story and poem will be published in the Summer 1933 issue of "Hound and Horn".

The competition will close April 1, 1933. No manuscripts with envelopes postmarked later than that date can qualify. Intramural Debate Teams Will Compete Old Chapel To Be Scene of Quarter Finals of Forensic Tilt on Thursday, January 12th.

The quarter-finals of the Intramural Debates will be held Thursday evening, January 12th, at 7:30 P. M., in the chapel of the Administration Building at Muhlenberg College. The Coach of Freshman Debating has chosen seven men from the preliminaries to represent Muhlenberg in a tilt with Newark Preparatory School. This debate will take place at Muhlenberg in the near future.

In the quarter-finals four teams will debate, with each group debating a different question. The first speaker will be given five minutes for the main speech and three minutes for the rebuttal speech; the second speaker will have seven minutes for the principal speech and five minutes for the refutation. The winners of these debates will debate each other the following week in the Semi-finals. The line-up is as follows:

Summary

1. Phi Epsilon Pi (Morton Silverman, Coach; Julius Bricker; Harold Weiner) vs. Grays (Lauback, Coach; Henry Klausfelder; Walter Guigley; John Ebert, Alternate). Phi Epsilon Pi will uphold the negative side of the question "Resolved that Modern Advertising is Detrimental to the Best Interests of Society".

Oration By Koch, '32, Included In New Book

"Whither, World?", Winner Of State Championship Is in Volume Given To Library.

"The Year Book of College Oratory" containing the speech of Kenneth H. Koch, '32, "Whither, World?", which was awarded first place in the Pennsylvania State Oratorical Contest last year was recently received by the Muhlenberg College Library. Thirty two orations of college students, all representing first prize winners in the various organizations throughout the United States are included in this volume "which represents a renaissance in college oratory", according to the editor of this interesting book.

With diminishing endowments and shrinking budgets, the outlook for collegiate oratory at the opening of 1932 was the darkest in history, yet in spite of this there were more, and better speeches made before larger audiences than ever before. As an examination of the orations proves, the collegians were deeply concerned with present day conditions and denounced those "in high places and low."

"Whither, World?" is a fiery denunciation of war, and a plea for the world to stop its drift in that direction. Koch concludes with these words, "Choose you this day whom ye will serve, the pagan Moloch, lord of destruction, desolation, and war, or the God of righteousness, mercy, and peace."

Dr. Haas Plans New Policy for Athletic Board at Muhlenberg

Board of Trustees To Take Action on Proposed Reorganization Program Next Week.

There will be sweeping changes in athletics at Muhlenberg College if the program proposed by Dr. Haas, president of the college, is adopted at the next meeting of the Board of Trustees on Tuesday, January 17. Under this plan, which most likely will be accepted, the management of all athletics will be placed in the hands of a committee composed of three faculty members and three of the trustees appointed by that Board.

The proposed program was drawn up by Dr. Haas and it is the result of a great deal of work on his part to improve the athletic situation at the college. It is probable that the office of Graduate Manager of Athletics will be eliminated automatically, since schedules and all other matters will be handled directly by the administration of the college through the committee.

Sane Schedule Is Goal

Students will be given an opportunity to express their desires through contact with the faculty members of the committee, since they are always on the campus. Athletics will be run within the limits of the income, and, in agreement with the demands recently expressed in the "Weekly". Dr. Haas stated, "After the schedule of next fall, which must be kept if we are to retain proper relations with other colleges, there will be a schedule which will more closely fit the class to which we belong."

Dr. Haas also said, "It must not be forgotten that the Athletic Association in the past has contributed thousands of dollars to athletics through the generosity of a number of citizens of Allentown. It has paid for grandstands and has relieved the college."

Eisenhard Talks on Barbusse at Meeting Of Phi Sigma Iota

The Novels of Barbusse Prove Interesting Subject for Recent Talk by Robert Eisenhard.

Charles Robert Eisenhard presented a report on Barbusse and discussed several of his novels in a very realistic and naturalistic way at the meeting of Phi Sigma Iota on Tuesday, December 13 in the Assembly room of the Administration Building. Mr. Eisenhard did full justice to the vivid events so interestingly portrayed in Barbusse's works. Incidentally, this author was decorated for distinguished service during the World War.

At the conclusion of the report, Dr. Corbiere and the various members of the organization joined in a general discussion on the merits and demerits of Barbusse's works.

The next meeting will be held at the T. U. O. fraternity house on Monday evening, January 16.

Dean Horn Is Honored

Doctor Robert C. Horn, Dean of Muhlenberg College read a paper, "Firing versus Sharing" as related to methods of reducing the expenses of faculty salaries, before the Higher Education group of the Pennsylvania State Education Association. The meeting was held in Harrisburg during the Christmas holiday period.

Dean Horn was also honored by being elected Secretary of the Higher Education group and will serve during the year 1933.

New Athletic Program

WE ARE strongly in favor of the proposed changes in the administration of athletics. Muhlenberg has been in need of a centralized system of control for more years than it is pleasant to remember. The plan made by Dr. Haas to be presented for the approval of the Board of Trustees has the centralization of control as its purpose.

It must be remembered that the present Athletic Association is entirely independent from the college administration. The only power the administration now has is in ruling on the eligibility of the varsity team members. It has been ruled that as a part of the eligibility requirements no team members should receive a scholarship or subsidy for taking part in intercollegiate sports. In spite of this, football schedules continue to be drawn up that are so difficult that success is only possible of attainment by wholesale, unrestricted professionalism. This, Muhlenberg has steadfastly refrained to consider, and rightly so. This is only one of the results of the present system.

Under the new plan, the entire responsibility will be placed upon the administration of the college. If anything goes wrong, the fault will be easy to discover. From eligibility to schedules, the entire control is vested with one group. The result is unity.

That there will be corrections necessary in the proposed plan is natural. No great advance is made without certain omissions and faults to be remedied. That, however, must be taken care of as the occasion arises. In the meanwhile the "Weekly" pledges itself to continue supporting this proposed plan, and any other that we believe will go towards making a greater Muhlenberg. What we have said before, concerning schedules is a matter of record.

The Cooperative Store

THE MUHLENBERG COLLEGE Cooperative Store is another step forward in the history of the college. Details on the undertaking can be found in the news columns of this paper. We use this space to tell you our impressions of the venture.

It is not necessary for us to tell you of the lack of service that characterized the old store. You know that from experience. We do tell you, however, that there has been a tremendous change. Students are served with speed and courtesy, and the store has been renovated so as to form an attractive student center as well as a business place.

Yet more important than all, is the fact that you can save money by buying there. In these times, this needs no elaboration. The store is run on a small profit basis, and even this meagre profit is not for the benefit of any one individual or group. The money earned is given to needy, and worthy students of Muhlenberg through the Student Loan Fund. These are real reasons why you should patronize your store.

But those who manage the store do not ask your business merely because they have worthy motives. They prefer that you understand it as a purely business proposition. Prices are set as low as it is possible to set them, and they feel that when you understand the fact that you are saving money and benefiting yourself by buying there, you will need no further urging.

The "Weekly" takes this opportunity of expressing its gratitude, and that of the student body, for the worthwhile work that is being done by Dr. Mueller and Dr. Swain for the students of Muhlenberg.

Mask and Dagger Dance

ANOTHER OF THE dances that have been so popular and successful on the campus this year is to be held tomorrow night. This particular dance will be sponsored by the "Mask and Dagger," dramatic club. This organization is holding the function to make more students familiar with its activities.

It is the last social function to be held before the blight of Mid-years arrives. To those who have attended the other dances in the Library building, we say that this promises to be far superior to even those fine affairs. There need be nothing further said in recommendation. To those who have not yet attended, we say—drop around and give yourself and your partner a treat.

A fine of six pence is imposed at the University of Edinburgh for cutting classes. The revenue from this source is used to buy the president of the institution a Christmas present. Last year's gift was a cigar.

A professor of Psychology at Colgate required his students to sleep in class so that he could determine the effective pitch for an alarm clock. There's nothing to equal a college education.

INFATUATION

The flame of Love gains fuel from youth's desire,
And wandering forth on true Elysian field,

His spirit, all afire, doth quickly yield
In ecstasy, ignores caprice so dire,
And lives but to adore and to admire
The maid whose love his soul would gladly shield,—

And, when he finds the bitter truth revealed,—
A flame without its fuel will soon expire.

His soul then sails a solitary sea,
Whose ebb and flow of human fate,— its tide,

Yet washes o'er the wrecks of mortal love,
That shortly 'neath its white-capped waves abide,

Whose dying embers end amid the swirl,
Excelling e'en the hoard of Hagen's pride.

LIBRARY NOTES

New Books

Several books dealing with immortality have been the most recent gifts of Dr. Haas. "Issues of Immortality" by Lamont Corliss, a book which is not written with the idea of proving or disproving our idea of immortality but to analyze certain definitions of immortality together with some of the supporting arguments. The author of this book is connected with the department of Philosophy at Columbia University. Another book is "Life beyond death" by James Thayer Addison. It deals with the beliefs of immortality held by various people of all ages. Part 1 covers the beliefs held by savages and primitive people and part 2 deals with the subject as it is regarded by such religions Buddhism, Christianity, Hinduism and Mohammedanism. It is a book written for the general reader. A recent biography is that of "Bishop Berkeley" by Joseph M. Hone and Mario M. Rossi. This study of the Irish philosopher and bishop combines a biographical account of his life which is the work of Mr. Hone and a scholarly study of his philosophy which is the work of Mr. Rossi.

Reference Material

At the request of Dr. Swain the French Embassy has sent us eleven paper bound volumes of the French diplomatic documents of the World War. These with the British documents which were received last year will be valuable reference material for his course in international relations.

We would like to take this means of thanking the members of the class of 1900 for their kind donation of books to the library. A well selected gift of books is always greatly appreciated.

Concerning Bibles

The Saturday Review of Literature tells us that with the arrival in Washington of the Luther Bible belonging to Dr. Otto H. F. Vollbehr, the capital boasts the two books considered by bibliophiles as rarest. According to a dispatch to the New York Times, "First rank", says the paper, is accorded to the Gutenberg Bible, belonging to the Library of Congress, for which the Benedictine Monastery of St. Paul in Carinthia Austria, received from Dr. Vollbehr the highest price ever paid for a book—$375,000. Congress bought it, along with other Vollbehr incunabula, for the lump sum of $1,500,000. "Printed for a prince, George II of Anhalt, a defender of Luther's reform movement, the Bible was planned as one of the most elaborate and historic of books." Lucas Cranach, master artist of the German Reformation was chosen to illustrate it. He did it lavishly with woodcuts and original miniatures.

Franklin Notes

Another interesting purchase was made recently by Dr. A. S. Rosenbach, Philadelphia collector, who succeeded in obtaining the original autographed manuscript of Benjamin Franklin's celebrated essay on, "The Whistle" which has come to this country from France in a collection of twenty-three of Franklin's celebrated love letters to Madame Brillon. The letters came to light in France in the possession of the descendants of Mme. Brillon from whom they were acquired by Dr. Rosenbach. He plans to publish them later.

The team playing in the City League known as the Witwer-Jones Sporting Goods representatives is none other than the freshman basketball team. Herbie Hilton of tennis fame is the captain. After Moravian lost to us by three points in an extra-period game, the Moravians scrambled Lafayette 26-27. Ben Keen left for Europe and Russia last week.

Better Times Are Here

The old place is certainly changing. On our return to school after the holidays, we found that the stronghold of the ancient regime, the College Store, had been taken over by the Student Loan Fund. The motto of the new management—SERVICE and SPEED—is the opposite of the old management's. And boy was a change needed! The new system is run on a five percent profit; the ancient shimbang was conducted on a five hundred percent profit basis—which was one reason why 'Berg students patronized the Rosemark and the Five and Ten's and steered clear of the College Store. The genial manager of the College Emporium is that rising young business man, Ray Heist. In a recent interview, Mr. Heist said: "There is absolutely no reason why we can't have an establishment here that will rival Macy's and Gimbel Brothers."

That's the stuff, Ray.

The Swan Song

The Athletic Association and the Graduate Manager may soon be things of the past. Elsewhere in this issue you will read of the new athletic policy to be instituted here at Muhlenberg. It means, of course, that such teams as Fordham and Penn State will not be on our football schedule after 1933. It means that we will have a sane schedule which is exactly what we want. The change in administration was needed, and now let us see what it will do.

Still worrying About Fordham

Seen in the Morning Call: "Major Frank Cavanaugh resigns as head football coach at Fordham." The next best news for 'Berg would be to hear that the Ram's football team had also resigned and would not be in school next September.

Basketball Team Wins Over Moravian In Extra Period But Loses To F. and M.

'Berg, 35; Moravian, 33 F. and M., 26; 'Berg, 20

Inability to make most of their free shots count forced the Muhlenberg "Mules" to play an extra period before they finally overcame Coach "Johnny" Finn's Moravian College basketball team in a slow game played last Wednesday evening on the Allentown Y. M. C. A. court. The "Mules", who sported brand new outfits, found themselves on the long end of a 35 to 33 score as the final gun barked.

Both teams started out slowly and it was only after several minutes of play had passed that Moravian jumped into the lead. 'Berg quickly retaliated, however, and was leading 4 to 3 as the first quarter ended.

Second Team Flops

Coach Holstrom sent in an entirely new team to face Moravian in the second quarter, but it was not long before the Bethlehem Collegians showed their superiority over this combination and the "Cardinal and Gray" Coach sent his starting team back into the game. Immediately the Holstromites found themselves and soon tied Moravian only to end the half on the short end of a 12-11 score.

More action was seen in the second half. Both teams appeared evenly matched, the "Mules" gaining a slight advantage near the end of the half but Moravian came right back to knot up the count 29-29 when the gun was sounded for the end of the regulation game. "Bill" Nixon, star Muhlenberg forward, "found himself" in the extra period and caged five of the six points scored by his team in those five minutes. Nixon started off by sinking in two field goals but Coach Finn's basketballers retaliated with the same number. Then "Joe" Rodgers caged a foul goal for the winning point and Nixon followed with another goal from the foul line to widen the margin. The final count was 35 to 33.

"Joe" Rodgers Stars

"Joe" Rodgers, playing his first home game in a varsity uniform led the "Mules" in scoring with eleven points, four field goals and three fouls. Nixon, his team-mate, was not far behind, having caged four field goals and two fouls for a total of ten points. Other Muhlenberg players to make their debut as varsity cagemen on the home court were George Saul, Roger Rohn and Gene Lepore. "Peanuts" Clay, who stands more than six feet in his stockings and was the star player on the Allentown Prep school team of last year, led the losers in scoring. He caged ten points, four field goals and two fouls.

Due to the natural inter-city rivalry a banner crowd was in attendance. A remarkably large number of Muhlenberg students witnessed their team's initial encounter on the home court and cheered with a great deal of pep and enthusiasm.

foul goals. This is a major factor in the loss of three out of the four games played. As long as this continues there is little prospect of Muhlenberg winning a game. Practice sessions have been much interrupted lately, and the lack of adequate practice facilities is an overwhelming handicap. The Cardinal and Gray squad is potentially good, but so far this season it has not clicked. In the meanwhile, as during the football season, we wait and hope.

Muhlenberg Mirrored

By Gordon B. Fister, '33

WITH THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS a thing of the past for another year, with compulsory chapel now a thing which is quite established, campus chatter has fallen into three distinctive channels. The least important to the group as a whole is the fact that Herbie's hair is growing. Second of interest seems to be Mid-year examinations, now too close at hand to make us comfortable.

But the most important thing today seems to be the Mask and Dagger club's "Dancing Youth" tomorrow night. We had a preview of the affair the other day and in our opinion it will be the most brilliant affair on the campus this year—and what's more the price will be the most reasonable in history. Just enough to keep your self-respect.

TALKING ABOUT DANCES that shoe polish affair the upper classmen are planning for February 17 suggests a clever theme. Dyad, according to Charlie Cooper, means two in one. Two in one means shoe polish, so why not feature "The Black and Tan?" It sounds good though and will be free advertising for the makers of that pasty polish. Perhaps they could be persuaded to give each male escort a free shine after his gorgeous partner had tripped the light fantastic on his patent leathers. But then, why not make it three-in-one, and we'd all get a free oiling?

TALKING ABOUT MID-YEARS, here's the best of luck to you. Mr. Bernheim seems as greatly worried about the results as the students. Is there any wonder? He does deserve a lot of credit for his handling of the financial situation during these days of looking around the corner for the greatly overdue prosperity.

THE WORLD IS A SMALL PLACE after all. Strolling about Roxy's R. K. O. theatre in Radio City the other day we discovered Lyton J. Kernan, that dapper little fellow who was a freshman last year. Kernan is just as dapper now as an usher as he was as a student. He sends a New Year's wish to all his friends with especial regards to our mutual friend, Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere.

A BEAUTIFUL YOUNG CREATURE in Boston the other day, asked us where we went to college. Puffing out our chest we said MUHLENBERG. When she expressed her amazement that such a place even existed we expressed our absolute horror at the possibility of there being such a place as the Leland Powers School of Dramatic Art. We came out of the battle alive, although if looks were dynamite, this column would be a thing of the past.

NOW THAT WE'RE IN 1933, we've resolved to let our friend the columnette over at Cedar Crest have a very happy new year without any interference from those who still maintain that Muhlenberg rates over Lehigh at the buildings on the neighboring hill. If a certain Phi Kappa Tau can't nose out a certain Lehighite we can't do a thing about it except offer our regrets and say that perhaps the columnette was worth waging a battle for. And that's the last nasty thing we'll even think of in 1933 unless someone forces the issue.

JUST A WORD OF CONGRATULATION to the new Muhlenberg co-operative store and another word of farewell to the czar of the old store, Ira Weiss. Ira took his time about things but it was interesting to watch him bat about—interesting to talk to him about the old days at Muhlenberg. While the store is a great improvement over the old emporium, Ira Weiss is missed. In the march of time, the old must give way to the young. Ira marched out, the young marched in and we have an improved store.

SO DANCE YOUTH DANCE with the "Dancing Youth" and we'll be seeing you tomorrow night and next week with some hot tips on the "Dance of Youth". See them for yourself tomorrow.

Buchman, Muhlenberg Alumnus, Leads Growing Religious Cult

in 1899, and from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in 1901, he was ordained to the Lutheran ministry and served as pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Overbrook. He is said to have deliberately sought out this place to prove to one of his classmates that he was not ambitious. He was never happy and spent a year as missionary in the Near East in 1907, and in 1908 he visited England to attend a religious gathering at Keswick. Here, in a little church in Cumberland, he experienced a "Vibrant feeling up and down the spine" as though some great store of life had been emptied into him.

He Is Converted in England
Prior to this, he had been harboring grudges against certain religious people. These were dispelled immediately after his conversion, and he wrote letters to six clergymen confessing the grudge he had against them and asking for forgiveness. These were never answered. After this time, he spent his life as a sort of gypsy evangelist going to the farthest parts of the earth with his message.

He was directed to collegiate fields at the request of several English bishops who wanted to have Buchman lead their sons, who were in colleges, along the right paths. After investigating, he found conditions were so bad in the colleges that something had to be done. He set about doing it.

"Religion With Sex Appeal"
"Buchmanism is religion with sex appeal," says Ferguson in his book "Confusion of Tongues". In a house party, and in individual conversions, the convert is asked to confess how he sins. Remarkable as it may seem, it nearly always comes back to sex. It is not with the party hounds on the campus, the boys that get sent home for improper conduct at the Proms and spend their nights in whoopee dens, that Buchmanism is concerned. It is with the "seminarians, the volunteers for Christian service, the consecrated chaps who think that if there is anything more sinful than sex it is deception". These students are between two fires, they have pent up emotions and also the repression of knowing what is expected of them.

These students are approached and asked to confess their trouble. They usually begin by stating that they have trouble in accepting certain theological doctrines, but on further questioning, they confess the truth. A convert explains the experience, "I came to myself in confessing to another man; until a man confesses his sin to another man he can never be really spiritually vital."

Search for Sinners

The one who gains the confession is a "Soul Surgeon", and the person who is converted in turn becomes a soul surgeon and goes on his way seeking to relieve others from their difficulties. No one can be regarded as without sin, and followers are warned not to take anything for granted. "Take nothing for granted. No matter how respectable a man may seem, be he clergyman, or vestryman, or Y. M. C. A. secretary, he may still stand in need of moral surgery."

Buchmanism is quite objectionable to many church authorities, not because of Buchman personally, but because some of his converts are too filled with the fire of inspiration, and sometimes turn the "house parties" into more of a resemblance to what the average American thinks of when the term "house party" is used.

The Reverend Samuel Shoemaker, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, New York, is a confessed and ardent champion of the Buchman cause, which, he says, "Does for the educated people what the Salvation Army does for the down-and-out." However, one writer in a well known magazine calls Buchmanism, "One of the most objectionable cults that has ever come into the field of religion."

Buchmanism Often Unpopular
The zeal with which collegians spread the good news of emancipation from sin can well be imagined. Conservation is the fifth cog of the Buchman machine, and conservation means going about doing good, which is to say, going about looking for the sin that lurks beneath the brow of an apparently high-minded student or engineer. Here Buchmanism began to get obstreperous and to run counter to the staid ideas of Episcopalians and college authorities. Being a religion whose instruments are confidence and confession, it proceeds at once to assign divine power to these instruments and to insist upon the observance of its peculiar rites quite as urgently as the Campbellites insist upon immersion. The handbook has this advice to offer:

"When he is certain that the need for confession exists, the soul surgeon must be lovingly relentless in insisting that the confession be made, and when and where it is needed. It is often the kind of drastic, spiritual operation which alone can prevent a superficial repentance and unreal conversion."

It is because each Buchmanite comes to regard himself after initiation into the mysteries as himself a soul surgeon and because he grows "lovingly relentless" that confession has played so large a part in the Oxford Groups.

The Buchmanites rest their case solidly on the fact that a vast majority of young men are given to the practise of secret sin.

An Estimate

Charles Ferguson concludes his estimate of Buchmanism with the following statement: "They are doubtless pests of the worst sort. They resemble, from all I can gather, the ministerial students of a small denominational college, who feel called of God to go about prying into the beliefs and practices of their fellow men. By persecution, however mild it may be . . . its leaders are led to believe that a fight against the sect is a fight against God."

James Douglas, noted critic and literary editor of the London Daily Express is quoted as follows, regarding this movement:

"The great renewal of the human spirit for which the world is waiting is gathering force secretly and silently. It may before long put new form in the dying forms of religion. It may do for the twentieth century what Wesley did for the eighteenth century. Who knows?"

FRATERNITY ROW

Delta Theta is completing plans for a dance at the Hotel Traylor, the last week of this semester. "Art" Mickle and his Orchestra will supply the music between the hours of 9 to 2. This dance will take the place of the annual Christmas formal which was not held this year.

Brother Jacobs, of the Delta Thetas spent a pleasant week at Lake Placid, N. Y., during the vacation. Among the various amusements were skiing, tobogganing and ice-skating. The brothers are glad to see "Al" Kunz without his crutches.

A new type of tournament has found its place in the limelight, namely, bowling. Phi Kappa Tau extends a challenge to any group. The contest would be held on the alleys of the Recreation Center, 10th and Walnut Sts.

Our chapel proctor, "H. E. F.", has set a new vogue in operation. Several of the brothers of A. T. O. have gotten haircuts similar to the one which the above mentioned gentleman received. Theirs, however, were voluntary!

For the second time this semester, the boys of A. T. O. were surprised to find fire engines stop in front of their house. This time it was a fire on a neighboring dump.

A. T. O. offers a pool challenge to all who are interested.

"Muhlenberg Night" Held By Lutheran Students

Professor Albert C. H. Fasig addressed the third "Muhlenberg Night" of the present academic year last Friday evening, January 6 in the Library building. In his interesting address Prof. Fasig deplored at length the necessity for professors in American colleges today to virtually have to kick students to make them work and get something out of their education.

William D. Coleman, '36, son of Rev. Fred L. Coleman, '08 and Mrs. Coleman, missionaries to India, also spoke, using as his subject "The Caste System in India". Joseph Zamites, '35, rendered two beautiful tenor solos. He was accompanied on the piano by Gerald Jacoby, '34. Herbert E. Frankfort, '33, president of the local Lutheran Student Association, presided. The devotional service was in charge of G. Martin Ruoss, '33.

Following the meeting refreshments were served to the large number of students and friends who attended. The committee in charge of the refreshments was composed of H. Paul Gerhard, '33, chairman, Russel L. Krapf, '35, and Luther N. Schaeffer, '35.

Dr. Fritsch Delivers Address On "Angels" To Chapel Audience

Student Asks Question And Dr. Fritsch Answers From His Knowledge Of The Bible

By asking the question, "What is spirit?" Dr. Robert Fritsch, Professor of Bible and Greek at Muhlenberg College, introduced a highly interesting and educational address on "Angels", given before a large group of students in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel, Wednesday, January 11, during the regular chapel period. The address was the result of a student's question upon the origin, home, and power of Angels. Dr. Fritsch drew inductions from an article by Godet, the great Swiss Protestant theologian, from the Bible, from History, and from his extensive study upon the question.

"Man is an embodied spirit," declares Dr. Fritsch as he draws a connection between the spiritual and physical. Just as there are bodies without soul, so may there be souls without bodies.

Dr. Fritsch contends that there are three orders of living things—plants, animals, and men, three steps in a series of beings; the fourth, however, not being visible, we can find the fourth on the principle of knowing three. First, the plant is just a specimen. Second, the animal is not only a specimen, but also an independent reality with an instinct. Genesis I emphasizes that God created the beast as well as plant "after its kind". Third, in the man we find species and instinct which, unlike the animal, can rise above, and become a human being—an individual. Fourth, Angels have individuality without species. They, unlike man, do not owe their existence to parents but directly to the will of the Creator. Jesus said that they neither marry nor are given in marriage.

Dr. Fritsch continued by explaining that below this scale of four categories is inanimate matter, but on the other end of the scale is God, the Creator.

Angels are free beings. Not only man but angels were put on probation by God. But sorry to say, man, because of his solidarity, fell as a unit.

Humanity is like a single tree with many branches, but Angels are like trees in a forest, each independent. In regard to the angels, some of them

Senior Class Meets To Arrange For Dyad

A Senior class meeting was held in the Science Auditorium immediately following assembly on Thursday, January 12, with Charles Cooper presiding. It was decided to allow Mr. Oscar Bernheim, college treasurer, to collect the class dues before the Senior-Junior dance can be held.

Woodrow J. Savacool submitted a report on the plans for the Junior-Senior dance.

Grays and Non-Frats Advance In Debates

The Grays and the Non-Frats proved to be the better debaters in the Quarter-finals of the Intramural Debates which were held Thursday evening at 7:30 P. M. in the old chapel of Muhlenberg College. The debates were very hotly contested. This fact was proved by the fact that neither of the teams claimed a unanimous decision. These two teams will debate each other in the Semi-finals to determine which will debate Phi Kappa Tau in the Finals. As a result of the debates Coach Hock will have excellent material for the regular debate teams. John R. Brokhoff, Manager of Freshman Debating, conducted the Quarter-finals in the absence of Coach Hock. Ray O. Bachman cooperated by acting as the Chairman.

The following were the Judges: Miss Elda Peters, Allentown; Mr. Edwin Berg, Northampton; Mr. Clarence Hawk, Northampton.

The lineup was as follows:

Contest #1

The Grays Laubach, Coach; Ralph Ebert; Walter Guigley defeated Phi Epsilon Pi (Silverman, Coach; Harold Weiner; Julius Bricker) on the question "Resolved that Modern Advertising is Detrimental to the Best Interests of Society".

Contest #2

The Non-Frats (Krapf, Coach; Charles Schlegel) defeated Theta Upsilon Omega (Brokhoff, Coach; Norton Behney; Joseph Keiper) on the question "Resolved that the Press Exerts Greater Influence Than the Pulpit".

"Lights Out!" In Dorms Causes Campus Roar

Muhlenberg's latest economy program of turning out the dormitory lights at 7:30 P. M. was anything but well received by the students on Wednesday night, January 11th. Not that anybody wished to study, but there was a great inconvenience caused the college gigolos who wished to dress for dates, and numerous pinchele fiends.

A great hue and cry arose from all parts of the "dorms" when it became apparent that the situation might become permanent. Someone suggested taking up a collection in order to obtain a quarter to put in the meter. However, the hat passers were only able to collect seventeen cents, three collar buttons, four straight pins and one I. O. U. To make a short story long the lights continued not to be lit.

After a half an hour everyone did show traces of increasing anger. Pandemonium reigned. Invectives against Edison, the college electrician, and direct current (it goes directly off) filled the air. Candles had burned down to their holders, flashlight batteries were low, the match supply was virtually exhausted when the miracle occurred—the lights went on. (Not

Board of Trustees Adopts Changes In Administration of College Suggested By President Haas In Tuesday Session

Great changes will be made in the administration of Muhlenberg College as the result of the vote of approval given by the Board of Trustees to the recommendations set forth by Dr. Haas, President of the college, at a meeting of the Board last Tuesday.

The Athletic Association went into discard as the new Board of Athletic Control composed of faculty members and trustees was sanctioned. Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, Registrar Harry A. Benfer, and Prof. Albert C. H. Fasig were appointed as the faculty representatives to the control board; while George Balmer of Reading, and William D. Miller and Lawrence Rupp of Allentown were the trustees appointed to serve with this group.

The coach of athletics will now be considered as a regular faculty member and will receive the same salary. The office of Graduate Manager is eliminated, since the new Board will assume all the duties of this office.

The office of Financial Vice-President of the college was created at the suggestion of Dr. Haas. Frank Bittner of Allentown was elected to serve in this capacity. In the future all the college investments will be handled by a treasurer, probably a banking institution, separate from the administration, a bursar will collect students' accounts. At present Oscar Bernheim handles both of these positions.

Freshmen will be compelled to live in the dormitories for their entire first year at the college. This of course does not apply to day students or commuters. A delayed rushing system will be inaugurated—no freshmen will be allowed to pledge fraternities until the beginning of the second semester.

The financial condition of the college was reported as improved. Many of the houses that the college was compelled to take over are now beginning to produce a revenue. This definitely spikes wild rumors that have been current concerning this matter.

A rule for the retirement of faculty members at the age of 70 was another measure suggested by Dr. Haas that was adopted. This rule will be subject to exceptions.

Pre-Medical Society To Tour Two Schools

Dr. Shankweiler Will Conduct The Society's Tour Of Jefferson and U. of P. Schools

The Pre-Medical Society has just completed plans to make an inspection tour of two notable Philadelphia Medical Schools on February 8. The tour will be made under the guidance of Dr. Shankweiler, leader and faculty advisor of the organization, and will include both the U. of P. Medical College and the Jefferson Medical School.

The trip will be made by car, leaving Muhlenberg at 8:00 A. M. Only members of the club in good standing will be taken along.

The group will make their first stop at the U. of P. Medical School where they will be greeted by Dean Pepper or his assistant. A visit through their laboratories and various classrooms will conclude the morning itinerary.

In the afternoon a similar tour will be made of the classrooms and laboratories of Jefferson Medical School. Here Dean Patterson or his assistant will welcome the group. The members will also be allowed to watch the work being carried on in the clinic of this school. Former students of Muhlenberg attending these schools will be on hand to greet their old friends.

Every year the Society makes a visit to some Medical School of note. Last year they completed an inspection tour of the Hahnemann Medical School.

Oratorical Contest To Be Held Thursday

Leaman, Feller, Dunlap, And Garnet Compete For Place In State Contest In March

The Annual Oratorical Contest of Muhlenberg College will be held in the Science Auditorium during general assembly on Thursday, January 19. The four speakers and their subjects are as follows: Juniors—W. Gerhardt Leaman, "Shall Europe Pay?"; Gordon S. Feller, "Specialized Education?"; Seniors—Harry P. Dunlap, "The Way of Defeat?"; Richard F. Garnet, "The Spirit of Locarno."

The winner of this important contest will represent Muhlenberg College in the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union Contest to be held at Thiel College, Greenville, Pennsylvania, on March 4, 1933. The other colleges competing are Gettysburg, Ursinus, Grove City, Allegheny, Waynesburg, and Thiel College. The winner of the contest at Thiel College will go to Chicago to compete in the semi-finals of the National Oratorical Contest in April.

During the past five years Muhlenberg has won first place in the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest every year, last year's winner being Kenneth H. Koch, '32. Donald V. Hock, '32, represented Muhlenberg in the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union Contest in 1930, and after winning that contest placed second in the national contest.

The judges of the annual Muhlenberg Oratorical Contest will be Rev. Russell W. Stine, Mr. William D. Coder, and Mr. Ephraim B. Everitt.

Council Desires Open Forum On Frosh Rules

At the next Student Body meeting, on Thursday, February 16, the Council will conduct an open forum discussion. The forum will give the students a chance to discuss Freshman Regulations. Student Council urges the whole student body to consider this question carefully and report their personal conclusion on February 16. Only by adopting the decision of the majority of students can the Council demand cooperation in regulating the Frosh.

A recommendation of the following men for proctorship, Charles Cooper, chairman, Horine, May, Keebler, Matuska, and Oberlander, was written at the Student Council meeting on Tuesday, January 10, 1933. Dr. Haas will receive the recommendation for his approval.

Hamilton, Critic of Stage, Tells of Play

The student body was entertained in a novel fashion on Monday morning, January 16, when it was taken behind the scenes of the dramatization of "Caponaschi", a current stage production which will play in the Lyric Theatre on Monday, January 23, by Clayton Hamilton, noted author, editor, and lecturer. Mr. Hamilton introduced many quaint intimacies into his speech from his personal contact with Walter Hampden, peer of American actors, who takes the leading role in the play, and Arthur Goodrich who was mainly responsible for the dramatization.

"Caponaschi" was adapted from "The Ring and the Book," Robert Browning's monumental dramatic poem. Mr. Hamilton's description of its origin was very interesting.

"Mr. Hampden," he said, "while playing Othello and Hamlet, roles which have helped to make him famous throughout America, received a peculiar letter from an unknown lady in Washington, D. C., who had just completed the reading of 'The Ring and the Book.' In her letter she expressed her desire to hear Hampden's impersonations of 'Caponaschi' the main character of the original plot. 'I should like to hear you make a speech like this,' she wrote, quoting a lengthy speech. 'I am not a dramatist myself but couldn't someone make a play with Caponaschi as the central character.' Hampden considered this proposal but was forced to decide to the contrary. Browning had narrated the facts of his story from a dozen different points of view and even though there was a plot of love and murder no pattern of a play presented itself.

But Goodrich, a composer of popular comedies, achieved the task of dramatizing Browning. "Caponaschi" is indeed Browning's drama. In the writing of the lines the test was always applied not as to whether it would appeal to the listeners but rather whether Browning would have liked it. This has helped to make the work a success.

O. D. K. Decides Upon New Plan To Select Juniors and Seniors

O. D. K. Will Select New Men Qualified By Character, Leadership In All Things

Omicron Delta Kappa wishes to take this opportunity to inform the student body of Muhlenberg College of a change in its method of selecting new members. Heretofore it has been their policy to publish in this paper a list of activities and corresponding points, which was in reality a detailed point system, together with a request that all seniors, whose activities made them eligible, and who wished to join the fraternity, hand their names and lists of activities to a member of the Circle. This year, the undergraduate and faculty members of O. D. K. will, in meeting assembled, pass on the merits of every junior or senior whose activities warrant consideration, using the point system of previous years as a guide to the rating of the various activities in which a candidate may participate. However, any upper-classman is privileged, if he so desires, to present his name in writing to any member of the organization for consideration for membership.

The primary consideration for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa is character. The fraternity needs men of character in order to carry out its purpose, that of bringing together representative men of the college to mould the sentiment of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest, and that of doing all possible to further the best interests of the college. O. D. K. has no place for men whose actions are not above reproach, and whose characters alone would not make them outstanding men on the campus.

O. D. K. is an honorary activities fraternity, conferring the honor of membership in the organization upon those men who are leaders on the campus. No phase of collegiate life in which a student may stand out is omitted. O. D. K. recognizes leadership and brilliance in scholarship, athletic competition, the social world of the institution, college publications, and forensic and non-athletic activities. Upon the candidate's qualifications of character and leadership the members of the fraternity will sit in judgment, their decisions being subject to the approval of the national organization of O. D. K., as well as that of the local faculty advisers.

Finally, Omicron Delta Kappa requires that all its prospective members shall have had at least one year of residence at this institution, and shall possess at least junior standing.

"We Approve"

THE Board of Trustees in approving all of the recommendations made by Dr. Haas paid a real tribute to the college president and to the way in which the affairs of the college are being handled by him. The new rulings that have been made pave the way for great strides in the advancement of the college. The great importance of the innovations will only be appreciated as time passes and they have been put into full operation. It is particularly fitting, however, that the suggestions for these should come from one who has given of himself so much for the welfare of Muhlenberg, and that they should be approved by a Board of Trustees composed of many new members and meeting for the first time under a new charter. It speaks well for the future of the college that there should be so much interest shown in it by those responsible.

We take this opportunity also to call attention to the financial report presented by the treasurer of the college. The fact that Muhlenberg's financial condition is improving at this time when all institutions, regardless of size, have trouble in keeping their investments in order is an indication of the amount of labor that Mr. Bernheim is putting on this important part of the affairs of Muhlenberg.

Social Science Club Discusses War Debts

An interesting survey of "The World War Debts and Reparations" was presented to the Social Science club by Mr. Frederick Schlick at its regular meeting, Thursday evening, January 12. Mr. Schlick stressed the two-faced attitude of the debtor-nations as exemplified in the "gentlemen's agreement" which followed the Lausanne conference. After interesting data were furnished, the forum was opened for discussion. Three points were offered for a solution: first, cancellation of war debts; second, cancellation of reparations; third, cessation of armaments for a period of ten years. The only other possible and logical way out is to resort to an armed conflict.

The various possibilities propounded by international authorities were analyzed and exhausted. The next meeting will witness election of officers. The speaker on that occasion will be Prof. Charles B. Bowman, whose topic will be "A History of Marriage and the Social Problems Connected with it".

Mr. Coder Addresses Alpha Kappa Alpha

Professor Coder gave a very adequate, informative, and interesting paper at the first open night of the Alpha Kappa Alpha fraternity, Wednesday, January 11, 1933. The meeting was held in the Seminar room of the Library and was thrown open to the Student Body. A very representative group was present.

Ralph Waldo Emerson as a dependent upon Plato and the developed school of Platonic idealism, in which it was pointed out that Emerson was a debtor to past thinkers, but very original or rather independent in his own thinking, was the essence of Professor Coder's talk. A very enthusiastic informal discussion followed this, mingled with humor and earnestness.

There will be a joint meeting with

Delta chapter, Cedar Crest, after the beginning of the second semester. The President, Ray Bachman, presided over the meeting and Mr. Martin Ruoss gave a preliminary review of Emerson's life previous to the talk by Professor Coder.

DR. FRITSCH DELIVERS ADDRESS ON "ANGELS" TO CHAPEL AUDIENCE

also fell. Those who fell are no longer with God, only the faithful ones are. Because of their characteristics they cannot join the fallen world of men, but try to get in contact with it by influencing human beings. Hence, people have "evil spirits." The only consolation left for these fallen angels is to fight against God. On the other hand, the holy angels dwell with God and are "agents of God." Dr. Fritsch told his audience that there are ranks in the angels. The first of importance is the Archangels. Michael associated with judgment of the world, and Gabriel, associated with salvation, are the two most important archangels. Satan is chief of the evil angels—the adversary of God.

And Satan is prince of this world, and yet God through Christ will again control this world.

TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION!

While strolling down Gordon Street last Friday on our way to the street-car, we encountered that mysterious freshman, "Padlock" Rindfleisch, heavily weighed down by two immense suitcases. Since he was going the same way that we were, we resolved that this would be an excellent opportunity of discovering the truth concerning that "minutes, seconds running of the century" which we had read about in the last issue.

Naturally secretive, the Fleish revealed only after much questioning that one bag contained laundry while the larger of the two contained a pair of trousers. In spite of this last answer, we continued to ask him questions.

Rambling Reporter: "Did you really run the hundred in 9.8 seconds?"

Mr. Rindfleisch: "Yup."

Rambling Reporter: "Where?"

Herr Rindfleisch: "At Brown Prep".

Rambling Reporter: "What meet was it?"

Rin: "At the Penn Relays".

Rambling Reporter: "Scholastic?"

Fleish: "No, Academic".

Rambling Reporter: "And you ran it in 9.8?"

Victor: "Yup".

Rambling Reporter: (with sarcasm): "Who won the race?"

V. A. Rindfleisch: "The other fellow".

Rambling Reporter: "What, you ran the hundred in 9.8 in a scholastic race and how many were in the race?"

Ben Eastman: "Four. I took second."

By this time, Rinny was out of breath and barely staggered along. Yes, indeed, truth is stranger than fiction.

Ye Gods, A Poet

The sophomore class, which boasts of many strange figures, now comes to the front with the strangest of them all—a football player who writes poetry. The budding genius is none other than Sahib Singh Padolin. Mr. Padolin has long felt the urge to convey his thoughts in the rhythmic ease of poetry, and is with great delight that we wish him success in his endeavors. We offer the suggestion to Coach Holstrom that he convert Si. into a quarterback and have him call signals in poetic form.

THEATRICAL DANCE IN LIBRARY IS SUCCESS

150 Couples Attend

The first Annual Theatrical Dance of the Mask and Dagger Club was held in the Library, Friday, January 13, with music furnished by George Doddy's orchestra. The decorations were so arranged by "Fritz" Wavrek as to give the floor the appearance of a stage setting. "Bob" Stinson arranged for the affair with the assistance of fellow club members.

As a financial enterprise the dance proved to be the most successful of the year. One hundred and fifty couples composed the cast of "Dancing Youth," a play in two acts and ten scenes. The chaperones were Registrar and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer, Professor and Mrs. Albert C. H. Fasig, Dr. and Mrs. James E. Swain, Dr. and Mrs. John C. Keller, Dr. and Mrs. Ira F. Zartman, and Mr. and Mrs. Hartman.

"Mules" Handed Defeat By Gettysburg, 34-27

Close Game With "Bullets" Featured By Sterner And Rodgers, 'Berg Rally Came Late

After a rather slow beginning the Gettysburg Orange and Blue-clad basketballers swept to a fast finish which completely bewildered the visiting Muhlenberg five, and sent them home on the short end of a 34-27 score, in the opening home game of the season for the "Bullets", played at the "Eddie" Plank gym in Gettysburg, last Wednesday night, January 11.

The game was close throughout and the score was frequently knotted but the league champs finally came out on top with a comfortable lead. Several times during the first half the "Mules" forged to the front with a lead of one or two points, but when the whistle blew at the end of the first twenty minutes of play, the "Bullets" had a three point lead, the score being 15 to 12.

For the first ten minutes of the second half the score see-sawed back and forth, but a brilliant spurt by the "Battlefield Boys" combined with the meagre playing of the fast-tiring "Mules" put the Orange and Blue to the front with a twelve-point lead. Sterner led a desperate Muhlenberg rally by sinking two successive field goals as the game ended.

High scoring honors went to Sterner, of Muhlenberg, with fourteen points, followed by MacMillen, of Gettysburg, with eight. Dracha, Kitzmiller, and Olkewicz for the "Bullets", and Rodgers, for the "Mules", were also big scoring guns. Horine played a fast game on the floor, while Howard and Jones starred on the defense.

Holstromites

George Holstrom's "Mules" continued their losing streak with a 41 to 28 thumping at the hands of the Ursinus Bears, in a regular league game played at Collegeville last Saturday night, January 14. By virtue of their victory, the Ursinus quintet advanced to second position in the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference, while Muhlenberg sank deeper into the mire.

Ursinus gained an early lead because of the excellent sharp shooting of Claude Lodge and Elmo Sommers, the "Mules" trailing in a 23 to 12 score at half-time. In the second half the Holstromites unloaded a rally which took them to within 8 points of the leaders but the Chasemen again spurted ahead to a safe lead with a steady drive.

Debate Squad Commences Season With F. & M. Tilt

Under Coach A. T. Gillespie's experienced tutelage, the debating squad is slowly rounding into form in preparation for another varsity season. In past years, our debating teams have been of championship calibre and have compiled an enviable record, winning ten of the thirteen debates last year. It remains for this year's varsity to continue where the others have left off.

The question chosen for this year's season is: Resolved: That all Inter-Governmental World War Debts Including Reparations Should be Cancelled. The squad is preparing for its first tilt of the season to be held on February 7, with Franklin and Marshall College, which will be dual with affirmative teams travelling. Other debates scheduled thus far include: Lehigh, on February 16; Lebanon Valley on March 2; Villanova on April 6; Richmond on March 20.

The teams representing the college have not as yet been selected. Ray Heist, '33 is captain of this year's squad.

The Kelmseott Chaucer, which took William Morris five years to complete, is reputed to be the most beautiful book in the English language. It brings fifteen hundred dollars in the auction room.

Muhlenberg Band Has Program In Assembly

"Izzie" Klitzner came into his own right as a musician of either the first or second order at Muhlenberg, as the band featured him in their annual winter concert played in the Science Auditorium on Thursday, January 12. "Izzie" fairly surpassed that notable, ancient character immortalized in Sheffel's "Der Trompeter von Säkkingen, with his selection "The Commodore Polka", and, because of the tremendous applause, was forced to play an encore.

The selections of the program were confined to overtures and marches and consisted of:—

March, "Military Escort," by Bennett; Overture, "Youth Triumphant", by Seitz; March, "Connecticut March" by Nassann; March, "American Red Cross", by Parrella; Overture, "New Dawn".

The concert closed with the singing of the Alma Mater by the students and the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner".

ILLUSION:

One of Houdini's most spectacular escape feats was performed with a huge milk can filled with water. He invited persons of the audience to bring padlocks and lock him into the can. He got into the can, the lid was put on and fastened with several padlocks. A screen was placed in front of the can. Assistants stood by with stop watches and fire axes to save him from drowning after a certain time. About a minute later, the screen was removed, Houdini was seen panting and dripping...the padlocks remaining intact!

EXPLANATION:

The usual method of escaping from a milk can is as follows: The lid of the can is apparently securely padlocked to the lower portion, but actually the metal band to which the staples are attached is the top of a short inner lining. The performer, after being locked into the can, pushes the lid upward with his head and the short inner lining is forced out of place, permitting his escape. The screen is then removed.

What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising!

Let's look at one of its greatest illusions
...that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior "FLAVOR."

THE EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring...the blending of various tobaccos...and the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is the most important. Artificial flavoring can never wholly disguise the poor flavor of cheap tobaccos.

The blending of several cheap, raw tobaccos cannot improve the flavor of any of them. A fine cigarette is a cigarette blended from costly, ripe tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why the Camel flavor has never been rivaled... why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

In more costly tobaccos lies the secret of Camels' delicate "bouquet"...of their rich, cool flavor—of their non-irritating mildness.

It's the tobacco that counts.

All the natural goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh and rich for you by the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it. Its moisture-proof cellophane also protects your Camels from dust and germs.

EDDIE CANTOR HAS HIS RUBINOFF. Walter Winchell is particularly fond of keeping Ben Bernie before the public eye. And we, humble as we may be, must have someone on whom we may shower our attentions. For that reason, and because she has invited it, we have chosen our charming little columnette from Cedar Crest.

We're accused of mis-quoting. We're accused of everything under the sun by the fair damsel—but we can't be accused of falsifying the facts when we say there were more Muhlenberg men than Lehigh men at Dancing Youth on Friday night. Miss Columette was there and if she is at all observant, which we sincerely doubt, she must agree on that point. So, dear Miss Columette, foam and writhe and fret and flurry, but keep that little pencil moving dishing up all the "delicious little tid-bits" for your interesting little friends on the neighboring hillside.

THEY CALL IT "RELIGION WITH a sex appeal." If religion has that much discussed quality it stands more or less alone. According to McClelland Barclay, magazine artist, no woman has sex appeal. She rather has what he calls "type appeal."

Barclay is quoted by the Associated Press as defining his ideal appealing women as follows: she would have the walk of Kay Francis, the legs of Marlene Dietrich, the knees of Wynne Gibson, the chest and shoulders of Miriam Hopkins, the hips of Carole Lombard, the hands of Sylvia Sydney, Mae West's teeth, the lips of Helen Twelvetrees, and the stately carriage of Elissa Landi. But even at that she wouldn't be beautiful, because Barclay says no woman deserves to be called by that term. Rindfleisch says that as far as he's concerned a woman who measures up to those qualifications is the only kind he's interested in.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THE Anti-Cedar Crest club. One of its most ardent devotees, organizers and promoters, Norman Miles, if he is still a member, has a big bill on his hands after dancing with Cedar Crest youth on Friday night. Muhlenberg students can be proud of the fact that they are well represented on the tennis courts, both by faculty and by students, as Dr. J. V. There seems to be a mystery surrounding the Delta Theta house lately. Tuesday night, or rather early Wednesday morning, someone was heard prowling around on the first floor after all lights had been extinguished. The sleeping brothers were aroused and went down stairs just in time to see the intruder run out the back door and down the alley. Bianca seems quite interested in the case and believes that the house is haunted because the next morning the coffee was percolating on the stove when he went down about seven A. M. Political Interest Necessary Declares Dr. Haas In Chapel

Lobbying, Playing Politics, and Avoidance of Important Issues Are Glaring Evils.

"The first thing we lack to produce a better civilization is the want of political mindedness on the part of the great mass," declared Dr. John A. W. Haas in a discussion of Our "Unfinished Political Tasks" during chapel services on Friday, January 20.

Dr. Haas emphasized the important position which the college youth of America could occupy if it were not for the fact that there is a tendency on the part of even our best minds to follow the way of the crowd. One of the burdens of democracy is the fact that many of our people are not fit to vote, and it is the duty of our college men who enter politics to effect this fault.

Morals—Not Money

Dr. Haas stressed the need for a less material viewpoint in politics. "The trouble with our country," he said, "is that people are here for money and not for the great moral issues."

The third of our unfinished political tasks is the organization of the unorganized masses. The illustration of the lobbyists in Washington creating legislation which is opposed by the great majority of Americans demonstrates the importance of organization. In order to create the necessary organization, the New England town meeting should be adopted all over the country. This would bring the best minds of the community together to suggest legislation. What is necessary is a mass of people against the entrenched groups controlled by wealth or some other interest.

Some Politics is "Damnable"

Dr. Haas deplored the fact that the President of the United States should be forced to occupy himself with a vast number of trivialities to the disadvantage of the vaster issues of the nation. He also expressed the need for a more flexible form of government which would give the people an opportunity to dictate the policies of their representatives. Referring to the recent attempt of Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania to impeach President Hoover, Dr. Haas declared that the Representative should be impeached for playing politics in such critical times. It is also to be regretted that our political morality has reached so low a status that it is possible for a legislative body to argue about beer when there are so many more vital questions. Dr. Haas characterized the recent activities of McFadden and the anti-prohibitionists as "damnable."

The political talk was ended with a direct appeal to the younger generation. Its influence was once more emphasized and its courage was de-

Faculties Of Lehigh Valley To Meet Soon

The annual meeting of the faculties of the colleges in the Lehigh Valley has been arranged through the efforts of the Lehigh Faculty Educational Club. The meeting this year will be held at Lehigh University on March 17, at 4:15 P. M.

At the preliminary meeting attended by Dr. Boyer of the Muhlenberg Education Department, final arrangements were made. Dr. William S. Learned from the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of Teaching has been secured as the principal speaker and he will address the gathering at 4:15 P. M. At 6:00 o'clock the faculties will be feted at dinner. The program will be concluded with another lecture, on architecture, delivered by a professor from McGill University.

"Ted" Black Will Not Play At Formal Ball

The Junior-Senior prom committee recently disclosed the information that "Ted" Black's orchestra will not play at the college's annual social function. Negotiations have been under way for some time to secure a better group of musical entertainers. Although the choice of Black's orchestra appeared to be a certainty for this affair no contract had been signed.

Several high class musical outfits are at present under consideration and the committee will make a definite announcement in the near future as to which one will entertain the students at the "Dyad." The committee is at present actively engaged in formulating the final plans to make this dance the most successful affair on the school's social calendar.

'Berg Men Rank High At Medical School

Muhlenberg Has High Percentage of Medical School Graduates Says Dean Pepper.

Dr. Shankweiler, organizer of the Pre-Medical Society on our campus, made an interesting discovery while paying a visit to Dean Pepper of the University of Pennsylvania Medical College. He found that Muhlenberg has a greater percentage of graduates at the Medical School than is ordinarily allowed for any school of our size.

As explained to Dr. Shankweiler by Dean Pepper, there is place in the Medical Class for 132 men. Of these 49 have been prepared at the U. of P. Undergraduate School, leaving 83 to be selected from other schools. Over 1000 men hailing from 85 different colleges applied last year and of all these applicants only 83 men, representing 54 different colleges, were chosen.

In this struggle for the survival of the fittest, four Muhlenberg men came through with flying colors and were accepted for entrance. One had already decided to enter Jefferson Medical School located in Philadelphia but the other three are now students in their school.

Three out of eighty-four is an exceptional record, especially so when fifty-three other schools were represented.

The office has also received the news that one Muhlenberg man's 1931-1932 average for the freshman year was 95%. Since 1918 only one man went to U. of P. who did not finish medical school, discounting those who are at present enrolled in the school.

Piano Recital Given By Former Student

Earle Laros, former Muhlenberg student gave a piano recital at the St. John's Lutheran Church auditorium under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the college on Tuesday evening, January 24. Mr. Laros has won praise from music critics wherever he has appeared, and the reason for this was readily understood by the large audience, including many Muhlenberg students, that attended.

The program follows:

"Ballet of the Unhappy Shades", Gluck-Friedman; "Sonata, C major", Scarlatti; "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desires", Bach-Hess; "Rejoice, Beloved Christians", Bach-Busoni; "Aria from Cantata: 'Sing Ye,'" Bach-Laros; "Symphonic Etudes", Schumann.

"Eccossaises", Beethoven; "Intermezzo, Op. 118", Brahms; "Ballade, G. minor", Brahms; "Three Etudes", Chopin; "Gold-Fish", Debussy; "The Juggler", Toch; "Etude, F. minor", Liszt; "Nocturne", Laros; "Trians", Albeniz.

Buchman Declares Oxford Group Is "Good Lutheranism"

Editors' Note:

Dr. Buchman, Muhlenberg, '99, arrived in town for a stay of a few hours shortly after the issue of the "Weekly" containing a write-up of his activities had appeared. Russel L. Krapf, '35, a "Weekly" reporter, seized the opportunity for obtaining an interview with this well known alumnus.

"The Oxford Group does not emphasize sex any more than the Bible does," declared Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, '99, in an exclusive interview with a "Weekly" reporter late Friday afternoon, Jan. 13. On that day Dr. Buchman paid a short visit to Allentown on his way to Washington where he was to join a party of sixty persons who are traveling with him on a mission of personal evangelism to all parts of the United States and Canada. After considerable difficulty a reporter was able to get in touch with the founder of The Oxford Group who very willingly arranged for an interview.

The reporter found Dr. Buchman to be just as a Herald Tribune correspondent describes him, "a bespectacled man of average size, inclined slightly to corpulence, and has a receding forehead. His striking features are a peaked nose and quick flashing eyes." But the "Weekly" representative was also greatly impressed by the man's personality which he describes as being "magnetic."

Weekly Article "Not Bad"

A copy of the January 11 issue of The Muhlenberg Weekly (Dr. Buchman was editor-in-chief of this publication in 1898-1899) was handed to him and he read with interest the article under the caption "Buchman, Muhlenberg Alumnus, Leads Growing Religious Cult." "Although it's amusing in places, that's not a bad article at all; only please don't call the Oxford Group a cult," commented Dr. Buchman, after he had finished reading the article.

"The Oxford Group," stated its founder, "is not objectionable to many church authorities as was stated in your "Weekly". It is nothing but good Lutheranism. It is the 'Kerngemeinde' that Martin Luther talked about. "Only two weeks ago in New York", continued Dr. Buchman, "Bishop William T. Manning welcomed our group and gave his approval at a mass meeting of 2300 persons in the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria. It was just last Monday that I spoke at the Philadelphia Lutheran Theological Seminary and was introduced by President Charles M. Jacobs. There I was accompanied by Frau von Cramon, a German Lutheran and a cousin to the German Ambassador to Washington. The other speaker with me at the Seminary was Madame de Trey, sister of Emil Drunner, one of the world's greatest theologians who received a whole new vision of the practical power and work of the Holy Spirit at one of

M. C. A. Cabinet Holds Important Session

Parker Appointed to Edit 1933 Freshman Handbook; Plan To Take Freshmen To Camp.

Malcolm Parker was appointed editor of the 1933 Freshman Handbook by President Lubsen at the meeting of the Muhlenberg Christian Association Cabinet, Monday, January 16. This Handbook, from all indications in the discussion of the meeting, will be larger than that of former years. Campus scenes will brighten its pages and relieve the solid pages of Student Body Constitution. Efforts will be made to publish the book this Spring, thus enabling Registrar Harry A. Benfer to distribute it to prospective students.

The week-end before Freshman Week, according to the discussion, might well be spent by the newly enrolled students at a nearby Summer Camp. Here recreation would be offered in addition to the delivery of talks on Muhlenberg by certain of the professors. Obviously the M. C. A. could not meet the entire cost of the week-end, but the plan was deemed feasible enough to try. The committee studying this problem consists of James Angstadt (chairman), Ray Bachman, and William MacMillan.

The M. C. A. president to be elected in May may attend the Y. M. C. A. Boy's Conference at Valley Forge, to be held in the second week of June. The expense would be met by the Association's budget.

Once more it was thought wise for the Chaplain, Rev. Harry P. C. Cressman, to arrange for an Open Forum in the college classrooms. In previous years travellers and thinkers of various nations and experiences have come to the campus for a few days to impart us their ideas. The exchange of thought was deemed worthwhile.

Ministerial Club Meets

Rev. G. Harold Kinard, A.M., D.D., spoke on "Evangelism" before the Ministerial Club, Monday, January 16. As pastor of Christ Lutheran Church of Allentown, Dr. Kinard has experienced all the factors in a large and busy congregational life. He reported how necessary and beneficial the practice of Evangelism is today. The three elements in Personal Evangelism, according to Dr. Kinard, are the Holy Spirit, the Gospel of Grace and the man's own service. The speaker also praised the Oxford Group for carrying on personal individual evangelism.

Dramatic Club Will Compete For Trophy

The O'Neill play "Moon of the Caribbees" was chosen by the Mask and Dagger Club at their meeting, Monday, January 16, to be their production in the Civic Little Theatre Play Tournament in March. Mr. Coder has coached winning plays for this tournament for the past two years. If the Club wins again this year, the cup of award will be in their permanent possession.

Another play, a three act production, "Falling Leaves" by Guiseppe Gascoia, will be staged after Lent. Warren Smith has been made Production Manager, Raymond Musselman Business Manager and "Bob" Stinson, Publicity Director for this play, according to the committee report.

The Dance Committee reported a financial success from the first annual Mask and Dagger Dance. The business session included an election of officers, an election which proved to be a re-election in every case. John Hemmerly is President, Henry Lubsen, Vice President, Gordon Feller, Secretary, and Asa Wohlsen, Treasurer.

Eta Sigma Phi To Be Host To Lehigh Group

J. C. Stobart's "The Glory that was Greece" furnished material for an archeological discussion at the meeting of Eta Sigma Phi, in the Library Seminar Room, Thursday, January 19.

Mr. Marin Ruoss reviewed Stobart's book and led the discussion of its contents. The Lehigh Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, as was discussed in the preceding business period, shall be entertained as guests at a meeting in the near future. Efforts to re-establish a Latin Club in Allentown High School may be successful, as the result of Mr. Novak's activity there.

Sophomores of high standing will be considered for election and initiation into the club during the second semester. Remarks on Archeology from the five faculty members, Dr. Horn, Dr. Ettinger, Dr. Fritsch, Dr. Reichard and Rev. Stine, concluded the session.

O. D. K. Will Pledge Juniors and Seniors

Tapping Ceremonies To Be Held In Assembly Period, Feb. 2— Ideals To Be Explained

Tapping ceremonies will be held by Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary activities fraternity, in the Science Building auditorium on Thursday morning, February 2. Dean Robert C. Horn will be the speaker, and he will discuss the work, ideals, and program of this fraternity of which he is faculty advisor.

Not more than seven students, chosen from among those most active in extra-curricular activities and standing high in scholarship, will be honored with invitations at this time. Juniors will be admitted into the fraternity for the first time since its organization on the campus. This will insure a continuity of program, since there will always be a number of men in the senior class that can explain the ideals and the plans of the fraternity to the incoming junior members.

The committee in charge of Thursday's program is: Chairman, Ray Heist, Henry Lubsen. The committee making arrangements for the formal initiation of the pledges is: Chairman, Robert Horn, Jr., Donald Schlotter.

Dr. Horn To Lecture To Lutheran Students

"Clean Speech" Will Be Dean's Topic at Third "Muhlenberg Night" Friday, February 3.

Dr. Robert C. Horn will address the Lutheran Student's Association on "Clean Speech" at the third "Muhlenberg Night", Friday, February 3, at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. John E. Whitteker, '35, will also speak, telling of his life in the Virgin Islands. Mr. Richard G. Miller and Mr. Lester Fetter will contribute musical numbers, Mr. Robert C. Decker the devotions.

This organization presents only talent of Muhlenberg at its special gatherings every six weeks, called "Muhlenberg Night". Girl friends may be brought to these open meetings. Every student (Lutheran or not) on the campus is welcome to attend their programs.

"Realizing My Religion" has been chosen as the theme for the L. S. A. Conference of the North Atlantic Region, to be held at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa., February 17, 18, 19, 1933. Dr. William C. Schaeffer of St. John's Lutheran Church, Allentown, will deliver the main addresses of the Conference. Delegates from Muhlenberg expect to attend all the sessions of the Conference.

Mr. John H. K. Miller, '32, is president of the North Atlantic Region of the Lutheran Student Association.

Richard Garnet Wins Oratorical Contest Held In Auditorium

Student Council President Will Represent 'Berg in State Contest at Thiel College.

"The world's great need is for honest minds to meet and discuss the problems that are confronting it," declared Richard Garnet, president of the Muhlenberg Student Body, in what later proved to be the winning oration of the forty-first Oratorical Contest, held in the Science Auditorium on Thursday morning, January 19. As a result of his victory, Mr. Garnet will represent Muhlenberg in the annual State Oratorical Contest to be held at Thiel College, Greenville, Penna., on March 4.

The president of the student body based his oration on "The Spirit of Locarno," and greatly stressed the vision of the two men whose unselfish spirits were responsible for the understanding of peace arrived at in the Swiss city, Aristide Briand, eight times premier of France, and Gustav Stresemann, the minister of Finance of Germany. "The spirit of these two men," he stated, "must pervade the nations again today, and then only will liberty triumph and lead the world to peace and prosperity. But instead, diplomats who are not true men are our representatives at peace parleys. They are pre-war diplomats who wear smart clothing and play a good game of golf. They are like that old fox, Talleyrand, who could see no farther than his own immediate future."

World Is Going Bankrupt

Mr. Garnet showed how the world under its present state is slowly moving toward a state of bankruptcy and complete disintegration because of the lack of the proper spirit. France is arming heavily. Germany grows more rebellious every day. The Americas, protected behind vast bodies of water, declare that the world must examine the moral advantages of disarmament and Japan, ruled by a group of ancient feudal lords, is again taking to war. The nations will not be able to win the benediction of blessing until they allow Love, and Service to warm their hearts.

Feller Is Alternate

The alternate position for Representative went to Gordon Feller, a junior, who spoke on "Specialized Education." Humorously, he contrasted the various types of college that might be used instead of the present system. In his "Specialized Education System" he included an Athletic College, complete with a large stadium and lacking any code of ethics, whose main idea would be to win

Dr. Bowman Speaks To Social Science Club

The "History of Marriage" from classical times to the present was the topic of an address delivered to the Social Science Club by Professor Charles B. Bowman, at the regular meeting of the club last Thursday evening, January 19.

The speaker defined marriage as "a form of mating between male and female accepted by society." He then enumerated the various forms of marriage as practiced by different peoples of different ages. Monogamy at present is the most popular form. After discussing the motives that lead to marriage—such as increasing population, sex appeal, and romantic love, Professor Bowman informed his audience that this era is the first one in which romance and courtship play the leading roles.

Following the address a short business meeting was held, during which officers for the next semester were elected. President, Russel L. Krapf and Secretary, Rudolf Koster were unanimously re-elected, while Norman U. Miles was elected Vice President. The meeting then adjourned.

Freshman Regulations

THE Student Council is sponsoring an open forum for the discussion of freshman regulations. This is a wise move, since it will aid in clearing up any doubts that may linger in the students' minds concerning the advantages and disadvantages of this particular form of collegiate tradition.

Last year, as the result of an overwhelming vote, freshman regulations were modified to a considerable extent. All fear that this would lead to widespread campus anarchy has been dispelled. Those who were charged with the responsibility of enforcing what few rules remained are now convinced that Muhlenberg should go the whole way, and eliminate all regulations. But this can only come as a result of the vote of all the students. For this reason the forum is to be held. Each side can present its views. If, after a full discussion is held, there are enough students who believe in the wisdom of the elimination of all regulations, then there will be a committee appointed to draw up a proposed amendment to the student body constitution that would accomplish this end. This amendment will be voted upon at a later meeting of the student body.

We urge all students to attend the forum to be held on Thursday, February 16th. There will be enough of excitement to please the most eager of all excitement seekers, and there will also be a splendid opportunity to learn all about this important question.

"Hamlet" My Favorite Play", Says Walter Hampden In Interview

KRAPF and SCHLICK

"Oh yes! I've heard of Muhlenberg. That's the famous Lutheran college," was Walter Hampden's reply to an inquiry by a Muhlenberg Weekly representative. Following the presentation of "Caponsacchi" last Monday Evening, January 23, at the Lyric theatre in Allentown, two "Weekly" reporters ventured through the boxes and crates and commotion of the back-stage and sought out the peer of American actors.

Without much difficulty their desire was fulfilled. Turning his attention from a beautiful young lady who had earlier in the evening portrayed a leading character in the production, one of the reporters spied Mr. Hampden. Very meekly at first he began a conversation. Soon the actor, who was smoking a cigarette, led the way into his dressing room.

After Mr. Hampden had autographed his program, the reporter asked him what role he preferred to portray. This was a mighty question to ask a man who has portrayed so many characters, among which are: Mason in "The Servant in the House", Iago and Othello in "Othello", Hamlet, Macbeth, Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice", "Petruchio in "The Taming of the Shrew", Cyrano in "Cyrano de Bergerac", besides Caponsacchi. The actor's answer was probably what might have been expected, "I haven't any preference. I like them all."

"What is your favorite play?" was the "Weekly" representative's second question. Walter Hampden's ready answer was, "Hamlet". Then I also like Othello, Cyrano de Bergerac, Caponsacchi and many more."

"Some modern drama is very good, then, too, some is awfully bad," replied the leading actor of the American stage to the question "What do you think of modern drama?" Concerning amateur productions, Mr. Hampden said, "They are very good if taken seriously."

The "Weekly" reporters, who are incidentally, members of "Mask and Dagger", asked the famous actor what he thought of the play "Falling Leaves", by Giuseppe Gioacchino, that their club anticipates producing sometime after Easter. "I read this play several years ago," answered Mr. Hampden, "and it is indeed very fine. I heartily recommend it."

The final question was, "What did you think of your Allentown audience?" "I have played here twice before," said Hampden, "ten years ago and two years ago in Hamlet and Macbeth. I have always had a fine audience in Allentown and tonight, I can say, it was even nicer."

Only once was the interview interrupted and that occurred when about ten telegrams were brought in for Mr. Hampden, but they were only secondary to him as he continued the conversation. The reporters walked out of the theatre with the actor and with a hearty handclasp he assured them that he would return to Allentown.

LIBRARY

NOTES

Along with the personal manuscripts of Dr. Charles More, eminent authority on the Pennsylvania-German dialect, (an account of whom has appeared in a recent issue of the Weekly) the library again has been the recipient of another interesting and valuable gift from the author, Dr. Harry H. Reichard, Professor of German at Muhlenberg College. The book is entitled, "Pennsylvania-German Dialect Writings and their Writers" and is the outcome of a paper prepared at the request of the Pennsylvania-German Society.

At the annual meeting of the Society held at Lancaster, November 5, 1908, a resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a Committee of the Society to compile a bibliography of Pennsylvania-German Dialect Literature. No further action was taken as to the matter until the meeting at York, October 14, 1910, where and when a committee was named to undertake the compilation ordered in the resolution adopted at Lancaster two years previously. The committee agreed that Dr. Reichard should act as editor for the committee, as he had already given the matter of a bibliography of Pennsylvania-German Literature considerable study and had procured much material along that line.

By means of travel, correspondence and the assistance of a large number of Pennsylvanians interested in the subject, the writer succeeded in collecting the great bulk of material in Pennsylvania-German Dialect in verse that is at present accessible. Of prose a similar collection was made and of this literature the most important has been described by means of a method, in the main, biographical. Complete bibliographical indices have been made stating the sources and locality where the printed productions of those in manuscript are to be found.

In almost all cases copies are in the writers' possession.

The Book is a scholarly piece of work, outstanding in its particular field and in all probability the only book of its kind.

Some of those persons, who are no longer living and whose biographies are listed are:

Louis Miller
Henry Harbaugh, Best Known, Most Popular
Abraham R. Horne, the Educator
Lee Light Grumbine, Editor and Poet

George Mays, "Occasional Poems"
Thomas C. Zimmerman, Translator
Moses Dissinger, The Pennsylvania-German "Billy" Sunday

Among the writers still living are: Edgar Eshelman
Ezra Grumbine, Song writer and Dramatist

Charles C. More, Story Writer
Thomas J. B. Rhoads, "Occasional Poetry"

Charles Ziegler, "The Poet Laureate"

Two new biographies are among our latest acquisitions: "Cervantes" by Thomas R. Ybarra. A new life story of the author of Don Quixote whose life held much of adventure, but small promise of the fame posterity has brought him. The book is as interesting as a novel.

Another interesting biography is the story of "The Three Jameses" by Clinton H. Grattan. In this composite biography the author has chosen to portray "A family of minds." Beginning with the elder William James who came to this country in 1789 he takes up in turn Henry James, senior, and his two sons William, the psychologist and Henry the novelist, describing the circumstances physical and mental, which made them what they were, and explains their contribution to American thought.

The Rev. Ira Oliver Nothstein who graduated from Muhlenberg with the class of 1897 has presented us with his most recent book entitled "Adventuring for Christ". It is a series of biographical sketches of Lutheran missionaries of all lands. A number of other books of the author are already in the library.

Two new novels, gifts of Prof. Simpson, have been added to our increasing list of modern fiction. The books are, "Three Loves" by A. J. Cronin and "State Fair" by Philip D. Stong. The scene of the former is laid in a suburb of Glasgow. Lucy Moore's three loves are her husband, her son and her God. It is a possessive love and in each case it tragically fails. The story is not quite as powerful as the author's former work, "Hatters Castle". The latter book, "State Fair" has excellent reviews. The characters are just common folks who take life simply and joyously, and so may the reader.

Another book interesting to students of the drama is "Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw," edited by Christopher St. John. The correspondence of these two famous actors throws an interesting light on the inner history of the London stage at the end of the last century.

Work Of Muhlenberg Alumnus Is Praised

Book By Dr. Amos A. Ettinger,
'21, Is Lauded by Leading Publications

After five months of research in England on his next volume, Dr. Amos A. Ettinger, Muhlenberg College, class of 1921 has returned to this city and is spending a few weeks with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. George T. Ettinger, of 1114 Hamilton street.

While in England Dr. Ettinger was invited to represent American historians in a symposium on "The Exploration of Anglo-American Archives," held in November by the Royal Historical Society. The other speakers were Sir Richard Lodge, president of the Society and Honorary Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford; Dr. Hubert Hall, dean of British Archivists; Prof. A. P. Newton, Rhodes Professor of Colonial History in the University of London; A. E. Stamp, keeper of the public record office, and Dr. H. P. Biggar, archivist of Canada.

Dr. Ettinger's study of "The Mission to Spain of Pierre Soule," which appeared after he sailed for England last summer, has met with most favorable reviews. This is the thesis which he prepared at Oxford and for which he received his doctor of philosophy degree. The New York Times, in praising the author's "most conscientious thoroughness," gave it two columns and the Savannah, Georgia, "Morning News," in a five-column article, called it "a vivid, comprehensive and accurate study." Even the London "Times Literary Supplement" gave it a full column of unqualified praise as "written in a sober style" and "a work of real historical value," while the Boston "Transcript" called it a "massive, detailed, and in every way scholarly volume," which "has filled a real need," and is "of the greatest value."

Among historical journals the "Louisiana Historical Quarterly" held it to be "an outstanding illustration of clear narration, sound perception, and honest interpretation. The story marches from start to finish with ardor, and the dignity of true history. It is really a great book, and the author is to be congratulated on his achievement."

The most important comment, that in the "American Historical Review," to which all historians turn for the final word, appears in the January issue, wherein Dr. Ettinger's work is honored with a two-page, major review by Dr. John Bassett Moore, dean of American diplomatic historians, for over thirty years Professor of International Law and Diplomacy at Columbia University, formerly assistant secretary of State and Counselor of the Department of State, and more recently Judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice. Dr. Moore has written that Dr. Ettinger's work, "which embraces the results of an intelligent, indefatigable, exhaustive examination of both European and American sources, official and unofficial, published and unpublished, has, as an illuminant, an importance wider than its titular description would convey."

In recognition of the author's contributions to the history of the South, the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Georgia has tendered in formal resolutions their appreciation of the services thus rendered by a Pennsylvanian.

FROM OUR READERS

MODERNISTIC RYTHM

A thousand naked feet,
Leave behind prints of blood;
Crunching o'er gems of polished sleet:
A thousand mutilated feet.

Triumphant ways of thought,
Once lined with classic pillars;
Now with echoes of the past—
A tripping of Haasarian thought.

Riddle me this;
Riddle me that;
Mystic cloud descend,
About heads so fat.

Now lift, O! cloud opaque;
We would see beneath these woes,
Tin whistle, fife drum or gun?
What! a man with pen between his toes.
—Si Podolin.

Editor's Note:
The "Weekly" believes that each student has the right to his own opinion. For that reason we print all articles that are properly signed, reserving as in this case, the right to cut out all matter that serves no other purpose than to stir up bad feeling. In this article, however, and in all others that are received, nothing is removed that will prevent the writer from expressing his idea or opinion.

STAND BY

This is a remarkable world we live in, and school we go to; and our little paper can boast of an extraordinary editor, in that he allows the proletariat to drop an occasional vindictive reply into the lion's maw. The genius of mockery, Heine, would never have worn his sardonic leer had he lived in our golden age; but enough of this meandering. The Huns have descended to destroy our temples of art; these butchers are at the very portals of our city... This Rambling Reporter probably is drunk with success, at any rate drunk, when he writes "My Column"... This morning at three o'clock, I saw a ghost wandering about the dorms. I questioned him. You could never guess who it was. I'll tell you. The Rambling Reporter bore his own Muse to death.

To write verse like that in Rambling Reporter is gross blasphemy; not only to an immortal art, but to a teacher as venerable and thorough as Professor Simpson, who incidentally, is trying like a Trojan to teach my friend poetry; and who, out of gratitude to his teacher, personifies for us how a civilized human can crucify a soul.

So, my dear reader, I have shown you a drugstore quarterback and a lavatory poet, choose between the two, or if you prefer it you may have them all in one... Now, my Rambling Reporter, let me be your eyes, but I'll keep my own legs. Not only are there souls in football players, but there are many of them ground under cleats, and this we consider a more honorable death than to be asphyxiated by your juvenile verse, and infant attempts at the art of sarcasm. You have heard of poets who sit in attics and write with the gas jet close at hand, in case life tries to relieve them of living before death; then (beware) lest you cannot bear, on your rugged shoulders, the weight of our suicides. In speaking for the football players, let me say that at least we express ourselves fairly well in the music of athletics, while you have not even expression in your only resort, intellect. And let me end that we appreciate your sympathy in the beating we are going to take from Fordham, but we think you are a sissy with creaking bones, and we intend to win that game to disappoint you; if you will promise that you would not be able to stand the blow.

If you had ever seen a man die of mental constipation you will never in your life be able to erase that gruesome picture from your mind. In that it is a Fifth Avenue disease, only our blue bloods need fear it... Have you ever noticed the aristocratic delicacy of our soldier of the pen, Gordon Fister; one can actually see the rich, blue, blood coursing through his veins... It must be through sheer indifference that the matron of Cedar Crest permits one of her charges to roam about our class rooms.

SI PODOLIN.

At a meeting of the Faculty Book Club of Cedar Crest College held at the home of President and Mrs. W. F. Curtis on Monday evening, January 16, Prof. Samuel H. Ziegler reviewed Dr. Ettinger's volume. The author and his father, Dean George T. Ettinger, were guests of honor and after the review, the former briefly discussed the method of gathering material for such a volume.

Albert Klotz, '34

The coach of a big mid-western university was on his usual fall hunting trip. As he was tramping through the woods he suddenly came upon a large pile of dead squirrels. Reaching down he discovered that the bodies were still warm. Looking about he saw a large and well proportioned youth knocking down the squirrels by simply flicking stones at them by a simple twist of the thumb and finger. "At last, thought the coach" here is the solving of my basketball problem. He approached the lad and asked him what he did for a living. The reply was, "Nothing." The coach then asked him if he would like to go to school and the boy replied that he did not have the necessary money. The basketball mentor then said that that would be all taken care of by the college, and the lad was off to school and on the lookout for better and bigger worlds to conquer.

The boy after football season reported for the varsity basketball team because this institution did not have the usual freshman ruling. The season progressed, but alas! the poor squirrel hunter could not locate the basket, and the team lost game after game. The coach was rapidly becoming grayheaded and was in a quandary as to the best policy to pursue. At last, the mentor got an idea, which is a peculiar failing of all coaches. The baskets were then decorated with the pictures of squirrels. The youth then could not miss the hoop and the team went on to win the conference championship, and our friend the squirrel hunter was then chosen as an All-American by the leading papers and magazines. Maybe 'Berg needs a squirrel hunter.

OUR BAND

As a member of the band, may I give my opinion of the present conditions, and also a way of bettering them.

In the rendering of music we have made great advancement. I need not mention the marching—draw your own conclusion. As for interest—it seems as if there is something vital lacking. The order is such as I have never seen before entering college. Lastly, I have not questioned the authority given to our leaders, but I wonder if they feel that they are able to enforce such rules as they see fit.

My plan for bettering these conditions is that Muhlenberg College should offer some sort of scholarship for band members. The following advantages would be obtained:

It would create interest, giving the members something to work for.

It would encourage those interested in music to come to our school.

It would give the band an opportunity to set a requirement which would have to be met by each student before joining.

Lastly, it would give all our leaders an opportunity to enforce rules without fearing to do so.

I believe the band will be glad to accept any other plan which may prove helpful in solving these problems.

CHAPEL CHOIR

St. Michael's Lutheran Church of Sellersville welcomed the Chapel Choir at their services Sunday night, January 15, 1933. Pastor Waidelich and the congregation heard five anthems by the Choir, a tenor solo by Joseph Zamites, and Dr. Mark's address on "Church Music, the Part it should play in every congregation's life."

The Chapel Choir sang "God of Abram, Praise", "Jubilate", "Hymn to Night", "Lo, How a Rose", and "Gloria in Excelsis". Dr. Marks emphasized in his talk that the Choir, in Church singing was only the aid and guide to congregational singing, therefore the people must join with the choir in the service. Pastor Waidelich and his people appreciated this turn out of Muhlenberg talent.

ALUMNI NOTE

The Rev. Charles L. Grant, '11, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church, St. Paul, Minn., a native of Reamstown, Lancaster County, Pa., chaplain of the house of representatives of the State of Minnesota, last year, was re-elected to that office in the forty-eighth session, beginning January 3, 1933. Rev. Grant is also a graduate of the Chicago Lutheran Theological seminary.

Muhlenberg Registers Initial Conference Victory At Drexel

Horine and Lepore Are The Leading Scorers As Mules Subdue Dragons 44 to 35.

The Muhlenberg College entry in the Eastern Pennsylvania inter-collegiate basketball league journeyed to the city of brotherly love last Friday evening, January 20, and met their closest rival for the cellar position of the league, the Drexel "Dragons". The result of this rivalry was the initial league victory registered by Coach George R. Holstrom's proteges in four starts, the "Mules" having been previously overriden by Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg and Ursinus. The score by which the Cardinal and Grey-clad basketballers made their debut into the league win-column was 44 to 35. The defeat sent Drexel into undisputed possession of the league cellar with a record of four defeats in four starts.

The 'Bergmen started their scoring early in the game and rolled up their winning margin in the first half. The score at that time being 29 to 20 in favor of the "Mules". Drexel, coached by Walter Halas, received a new inspiration in the second half and were able to hold the bally Mules to an even battle during the latter period.

Much improvement was noted in Muhlenberg's playing, not only from the foul line, but also in their shots from other sections of the court. "Bill" Horine, fast and dependable Cardinal and Grey guard, was the high scorer of the night, caging six field goals and two fouls for a total of fourteen points. "Gene" Lepore was also a big scoring gun for 'Berg with ten points, four field goals and two fouls. Hoff, big "Dragon" center, led in scoring for the losers with four field goals and three fouls for a total of eleven points.

Coach Holstrom has been experimenting a great deal of late in an attempt to break the losing streak of the "Mules". His hard work and patience were rewarded when his boys turned in their first league victory last Friday night. The combination started by Holstrom in the Drexel game included Lepore and Sterner, forwards; Rohn, center; and "Big Joe" Matuska and Horine, guards.

The "Mules" next game is with Rutgers on February 1, at New Brunswick, while their next home game will see them attempt to even up matters a bit by subduing the Nevonians from F. and M. on Saturday, February 4.

Walter Hampden Gives Interview To "Weekly" town again in about a year.

On their way out the "Weekly" representatives passed a dignified looking gentleman who had tried hard to see Walter Hampden, but had not succeeded. Prior to their interview with the actor, the reporters were conversing with this gentleman who was found to be an assistant manager of the Hamilton Hotel, Washington, D. C. In his talk he intimated that the Muhlenberg alumni of that section were planning a banquet at his hotel in the near future.

The unique fact about Robert Browning's, "The Ring and the Book", upon which is based "Caponsacchi" is that it is one of the few masterpieces of imaginal literature which deals with what might be called a front page murder trial. The murder of his beautiful child wife, Pompilia, and her parents, by Guido Franceschini in Rome in 1697, and his subsequent trial and execution, were the sensation of that day in the Eternal City.

Mr. Hampden, yet in his forties, is an American—a Brooklynite to be

Seven Meets Comprise 1933 Track Schedule Recently Released

Several Experienced Men Comprise Squad Which Will Be Augmented by Sophomores.

The 1933 Muhlenberg college track schedule, recently released for publication, contains four dual meets, three of which will be staged on the local track. In addition the Cardinal and Gray team will compete in three other meets—the Penn Relays, the Middle Atlantic States track and field track and field meet, and the Central Pennsylvania meet. The dates for the latter two events have not as yet been decided upon, although the Middle Atlantic States meet will probably be held at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster.

Only three of last season's varsity squad were lost through graduation—"Major" Majerick, star sprinter, Leon Godschall, and "Bob" Geiger, shot and discus man. Other experienced men who will be available again this season are "Winnie" Welsh, champion distance runner; "Jack" Requa, "Reds" Weiner, "Norm" Land, "Bill" Wilkinson, "Welcome danger" Smith, "Rudy" Novak, "Whitey" Marzolf, et al. However, some potential varsity material was discovered by Coach "Scotty" Renwick in last year's Intramural track and field meet which will be greatly utilized in the coming season.

The 1933 track schedule for Muhlenberg College follows:
April 22—Drexel at Allentown.
April 28-29—Penn Relays at Philadelphia.
May 3—Lehigh at Allentown.
May 6—Lafayette at Easton.
May 20—Rutgers at Allentown.

exact. He was born in the borough beyond the bridges and received his early education there and at Harvard, taking a course at the Brooklyn Polytechnic. And it was in his Brooklyn school days that he did his first Shakespearean acting, beginning with no less a role than Shylock when he was sixteen years old.

At a comparative early age he went to France and then to England, where he became a member of the F. R. Benson, Stratford-on-Avon Players. During his three years' association with this company he played over seventy different roles in the various plays included in the repertoire, ranging from a page in "Henry V" to Iago in "Othello." Leaving the Bensons he became leading man to H. B. Irving, and during this actor's illness, played Hamlet for the first time in London. He was then in his early twenties, and the youngest actor to essay that part, aside from Edwin Booth.

After six years in England he returned to America and made his first great triumph as Mason, in "The Servant in the House." His memorable performance of "Cyrano de Bergerac" is one of the outstanding triumphs in the history of the drama, and his presentation of "Caponsacchi" (the warrior-priest of Arezzo), based on Browning's "The Ring and the Book", and dramatized by Arthur Goodrich, has been acclaimed as theatrically effective as his Cyrano.

"COLLEGE EDUCATION A GREAT ASSET", DECLARES MANASSA MAULER

By Robert W. Stinson

It all started this way. My slave driver—pardon me—my editor stamped through the halls of West Berks the other evening yelling, "A fine newspaper this is—can't even get a simple interview. I'll give the reporter who comes back with a story from Jack Dempsey two weeks vacation."

Well I, being a young man who is not in love with work, decided right then and there that here was my chance to bum for awhile. I walked up to Mr. Marzolf and said, "I'll sacrifice my all for the dear old Muhlenberg Weekly. Give me the assignment and I'll go out to conquer the hero."

Darned if he didn't take me up on it—so after waiting exactly six hours and three minutes I finally gained admittance to the Manassa Mauler's dressing room.

Friendly Game Interrupted

Much to my surprise Mr. Dempsey greeted me with a soft drawing voice and invited me to sit down. I was very ill at ease to say the least, for I had butted into a friendly poker game which Jack seemed to be enjoying immensely. The former champion soon relieved my fears however by giving me a friendly smile and saying, "I'll be with you in a moment son. Wait 'till I take this pot away from the boys."

I was glad of the chance to sit and remain quiet for a few moments because it gave me a chance to study the famous man more closely. I was sitting right beside him so every detail of his face and physique was clearly exposed to my view. Jack's hair was cut quite short and had a slight wave. His skin was the color of the beach loving shiks endeavor to attain during the summer. He wore a light colored dressing gown over his stage costume which consisted of a knit, cream colored sweater, light, pin striped grey trousers and sport shoes.

Theatrical Atmosphere

The other occupants of the room were members of the vaudeville troupe that is traveling with him. Their presence added an atmosphere that is hard to explain. I felt as though I were sitting in a theatre watching the unfolding of a real film rather than actually watching the movements of these men.

Jack was smoking a long panatella and when he spoke it bobbed up and down with the movement of his jaw. Finally he turned to me and said: "Don't mind the game, son. Go right ahead and ask your questions. I'll answer them while we play."

Boxing Commission Hit

"All right, Mr. Dempsey," I answered. "What do you think of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission's ruling on college boxing?"

"Well," he said: "I don't know much about the ruling, but I understand that in the long run the college is the loser. For that reason I'd say that the colleges are foolish not to try to reach some agreement with the commission."

"Do you think," I asked. "That boxing should be encouraged in the schools?"

Boxing good in Schools

"Absolutely," he answered emphatically. "Life is a battle from beginning to end. If a young fellow learns boxing he learns how to control his temper, to think fast, and above all he learns to take it on the chin and smile and that's one of the things that goes far in making a real man."

Dempsey paused to deal the cards at this point and I was given another chance to gaze around the room. I was seated directly opposite the one window that the room boasted. The curtain was down from the top and I could see the dirty faces of two tiny street urchins who had managed to climb up the fire escape so that that might get a glimpse of their hero. Such is hero worship!

Jack had finished dealing the cards and again turned to me. His direct, frank, gaze gave me a feeling of confidence and I began to feel more at home.

"Do you think a college should grant athletic scholarships?" was my next question.

"Why shouldn't they?" he asked. "If a boy has the ability to study and to participate in athletics at the same time he surely is an asset to the —Courtesy of Morning Call school. When I say study, I mean study! I don't approve of shoving a fellow through just because he is good in some particular sport. If he isn't man enough to get good marks and tries to stay in school on the merits of his athletic fame he doesn't deserve an education!"

Favors College Education

"Do you think a college education really is an asset, Mr. Dempsey?" "I'll say I do. Without an education you can't do anything. Ask me—I KNOW!" he said, hitting the table with his fist.

"Well, supposing a man enters college with the idea of taking up boxing as a career—when should he start training?" was my next query.

"Usually," he answered, "The age for training depends entirely upon the individual. In the first place, I don't think a college is the right place to start a professional career. Please don't misunderstand me. Colleges usually turn out some awfully good fighters, but when a man enters college he should take up boxing for the sport of the thing and not with the idea of future financial gain. I say this because the man is tempted to neglect his studies otherwise. I believe, though, that if a man intends to do any boxing at all he should start to train the day he enters college—sooner if his physique will stand it. Under no condition should a man enter into the fight game if he doesn't like it. Nor should he participate in any form of athletics if he does not have the desire in his heart."

"Do you think that a college should employ a professional manager for the arrangement of athletic programs? Or do you think a committee consisting of members of the faculty and board of trustees should take care of these matters?" I asked.

Professors Often Hazy

"I think it better to have a professional manager," he replied. "The average professor does not know half the time what he's doing—athletically I mean. Whereas the professional manager knows the sports he is dealing with and therefore should know how to arrange his program to fit each one individually."

"What do you consider your greatest asset was in attaining the fame you did?" was my next question.

Without any hesitation he answered, "The hard knocks I've received. I've had plenty of them too."

I could well believe this as I looked into his face. He wore a rather pathetic expression as he spoke. I could not help but wonder how he could have stood up so well under the physical and mental jolts he has received. His face does not have a scar or mark on it—which is remarkable when one considers his many fistic combats.

Wrestling is a Racket

"Mr. Dempsey," I said: "Do you think that professional wrestling will ever reach the heights that boxing has?"

"No," he replied. "It never will, because wrestling usually is not on the square. There is too much chance for faking and they surely take advantage of those chances."

Now was the time for the question I had been wanting to hear him answer. "Do you think there really is a serious contender for the World's Championship?"

No World's Champ Now

Dempsey laughed and said, "In the first place we have no real champion. Sharkey was handed the decision on a silver platter. To my mind Baer and Schmeling are both better men. I think there should be a fight between these two and then the winner should challenge Sharkey."

"Is it true that Rummy is your favorite hobby?" I asked. "Not exactly," he said. "I like, as you can see, any kind of a card game and next to that I enjoy a good show best."

"From what you've seen of theatre life can you say that you like it?" I asked.

"There is very little of the real theatrical life left," he said. "What there is of it, I like. The reason is that I've always been used to having my nerves on edge at all times and next to boxing the theatrical game furnishes the most excitement."

Intends to Promote

"Do you really intend to promote after you have finished your present engagement?" I asked.

"Yes," he said. I leave for Chicago on the 29th where I will take full charge of Baer."

I felt that I had taken enough of this surprising man's time. He was surprising in as much as he possessed the polite mannerisms and pleasing vocabulary that goes to make up a real gentleman. As I rose, Dempsey said, "Anything more I can do for you Bob?"

Boy, did that make me feel good! I answered, "Yes sir, there is. Will you please sign this paper that I have my questions written on so that hot headed editor of mine will know I've really been here?"

"Sure," he said laughingly. He not only signed it, but he wrote a few more lines besides which I'll keep a secret.

"BUCHMANISM IS GOOD LUTHERANISM" FOUNDER STATES IN INTERVIEW

our house parties. Bishops all over the world have endorsed our group," went on Dr. Buchman. "Then too, President J. Ross Stevenson, of Princeton Theological Seminary, spoke positively for our group at the recent national convention of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America in Indianapolis."

American Student Superficial

When Dr. Buchman was asked for his impression of modern American College students, the answer was, "They are pretty superficial. They don't know much about vital Christianity, and they don't have much sense of true values."

Then when the reporter asked for a comparison of modern European and American college students, Dr. Buchman replied, "They are much more thoughtful on the other side. In Europe they take their work more seriously than students do in America."

The founder of the Oxford group, who has travelled extensively and has visited an untold number of college campuses all over the world, said that he always loves to get back to Muhlenberg. "Naturally I have a great admiration for Muhlenberg College because it's my Alma Mater. I regret that I could not drive out today just to see it," continued Dr. Buchman.

Princeton Changing Attitude

"Do you know," exclaimed this noted graduate of the class of '99, "that despite the fact that President Hibben, of Princeton University, took such drastic action against our movement, five prominent Princeton professors—including heads of the International Law, Political Science, and Greek departments—attended one of our recent house parties at Briarcliff Lodge, Briarcliff Manor, New York? There were also present fifty-one people, who came over from England especially to attend this gathering. Other guests included Curtis B. Dall, son-in-law of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. W. Mackenzie, of the Hartford Foundation, Vice Admiral Lauray Lowe, of England, and Sir Walter Winden, of England, and others."

"House Party" Is Church

When the reporter questioned Dr. Buchman about the "house party," he answered, "It's only a church in a house." Then he added, "We seek converts anywhere, both young and old. We get everybody—bootleggers, lawyers, senators, doctors—everybody. The Oxford Group reaches every class of society. We have in our movement a former Communist, in the person of James Watts, a young red-haired Scot, who organized the general strike in Scotland in 1925."

"Can you imagine a practically unknown American going to Oxford University, one of the most conservative educational centers in the world, and, in twelve years time, creating a movement that is world-wide in its influence? And that man is a Lutheran! The Oxford Group," continued Dr. Buchman, "has entered thirty-two countries. It is nation-wide in South Africa. It is indeed a mighty spiritual awakening."

Carl Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture under Woodrow Wilson, has said, according to Dr. Buchman, that the Oxford Movement is the only answer that he knows in this day of chaos.

"From Washington our tour will continue," stated the leader of the movement, "to Akron, Ohio, where we shall be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Firestone, the former being the son of Harvey Firestone, Akron rubber magnate. Then we shall continue to Chicago, Kansas City, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Victoria, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, and Saint John."

Dr. Buchman strongly recommended to everybody the book, "For Sinners Only" by A. J. Russell and published by Harper and Brothers. He stated that over 102,000 copies have already been sold in England alone.

Ferguson is no Authority

The statements of Charles Ferguson in his book "Confusion of Tongues" were criticized by the Oxford Group founder. "Ferguson is not an authority" said Dr. Buchman. "If you want to print an authoritative statement about The Oxford Group, print this in your paper." Then Dr. Buchman took from a special suitcase, overflowing with newspaper clippings and papers relative to

Norman Brokenshire Tunes Up Chesterfield Radio Stars for the New Year

Six nights a week—every day except Sunday—at 9:00 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, stars of comedy, music and song will come through the Columbia Broadcasting System over the largest coast-to-coast hook-up in radio.

Tom Howard and his partner George Shelton are new to the ether waves. An exclusive Chesterfield find, they are reported to have turned down some attractive stage offers, including one with "Of Thee I Sing," for an opportunity to present a new comedy-team idea on the radio. Theatre goers all over the world are familiar with Howard's famous comedy sketch "The Spy," introduced in the "Greenwich Village Follies" of 1928. It subsequently won the N. Y. Critics award as the best comedy sketch of the year and was translated into many languages. Howard is a real "scoop" for Chesterfield. In the past ten years the famous comedian's time has been filled to capacity with stage and movie productions, and he was finally persuaded to carry his inimitable drolleries into the realm of radio. The team of Howard and Shelton will be on every Tuesday and Friday. An added feature on those two nights will be Elizabeth Barthell, novelty singer, in special vocal numbers.

Ruth Etting, who as Chicago's "Sweetheart of the Air" rose via Ziegfeld's Follies and other stage successes to be America's "Queen of the Air," continues singing those heart-throb ballads for Chesterfield fans on Mondays and Thursdays. It was her voice, listeners will recall, that made "Ten Cents a Dance" a nation-wide hit over night.

Bing Crosby, who seems to conquer all fields of popular entertainment, takes over the Chesterfield microphone on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The romantic baritone's latest triumphs were in Hollywood where he starred in the "Big Broadcast" and other pictures. Crosby's Brunswick recording of the song "Please" from that movie outdied all other Brunswick records during the month of October, and for the past nine months Crosby's recordings have been the best sellers among individual vocalists.

A nightly feature of Chesterfield's stellar series is Lennie Hayton's Orchestra. Hayton is another Chesterfield discovery—one of Broadway's younger successes. Under Chesterfield's sponsorship Hayton makes his first appearances as a Star Conductor, well qualified by his experience as former assistant conductor for Paul Whiteman and musical arranger and accompanist for various radio and stage headliners.

Norman Brokenshire, Chesterfield's popular Master of Ceremonies, promises the year's outstanding fifteen-minute shows to his thousands of followers. "Like Chesterfield," says Brokenshire, "this new line-up is sure going to satisfy!"

such a restoration of the world."

It is noteworthy in this connection that the Rev. John L. Barnes, D.D., pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Allentown and preacher at the Vesper Service on Sunday afternoon, January 15, in the Egner-Hartzell, Memorial chapel, praised the Oxford Group for winning men to be witnesses for Jesus Christ. He stated that these men deny themselves and take up the cross and follow Jesus.

games at any cost. Another type was the Gentlemen's College where College Knighthood could be found in all its glory but where as a matter of course there would be but few classes. A third group would be the Training Schools to be utilized for the training of Super-Salesmen. Then finally there would be a college for real men where students would not be taught by Professors but would work with them and obtain a fine training for life. "Since we have tried so many plans in Education," he urged, "can we not take this final step?"

"Shall Europe Pay?"

Gearhardt Leaman was the first speaker and used as his subject "Shall Europe Pay?" He called attention to the fact that it would be far better to dump the gold which European nations owe us in the ocean rather than allow those countries to use it for enlarging their armaments. Today when we have eleven million of our citizens out of work and are one billion in debt in our budget we can not talk about cancellation.

Harry Dunlap spoke on "The Way of Defeat." He urged Americans to throw off the cloak of defeatism and proclaim themselves as God made them, free beings. "Do not junk the machine because you can't control it but learn to control it." Man must learn that he is responsible for the happiness of his neighbors.

Dr. John D. M. Brown, coach of oratory and head of the English Department was in charge of the contest and announced the speakers. Professor Russel Stine, William D. Coder and Ephraim Everitt acted as judges.

PRE-MEDS TO VISIT PHILA. MEDICAL SCHOOLS

On February 8, the Pre-Medical Society will again make a venture into the realms of the concentrated science of human life and its prolongation when it makes its annual trip to the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, and to Jefferson Medical College, in Philadelphia.

The society together with its advisor, Dr. J. V. Shankweiler, and its honorary member, Professor H. E. Miller, will leave by automobile at 8 o'clock or before. The group will proceed directly to the University of Pennsylvania—at 10 o'clock, to go on a tour of inspection of the laboratories, classrooms and other major points of interest. At two o'clock it is due at the Jefferson Medical College, where much of the same program will be enacted, with the addition of a clinic at 4 o'clock.

This trip will be the second to Philadelphia, following the one made to Hahnemann Medical School last February.

Melancholia

Life has become exceedingly hard for the Rambling Reporter. On Sunday, he cast aside paper and pencil to portray the role of a doctor in a play. The audience, which was in a very good humor, greeted the newcomer to the medical profession with a series of laughs. The last straw was the examination of a patient by the would-be doctor; the doctor had a stethoscope around his neck but neglected to put it to his ears—although examining very earnestly the patient. . . . What a Debate!

Attorney Gillespie tells of a classic debate with a very small college in which Muhlenberg was the victim of a line of strange occurrences.

First of all, the other team refused to debate unless they were assured that Muhlenberg would use in their rebuttal only material written before the debate. In other words, use only a "canned" rebuttal.

Secondly, the other team used an alternate who was about thirty years old and who wore a suit resembling a Salvation Army outfit. This personage shook his head at every word the Muhlenberg debaters uttered and nodded his head at the words of wisdom that rolled out of his team members. The audience took his cue and soon everybody was shaking their heads negatively when the 'Berg debaters spoke and nodding their heads in approval when the home team spoke.

During the period between the main speeches and the rebuttal, Coach Gillespie walked out in the corridor for his usual smoke. Whereupon the opponents accused him of having aided the Muhlenberg team in their rebuttal work.

The last straw was when a number of the Muhlenberg team asked the rhetorical question: "Who, in this audience, would say that Prohibition has been a success?" and a member of the faculty rose in the audience and answered: "Why, I would".

P. S.—Muhlenberg lost.

A student who enrolled at the College of Pugen Sound twenty-five years ago was recently awarded his bachelor or arts degree . . . Better late than never. . . . A Lehigh student in financial pangs sent a telegram to his Dad which read: "Lost coat on train, please wire fifty." Soon a reply came: "Dear son: Lost shirt on market, please wire five." . . . We hope times improve. Many students have been annoyed by their parents writing them for money . . . It was pretty tough to have a depression right in the middle of these hard times.

ALUMNI NOTE

Professor Paul A. Nagle, '24, instructor in Chemistry in the Allentown High School, has been awarded the order of the Purple Heart, military merit badge. He was a member of the 108th Machine Gun battalion, of the Twenty-eighth division, at Courmont on the Ourcq river during the World War. He served overseas for thirteen months.

In The Collegiate World

The University of California recently observed a "free beer" day, when for one hour, the "glass that cheers" was served without charge. For the next time, however, students are asked to come early, since the supply only lasted ten minutes.

When the students of the University of Minnesota presented "The Streets of New York" it was discovered that they were shy some smoke for the big fire scene.

They consulted the National Guard and got some real militia smoke bombs.

When the fire scene arrived on the opening night, things really began to happen. Clouds of smoke belched over evening gowns and spotless white shirt-fronts; fumes filled the noses and eyes of a choking audience. The curtain was rung down and the guests departed.

The National Guard had failed to explain that the bombs used were enough to lay a smoke screen on a small army over a 46-acre field.

An English professor at Cornell informed his class that he had discovered an essay which had been copied word for word from the preface of a text book not used by that class. With utmost severity he ordered the offender to see him after class, adding that he would omit the mentioning of the person's name in the classroom if the student would present himself. After the dismissal he found himself face to face with five individuals.

At Detroit University students have demanded that the number of co-eds in the classes be increased or cut out entirely.

Columbia's football players recently found employment as nursemaids to the young sons of wealthy New York families. The men owe their new occupation to the panic which followed the Lindbergh kidnapping.

At Connecticut College the use of rouge and lipstick is a distinctly senior privilege. That would be one way of telling the seniors from the freshmen.

The men unaffiliated with any fraternity of Washington University have organized a society called the "Wandering Greeks."

Pity this poor freshman at Delaware University! He took a military exam on the subject of the telephone the other day and ended with: "I do not know very much about telephones, for I expected an exam on the fife." As a matter of fact, he mistook the room number and thus took the wrong exam.

At the University of Melbourne men have taken up knitting as a protest against the co-eds who have adopted football as one of their major sports.

A freshman at Drexel began his autobiographical theme with "I don't know how it all began."

There is not a large enough difference between the platforms of the two parties and it should be the purpose of the younger men who desire to enter politics to create some organization which will be completely at variance with the policies of the present political parties with all their lack of political morality.

ILLUSION:

This very old illusion was invented by Indian fakirs. The secret was unearthed in 1849 by the great magician, Robert-Houdin. At that time, ether had just been discovered, and little was known about it. Houdin claimed that he had discovered that this new anesthetic could make people light as air. To prove it, he caused the subject to rise into the air and float apparently suspended. He passed a hoop around the body to show there were no wires or supports.

EXPLANATION:

There are many, many explanations for this old trick. One is that the girl wears a concealed harness, which ends in a socket between her shoulder blades. This is attached to a piston below the stage. The piston is pushed up from below, causing her to rise in the air. The piston is invisible, because it is covered with mirrors which reflect surrounding draperies, similar to the background. The magician can pass the hoop over her body because it is cut in one place. It can be pulled apart for a second when it passes the piston.

IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

It's fun to be fooled — ...it's more fun to KNOW

Another "magic show" is cigarette advertising.

One of its greatest tricks is the illusion that cigarettes can be made miraculously "MILD" through manufacturing methods.

THE EXPLANATION: All popular cigarettes today are made in modern sanitary factories with up-to-date machinery. All are heat treated—some more intensively than others, because raw, inferior tobaccos require more intensive treatment than choice, ripe tobaccos.

The real difference comes in the tobaccos that are used. The better the tobacco, the milder it is.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why Camels are so mild. This is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

It's the secret of Camels' rich "bouquet" . . . their cool flavor . . . their non-irritating mildness.

All the natural, ripe goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh for you by the famous air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it.

CAMELS

Muhlenberg Mirrored

By Gordon B. Fister, '33

IF WISHES WERE AIRPLANES we'd all be flying high—so says the modern paraphrase of the old adage. If all college professors had the same feeling toward the drama as Mr. Ephraim B. Everitt, Muhlenberg would be the most popular college in the country.

So great was the English instructor's interest in "Caponsacchi" which played at the Lyric Theatre on Monday night that he offered his B.S. sophomores the option of taking the mid-year examination or seeing the show and writing a paper on it. Now if that isn't the most delightful way of taking an examination we'll never write another word about Cedar Crest.

PAGE THOSE WHO HAVE BEEN condemning the younger generation! Believe it or not—of fifty Muhlenberg students who were asked whether they approved of promiscuous petting, not more than six replied in the affirmative. The same number at Cedar Crest were unanimous in their intolerance of that once carefully cultivated art. Perhaps the question should have been stated "Do you indulge?"

OUR FRIEND THE COLUMNETTE over at Cedar Crest is also president of the senior class and in that capacity has several duties to perform. Among them is appearing in the receiving line at the approaching Senior Ball to be held at the Lehigh Country club. Inside information, released by the members of her committee, has it that she will appear at the affair with a Chi Psi from her favorite college. Just a tough break. That puts her out of our class and we definitely resolve never to mention her again—unless compelled to.

WHEN THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES framed the by-laws which in the future will govern Muhlenberg, they missed one opportunity of gaining for themselves immortal fame and honor among all future Muhlenberg students. A single by-law providing as follows would undoubtedly have brought unprecedented hordes of students to Muhlenberg, assured a new gymnasium and greatly increased the endowment: "Students will receive their grades through classroom work only. There will be no mid-year or final examinations." Just seventeen words—they'd take less than a minute to write—but the matter wasn't even discussed.

EFFORTS ARE BEING MADE to postpone rushing season from the beginning of the year to the first part of the second semester. The theory is that both freshmen and upper classmen will have a better opportunity of knowing each other before they make their decisions. The plan is the same that is being followed in many colleges and universities throughout the country. Once tried it will undoubtedly meet with the approval of both the new and old students.

THERE ARE BARGAINS GALORE in the College Co-operative store. Dr. Mueller and Dr. Swain, in making the new management of the emporium possible have earned the everlasting thanks of Muhlenberg students. The unselfish motives which prompted their action is worthy action of the highest commendation. Not only are there bargains, but the store is one of the most attractive gathering places in the college. Pay it a visit if you are not as yet one of the regular customers. AND THAT'S THAT UNTIL after mid-year examinations. By that time there should be some honest-to-goodness news.

There is certainly nothing new under the sun. Cribbing in examinations is no modern invention as was revealed when a silk handkerchief about three hundred years old was presented to the Field Museum of Natural History. The handkerchief was identified as bearing thousands of microscopic Chinese characters, used as answers to the questions in a civil service examination in the Kank Hi period of Chinese government. Clever, these Chinese.

A new canine resident has appeared on the campus. He is "King," the police dog who has replaced the famous feline, "Kappa," as pet of Phi Kappa Tau.

The formal initiation of pledges of Phi Kappa Tau will take place February 10.

There will be a house party at the Phi Kappa Tau house after the Dyad.

John T. Wolfe, '35, was pledged by Philos, last Friday, the 20th.

The Ghost who last week terrorized the Delta Theta house has now attacked the tranquility of Theta Kappa Nu. In the latter house, the master switch has been thrown open several times during the past week. Incidentally, the Phi Epsilon Pi-ers were threatened by the Ghost's representative in the form of the "Ghost of Bangero" (secondary spelling-Bianco).

The Mothers' Club of Theta Upsilon Omega will hold a card party, Tuesday, the 31st.

"Art" McTighe has been elected chairman of the A. T. O. house committee. He will launch a program of extensive renovations.

Bowdoin contributes the following to the field of philosophy: "We laugh at all the professors' jokes: No matter what they be; Not because they're funny ones, But because it's policy."

Although the freshman class at the University of Maryland has to share part of the expense as a result of a recent escapade, nevertheless they are not so perturbed since they "got the best" of the sophs, anyway. It seems that the frosh painted the following legend on one of the campus buildings: "The Frosh are supreme." During the night the sophs added the word "idiots". This action resulted in the decision of the Student Council compelling the sophs to share in the expense.

You smoke a Pipe—and we'd like to talk with you about it

All races of people since the beginning of time, so far as we have been able to read, have had some kind of a pipe and have smoked something—whether they called it tobacco or what not.

AND since smoking a pipe is so different from smoking a cigar or cigarette, we made a most painstaking, scientific study in an effort to make, if we could, a tobacco which was suited to pipes.

We found out, first, that there was a kind of tobacco that grew in the Blue Grass section of Kentucky called White Burley, and that there was a certain kind of this tobacco which was between the tobacco used for cigarettes and the tobacco used for chewing tobacco. It is this tobacco which is best for pipes.

We found out that Mr. J. N. Wellman, many years ago, made a pipe tobacco which was very popular. But it was never advertised and after he passed away nothing more was heard about it. We acquired this Wellman Method and that is what we use in making Granger.

Next was the cut. We knew that fine tobacco burnt hot because it burnt so fast. You could hardly hold your pipe in your hand, it got so hot at times. So remembering how folks used to "whittle" their tobacco we cut GRANGER just like "whittle" tobacco—"Rough Cut." It smokes cooler, lasts longer and never gums the pipe.

So far, so good. Now we wanted to sell this tobacco for 10c. Good tobacco —right process—cut right. So we put Granger in a sensible soft foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package.

GRANGER has not been on sale very long, but it has become a popular smoke. And we have yet to know of a man who started to smoke it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

MULES DIE FOR DEAR OLD BLUTGERS!

Pre-Parsons Addressed By Devil Expert !!

Horse-Face
Coise Tells Club How to Treat Demons"Hellish Little Things", Though
Close Friends With Angels, Are Higher Paid

"Devils and how to treat them," was the subject discussed by Horse-Face Hoiman Edward Coise, well-known demonologist, before the Ministerial Club last week. Mr. Coise is very well versed on the subject, having known many devils personally: he has, in fact, been called, as a result of his acquaintances, "a little devil." "Devils," according to the speaker, "are hellish little things, and are very hard to get along with." As a result of this, they have been grossly understood by many people, and have been accused of everything under the sun, including the depression.

Depression Hits Devils

As a matter of fact, they have their own depression to worry about because of the activities of the Salvation Army which is converting potentially good material into angels. The speaker also stated, that contrary to popular thought, the devils and angels are close friends, and pointed out the fact that they play each other in football, basketball, baseball, and tennis, every year. The average pay of a good angel is six dollars a day, while a good (bad) devil receives twelve a day. Thereby proving the advantages of something or another.

At the conclusion of Mr. Coise's speech, the club sang "Little Devils, Stay Away From My Door." A splendid luncheon consisting of devil's food cake, deviled ham, deviled eggs, and deviled crabs was served by the refreshment committee.

At some future meeting, Gordon B. Fister, '36, will speak about "Angels at Cedar Chest Dances", and Bernard Frank, '43, will say a few words about "Devils at Forham".

Klara Bough Gives Muhlenberg Stude
Private Interview
In Dressing Room

by SIGH PODOLIN

I was at a loss for words to say when I, after knocking gently, entered her dressing room. She looked at me as tho I were a misplaced bit of furniture in her luxurious boudoir; but I felt more ill at ease than a man's hat. However, I soon collected my wits and said the first thing that entered my mind, which was not very magnanimous because the last thing is usually terrible.

"What do you consider the strangest experience," I asked Mrs. Bough, "in all your years of traveling with show companies?"

An Amazing Experience

"When I was in a little town in Missouri," she answered with the promptitude of one who has often repeated the same thing, "boarding at a cheap actor's place. The bed bugs were literally the rulers of the place. Why, they were so bad one night, that when I wished to sit up after ten, to study my act, a regiment of the little devils advanced on me and dragged me off to bed."

I looked at her with one eye shut, and didn't know whether to believe her or not.

"Do you like children?" I asked her, innocently.

"Yes," she answered, and smiled as only Mrs. Bough can.

"How many have you?" I still was not thinking.

"None," abruptly, and with a sting.

"Why?" still not thinking.

No Time To Play

"Oh, I'm so busy, you know; I have my career, which gives me so little opportunity to play."

This time the manner in which she looked at me made me wish I wore swaddling clothes instead of long

Delegates In Assembly

The annual "slapping" ceremonies of Oh Dee Kay were instigated in the Science Building Auditorium last Thursday morning, February 2. Those klunked on the conk were: Richard Kistler, Edward Judd, William Horine, and Woodrow Savacool, seniors; and John Hollenbach, junior. These men were all said to be outstanding on the campus before being elevated to membership in this honorary maternity.

The main purpose of this organization is to mold character and to recognize high quantity of activity and leadership on the campus. These men deflect the purpose of the maternity.

Marcus Aurelius Was Member

Before the ceremony, Dr. Robert C. Horn, making one of the longest and best speeches of his career as Dean, discussed the book of the month, "Meditations" by Marcus Aurelius. Marcus, prominent Roman playboy and Emperor, was also a member of Oh Dee Kay; that, however, was before the membership requirements were made more severe. It is readily understood that such mediocre men would have no chance of entrance now.

"One of the things interesting to note," stated Dr. Horn, "is that

nity Debating Victory

The non-maternity debate team, coached by that peerless veteran of many bull sessions, Russel L. Krapf, '35, came through with a stirring victory over the Grays' bull tossers by the score of two falls to one. The large audience, composed of the three judges, timekeeper, and chairman, was kept in continual turmoil as the groups fought ferociously over the question, "Resolved, that 'Muhlenheim Smearered', and 'Scrambled Reporter' are detrimental to the best interests of Muhlenheim and the world in general."

The fact that Gordon Fister, author of "Muhlenheim Smearered", had just received his pay check during the afternoon, and that he had been seen in the company of two of the judges who were present wearing new socks and neckties, is said to have had no bearing on the fact that the negative team was the winner.

Coach Donald V. Hock, prominent alumnus and well known as a pawnbroker, is using these inter-maternity debates to select talent for the freshman debate squad. It is his hope that it will be possible to arrange a debate with some other college before all his men become sophomores. The inter-maternity council is a great aid in this program by its policy of ignoring it entirely.

NOTICE!

The complete text of Stalin's message to the Muhlenheim Soviet will be found on page five. A detailed record of the Muhlenheim basketball victories will also be found there.

Oh Dee Kay should be judged by the quality of the men not included in its membership."

Epictetus' Legs Were Two Weak Epictetus, well known Stotic philosopher, once tried to get in Oh Dee Kay, but he was refused for the following reason. "One day Epictetus, then a slave, was being punished by his master." Epictetus said, 'Stop, or you'll break my leg.' The ordeal continued until the leg was broken, then Epi said, 'I told you that you'd break my leg.' Oh Dee Kay does not admit men with weak legs."

H. Paul Gerhard, '33, president of Oh Dee Kay gave a sermon before Dr. Horn's speech. Ray Hiest, one of the slappers had red ears when the man he was supposed to slap did not turn up for the honor.

Prominent Journalists Speak

After the ceremonies, Gordon B. Fister gave an interesting and novel oration on his experiences while Cedar Chest correspondent for the Muhlenheim Weekly. Bernard Frank also spoke and gave some new facts concerning the Fordham game to be played next year. These men were greatly applauded and received a fine collection of fruit that was tossed to them. Unfortunately the donors forgot to remove the cans from around the fruit, and the result was somewhat damaging to the dignity and personality of the speakers. The Weekly demands that cans be removed from all fruit thrown in the future.

For Dyad BrawlImported Orchestra Will Present Cup To Best Dancing
Couple (Admission—$3.50)

Lean Rosenberg, '34, committee of one for the Senior-Junior "Dyad", (Dance of the Nymphs) has finally obtained an orchestra. The contract for supplying the music for the dance, to be held on Friday, February 17, at Mealey's Auditorium, has been signed by the internationally famous Gene Kardos orchestra.

The Hot-Cha Boys

This orchestra comes from the Roseland Ballroom, New York City, the home of Hot-Cha. The inspiring motto of this ballroom is: "The Place where you get more for Less!" It is hoped that the customers from Muhlenheim will conduct themselves in keeping with the inspiring slogan.

The mere fact that this orchestra is to receive more money than was originally asked by "Ted" Black proves that even though Muhlenheimers know less about it, still it is a better orchestra.

Another Cup To Be Gave

In keeping with the Roseland custom, there will be a cup given to the best dancing couple on the floor. This cup is said to resemble the elegant trophy given to John Gosztonyi, '35, for suggesting the admirable name, "Dyad" (Dance of the Nymphs). All those who like the hot-cha type of rhythm are asked not to miss this affair.

The fact that the price has finally been set at $3.50 per couple for outsiders, and $2.50 for Jrs. and Srs. including tax should also set aside some wild rumors concerning assessments. A triumph for the Proletariat!

Unsocioable Science Club Hears About
Herbie's Adventurers

"It's fun to be fooled—... it's more fun to know, after a trying test I'll stick to Muhlenheim," concluded Herbie Frankfort in his educational address before the Unsocioable Science Club on the subject of "My Experiences at Cedar Chest."

When the large number of charter members of the club had recovered from the gripping tenseness of the tale, a business meeting was called and as at all previous meetings a new constitution was framed. Several members were also framed.

Russel Krapf, dictator of the association, led a discussion lasting several hours in which it was generally agreed that Hoover had won a moral victory in the past election. It was unanimously agreed to consider Hoover as President during the next four years.

Following the regular meeting Gordon Fister gave a lengthy address on Cedar Chest and Bernie Frank gave an entirely new slant on the Forham problem.

lude" And "Mourning Becomes Elektra" Will Be Presented

At a meeting of the Flask and Stagger Club, Muhlenheim's well-known dance sponsor, held last Friday night between halves of the Muhlenheim-Frankie and Mary basketball game, plans were made to begin rehearsals of two short, humorous skits, "Strange Interlude" and "Mourning Becomes Elektra." These skits will be presented in the Science Auditorium on Thursday, February 16.

The presentation of these skits is in preparation for a more ambitious program by this very active club. The organization has thus far given one dance, held several social gatherings with speakers, but no plays have as yet been presented. This, however, has been a mere oversight, prominent members explain.

At the short intermission between the plays to be presented, Gordon Fister, '39, will deliver an address concerning Cedar Chest dances, while Bernard Frank, '40, will say a few words about the Forham game. This is in answer to popular request. Si Padolin, Japanese exchange student, was largely instrumental in persuading these men to speak about subjects concerning which they are so reticent.

Muhls Gain Moral Victory (Again) In Blutgers Game, 32-31Horine Starred At Tackle, Ma-tuska At Infield Position,
Coach Led The Dances

Muhlenheim died for dear old Blutgers last Wednesday night at New Brunswick, New Jersey. Leading by several points near the close of the game, the Holstromites suddenly remembered the tradition, and went into a corner and folded up. Blutgers, not having heard any traditions about dying for dear old Muhlenheim, kept going and sent in enough field goals to emerge victorious by a 32 to 31 score. The wearers of the Cardinal and Gray were congratulated for their thoughtfulness and presented with a document asserting the fact that they were good sportsmen and had won a moral victory. This document has been added to the large group of similar ones that have been won by Muhlenheim in recent years.

Horine, although hampered to some extent by the fact that there weren't enough shoes to go around, thus compelling him to wear snow shoes, played a marvelous game. His off tackle dives proved very distressing to the Blutgers goalies. Matuska, however, turned in the best performance of the evening, his perfectly placed bingles time and again catching the Pink and Old Gold infield off their guard. He was removed from the game early in the second half as a result of a large number of technocratic fouls.

The Muhlenheim racqueteers came up strong during the third period, Nixon's services sizzling over the net so fast that his opponent thought the ball had been painted with invisible ink. Between the halves, after the chapel program for the following week was announced, Coach Holstrom, "Scotty" Renwick, "Shorty" Edwards, and "Maggie" Levine gave an exhibition of ballet dancing.

As the gong blew for the end of the final quarter, both teams left the floor quickly, since the preliminary contest had already begun. In spite of this temporary setback, the Muhlenheimers displayed an unusual amount of versatility, and gave evidence that the material on hand might produce results in years to come. The boys resolved to make Forham pay dearly for this defeat.

There was considerable disappointment felt by the large crowd when Gordon B. Fister, and Bernard Frank, scheduled to speak on Cedar Chest, and next year's Forham game respectfully, did not appear.

The annual meeting of the Inter-maternity Council was held on January 32, 1928, in the "Rec" Hall. The meeting was delayed in starting due to the fact that no one could decide who the officers were. During the course of the meeting sides were chosen and the Council proceeded to shoot bull and pool. The Greeks finally won after a hard tussle. A checker tournament was decided upon but it was tabled until the next meeting as it was already past bed-time. The next meeting will be announced in a few years. It is expected that at this meeting Gordon B. Fister, '38, will speak on subjects concerning Cedar Chest, Bernard Frank, '35, may be persuaded to make a few remarks about the Forham game.

Dr. Popseye of Pineville College Is
Speaker At County College's MeetingFamous Prexy Of Pineville Tells How Men
Students Are Busy Having Good Times

"Our purpose in education is fer to have all the student learn how to do everything at the correct time or fer not to do it at all at no time," said Dr. Wilsey Nilsey Popseye, A.U.P., Q.E.D., president of Pineville College, in a hot foisted address on "The Education of Boys and Girls in Co-educational College" at the decennial meeting of the American Federation of Lehigh County Colleges held some time ago at Huff's school house.

His Institution A Model

Holding up his institution as a model for colleges in the country, Dr. Popseye said: "What we wants to do, to consider ourselves pleased and satisfied with ourselves, is to in three and a half years determine chust what our students is not suited fer to do. We do under no circumstances wish to make our lady or women students suted for working at nothing since it is our ideal that when they gets done they should have in their heads enough brains to get themselves a good man fer to tie fast to. As fer the men students, well they are too busy having good times for us to bother a whole awful lot about what they purpose to do."

Marriage Is Bad

"We do not think it best for our students to get themselves married while still they are in the college, but when they do, and they do, we have made our minds up that there is nothing what we can do about it but to let them stay married and stay from that time on from out of our college."

"Morals in our place at Pineville is always of the best. We permit our students to smoke no cigarettes, nor do we let them stay out from their beds too late by night. If they do want to stay out so late we don't let them come in at all but we has no objections if they wants to find fer themselves a hotel fer to stay in."

Pink Elephants Are Bad

"In their dormitory rooms the students is allowed to have no callers of the sex of which they ain't, since it is not condusive to good morals. The only exception to this being when I myself am there to see what goes on. There were anyway times when this happened but I am here to say that I could do nothing about it. TECHNOCRACY and technocrats are receiving a great deal of publicity now, and it is all the result of deliberate plagiarism. One of Muhlenheim's esteemed professors did all the work in this field, and Scott takes all the credit. Dr. William S. Ritter, Head of the Department of Physical Education at Muhlenheim, spent years in developing the fundamental principle of Technocracy, and now he is compelled to sit by and watch another, lesser, man bask in the glory that should be his.

One of the strongest points of Technocracy is that its complexity makes it nearly impossible for anyone to refute its doctrines. An experienced Technocrat, when brought into a bad position by the arguments of his opponent, can immediately lay claim to a confusion in terminology, or a lack of understanding of basic principles on the part of the sceptic. Now Dr. Ritter developed this technique many years ago, and countless generations of Muhlenheim students have debated in vain concerning cuts, make-up classes, and schedules. The Doctor was always able to stand firmly in position and send his poor opponent reeling after a recitation of rules, laws, by-laws, records, the geometric progression of make-up classes for cuts, and the arithmetical recession of ergs and such energy units in terms of cinder track miles and gymnasium conservation.

Scott deliberately stole complexity from Dr. Ritter and mathematical formulae such as (9 minus 0 divided by 2 times 4 equals 2) from Dr. Isaac Miles Einstein. He mixed the two, added some Marxian theories, and the result was Technocracy. The Muhlenheim WEEKLY demands that credit be given where credit is due. Dr. Ritter, a quiet and bashful man, would never lay claim to his well earned title of Father of Technocracy, but we, with the almighty power of the press, demand that he be given recognition. We demand justice for the proletariat, we demand freedom for the Philippines, we demand five cent beer, we demand recognition for the true papa of Technocracy.

MUHLENHEIM athletics are acknowledged to be in a feeble condition. Although moral victories have a sweet sound at pep meetings, they leave nothing but a dark brown taste in the mouths of loyal Muhlenheimers. Everyone has made suggestions, even we, in a less sober moment ventured our advice. But now, we have come to a more intelligent conclusion.

We believe that the most suitable plan, since no publicity is better than bad publicity, would be to have Muhlenheim athletic teams play under an assumed name. Perhaps the Technocratic A. C., or the Podunk Amateurs might be titles worthy of consideration. We believe the following advantage be derived from this move: loyal Muhlenheimers would no longer be compelled to explain to their friends the general lack of prowess on the part of the Muhlenheim athletic teams. They could join with the rest of the large army of fans in viewing with amusement the feeble and futile efforts of the Technocratic A. C., or the Podunk Amateurs.

We demand that our plan be adopted—also, justice for the proletariat and free beer for our comrades.

"We believes that in this here modern age the students should be themselves like machines and should have traditions fer them to go by in all things—even to the clothes what they should wear and how they should walk and talk with themselves and with other peoples. We have had fer our students all this printed down on paper to tell them how they should march and walk and come by the college in and go from it out.

Shade Trees Are Good For Dogs and Students

"A college we think should have much of shade trees on it fer the students to get in back of behind so that they can more conveniently do those things that they cannot do in front of the trees. They also help to keep the dogs from the dormitories out.

"Above all we believe that a college education should be liberal but not free and that the students should pay and pay much fer our liberality in education. In these heer times of depression and hard economics it is hard enough fer us to get our monies together without we have to scrape too much. We have everybody on the place teaching the students something—including the janitor. It save fer us money which we can use fer to plant more trees."

BOOK LIST

The Muhlenheim book house has received with great disgust the following sets of books from the Methodist Students Association: The Alger Series, by Horatio Alger, The Rover Boys at Different Places, The World Almanac (1888 to 1900), and Dr. Miles Almanac (1912 to 1914).

"The Rise and Fall of Herbert Frankfort, a study in Ministerial Meteors", by the mysterious H. E. K. was gratefully received. The fireman said it was just what he needed to start the furnace going the other morning.

A prominent Egyptian author, Si Padolin, has donated a copy of his latest best seller, "Things I Don't Like about Columnists".

WE DO NOT WANT ANY OF YOUSE GUYS TO COME OVER AND ASK US WHY WE NO LONGER RECEIVE "THE AMERICAN MERCURY", EDITED BY H. L. MENIKEN. WE HAVE COPIES ON FILE UP TO THE YEAR 1925. REMEMBER, DON'T ASK US!

We also received, gratis, 300 copies of "The Proceedings of the Ministerium of Podunk", boundless in ¾ morocco. Readers will discover a complicated plot handled in an ingenious manner. There is a profound psychological approach, and some excellent character studies. We recommend this volume for all those who desire some light reading after the examination debacle.

John Bunyan's latest work, "Pilgrim's Progress", has just been received by the Library. In spite of the fact that this book is highly recommended and much advertised, it will never achieve more than a limited, over night popularity. There are, however, some fine lines every once in awhile. There is some talk of adapting this book for the movies. There are to be a few minor changes; Pilgrim will be a traveling salesman working for the Fuller Brush Company, to be played by Eddie Cantor; and the wife, a home-loving woman, will be played by Greta Garbo.

We concede only a life of about one year for this book, but Gordon B. Fister, noted world traveler, writes that it is extremely popular even in such far away places as Cedar Chest.

Podolin. Bad free verse is the symptom of this unbridled age with its deadly decadence. It always needs some comment because it loves to hide itself in semi-mystic nonsense. The supposed poem above is intended to mean, first, that free verse is like jazz. It acts like walking through puddles and here there is a secret allusion. It is like walking through snow and sleet into slush which makes a swishing sound. Free verse attempts to come at times like a rip-roaring gale upon the roaming and roving poetic wanderer who is straying in a silly way into the wild wind of his unbridled imagination. It blows w—h—e—w. Much free verse only has a slant of sound and is senseless. Its final characterization is folly, conceit, vagary and rapidity. Empty and errant. After this disillusionment nothing can be done but to close the door on it. Slam bang! President, John A. W. Haas.

After challenging all organizations to a championship tiddle de winks tournament, Theta Kappa Nu was ignominiously defeated by the boys from Alpha Kappa Alpha by a score of five tiddles to one. After the brawl was over and the contestants were leaving the spacious Muhlenheim gymnasium, the Theta Kappa Nu captain said, "It all happened because we tiddled when we should have winked, and winked when we should have tiddled."

... IT'S TIME TO TELEPHONE HOME!

EIGHT-THIRTY P. M. is the time to telephone home!

The day's rush is over; the night's still young. There's plenty of time for a newsy, intimate chat. The family's at home, eager to hear your voice. (They'll be there for sure if you telephone as a regular habit, the same time each week.)

What is more, it is cheapest to telephone after 8:30 P. M. That is when the low Night Rates go into effect on Station to Station calls. For 45c you can then call as far as 140 miles away!

Yes, it's surprisingly inexpensive, as these typical rates show. But be sure you make a Station to Station call. Just give your home telephone number to the operator and hold the line. If you like, the charges can be reversed.

Maggie Levine's Punch Drunks Drop Another To Rude F. and M. Dibblers

Red Ears, Early Easter Fash- ions, And Blondes Also Make Good Alibis

Coach Holstrom's patsies pulled a fast one over their opponents Saturday on the Y. M. C. A. floor and refused to play basketball until the Frankie and Mary dibblers would consent to play with only three men. However the visitors had ample revenge in smacking the Heimians, 34-28, in six over-time periods.

The first half of the game was a run-away for the visitors who held a tremendous four point lead over Maggie Levine's punch drunks. Shortly after the second started, the Phi Epsilon Pi boys entered the floor with their dates, sitting on the south stand which had been reserved for them. On a vote taken by the players of both teams, the blonde with Herbie Gorin was adjudged the winner of the beauty contest.

The biggest excitement of the first half was when somebody or other of the Frankie and Mary team missed a sleeper under the basket; and did his EARS get red! Another important incident of the first inning was when Sterner, who makes a better football player, fouled somebody on the F. and M. team; the latter missed the charity throw; but, in return later put the Indian sign on stiff Sterner; and he obligingly missed his free throw. Josephus Rodgers, world's champion foul shooter, ran true to form and sank two fouls.

During the second half, the F. and M. team came out of the trance long enough to put the game on ice. Jacobs, the enemy full back, made five field goals and four fouls, being credited with one field goal made by the referee, Daggie Julian Caesar, in the melee during the fourth quarter. Horine, stellar 'Berg man, sank four double deckers and two fouls because of the fact that his date was watching the game.

The best shot of the game occurred during the fifth inning, when Sylvia Saul aimed at what he thought was the basket, but which later turned out to be Elephant Erie's mouth. The referee refused to allow the points.

The game was nothing to write home about. The only colorful part was the costumes of the ladies present. Margaret Schwartz wore a charming orchid hat, and a different color of orchid dress. She counted the crowd from her point of vantage on the race track.

Muhlenheim Smearered

By Gordon B. Fister, '33

THERE WAS AN OLD Austrian or French or Spanish or Italian philosopher who sometime in the dear dead days beyond recall said that there was nothing more painful and gruesome in the world than death caused by a diarrhoea of words.

ALLENTOWN HAS A MAYOR by the name of Fred E. Lewis. Mr. Lewis says that the morals of the city of which he is the head must be good and has succeeded in having several ordinances passed. There are no burlesque shows at the Lyric this year as in years past at which Muhlenheim and other college students may satisfy their lust for good wholesome humor. The result evidently, is the Burlesque issue of the MUHLENHEIM WEEKLY.

AS FOR YOU, CHARLIE PRESTON, perhaps this column would be more acceptable to you if we went to Reading and Fleetwood and made a survey among the feminies of those places. Judging from the size and frequency of your fan mail from the Berks county capitol, you probably have enough information already.

PAGING DONALD HOCK, that enterprising young Muhlenheim graduate who has made a survey among the frequenters of the bread lines and the homeless boys of our larger cities. Muhlenheim had its own bread line the last few days with students begging alms from the venerable dean of the collitch, Dr. Robert Chisholm Horn. As a result, there may be several homeless boys for Hock and his workers to provide for.

"What is your hobby?" I asked. "Acting. What is yours?" Before I had realized what I had heard I had written the whole thing

We agree with Mr. Bernheim who says no one should be flunked out of the collitch at the middle of the year.

SENSE AND NONSENSE tells us that it is rumored that 69 members of the present senior class will not get their sheepskins in June. But this, you know, is only a burlesque issue.

THE COLUMNETTE OVER by Cedar Chest has invited us to a count party on Friday night when the seniors hold their ball. An Allentown photographer, we think, takes a whole lot for granted in displaying certain photographs in his windows. Might we recommend that the columnette occupy her spare time by solving jig-saw puzzles?

HAIL TO DR. BOWMAN, the Dyad, the columnette, Dr. Wilsey Nilsy Popseye, Mr. Bernheim, Dr. Haas, Mrs. Keller, Ruthie, Margaret and the rest. We'll take them up one by one as their turn comes round in subsequent issues.

down. "Period," said Mrs. Bough, who was looking at my notes over my shoulders. "What school did you say you attended? How do you spell famous?"

"What character, of all those you have played, do you like best?" "The one of a poor girl, who has but one dress."

College Education Is Nerts "What do you think of a college education?" "Many a night I've lain awake and thought what I would do with one.

A sister of mine has one and she says it keeps her awake every night, something like asthma, they say."

"What—" Here, I am interrupted by Mrs. Bough.

"You're very inquisitive," she said, "nearly as bad as a newspaper reporter."

I took this as a hint and slunk from the room with only a thanking smile. Outside, there was a mob of men seeking interviews. Some, as much as stood on each other's shoulders to see over the transome.

Milder*

WHEN you ask a Chesterfield smoker why that's his brand—he generally comes right out flat-footed and says . . . "It's because They're Milder!"

So we're going to keep on doing everything we know how to keep them that way.

That's why we look for and buy the mildest and ripest tobaccos we can get. That's why we age them in our warehouses till they're mellow and sweet.

We believe that even the shredding of the tobacco . . . and the quality of the paper it's rolled in, have a lot to do with the even-drawing, mild smoke that people enjoy in Chesterfields.

You can bank on this . . . every method known to science is used to make Chesterfield a milder, better-tasting cigarette that satisfies.

A Scoop

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees, several weeks ago, a plan was proposed and adopted which is revolutionary in its scope. However, due to the immediate effect the announcement of such a plan would have on the student body, it was to be kept secret until next year. But the scrambled Reporter, while going through Doc. Haas's desk one evening, discovered the plan, and so releases it to a wondering student body (wondering where they are going to get their tuition money). The substance of the plan is to have each student pay for each course only what he thinks it is worth: a maximum price of $7.50 has been set for a credit hour. According to Mr. Benfer, no student is obligated to pay one cent more than he thinks the course is worth. At the end of each semester the student will send a list of his courses to the office enumerating what he considers each course is worth in dollars and cents. From this list, the tuition bill will be compiled. Another feature of the plan is that students will also be graded according to what they pay for the course:

3.50	C
1.00	D

The Delta Theta foundings will hold their Founders Day Banquet at Anaconda Foundry, Pittsburgh, U. S. A., on February 11th. The speaker of the evening will be Gordon B. Fister, '89, who will explain some of his experiences as ambassador of good will to Cedar Chest.

Being deeply moved by the national "Be Kind To Animals Week", the brothers of Phi Kappa Tau gave up all social functions and dates to spend Saturday evening looking for mouses with which to entertain the house pussy, "Kappa". Both pussy and brothers are reported to be coming along fine.

— O. K. —

The members of Alpha Tau Omega had as their guest over the week-end the head of the examining staff of the State Hospital, Rittersville. The boys were worried over the mental condition of "Don", popular A. T. O. collie. "Don", it seems, spent two hours in the room where an Ethics examination was being given.

"There's nothing wrong with that dog," said the doctor, "if you know of a place more suitable for a good sleep than an Ethics class, you tell me."

— M. D. —

The first anniversary of Phi Epsilon Pi was celebrated by the formal ritual of a Baby Parade in the submarine grille of the Americus Hotel, Allentown, U. S. A., last Saturday night. The babies were guests of the brothers at the basketball game between Muhlenheim and Eff and Emm. After the game, which the babes said was "just too cute", there was a dinner dance, with a large roast ham as the piece de resistance, after which the boys and girls glided about to the music supplied by Patrick O'Shaug-nessy Kelly and his Shamrocks. The ladies were imported from Australia and were beautifully clad in satin slippers and pearls. This big event will be repeated next year which will probably be the second anniversary of this maternity.

The Philos boys showed true Greek gentlemanliness by entertaining the ladies left without dates when the Phi Kappa Tau fellahs went mouse hunting. At a dinner given for these ladies, Gordonia Fister spoke on "Affaires d'Amour with Lehigh Men." Gordonia is well known as a representative of Cedar Chest.

ILLUSION:

The stage is all set for target practice. The magician lifts his bow and aims an arrow at the bull's-eye. His lovely assistant then steps in front of the target and he shoots the arrow—apparently through her—and it fixes itself in the very center of the bull's-eye! And she smiles through it all while the audience gasps.

EXPLANATION:

The arrow which the marksman "shoots through" his assistant simply folds up into the crossbow! The arrow which is actually embedded in the target is shot by the girl herself from a belt concealed under her dress. She releases a little spring, the arrow unfolds, and shoots straight into the bull's-eye! It is all done in a flash! So quickly the eye cannot detect the girl's movements! To heighten the impression that the arrow has gone right through, the girl releases a ribbon from the front of her dress—the continuation, apparently, of the ribbon attached to the arrow in the target.

It's fun to be fooled —
...it's more fun to KNOW

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another . . . the illusion in cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made as soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat.

If you have to consider your throat, the quality of the tobacco in your cigarette is important.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma . . . a cool, delicious flavor.

Keep the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack on your Camels . . . to assure yourself and your companions a fresh, cool smoke.

Dr. Haas Lectures On "Our Social Problems" In Tuesday Chapel

Lack Of Proper Training In Home and Neglect Of Reli- gion Cause Of Decline.

In an address on "Our Unfinished Social Tasks" Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of Muhlenberg College, emphasized three major defects in our social system—the family in solving divorce, the criminal tendency, and the aspect of unemployment. On Tuesday, February 7, in the regular chapel period, he pointed out that the social problem of child labor and woman labor in all this unemployment and with this great increase in crime was so deep that "only the surface can be scratched".

First, he discussed the family as a holy institution and the problem of divorce with its effect upon the family. Dr. Haas denounced the physical side of the family with its torrid passion, which when it dies out, leaves only family ruin and hatred. The primary causes of divorce are the death of pre-marriage romance and the marriage of different faiths. Divorce causes an evil and destructive effect upon the life and character of the child. Dr. Haas assailed the attitude of the parent for merely providing the child food and clothing instead of developing his character by Christian teachings. He elaborated by pointing out various famous men who got their training in a Christian home. "We are to control ourselves in face of passion and instinct through religious training and ethics."

Finally, Dr. Haas pointed out that the depression was due to the greed of mankind, human meanness, war, and many other problems. He denounced the lack of human interest and the lack of religious ideals in regard to the people suffering in the face of the "grain bursting the barns and fruit everywhere". He declared that the present profit scheme would have to be abandoned if it continues to misuse God's property. He concluded his address with the following thought: "More character, based on a religious life is the salvation of the world."

1933 Catalogues Now Ready For Disposal

The 1933 catalogue of Muhlenberg College has just come off the press. It is the sixty-fifth annual publication by the college and is one of the best catalogues that has ever been issued at the Allentown institution. Registrar Harry A. Benfer informed a "Weekly" representative that the new catalogue will be ready for distribution in the very near future.

Outstanding additions are a large air view of Muhlenberg College which covers the entire campus, including Allentown Preparatory School; and the home addresses of all of the students attending Muhlenberg College, listed alphabetically and by classes.

The courses that are to be offered at the college in 1933-1934 are clearly enumerated in departments arranged alphabetically. Also the new arrangement of courses and the new system of concentrating on elective courses is clearly explained.

Varsity "M" Club Holds Initiation Dinner

At a meeting held in the Commons, Thursday, February 9, the Varsity M Club elected officers for the coming semester. The results of the election are as follows: President, Albert Weiner; Vice President, Albert Kunz; and Treasurer, Albert Klotz. William Boone, who was just admitted into the club was elected Secretary.

The following men were also taken in as new members: Donald Young, Si Podolin, Chris Riley, Lloyd Moyer, William Bloom, John Lepore, and John Dietrich.

Six Men Initiated Into Eta Sigma Phi

Five sophomores and one junior were initiated into Eta Sigma Phi, the national classical fraternity, Thursday evening, February 9. The men who qualified with an "A" average in the classical languages are: Elmer Fahringer, William Fritsch, John Brokhoff, Lester Fetter, Luther Schlenker, '35, and Byron Stauffer, '36. John Bennetch reviewed the book, "Delphi" by Frederick Paulson, curator of the Museum of Copenhagen. After detailed discussion of this archaeological work the meeting adjourned. At the next meeting, March 9, the chapter will be host to the Lehigh chapter. Dr. Fritsch will address the group on Roman Culture.

Dr. Haas Elected To Head Athletic Board

Itemized Financial Statements To Be Issued By Treasurer Benfer After Each Game.

Dr. John A. W. Haas, President of Muhlenberg College, was elected to the presidency of the new Board of Athletic Control of the college, at the first meeting of that Board held last Friday evening, February 3, at the college commons. This new Board of Athletic Control was created at the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the college held last January 17 upon the suggestion of President Haas.

Other officers elected at this meeting were Lawrence H. Rupp, Esq., '02, of Allentown, vice-president; Professor Albert C. H. Fasig, '09, secretary; and Registrar Harry A. Benfer, treasurer. Dr. Isaac Miles Wright, George B. Balmer, '23, of Reading; and William D. M. Miller, '02, of Allentown are the other members of the Board.

Registrar Benfer has, in his new official position as treasurer of the Board of Athletic Control, posted itemized statements of the attendance and expenses of the basketball games, starting with the Muhlenberg vs. Franklin and Marshall game of February 4. On that evening there were 317 spectators present, but an indebtedness of $40.54 was incurred. At the Muhlenberg-Lebanon Valley game on February 8, there were in attendance 186 persons and the indebtedness on the game amounted to $74.25. A profit of $39.75 was realized on the Albright-Muhlenberg game in Reading last Saturday night.

When consulted by a "Weekly" reporter, "Haps" Benfer stated that it will be the policy hereafter to post a similar statement after every athletic contest. "In addition," Mr. Benfer asserted, "every six months a financial statement concerning athletics will be printed in 'The Muhlenberg Weekly' and the 'Muhlenberg College Alumni Quarterly'."

Robert C. Horn, Jr. Is Elected Delegate

Robert C. Horn, Jr., '33, was chosen to represent the Alpha Epsilon circle of Omicron Delta Kappa of Muhlenberg College at the tenth annual convention of the national organization to be held at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, on March 2, 3 and 4. The election of Mr. Horn as the delegate from the local chapter took place at the business session preceding the O. D. K. initiation ceremonies last Thursday evening, February 9, in the Grotto of the Hotel Americus. Henry A. Lubsen, '33, secretary of the circle, was chosen as alternate.

Five pledges—four seniors and one junior—were taken into membership at the mid-winter formal initiation ceremonies. Those inducted were William C. Horine, '33; Edward F. Judt, '33; Richard C. Kistler, '33; J. Woodrow Savacool, '33, and John W. Hollenbach, '34. After the ceremonies brief addresses were made by Dean Robert C. Horn and Dr. Isaac Miles Wright. H. Paul Gerhard, '33, president of the Alpha Epsilon circle, was in charge of the initiation.

Gene Kardos Will Invade Allentown To Play At First Annual "Dyad"

Despite rumors to the contrary, final arrangements have been completed for the first annual Muhlenberg Junior-Senior Ball—better known as the "Dyad"—to be held at Mealey's Auditorium on February 17. Gene Kardos and his well known orchestra will furnish the entrancing rhythm.

The "Weekly" can at last let the cat out of the bag without offending anyone. It is true that there was quite some concern as to whether Kardos could be secured for the forthcoming event. The wires were kept hot between Allentown and Manhattan City for one solid week, before a final agreement could be reached.

Much to the surprise of the committee it was learned that Kardos had booked engagements for the Beaux Arts Ball at Yale and the Senior Ball at Vassar before he had signed the Muhlenberg contract. Although the dates for these engagements do not conflict with the "Dyad", the Vassar engagement is booked for the following night and the famous "Roseland" group was reluctant to accept two such important dances in one week because of the distance between the two schools.

Rosenberg and Savacool put their heads together and decided to advance upon Philadelphia in one last concentrated drive last Saturday night. The object of the attack was Kardos and his band whose stronghold was the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel where they were playing for Philadelphia's Soci-

Der Deutsche Verein Feted By Saengerbund

New Officers Are Elected At A Business Meeting Of This Group. Entertainments Are Planned.

The members of Der Deutsche Verein were guests of the Lehigh Saengerbund, Wednesday evening, February 8. The German students learned the meaning of "Gemuetlichkeit" as was exemplified by the entertainment provided by the organization. Folk-songs, addresses by various members, and dancing were main features of the program. Ed Maletsky rendered several numbers on the piano, while Jerome Baer and the Hartzell brothers sang the "Barba Bauerei." A buffet luncheon was greatly enjoyed. Members of the Verein were invited to attend a masquerade on February 25.

At the bi-weekly meeting of the Verein, Monday evening, February 6, the officers for the second semester were elected. The results of the elections were as follows: President, Ralph Hartzell; Vice President, John Albright; Secretary, Frank Pankovitz; Treasurer, Arthur Hottel. The production of two Pennsylvania German plays at some time in the near future was then discussed. Preparations for the presentation of Miss Nolden; famous German operatic star, at St. John's Church, March 18, were concluded, whereupon the meeting adjourned.

Pre-Medical Society To Present Films

The Pre-Medical Society will hold its first meeting of the second semester on Thursday evening, February 16 in the Science Building. This meeting will feature a dental program, entailing a three reel picture on "The Relation of Nutrition To Dental Health", released by Castle Films of New York City. It visualizes experiments and researches that have been conducted at leading universities for the past few years, and deals with teeth and the prevention of oral diseases. It also includes the results of several clinical researches.

Following the picture Dr. Hummel, a local dentist, will address the Society. An invitation is extended to all those interested, especially pre-medical students, as a statement concerning dental schools will be given out.

ety Debs.

After the haze of battle had lifted, Muhlenberg's representatives were found to be victorious and a truce was agreed upon. When the treaty was signed everybody was happy and Kardos' appearance in Allentown was assured.

Incidentally it is of interest to note that Kardos and his musical boys were chosen for the Beaux Arts Ball after a heated debate by the Yale dance committee as to whether it should be they or the Casa Loma Orchestra—a band quite familiar to Muhlenberg.

It has been divulged that after a long interval on the road the Kardos organization will return to the Roseland Ball Room in New York City for an extended engagement.

The Depression has one thing in its favor and that is—it has necessitated the cutting of amusement rates. This factor is especially advantageous where this dance is concerned, the price of admission is to be only $3.50 to freshmen, sophomores, and friends of the school and a receipt of dues paid will admit any junior or senior. It will be remembered that in former years the customary price was $5.00.

The committee promises one of the most unique social functions ever to be staged by Muhlenberg and sincerely hopes that the 'Berg students will show their appreciation for their efforts by supporting the "Dyad".

Abolition of Frosh Rules To Be Debated

Move Comes As Result Of The Failure Of Enforcement Meas- ures.

The Muhlenberg College Student Council will hold an open forum on the subject of Freshman Regulations in Thursday's regular assembly program.

It was hoped by the Student Council at the beginning of the present year because of the general revision and simplification of freshman duties, that enforcement would not be a difficult matter. The lack of effectiveness had previously been the principle objection to their existence.

Owing to the general decline in the enforcement of Regulations, the council has for some time considered the abolition of the traditional dink, match carrying, and the general wearing of the green. Senior privileges have also been ignored. However, this phase of college tradition will not be discussed.

The business of abolishing the Regulations will proceed along parliamentary lines. Mr. Charles Cooper will present a brief defending the abolition of the irritating Regulations, while Mr. Samuel Bertolet will defend their existence and demand enforcement.

Following the presentation of the two briefs, Mr. Garnet will invite a discussion from the floor. A resolution providing for amending the constitution of the student body in order to abolish Regulations will then be proposed.

The Student Council hopes that the Student Body will express its opinion on the subject; however, the present status of existence without enforcement can not continue.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Host To Sister Group

The Cedar Crest chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, the National Philosophical Fraternity, was guest of the Muhlenberg chapter at the home of Rev. Stine, Thursday evening, February 8. Rev. Cressman discussed the philosophy of Noah Porter, of the American School, in the light of modern problems. During the business meeting, it was decided to hold the next meeting at the Theta Upsilon Omega house, March 2.

Juniors who have at least a "B" average in a Philosophy minor will be invited to attend.

COACH HOLSTROM RESIGNS

Coach George Holstrom announced that he had handed in his resignation to the new Board of Athletic Control. This will be effective beginning next semester.

He had no further statement to make as this paper went to press. Coach Holstrom has served as varsity mentor for the past four seasons. Prior to this he had been Coach of freshman sports at Muhlenberg.

Varsity Debate Team To Tilt With Lehigh

Negative Team Will Journey To Lehigh While Affirmative Team Will Debate Here.

The varsity debate squad will swing into action on Thursday evening, February 16, against teams representing Lehigh University. Coach Arthur T. Gillespie has spent a great deal of time recently in drilling the twelve men, who reported to him, in the art of debating and also in the development of the two cases. The affirmative team will be composed of John W. Hollenbach, '34, and John R. Brokhoff, '35, first speakers; Morton I. Silverman, '34, and Bernard Frank, '35, second speakers; and Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33, captain and third speaker. The negative team will be composed of Ray R. Brennan, '35 and Robert D. Kerstetter, '35 first speakers; Russel L. Krapf, '35 and John H. Yeager, '35 second speakers; and Milton Lowy, '35 and Ralph G. Keepert, '34 third speakers. Marlin L. Herb, '35 is also a member of the squad.

The question being used for debating this season is "Resolved: That all Intergovernmental World War debts and Reparations Should Be Cancelled." In the debate tomorrow evening the teams will only be composed of two men. Those chosen by Attorney Gillespie to represent Muhlenberg against Lehigh in this debate are: affirmative team—Morton I. Silverman, first speaker, and Captain Ray K. Heist, second speaker; negative team—Russel L. Krapf, first speaker and Milton Lowy, second speaker. The negative team will travel to Bethlehem for this debate while the affirmative team will entertain the Lehigh negative team in the old chapel in the Administration building.

Among the other debates that have already been arranged are tilts with Susquehanna University, Gettysburg, Lebanon Valley, Villanova, Franklin and Marshall College, University of Richmond, Moravian, and Massachusetts State College. The Susquehanna University-Muhlenberg College forensic tilt will take place next Tuesday evening, February 21. It will be a dual debate and the 'Berg negative team will travel to Selinsgrove.

Only two seasoned veterans were left from the squad of last year in the personages of Ray K. Heist and Morton I. Silverman, both members of the present affirmative team. Last season was the first season that both of these gentlemen took an active part in the proceedings of the intercollegiate platform. However some excellent material is available in the representatives of the sophomore and junior classes who hope to secure their first forensic experience as a member of a college varsity squad in addition to continuing the high standards already established by Muhlenberg College in intercollegiate debating.

Washington's Birthday, February 22, will be a holiday according to the announcement of Dean Robert C. Horn.

Powers Gouraud, Radio Announcer, Lectures In Thursday Assembly

Students Taken For Visit Be- hind The "Mike" By Dramat- ic Critic of Station WCAU.

Students of Muhlenberg were given a special treat at the regular Thursday morning Assembly period, February 9, when Powers Gouraud, former announcer of WCAU, Philadelphia, and now a well-known dramatic critic of that station, took them for a visit "Behind the Mike" and described some of his personal experiences there.

Mr. Gouraud, in a frank and impersonal manner, discussed the important features of broadcasting. The original dream for the radio, he stated, was some day to make it the university of the air, but this scheme was not practical and never got very far. Instead it has been commercialized to a great degree and is used chiefly for advertising. Even Dr. Damrosch who manages an instructive musical program was approached to go commercial. Stowkowski, leader of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, declared at one time that he would never allow his program to be commercialized, but when the Philco company came around to him with a blank check he too fell into line.

The medical profession is very much annoyed with radio and its advertising. The advertising of certain medicines and drugs is believed to be doing away with the family doctor. Radio listeners are beginning to send around to the corner drug store for their medicines instead of calling in their physician. Newspapers do not like the radio, since it steals away much of their advertising and often makes their news stale before they print it.

Mr. Gouraud continued with a description of the trend of the radio program to the stage. Formerly they were accustomed to digging up some Kate Smith or Bing Crosby and ramming it down the throats of their listeners by exploitation. But the people tired of this and demanded better

Kaltenborn To Speak For Kappa Phi Kappa

Mr. H. V. Kaltenborn, political commentator and news editor of the Columbia broadcasting system will speak in the Allentown High School auditorium on Friday evening, April 7. His topic will be, "We Look at the World." This lecture will be sponsored by Kappa Phi Kappa national honorary professional Education fraternity of Muhlenberg College.

Kappa Phi Kappa had previously restricted its social activities to members only, but due to the expressed desire of many outsiders to hear such a prominent speaker the public has been cordially invited to attend. Mr. Kaltenborn recently spoke at the annual banquet of the Allentown Chamber of Commerce.

The names of the first two hundred and fifty purchasers of tickets will be placed on the fraternity's patron list. The proceeds of the lecture will be given to the Student Loan Fund.

Pre-Medical Society Tours Two Hospitals

Thirty-three members of the Pre-Medical Society visited the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and the Jefferson Medical School, in Philadelphia on February 8.

At Jefferson they were given a demonstration on the treatment of mouth diseases by a specialist who showed the condition of the patient before treatment, and then showed the actual patient in the operating amphitheatre, after the treatment.

Both of the schools have the latest and the best of equipment. Muhlenberg alumni were met at both schools. The arrangements for the trip were made by Dr. Shankweiler, faculty advisor of the group.

The Decline of Freshman Regulations

FRESHMAN Regulations are going to be discussed at a meeting of the student body on Thursday morning. Because the present laxity in enforcing the rules is not considered desirable, it has been proposed that either of two measures be adopted: Abolish all regulations, or rigidly enforce those we now have. Regulations are going out, and regardless of the policy decided upon at the meeting, they will disappear. Of recent years there has always been difficulty experienced in enforcing them. Various methods have been tried and all have failed. At the beginning of each year there has been a real attempt at rigid enforcement, but as the days passed into weeks, and as football, "rushing", and other events occupied the center of interest, regulations and their enforcement have dropped into the background. There is no one to blame for this, the officials are not necessarily incompetent, only one thing has been forgotten: That the great majority of the students are not deeply interested in Freshman Regulations.

And it would be a disgrace to the college if there were a great interest in enforcing these stupid rules. Regulations are a last vestige of the day when baiting freshmen, and getting drunk were the only means of entertainment for college students after classes were over. Sports, the radio, extra-curricular activities of all kinds, from debates to campus politics, and an awakened interest in world affairs, supply sufficient opportunity for anyone's self-expression. There is no reason why the majority of decent students should be called upon in the name of a decaying tradition to condone the sadistic activities of a few cultureless morons. This is especially true when this often discovered fact is remembered: That those men who were the most difficult discipline problems while freshmen, are themselves the severest in their treatment of the new group of yearlings the following year.

Mutual understanding and consideration is needed in any well ordered society. We must sacrifice a few of our privileges for the welfare of the group, that is understood. One of the greatest factors in making freshmen, "fresh", is that they think they are expected to be fresh. There is only one regulation needed, and it applies not only to freshmen, but to all students and faculty members. That regulation is: "Be a gentleman." That rule is the only one necessary, by example, and by the pressure of the group's opinion more can be done with a freshman than with all the silly and complicated rulings that could be devised. After all, there is no reason why a man should not feel that he is compelled to break rules when he knows that they are stupid and that he will be the hero of his own group when he does so. However, when he knows that by doing things that are against the interest of the group; in other words, by not being a gentleman, he will inspire the scorn of his fellows, he will be restrained. It is merely the difference between being a martyr and being a jackass.

Muhlenberg materially eased Regulations last year, and there was no evil result. The fact that even those few rules that remained could not be enforced does not argue for more strict enforcement—it is the best demonstration of the ridiculousness of any rules that are not based upon equality and reason. We do not know what the action of the student body will be, we do hope, however, that its decision will not compel a group next year to make itself ridiculous before the rest of the students by its futile efforts to enforce something that is unenforceable.

Financial Reports of Athletic Board

POSTING a financial report of each basketball game the day after it has been played proves that the new Athletic Board is determined to take the students into complete confidence concerning its activities. This is a wise move, since secrecy concerning the management of funds given to any organization always results in misunderstanding and friction.

The fact that there was a loss on most of the games played is unfortunate, but is easily understood when circumstances are taken into consideration. Moreover, a profit on a college basketball game is more the exception than the rule.

Expenses on all games are kept to a minimum on all local games. As for games played on foreign courts, let this example serve as an explanation: The team made a trip of well over two hundred miles, paid transportation for the full squad, paid for meals and incidental expenses, received a guarantee of sixty dollars, and arrived home with a balance of eleven dollars. That is management.

The "Weekly" is glad to have the privilege of serving the students, alumni, and the Athletic Board by publishing a resumé of the individual reports each week, and by publishing at regular intervals the complete report of the financial condition of the Athletic Board.

LIBRARY

NOTES

John Masefield

The arrival of John Masefield in America for a lecture tour and a month of vacation in Arizona will be the signal for many whose interest in poetry suffers chronic languishment to idle away some filched moments with "The Everlasting Mercy" or "A Tale of Troy", his latest volume, and to remember and somewhat lackadaisically opine that "Sea Fever" is a good poem in its way. Women's clubs will be told with surprising audacity that Poetry is one of the Fine Arts; and maybe some inquisitive matron will overwhelm the distinguished lecturer by asking just which are the ten greatest poems in the English language. Technocracy, bridge, politics, the movies, radio, love—these usual diversions of conversation will dim ever so imperceptibly from the minds of Bright Young Things as they are brought face to face with Beauty and the Realities of Life.

First Wrote In America

John Masefield was born in Ledbury, Herefordshire, on June 1, 1878. He went to sea at fourteen, learned the ways of sailors and other common folk in every corner of the world. In 1895 he landed in New York with five dollars and a desire to write. Here he began at all sorts of odd jobs and began systematic reading and writing. His first book was "Salt Water Ballads", which was published in England in 1902 and won for him immediate recognition from the more advanced writers, among them William Butler Yeats. In 1903 he married Constance de la Cherois-Crommelin. Meanwhile he was writing prose and verse of a high quality, and in 1911 startled England with "The Everlasting Mercy", a poem which excited the first great literary controversy of the century. Then came "The Widow in the Bye Street", "Dauber", "The Daffodil Fields", which have given Masefield a secure position among the best narrative poets in our language. Since the war Masefield has written nothing, with the exception of "Teynard the ox" and "Right Royal", two stirring and lovely narratives, to equal his earlier work; and he has, with the appearance of "Midsummer Night" in 1928, entered upon a period of rather pedestrian accomplishment. Upon the death of the great Robert Bridges, Masefield became Poet Laureate, a high honor, indeed, to crown high poetic achievement.

Faddists Desert Him

Masefield enjoyed his greatest popularity in the decade 1911-21; and, although since that time the main body of poetry lovers has not completely deserted him, nevertheless the faddists, who make the greatest noise, have gone over to newer gods and goddesses, Edith Sitwell, Humbert Wolfe, or T. S. Eliot in England, and in America Edna St. V. Millay, Robinson Jeffers, E. E. Cummings, and again the erudite T. S. Eliot, whose disciples have discovered imperishable qualities in his borrowed verses. There is, however, no greater body of verse produced in the first quarter of this century than John Masefield's. He has written the greatest narratives since William Morris; and thereby given renewed dignity to a kind of poetry that had been honored through seven centuries by poets so diverse as Chaucer, Spenser, Marlowe, Drayton, Milton, Dryden, Burns, Scott, Coleridge, Keats, Tennyson, and Morris. Masefield has written some of the loveliest lyrics of our age, although his are not more beautiful than those of Housman, Ralph Hodgson, or Rupert Brooke. Finally, in his sonnets he has written the loveliest and most moving poetry of his times, sonnets endowed with a Shakespearian quality of richness and fluency, strangely old, yet surprisingly of today.

Rambling Reporter

Bernard Frank, '35

The latest wrinkle in college athletic management at Muhlenberg is to issue statements after each game on the financial condition of the affair. It is very interesting reading; especially to read that three dollars or so is expended on fruit, chewing gum, carfare, etc. However the idea isn't so bad, and it is a means of acquainting every student with the intricacies of athletic finances. So keep it up!

Seen on the bulletin board last week: "Wanted two Swedes and one Scotchman".

Which is nothing more than the effort of the Mask and Dagger club to secure some "ferriers" for their production and not a round-up of criminals.

The Sphas-Renaissance Game

Muhlenberg students who saw the Renaissance play the Sphas last week certainly saw something that had their eyes popping; the spectacle of two professional teams in a game that was rougher than a certain football game will be next season. Holding, pushing, wrestling, punching, and kicking were on the menu, Bill Ritter took one look at the game and then shouted "fall in", thinking he was viewing one of our famous gym meets. However, those babies get paid for the same tactics that we use gratis in our gym basketball fiascos, which shows the utter futility of everything. Doctor Wright was present, hot and bothered because of the apparent over-sale of tickets.

In the preliminary game, we saw a Muhlenberg sophomore lead his team to victory in a game between two of the best amateur teams in the valley. Cuchran is the boy and we wonder why a player like he is not wearing a Cardinal and Gray uniform.

Mike Lisetski, another sophomore, refereed the preliminary game and made a fine job out of it.

In the last issue, it was stated that George Saul writes to a Muriel in Newark, but gave his fraternity pin to a girl in Reading... In fairness to all concerned we wish to state that George merely acts as a secretary for Maggie Levine and the correspondence is just a matter of duty...

The Very Latest News

Sahib Singh Padolin, Palestine exchange student, has a new hobby these days and a very good one it is. Mr. Padolin betakes himself to Leh's Library about one o'clock in the afternoon several days in the week and spends four or five hours reading the books. Readers are allowed to take the books without any charge on the condition that the books are read in the store and do not leave the store. Thus our friend, Singh, reads the best books these days at a negligible cost. Clever, eh, what?

Muhlenberg Comes From Behind to Win Over Lebanon Valley

Horine Stars In Stirring 30 to 26 Victory Over Conference Rivals

With Captain "Bill" Horine playing a spectacular game both on the offensive and defensive, the Muhlenberg College entry in the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Basketball League registered its second victory of league competition—the first one on the home court this season, by defeating a strong Lebanon Valley aggregation by a 30 to 26 score. The game, which was played on the hardwood of the Allentown Y. M. C. A., last Wednesday evening, February 8, was exceedingly close and interesting. The victory over the Annville Collegians sent the Mules into a tie with Lebanon Valley for fifth place in the league standing.

In the opening minutes of the game the play saw-sawed back and forth with neither team in possession of the ball long enough to score. Horine, plucky guard and former Reading High School star, sent the Holstromites into the lead by sinking a field goal from the sidelines near the middle of the court. But the visiting basketballers came to life with a scoring spree that was not checked until they had garnered eight points. Muhlenberg crept up as "Jumpin' Joe" Matuska and "Lou" Sterner each made field goals, and after Lebanon Valley had registered another goal "Bill" Nixon made good two tries from the free stripe and knotted up the score with ten points apiece. Gene Lepore's field goal sent the Mules into the lead, but the visitors quickly evened up matters again. Fouls by Lepore and Horine, the latter dropping one through the hoop as the gun barked ending the half, gave the Cardinal and Gray-clad basketballers a 14 to 12 advantage at that time.

Lebanon Valley began the scoring in the second half, which was for awhile a nip and tuck affair, with first one team in front and then the other. Nearing the end of the period the Blue and White hoopsters had secured a 26 to 20 lead but the Holstrom-coached players found the range of the basket and rallied, tallying ten points and holding the visitors scoreless for the remainder of the game. Two field goals by Horine and one by Leon Rosenberg knotted the count at twenty-six all. Then "Lou" Sterner dropped two twin pointers through the meshes in the last minute of play to sew up the Mules' second league victory of the current season—one was a shot from the center of the court and the other was a tap-in after Nixon missed from the foul line.

Muhlenberg again showed that its weakness was the inability of her players to take advantage of their shots from the charity stripe. A large number of free shots were of no use at all in 'Berg's triumph of last Wednesday evening.

"Bill" Horine's performance against Lebanon Valley netted him nine points, four field goals and one foul, for the high scoring honors of the night. "Lou" Sterner was not far behind his team-mate with four field goals for a total of eight points. "Big Joe" Matuska was another big gun for Muhlenberg, especially on the defensive.

Barthold, Focht, and Rust were the stars for the losers, with a total of six points apiece.

A large crowd of interested spectators was present despite the miserable weather conditions prevalent out-of-doors.

programs. As a result we have Ed Wynn, Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson. Ed Wynn was dubious of entering radio work for fear it would ruin his value as a stage attraction, but instead he has found it much to his help.

Many people think that an announcer needs only a good voice, a good vocabulary and an ability to pronounce foreign words and names. These, however, are not the only requisites. The announcer must be able to boost the program along so that it will finish at the exact time it is supposed. He must not be afraid of hurting people. At one time Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia spoke to himself for half an hour after he had been cut off and didn't find it out till he talked to his wife later.

Then too, announcers do not make a great deal of money as is so often supposed. A Columbia Network announcer may get anywhere from 85 to 100 dollars. This, of course, does not include McNamee or Ted Husing who get much more. Ted Husing's salary amounts to about $10,000 a year.

Much of the applause heard over the radio is made up but much is also genuine. Ed Wynn has a regular audience at each performance and gives the proceeds to charity. The applause is exceedingly difficult to control. It must be regulated to the dot, and must not last too long or it will make the program run over time, a very undesirable thing.

Copyright Ownerships must no longer be announced over the radio since the stations now pay a certain amount, governed by the size of the station, to a company which controls the copyrights of most of the new songs. This is a good idea because radio has cut down the sale of sheet music and some other means of income was necessary for the song writers to keep them in existence.

In concluding his address the dramatic critic commented upon television and its future. The program is ready but it is too expensive as yet. Moreover the radio companies are afraid of it, fearing that it will have a bad effect on commercial programs. Its chief use will be in sustaining programs such as the broadcasting of football and baseball games.

Albright Trounces 'Berg In Rough Game Played At Reading

Sensational Rally By Readingites Results in 44 to 38 Score. 'Bergmen Miss Many Foul Shots

Staging a fourteen-point rally in the last ten minutes of play, the Albright College basketballers nosed out the Muhlenberg College quintet 44 to 38 in the Reading Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The game was bitterly fought and was at times considerably rough. Only one official had charge of this Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Basketball Conference tilt and from all appearances it seemed to have been too fast for him.

Superior passing enabled the Mules to outshoot Coach "Fog" Smith's combination five field goals to three in the first half and the Cardinal and Gray hoopsters led as the twenty-

ILLUSION:

Right before your very eyes the man of magic draws rabbits, vegetables, flowers, fruits—even babies—all from an empty tub! What an astonishing fellow he is!

EXPLANATION:

The assorted rabbits, babies, carrots, cabbages, ribbons and other magical "props" are not created by magic. The tub has a false bottom that is conveniently displaced, and numberless wonderful things spring to life in the magician's nimble fingers. They do literally "spring" because they are made to compress into the bottom of the tub, taking their natural shape as the magician lifts them out.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

Tricks are legitimate on the stage but not in business. Here's one that has been used in cigarette advertising...the illusion that blending is everything in a cigarette.

EXPLANATION: Blending is important...but it makes a lot of difference what is blended.

Inferior tobaccos can be blended to cover up their humble origin. But your taste soon detects the trick.

The proper use of blending is to bring out the full "round" flavor of mild, high-grade tobaccos. It's the costliness of the tobaccos, as well as the blending, that counts.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent by others in the attempt to discover just how Camels are blended. The blend is important.

But all the while Camel spends millions more for choice tobaccos...to insure your enjoyment.

Light up a Camel. Relax, while the delicate blue smoke floats about you. Enjoy to the full the pleasure that comes from costlier tobaccos.

Keep Camels always handy...in the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack.

THIS DEAR OLD COLLEGE at Twenty-third and Chew Streets, has definitely forsaken the ranks of schools such as Lehigh, Lafayette and Cedar Crest and now, according to the most authoritative information, is ranked with dear old Vassar (where the girls ride bicycles) and Yale (where the students play football and go to classes on roller skates.)

Such at any rate is the information coming from Rosenberg and Savacool who are responsible for bringing Gene Kardos and his Roseland Ballroom orchestra to the shoe polish dance tomorrow night. Kardos has played engagements this year at the outstanding dances at both the New England colleges. At any rate the Senior-Junior Winter Formal promises to be beyond any doubt the most outstanding social event ever sponsored by any Muhlenberg group.

— MM —
TALKING ABOUT DANCES, agent number 989P has slipped us the word that Harry Dunlap, '33, (Ministerial) was the sensation at a local collegiate dance when he appeared with his eight finger nails and two thumb nails highly polished and tinted in a exquisite shade of rose. Now Harry, please!

— MM —
THEN THERE'S ANOTHER STYLE TIP for the college man—gray spats, puppy blankets or shoe braisieres worn with a tuxedo. A good idea on a cold night if the date is of a temperature similar to the zero weather of the early part of the week.

— MM —
ON ONE OF THOSE ZERO nights, Dr. Wright insists that he was correct when he saw a couple in a parked car at Thirtieth and Chew Streets, looking for all the world like a balmy summer evening. We saw the couple too, wrapped up in a Chevrolet, and horrors of horrors, it was a Muhlenberg student with—well why bring in another institution.

— MM —
IN TREND WITH THE TIMES, the Muhlenberg College Co-operative store has encouraged the use of the evil weed by cutting its prices on the leading brands of cigarettes to twelve cents per, two for twenty-three. That store, under its new management, is fast becoming the most popular place in the vicinity.

— MM —
EXAMINATIONS AREN'T SUCH BAD THINGS after all. At least she-male college students lose on an average just 1.1 pounds during the ordeal. At Muhlenberg we hear that students even gain weight. Just one reason for abolishing exams shot plumb to hades. How about a few more real good reasons.

— MM —
MUHLENBERG HAS A NEW ALUMNUS—added without the ceremony of graduation or without even taking exams or writing a term paper. He is none other than the illustrious night watchman who recently, for the sum of ten cents was added to the roll of the class of 1918 when he purchased a watch charm at a special sale in the college store.

minute torrid session ended with a 16 to 13 count.

Early in the second half the Holstrom-coached outfit increased their lead to eight points. But soon the "Red" quintet came to life, with "Bob" Shipe leading the attack, and drew up with the Allentown collegians at thirty points—all with ten minutes left to play, "Jimmy" Oslislo sent a twin-counter through the meshes. Then spectacular shots by Stanley Hino, who replaced Captain "Tommy" Iatesta after his banishment from the game on personal fouls, and Ralph De Franco from the side of the court kept the Lions in the lead. Captain "Bill" Horine's sensational long baskets for Muhlenberg seriously threatened Albright's offensive. With two minutes to go, two-pointers by "Jimmy" Oslislo, "Johnny" Fromm and "Bob" Shipe clinched the game for the Crimson and White quintet.

Captain "Bill" Horine of Muhlenberg, playing again in the city where just four years previous he was the star of the high school basketball team, copped the high individual scoring honors of the game, caging five twin-pointers and two fouls for a total of twelve points, including several long and spectacular shots. "Jimmy" Oslislo of Albright was Horine's closest competitor for scoring honors with eleven points, three field goals and five fouls. De Franco and Shipe were also important cogs in the Reading collegians' victory.

The failure of the Cardinal and Gray forces to take advantage of their foul shots was noteworthy again in this game. Twenty-four fouls were committed by both teams. Albright caged eighteen and Muhlenberg only twelve. This difference of six points was the Lions margin of victory.

The Associated Press gives us a swell story. An engineering student at Carnegie Tech who spent all his spare time tinkering with a short wave radio set, was stumped one night by a calculus problem. In despair, he finally appealed for help over the air. The solution promptly came back from a student at the University of Texas!

Science is at last coming to the aid of the science student!

The Princeton "Alumni Weekly" stated recently that an organization has been formed that will erase cribbing to a major industry. Students are supplied with a four year set of notes for one hundred dollars cash. We will have to look into this, what say?

Tobacco to smoke right has to be a different kind of tobacco from that used in cigarettes...and it has to be made by an entirely different process...

OUT in Kentucky, where they have pretty women, fast horses, and blue grass, there grows a tobacco called White Burley. It doesn't grow anywhere else in the world.

There is a type of this White Burley that is best suited for pipe smoking. It is neither too thick nor too thin. It is not light and chaffy; at the same time, it is not rank or strong. "U. S. Type 31" is the government classification for White Burley.

Since no other pipe tobacco has yet been found which seems to equal White Burley, this is what we use in making Granger Rough Cut.

Next, we use the Wellman Method, a famous 1870 method of making pipe tobacco, to give Granger its fine flavor and fragrance. Then, too, Granger is "Rough Cut"—just like they used to "whittle" their tobacco off a plug with a jack-knife. It smokes cool, lasts longer and never gums a pipe.

And finally, we want to sell Granger for 10 cents. Good tobacco—right process—cut right. So we put Granger in a sensible soft foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package.

Granger has not been on sale very long, but it has grown to be a popular smoke. Folks seem to like it.

Freshman Regulations Receive Death Blow As Outcome of Student Body Vote

Supporters Of Further Punishments For Freshman Do Not Show Themselves At Student Body Meeting. Position Of "Weekly" On Frosh Regulations Is Vindicated.

Freshmen Regulations at Muhlenberg College will be a thing of the past if the Student Council uses the outcome of the trial vote of the Student Body as a guide for the new amendment they are forming. The vote taken during the course of the regular Student Body Meeting in the Science Auditorium on Thursday, February 16, stood 120 for moderation and 127 for total abolition. Sustainers of further punishments for the freshmen were mysteriously missing.

Preceding the open forum both sides of the question were discussed by two members of the Student Council. Mr. Bertolet upholding the continuance of the Regulations gave as his reasons: (1) Tradition (2) Promotion of Class Spirit (3) The valuable social training for Freshmen and (4) The Promotion of a general feeling of good will among students.

Opposing Arguments

The opposite arguments were given by Mr. Cooper, also a member of the Student Council, who denied that the Regulations promoted good will or class spirit. Contrarily he insisted that they had caused bad feeling and enemies where friendships should have existed. Neither was tradition a sufficient excuse to retain them since the tendencies in all colleges is away from the ancient practice. Mr. Cooper suggested as a substitute the plan now being tried at the University of Pittsburgh where each senior is given charge of five freshmen and is required to advise them during their first year at college.

Enforcement Impossible

In the open forum following the speeches many opinions were rendered, none however favoring the retention of the regulations. Warren Smith who as secretary of the Student Body during the past year has had charge of the meting out of punishment to the offenders stated that it was practically impossible to enforce the freshmen punishments because those students who were clever enough to break the regulations were usually clever enough to evade the punishment.

Both the freshman and the sophomore class presidents advocated doing away with all the regulations except the dink and the identification badge. A further suggestion was made from the floor that the dinks be made up of the school colors of cardinal and gray instead of the customary black.

Richard Garnet, president of the Student Body, presided over the meeting and discussion. A reading of the Treasurer's Report preceded the discussion.

Mask And Dagger Has Begun Work On Play

The Mask and Dagger Club of Muhlenberg College will present the "Moon of the Caribbees" in the civic little theatre on March 15-18 inclusive.

The story is a central play of several of O'Neil's plays of the sea. There is no plot whatsoever, but merely a projection of a mood. The action takes place in the fo'c's on the deck of the S. S. Glencairn.

Recreation on South Seas

A portrayal of the crew of a British tramp steamer lying at anchor in the West Indies is given. The crew is amusing itself while the officers are ashore. The hazy moonlight is punctuated by melancholy negro chanting from the shore. The various racial delineations of the crew are brought to the fore. There are fights which are quickly forgotten, singing and other forms of recreation which the crew indulge in to pass the time.

The cast which will consist of eighteen individuals, four women and fourteen men, has as yet not been definitely selected.

Mr. William Coder of the English department will direct the production and Luther Wenner, '34, will supervise scenery and equipment.

Debate Squad Drops Initial Tilt Against Lehigh On War Debts

Lehigh Affirmative Team Does Not Debate 'Berg Because Of Two Men's Sickness

The Muhlenberg College varsity debate squad opened its 1933 season last Thursday evening, February 16, when their affirmative team dropped a one to two decision to the negative team of Lehigh University in a debate which took place in the old chapel of the Administration building. This forensic tilt was originally scheduled as a dual debate but due to the sickness of two of the members of the Lehigh affirmative team, the other part of the dual debate to have been held at Lehigh was necessarily cancelled.

War Debts The Topic

The question of the tilt last Thursday evening was: "Resolved, That all Intergovernmental World War Debts and Reparations Should Be Cancelled." The team composed of only men in this debate were Morton I. Silverman, '34 and Captain Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33, veterans of last season, representing Muhlenberg College were defeated by Harry Ellis and Clinton F. Miller, of Lehigh University. It was the opening debate of the present season for Muhlenberg, while Lehigh, coached by Attorney Louis Stamberg, of Allentown, (although it was only an exhibition debate) met Cedar Crest College on the forensic platform prior to the contest last Thursday evening.

The judges for the Lehigh-Muhlenberg debate was David A. Miller, member of the Allentown School Board, Solon J. Fegley, principal of the Raub Junior High School, Allentown, and Russell Hudders.

Gettysburg Is Next

The next debate scheduled for a Muhlenberg team will take place on Monday, February 27, when the 'Berg negative team will travel to Gettysburg and meet the affirmative team of that college on the same question as used in the previous tilt. On the following Thursday, March 2, there will be a dual debate between Muhlenberg and Lebanon Valley. The 'Berg affirmative team will travel to Annville for this contest, while the local negative team will entertain the Lebanon Valley affirmative team in the Old Chapel of the Administration building. This debate will begin at eight o'clock.

Kappa Phi Kappa Plans Initiation Of New Men

Mr. Abernathy To Speak

Kappa Phi Kappa, national professional educational fraternity held its first meeting of the second semester on Thursday evening, February 16. Eligible men, having an average of "B" in education, were voted upon and plans were formulated for the fraternity's initiation, which is to be held on Friday, March 10. The guest speaker for the initiation will be Mr. Abernathy of Lebanon, Pa., who will also be initiated as an honorary member.

Following this discussion plans were made for the program to be given in the Allentown High School Auditorium on Friday, April 7. The fraternity has secured Mr. H. V. Kalt-enborn, political commentator and news editor of the Columbia Broadcasting System, as principal speaker who will have as his topic "We look at the World."

Gene Kardos' Dance Band Plays At First Dyad Of Muhlenberg

Two Hundred Couples Attend Mid-Winter Formal At Mealey's Auditorium, Friday

Approximately two hundred couples attended the Dyad, the latest mid-winter social innovation on the Muhlenberg campus, Friday evening, February 17, at Mealey's dance emporium, at which Gene Kardos and his orchestra played from 9 to 3 o'clock.

The auditorium was decorated in the usual manner with a display of fraternity banners, under which the members and the respective houses on the campus were situated. Suspended from the center of the high ceiling was a large number of balloons in a muslin bag. These were released at the proper time and the popping of balloons accompanied the music.

New Orchestra

The programs were enclosed in large folders of red suede bearing the official Muhlenberg seal. These folders are so designed that they can be used in the future as date books. Many couples were agreeably surprised with the orchestra, as this aggregation has not played for a school dance here previously. The multi-colored spotlights presented many opportunities for sticking balloons and other activities.

Kardos mixed many numbers of a faster tempo with waltzes and slow fox trots. Interspersed were several specialty vocal numbers by the orchestra crooner. Before the completion of the program, it was announced that Kardos had consented to present an extra half hour of fast music to his hearers.

Very Fraternal Spirit

A relative spirit of fraternalism existed among all those attending the function. The co-chairmen of the committee in charge were Leon Rosenberg, Junior Class, and Woodrow Savacool, Senior class, who wish to express their utmost appreciation of the untiring efforts of Dr. Swain in making the affair the success it was.

The attending chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. Swain, Dr. and Mrs. Keller, and Mr. and Mrs. Coder.

Dr. Fritsch Addresses Students In Chapel

Rev. Robert R. Fritsch delivered an inspiring lecture on the subject of "Love" in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel on Tuesday, February 14. In his demonstration of the superiority of unselfish love he referred to the comments of Frederick W. Robertson and to Corinthians 12 and 13.

Rev. Fritsch said that Paul, an authority on love, placed it above all other Christian virtue. He declared that love was the most essential of all the attributes of God, being superior to faith, hope and manliness. In Paul's letter to the Corinthians love is analyzed, contrasted and defined. Love constitutes kindness to everyone, patience, generosity as opposed to envy of our competitors, courtesy to everyone, and humility instead of pride.

In concluding Dr. Fritsch declared "It is the most wonderful thing in the world, the true enjoyment of God. To love abundantly is to live abundantly."

Holstrom Plans Return To Wisconsin To Coach or Accept Business Position

Dr. Haas States Policy Of Emphasizing Intramurals For More Men. Track Schedule Cancelled This Season And Bas-ball May Be Curtailed. New Coach Will Not Be 'Berg Alumnus.

George R. Holstrom, head coach of all Muhlenberg College athletics since 1929, tendered his resignation to President John A. W. Haas last Wednesday, February 15, to take effect at the end of the present school year in June. Holstrom, whose home is in Superior, Wisconsin, declared to a "Weekly" reporter that he intended to leave for the West where he will either accept a coaching position or enter business. He has tentative plans made but declined to state anything definitely. "I'll have further news in the ensuing weeks that will be of interest," commented the retiring coach.

GEORGE R. HOLSTROM

"It's a hard job to coach athletics at a small college," Holstrom stated, "especially where an abundance of playing material is unavailable. The coach does not make the boys, rather the boys make the coach," went on the athletic director. When the "Weekly" representative inquired if he was in favor of Muhlenberg scheduling teams superior by far than they, the coach replied, "There are only two things to do. Either confine your schedule to colleges whose athletic programs are on a par with your own, or bring in playing material. These are the only things to do in regard to Muhlenberg's athletics."

Holstrom Was 'Berg Star

The Cardinal and Gray mentor came to Muhlenberg College in 1921 as a transfer student from Shurtleff College in Wisconsin with the group of players brought East by Coach "Johnny" Spiegel, mid-westerner, who developed several of 'Berg's outstanding teams. Holstrom also served under Coach "Punk" Wood, when the former Shurtleff College mentor came to Muhlenberg, and helped make football history for the Allentown institution by his spectacular playing in an end position. The retiring coach has the distinction of not only playing on a 'Berg football team which defeated Lehigh, but also of coaching a Cardinal and Gray squad which performed this task. George Holstrom was one of the stars of the 'Berg team which defeated Lehigh by a 14 to 13 score in 1921, and coach of the 1930 team which treated Lehigh to a 24 to 0 trouncing. He also played baseball and basketball while at college and was captain of the three major sports prior to his graduation from Muhlenberg with a B.S. degree in 1923.

Handled Frosh

Immediately after receiving his diploma, Holstrom signed up as a member of the Allentown "Dukes" professional baseball team. He then sold real estate for a time with a local firm until he was appointed Freshman coach. He served in this capacity during the period when "Haps" Benfer directed the Muhlenberg athletic program, and handled the yearlings until 1929, turning out some fine "Frosh" squads. In 1929 he was appointed head coach of athletics to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Benfer.

To Stress Intra-murals

Dr. Haas, who is also president of the new Board of Athletic control, declared to a "Weekly" representative that athletics at this institution would enter a de-emphasizing period, as far as inter-collegiate activity is concerned. "We will dwell more strongly on intra-mural activities," stated the college president, "and will endeavor to furnish sport for our students rather than for outsiders. We will also make an attempt to co-ordinate required physical education and athletics and make the various sports elective in order that more boys may participate than are enabled to do so under the present system. Similar systems are already in use at Haverford and other large institutions in the East."

"The new professor of physical education who will have charge of all athletics—varsity, freshman and intra-mural sports—will probably be a man who has never been at Muhlenberg before. We probably will not choose an alumnus of Muhlenberg in order to overcome any fraternity pol-

Intramural Debaters Will Clash Friday To Decide Champion

Finalists For Non-Frats Are Schlegel and Klein, For P. K. T., Decker and Fischer

Freshman Debating at Muhlenberg College is now in the midst of great activity, and has a very important schedule before it. The Finals of the Intramural Debates, at which time the champion Freshman team on the campus will be determined, will be held Friday, February 24 in the old chapel at 7:15 P. M. In the month of March three major tilts will be held: first, with Newark Preparatory School on Russian Recognition; second, with the Lighthouse Team (Phila. Social Organization) on Compulsory Unemployment Insurance; third, with Albright College over the popular broadcasting station WEEU on War Debt Cancellation.

P. K. T. Meets Non-Frats

This contest starting with ten teams representative of the fraternities and clubs on the campus will be drawn to a close this Friday when the Finals between the Non-Fraternity and Phi Kappa Tau teams will be held. Russel L. Krapf, '35, is the coach of the Non-Frats who came out successful in every contest so far. The Non-Frat team consists of Warren Schlegel and Donald Hausman. The Phi Kappa Tau team, coached by Ray Brennan, '35, had the highest percentage in the Preliminaries, and therefore they were held over until the Finals. This team consists of Robert Decker and Theodore Fischer.

Chapel Choir Is Guest

The Muhlenberg Chapel Choir were the guests at St Joseph's Lutheran Church, Allentown, on Sunday evening, Feb. 12. The choir which was introduced by Dr. Fritsch, pastor of the church, opened its program with "God of Abraham Praise". This was followed by "Even Song", Jubilate, a Swedish vesper hymn, "Hymn to Night", "Gloria," from the twelfth Mass, and "Lo a Voice to Heaven Sounds."

At the close of the program Dr. Marks, director of the choir, presented an interesting resumé of Sacred Music.

The Choir will present a program at St. John's Lutheran Church in Reading at which time the service will be broadcast over station WEEU.

Campus Politics Again

THE Sophomore class election, declared void by the Student Council, has brought campus politics into the center of the field of student interest. Not only the sophomores, but all classes are aroused. Non-fraternity students are beginning to organize for their own protection, while the fraternal groups are making even greater efforts to hold their advantage. Battles along strict party lines, beginning with the new sophomore election on Thursday, are planned. The strength of each group is about equal, fraternity groups making up in solidarity for their slight numerical disadvantage.

This is the raw material for a battle that will last for the rest of the term. It sounds interesting, but one thing is being forgotten: That because of strict party lines, a man who might obviously be the only one fitted for a certain position, may be defeated because he was on the weaker side. In other words, a member of one group might be the better man for a certain position, but the other group feels that to show its distrust of its rival, it must defeat this candidate. Thus the struggle is not to elevate the better man to the position, but it is a battle to show the supremacy of a particular group.

There should be an attempt to remedy this evil. A non-partisan movement has been urged, but there seems to be no method whereby it can be put into operation. Our suggestion is that there be complete frankness on the part of each group. The "Weekly" holds its columns open to a free discussion of the relative merits of all candidates. There is no crime in the existence of competing political parties. The crime is in keeping their actions under cover, and in attempting to use illegal methods to win a victory. The "Weekly" will prevent the former by reporting all political news, and the Student Council will take care of the latter.

In the future, instead of secret ballots, political factions will present their candidates, their qualifications, and their platforms in the "Weekly". Surely no group would run men who cannot stand the test of publicity.

Holstrom Resigns

IN SPITE of an adverse record as far as victories and defeats are concerned, there is no rejoicing on the Muhlenberg campus at the news of Coach Holstrom's resignation. All have watched him work to the best of his ability, and all know that he desired a winning team as much as anyone on the campus. That he was not successful is well known, but honest work is always rewarded with sympathy and understanding.

There are always critics, and those who are endowed with a sensitive nature are hurt most by their work. This criticism, together with a reduction in salary that is part of the new athletic program, seems to have been the deciding factor in Coach Holstrom's decision. There are many who believe that he would have found it to his advantage to endure these two hardships because of the possibility of a better record next year. The recent improvement in the basketball team would seem to bear this out.

Those of us who are seniors can remember the beginning of Holstrom's regime. The high hopes, the victories, the defeats are all memories. Through it all Holstrom has been more than just a coach. His character and personality have shielded him from many a savage attack that would have been made against another man. No one quite knows what was the cause of many defeats and that is why none look forward to great improvements under a new coach. The attitude of the students now is a puzzling one because all are puzzled.

We remember how Holstrom's stock rose at a great rate after the Lehigh victory three years ago, how it sank with later losses; how it rose with the Gettysburg football game last fall, and how it sank as the basketball season began. Through it all, Holstrom has had faith in the team, and now after it is all over as far as he is concerned, he is being rewarded for that faith.

In his dealings with the students, with the team, and with the "Weekly", George has always been a gentleman of the highest type. We hope that in his new undertaking, whatever it may be, his stock shall always rise.

Ohio Northern recently held its first dance since 1871. Opposition from the student body caused the faculty to lift the ban of 61 years' standing.

Chaplain Peterson of Sing Sing writes an article on college men for the February issue of the Redbook Magazine from which these two items are taken:

"Of all crimes, college men seem the most addicted to forgery."
"To the best of my knowledge, we have not had any college professors among our prisoners."

Muhlenberg College is passing through a long needed period of transition. Ira Weiss' Speed Store has at last been changed in a College Co-operative Store where students are assured of attention. The Athletic Plan has been greatly altered for the better. Freshman Regulations show signs of becoming humane. But the work is not yet complete! Our school will never fully emerge from the Dark Ages until some one takes the final step against Fraternity Politics.

In a recent publication there appeared a letter from a reader in which the statement was made, "I do not wonder at the corrupt conditions existing in the governments of many of our larger cities. As long as our colleges continue to be such good training grounds for political crookedness such conditions will exist." A good example of this type of college training occurred in the Sophomore Class elections on Black Thursday last. Constitutions were brushed aside, motions ignored and Parliamentary Procedure entirely forgotten in the mad rush of Fraternities to secure all the rich fat prizes. The details have by this time become history and it is not necessary to repeat. Mr. Gosztoni is probably not to blame, because the uncontrollable melée of "Fraternity Politics" was enough to run out of the control of any person, and it must be said that Mr. Gosztoni treated the class fairly and squarely while he held office.

Must Muhlenberg have her various political parties and tickets? Certainly I have never seen any party present any platform or principle for which they stand. Contrarily they seem to be more interested in what they can get out of the offices than they can put in. Fraternities are willing to switch to the side where they can secure the most offices. Candidates are nominated as rewards for services rendered to the particular group or Fraternity or to prove to the Freshmen the value of joining fraternities. Qualifications do not count!

This article will probably be forgotten as so many articles before its time. But let us hope that the college takes steps to do away with this blight and make ours a school for straight-forward citizens instead of "Training Grounds for Political Crookedness."

M. B. A. Hears Talk On Penna. Legislature

The Muhlenberg Business Association held its monthly meeting at the Phi Kappa Tau House, Wednesday, February 15 at 8 o'clock, with Professors Bowman and Hartman being present.

An interesting talk was given by the Assistant District Attorney Captain Samuel Frederick, a former member of the Pennsylvania Legislature. Captain Frederick discussed the methods of Legislative procedure. He explained that a bill before being considered had to be investigated by a committee of attorneys, who decided upon its legality. Then he traced the progress of the bill to its ultimate result, passage or veto. Captain Frederick concluded his talk with a description of the committee for government.

Phi Sigma Iota Meets

Alpha Tau Omega and James Morrison, '33, were hosts to the local chapter of Phi Sigma Iota, national Romance Languages fraternity, Monday evening, February 13. A paper was presented by Wilmer Wolfe, '33, on "Salambo," by the French novelist, Gustave Flaubert. There followed a detailed and interesting discussion led by Dr. Corbiere on M. Flaubert's characteristics as a novelist. Refreshments were then served in the A. T. O. dining-room.

The next meeting will be at the home of John Carapella, '33, March 13. At this meeting Mr. Robert Fichter will present a paper, and a delegate to the national convention at Penn State will be selected.

At Creighton University an effective way of getting students to class on time was accidentally discovered by a janitor. The expedient depends only in maintaining a slight dearth of chairs—punctuality is required to obtain a seat.

From Our Readers

Dear Readers:

We have on the campus of Muhlenberg College very few traditions. Of those that exist, however, one is very obvious and revolting. It is Fraternity Politics. Ever since there have been fraternities on our campus, there have been rivalry and bargaining for prominent and influential positions in Student Government. At first, little or no attention was paid to this yeast sport, but it has propagated until it has assumed prodigious proportions and must be reckoned with as a formidable antagonist to the wholesome welfare of student life. Let us therefore, investigate this vile political machine to discover its origin, and perhaps find a solution to terminate its existence.

Fraternities, generally, are not organizations created to spread evil, nor are the members a bunch of cutthroats. It was found, however, that as the fraternities increased in size and number, it was beneficial to them to have their representatives in office. With careful planning and scheming, they succeeded in putting their candidates in office, permitting non-fraternity men to fill occasional minor offices in order to avoid suspicion. Since they now can dictate the ballots of 48% of the student body, they have become rash and brazen. They are no longer content with the majority of offices, but have adopted a policy of "a fraternity man in every office."

No longer are the most competent men selected to fill offices, but we have vulgar bargainings so that any man who can draw a satisfactory number of dictated votes may now control student affairs.

This letter, dear readers, is not merely an accusation of fraternities. It may, together with many articles of similar nature, be interpreted as handwringing on the wall. Although apparently crooked politics must exist in national and state governments, there is no reason why they should exist on the campus of a small denominational institution.

The remedies are several and vary in severeness. May we offer a few? The first is an honest appeal to our fellow-students, who belong to fraternities, to abolish the cliques and intrigues which have been formed, for they will surely bring on themselves drastic measures, enforced by the administration. Of these latter, there are the possibility of limiting the number of fraternity men to not more than 33% of the student body (as a neighboring institution has done), and also the prohibition of more than 50% of the offices to be held by fraternity men.

Least such drastic measures be necessary, we appeal to all fraternity men, especially the "fratres in facultate," that they may exert their influence in purging our student life of such damnable practices, ere we bring on our heads the condemnation and scorn of those who stand for fair play and clean sportsmanship.

Respectfully yours,

... THE COLLEGE MEN'S TELEPHONE HOUR!

HERE'S a college tradition that's one of the best... "Half past eight is the time to telephone home!" It's not in the Freshman handbook; it's not in the Rules. But here's the reason for its popularity:

At 8:30 P. M. low Night Rates go into effect on Station to Station calls. These are calls for a telephone (like a local call) and NOT for a specific person.

Take advantage of the saving—just give the operator your home telephone number. The folks are probably at home at 8:30 P. M. But best of all, and to make doubly sure, keep a regular date to telephone home each week. Then you can always make use of the inexpensive Station to Station service.

'Berg' Basketball Team Hits Its Stride Scoring Three Consecutive Victories

Muhlenberg 39 - Lehigh 33

The Cardinal and Gray cagemen shook off the spell of mediocrity that had hovered about them throughout the present season, and with a complete reversal of form on Monday evening, February 13, sent the Lehigh University basketball team scurrying homeward across the Lehigh river, stinging under a 33 to 29 humiliation. The proteges of Coach George R. Holstrom had not been able to click properly in any game prior to this fast and exciting contest with Lehigh on the Raub Junior High School court. In all previous starts the necessary punch seemed to be lacking and as a result the Mules were only able to show three victories over against nine reverses up to that date.

Foul Shooting is Good

Against Lehigh, after a rather slow beginning, the Holstromites found themselves. The foul shooting in this game was almost perfect and it figured a great deal in 'Berg's margin of victory. The Cardinal and Gray hoopsters who have been rather weak in this department all season functioned with ease and confidence, making good nineteen out of twenty-five attempts from the foul line.

At the end of the first half, Lehigh led by a 22 to 11 score, but this advantage soon disappeared as a result of Nixon's big push.

Bill Nixon, Muhlenberg forward, went on a wild scoring spree in the second half, sinking field goals from difficult angles, and dropping in eight foul goals in a row.

Muhlenberg 34 - Drexel 30

Muhlenberg defeated Drexel for the second time this season by a score of 34 to 30 in a conference game played before a slim crowd on the local Y. M. C. A. court last Wednesday night, February 15. The play was extremely slow and sloppy except for brief intervals of brilliant play. Bill Nixon, with five field goals and two fouls, and Bill Horne, with three field and three foul goals were the outstanding performers for the Holstromites. Horne, in addition to his scoring, played a fine game on defense.

Eddie Judd played a nice smooth game at forward, making two field and two foul goals during the short time he was in the game.

Drexel Never Threatens

The Cardinal and Gray showed its superiority during most of the evening and were never really pushed when the first string combination was on the floor. Coach Holstrom started Lepore and Judd, forwards, Rohn, center, Rogers and Matuska, guards. After several minutes of ragged passing on the part of both teams, and many hurried shots at the basket by Drexel, Reynolds, the visitor's center, sank a two pointer from under the basket to start the scoring. Matuska made a foul, and Judd tallied a field goal from a rebound.

After the Drexel Dragons had run up an 11 to 6 advantage over the substitute Mules, Coach Holstrom sent in Stern, Horne, Nixon, Rosenberg and Weiner who overtook the visitors' lead and put the locals on a safe side of a 21 to 18 score as the half ended. Drexel made a short spurt near the end of the game but they were unable to overcome the Muhlenberg lead.

Muhlenberg 56 - Ursinus 27

The Muhlenberg basketball quintet registered one of the season's biggest surprises last Saturday taking the Ursinus Bears over the coals in what was supposed to have been an easy game for the third place team in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate League. However, the Mules showed their utter disregard for the previous record of the visitors and totally outclassed them from start to finish.

Foul shots by Horne and Rodgers, and a field goal by Horne had the 'Berg score at 11-3 when the Ursinus players suddenly started a rally that placed them in a lead of 12-11 as they garnered four field goals and one foul before you could shout Bernard Frank. Nixon, stellar 'Berg shot, woke the Cardinal and Gray from its nap with a beautiful double decker from his favorite spot and sent 'Berg once more into the lead. From then until the half ended, Stern, Nixon, and Weiner, pushed the 'Berg total to 23-12.

During the second half, the Mules added further havoc to the Bears and two field goals by Rohn and one foul by Weiner put the locals in front, 28-17. At this point, Stern went on a shooting rampage and sank four field goals, everyone from under the basket. As the subs came scurrying into the game, the 'Berg attack continued with Matuska, and Heimbach completing the wreckage of the Ursinus Five.

Bob Heimbach, sophomore, celebrated his entry into collegiate ranks with a field goal. Bob had no previous high school experience and therefore is much to be admired for his grit and nerve.

"Little Mules" Beat Lehigh Frosh, 27-26

The Muhlenberg Freshmen nosed out a big Lehigh University Freshman cage team in a close and hard fought contest played prior to the Muhlenberg-Lehigh varsity game on Monday evening, February 13, on the Raub Junior High school court. The 'Berg yearlings in their first game of the season came up from behind in the last few minutes of play and eked out a 27 to 26 victory over the "Greenies" from across the Lehigh river to set an example, which the varsity team was to follow later in the evening.

"Herbie" Hilton, versatile athlete of the class of '36, was the star for the "Little Mles," caging six field goals and one foul for a total of thirteen points. "Bill" Saalfeld and "Mel" Watkins were also big guns in the victory. Dietz was the star for the Lehigh Frosh.

I'd never thought much about what's inside a something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES with a college education—and so does Herbie Frankfort. Secret agents numbers 894-P to 967-R inclusive have reported that the Venerable Brother Frankfort has at last fallen victim to the wiles of one of the fair charmers.

In spite of Herbie's many enforced visits to the college among the trees on the neighboring hillside, and in spite of the solicitous attention which some of its students accorded him, his heart's desire hails from Susquehanna University.

It all happened this way. Herbie was one of Muhlenberg's representatives at the conference of the Lutheran Students Associations held at Susquehanna over the week end. While there he met ALMA. Taking a fancy to the cute little trick and having the highest respect for her keen intellect he took her to the movies. Sitting close to each other, hands clasped, during the screening of "The Island of Lost Souls" Herbie felt himself gradually slipping and explained to her just how lost he had been—until he found her. Now, he says, he realizes that she was the only one for him.

But horrors of horrors, holding hands was not enough. Returning from the movie, in a crowded automobile, Herbie held Alma on his lap, his both arms tightly around her. Angstadt and Radcliffe will be glad to describe in detail all the occurrences on that fateful trip.

Interviewed by one of the little mirrors on his return to Muhlenberg Herbie said: "My one regret is that the conference did not last longer. I was just beginning to enjoy myself. Alma is wonderful and now I have no regrets over the past life I led. Gentlemen, the safe way is always the best way."

The resignation of George Holstrom brings with it a flock of rumors as to his successor. Bill Ritter, exponent of physical education, in the Muhlenberg million dollar gymnasium, and Haps Benfer are among those mentioned. Both were coaches of 'Berg teams. However judging from several hints dropped here and there, we would select Glen Killinger as the man who will likely receive the call. Glen, an all-American half back at Penn State, coached freshman sports at Penn State and was varsity backfield coach for a time. He also coached at Renesslear Polytechnic for several years and will be remembered as manager of the Allentown Buffaloes last season. One factor that makes us reasonably sure of this statement is that he is taking physical education courses at Columbia, and will graduate from there with his master's degree; this would permit 'Berg students to qualify as physical education teachers.

However, there is also one factor that makes us a "wee-bit doubtful", and that is the fact that Joe McCarron of the Morning Call also thinks Killinger will be the man.

The Sophomore class elections In their selfish desire for offices, the "powers-that-be" used too-obvious tactics in the 1935 class election and as a result, the worm has turned—and the hibernating non-frat. is awakening, rubbing his eyes, and, asking "why"? An idea of the disturbances can be garnered from the fact that the meeting did not end until 1:05 after a period of over one hour—and when any class forgets its luncheon hour than you can bet your fraternity pin that things were humming. After certain objectionable tactics in which some of the nominees passed out tablet paper (ballots) and the refusal of the chair to allow declinations, most of the non-frats walked out without voting. At a protest meeting on Friday, the non-frats petitioned for a new meeting to be held under more favorable auspices. The request has been granted, and a new election will be held to-day (Thursday).

Lloyds of England refuses to handle any wages on the election, deeming it a risk because of the close strength of both parties.

ities or organization influence which might be exerted against a former Muhlenberg man," continued Dr. Haas.

"We have had no trouble of this type with Coach Holstrom, but do not wish to give any opportunity for such a condition to develop at this institution. Applications are already coming in for the coaching position, but we will not be in any hurry to select Holstrom's successor."

"It shall be our policy to have no more suicide football schedules and Muhlenberg will only play schools in her class. The contracts have been signed for next season and we'll go through with the schedule as has been announced. We are also booked up for the 1934 season in the Eastern Pennsylvania gridiron conference and will, in addition to the four league games, schedule several other opponents which will be on a par with us.

Track Eliminated

"As track is all expense and no profit, we shall be forced to eliminate this sport this season as several other larger institutions have found it necessary to do." Concerning the baseball schedule Dr. Haas stated, "We expect to have a baseball season, but if financial conditions become worse we may have to curtail this sport also."

THE HUMAN CRICKET

BEATS OLYMPIC RECORD!

ILLUSION:

Josie, the lovely trapeze artist, stands upon a small platform. At the will of the magician she leaps twenty feet into the air to reach her trapeze. She uses no ropes, no ladder! A phenomenal leap for a woman... or a man!

EXPLANATION:

Josie didn't jump... she was sprung! The twenty-foot leap is not dependent on Josie's ability, but on a powerful spring mechanism hidden beneath the stage which propels the artist upward through the air. The force is so violent that the lady wears a light steel jacket which protects her from injury as she starts her astonishing leap.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

Magic has its place...but not in cigarette advertising.

Consider the illusion that there is a mysterious way to give cigarettes a superior "flavor."

EXPLANATION: Cigarette flavor can be controlled by adding artificial flavorings. By blending. And by the quality of tobaccos used.

Cheap, raw tobaccos can be "built up" or "fortified" by the lavish use of artificial flavorings.

Such magic, however, seldom holds the audience. Your taste finally tells you the truth.

The cigarette flavor that never stales, never varies, never loses its fresh appeal, comes from mild, ripe, fragrant, more expensive tobaccos...blended to bring out the full, round flavor of each type of leaf. It's the quality of the tobacco that counts!

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Because Camel actually pays millions more every year for choice tobaccos, you find in Camels an appealing mildness, a better flavor.

And Camels taste cooler because the welded Humidor Pack of three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane keeps them fresh.

Heated Discussion Livens Up Meeting of "Mask and Dagger"

Mr. Coder, and Members of Dramatic Organization Debate on Future Policy of Club.

Considerable discussion was evoked, on Monday afternoon, at the meeting of "Mask and Dagger" in the Assembly room of the Administration building when Mr. William D. Coder, faculty advisor of the club, presented his views on the production of "Moon of the Caribbees" and on the "Mask and Dagger" organization itself. Mr. Coder contended that there was a certain clique attempting to do underhand work in an attempt to fight him.

Concerning the play "Moon Of The Caribbees," the faculty advisor of the club stated that, to his knowledge, "Mask and Dagger" was backing the play. He said that he had entered the production into the Civic Little Theatre one-act play contest in his official capacity as club advisor. When President John Hemmerley announced that the members of the organization disliked backing a play in which the cast is composed of individuals not members of the club, Mr. Coder stated that he had spent a great deal of money and devoted many hours of his time in the previous play contests. This year he has done the same. "Why shouldn't I adopt an autocratic attitude," he said, "I'm personally responsible for the success of the production."

Three Act Play Discussed
"Three times I offered to coach the three-act production of the club and I was ignored," stated the faculty advisor after President Hemmerley had announced that the faculty advisor had refused to coach the play. Considerable discussion followed with members of the club taking an active part. Warren Smith, production manager of "Like Falling Leaves," backed up the club president stating that Mr. Coder had only offered to assist helping if the play got under way, but no faculty member had offered to coach it.

Coder Makes Statement
"I came to this meeting for two reasons," stated the English teacher. "First, I came to give my views on the play 'Moon Of The Caribbees'; and, secondly, I've decided not to let this dissension drag on any longer. From (Continued on Page Two)

Survey Shows Climb Of Non-Fraternity Group to Gain Power

Method Formerly Used By Fraternity Group Adopted By Non-frats To Turn Tables

A cursory analysis of the recent class elections shows a decided trend toward the non-fraternity men. This is especially apparent in the Sophomore Class, where the non-fraternity men managed to gain every office, including the Ciarla positions.

In Tuesday's freshman elections, the non-fraternity men were able to gain only one office. Edward Horn was selected secretary. President Koehler is a member of Delta Theta, and Vice-president Saalfeld is affiliated with Theta Kappa Nu.

The Junior elections balanced the freshman election. Russell Kistler of the Philos Club was elected vice-president, but both Gordon Feller, president, and John Carapella, secretary are non-fraternity men.

The life officers of the Senior Class with the exception of President Garnet are fraternity men. Vice-president Saalfeld is a member of Theta Kappa Nu, and Roger Minner belongs to Delta Theta.

Despite the invalidating of its first election, the Sophomore Class managed to hold an ideal Tammany steam roller which resulted in a close but complete victory for the non-fraternity ticket.

It is obvious that the theory of manifest destiny in Muhlenberg elections is rapidly becoming a reality for the non-fraternity men.

Pre-Law Club Holds Its Initial Meeting

Last week marked the beginning of a new organization on the Muhlenberg campus. Under the efforts of Dr. Mueller and Ray Brennen the pre-law students banded together and formed a club to be known as the Pre-Legal club. The meeting was held in the Administration building on Monday evening, February 20. Ray Brennen was elected as permanent chairman and Bernard Frank as permanent secretary. Plans were discussed for the formation of a constitution for the organization.

The men who were present to organize this club were: John Yerger, John Smith, Samuel Bertolet, Robert Stinson, Ray Brennen, William Holzer, Bernard Frank, Jerry Harowitz and Robert Eisenhart. Dr. Mueller acted as faculty advisor. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, March 2, in which the new constitution will be voted upon and officers will be elected for this semester.

Nixon, 'Berg Athlete, Married Last Week

Popular Basketball Star Marries East Stroudsburg Girl at Elkton, Maryland

The many friends and fellow students of William "Bill" Nixon, '33, were given a pleasant surprise when they learned of his marriage to Miss Mae Diehl of East Stroudsburg in Elkton, Md., on February 21. The marriage was the culmination of a romance extending over a period of a number of months.

Nixon has been one of Muhlenberg's mainstays on the varsity basketball team for three consecutive years. He has been considered as one of the best forwards in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate league. His prowess as an athlete was also shown by the capable manner in which he held down the short-stop position on 'Berg's baseball teams for the past two seasons. He is mentioned as being one of the best short-stops to attend this institution.

"Bill," as he is known to his many friends, received his early coaching at East Stroudsburg High where he was a satellite on the football, basketball and baseball teams.

Not to be deceived by the glamor of athletic fame, Nixon applied himself diligently to his scholastic work where he made notable achievements. He is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, National Professional Fraternity in Education, the Varsity "M" Club, and Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity.

Freshman Intramural Debates Won By P. K. T.

The Intramural Debates of Muhlenberg College were brought to a close on Friday, February 24, at 7:00 P. M., in the old chapel, when Phi Kappa Tau, coached by Ray Brennen, defeated the Non-Fraternity Team, coached by Russell Krapf.

The question was a current one, recently debated by the Muhlenberg Student Body: Resolved, that Freshman Regulations at Muhlenberg College should be abolished. The victorious team was composed of Robert Decker and Theodore Fischer; the defeated team consisted of Donald Hausman and Charles Schlegel. Donald V. Hock, coach of Freshman Debating, was chairman of the debate. The judges were M. K. Lichty, of Northampton; Edwin Berg, of Northampton; and Wudrin Woodring, of Allentown. Timekeepers were Walter Guigley and John Powers.

The Intramural Debates, a new thing at Muhlenberg, were started with ten teams competing and through elimination narrowed down to two teams, from which the champion was selected. The debates were a decided success, since they gave an opportunity for at least thirty Freshman to acquire experience at public speaking.

Seniors Will Be Assessed To Make Up Deficit Made By Lax "Ciarla" Management

Muhlenberg's depression class of '33 is all set to take it on the chin again if the extremely complicated affairs of the "1933 Ciarla" are not straightened out before Commencement Day. Each Senior, the way matters stand now, will be compelled to reach deep into his pockets and drag out about eight dollars before he graduates. A tendency of the business staff of the year book to let things slide is the reason for this state of affairs.

At the time of this writing the "Ciarla" owes $833.35 and has signed advertising contracts that would take care of $664 of this debt. The sad part of the affair is that the business staff finds itself unable to collect a major portion of this amount. What makes it worse is the fact that there would still remain a deficit of $169.35 even if all bills were collected.

Business Staff Lax
Business firms owe the "Ciarla" $320 for advertisements, and ten college organizations owe $344. It has been stated that the business staff of the "Ciarla" had not made any effort to collect these bills until they were recently prodded by the Administration of the college.

Several incidents have been stated to bear this out. The college had the amount for payment of its advertisement on hand for months and no one came to collect it. One honorary fraternity containing five members last year, and then able to pay was not given its bill until this year when there is only one member, unable to handle this bill.

Schlottter Attempts Collection
An advertiser, when questioned by a member of the administration as to why he did not pay his bill replied, "When the 'Ciarla' lives up to its share of the agreement, I'll live up to mine. I was supposed to have received a book and a bill, and I've received neither." A bill and "Ciarla" were sent, and the debt was immediately paid. It's just things like this that make the Seniors dash around trying to discover what it's all about.

Donald Schlottter, Ciarla Business Manager, has been making a tour of all firms that owe for advertising. The results of his efforts were not known at this time.

Warren Smith was Editor-in-Chief of the "1933 Ciarla" and Donald Carpenter was Advertising Manager. The class of '33 has had bad luck in all its ventures since the well remembered "Calendar Incident" in which each member was assessed two dollars. The "depression class" has never been able to emerge from the swamp into which it was pushed by this debacle.

Non-Frats Win By A Narrow Margin From Fraternity Faction

Tammany Steam Roller Squashes Defenseless Fraternity Group At Hilarious Meeting

Two political parties clashed in the Sophomore class elections last Thursday morning, and the Non-Fraternity group succeeded in obtaining every office from class president to monitors. All positions were bitterly contested, since a previous election in which the fraternal group had won out had been declared void by the Student Council because of alleged irregularities.

A margin of one vote decided the issue in the race for class president, and all of the winners came through with only a few votes lead. Following are the election returns: President, Max Levine, 51; Gosztanyi, 50; Vice President, William Holzer, 58; Alfred Breinig, 41; Richard Kuntzman, 4; Secretary, Charles Klein, 56; Luther Ziegler, 46; Ciarla, Editor, Bernard Frank, 52; Robert Stinson, 50; Advertising Manager, Hubert Bury, 59; Ray Brennen, 44; Business Manager, Francis Sheehan, 53; Donald Young, 50.

Hectic Debates

There was a great deal of debate before the election concerning the eligibility of certain voters who it was claimed were not members of the Sophomore class, since they were not listed in this manner in the college catalogue. At the suggestion of Richard Garnet, President of the Student Council, supervising the election, there was a vote in which it was decided that only students whose names appeared among the Sophomores in the catalogue could vote.

At the time of this writing, the Fraternity group had protested this election to Dean Robert C. Horn, and Registrar Harry Benfer, but they were informed that this was a problem of the students themselves, and therefore it would only be acted upon by the administration if the Student Council refused to consider a petition. The petition had not as yet been drawn up or no mention was made as to whether one would be presented to the Council.

Richard Garnet, Council President, when interviewed by a "Weekly" representative concerning the election, remarked, "If these fellows have any real cause for complaint, the election will be held again. We'll keep on holding elections until the end of the year if the Sophomores make it necessary."

Ten Representatives From Local College Attend Fourteenth Annual Conference

Ten representatives of the Lutheran Student Association of Muhlenberg College were in attendance at the fourteenth annual conference in the North Atlantic region of The Lutheran Student Association of America held at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa., on February 17-18-19. Those attending this conference, which includes all of the institutions of higher learning east of the Allegheny mountains and north of the Potomac River, were Herbert E. Frankfort, '33, John R. Albright, '33, Gordon S. Feller, '34, Russell Beazley, '34, James A. Angstadt, '34, Russel L. Krapf, '35; Luther N. Schaeffer, '35, Frank E. Radcliffe, '35, Walter R. Harrison, '35, and William D. Coleman, '36.

Present day problems of religion and social life as they affect college students were discussed at the conference which was presided over by John H. K. Miller, '32, of Mt. Airy Theological Seminary. Dr. William C. Schaeffer, Jr., pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Allentown was the conference leader on the topic "Realizing My Religion." The delegates were also taken on a tour of the Pennsylvania State Epileptic colony at Selinsgrove.

Other important leaders present at the conference, besides Dr. Schaeffer, were Dr. G. Morris Smith, president of Susquehanna University; Dr. Mary E. Markley and Miss Mildred E. Winston, secretaries of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America; Miss Frances Dyringer, head of the Lutheran Social Service in Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Raymond Seegers, professor of Physics at George University.

Dean Horn Speaks At "Muhlenberg Night"

Dr. Robert C. Horn addressed the Lutheran Student Association on "Clean Speech" at their third "Muhlenberg Night", in the Library building last Friday night. Mr. John Whitekar, a student from the Virgin Islands, also spoke, telling of his experiences in those islands. Reports of the regional conference at Susquehanna University were given by Russell Beazley and Luther Schaeffer. Mr. Richard Miller rendered two tenor solos accompanied by Mr. John Eisenhard of Allentown High School.

Dr. Barba Delivers Interesting Lecture

Members and friends of Der Deutsche Verein were entertained by Dr. Barba in Dr. Swain's History room in the Administration building on Monday evening, February 20. Dr. Barba gave a very interesting lecture upon the life and travels of Victor Scheffel. The lecture was succeeded by a group of slides which showed interesting pictures of Victor Scheffel.

Following this lecture the members of the club adjourned to the college commons and discussed plans for the "Damen Abend" (Ladies Night) which is to be held on May 1. It was also decided that the annual ausflug would be held on May 12. Immediately after this discussion, Charles Klein and John Freeman gave a very informative talk on the works of Victor Scheffel. Refreshments were then served and the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting of Der Deutsche Verein will be held on Monday evening, March 6.

"Bible Should Not Be Creed", Says Dr. Haas

Use Of Bible As A Creed Leads To Inconsistency And Makes Possessor An Ignoramus

Declaring that every man has a creed, Dr. John A. W. Haas presented to the Student Body in Chapel on Tuesday, February 21 the two aspects of creed. "The analysis of creed", said Dr. Haas, "has become extremely superficial and it is for this reason that the modern world has made the world taboo. It is to be regretted that there are many men in the pulpit who repeat parrotlike the prevalent opinion, thus adding to the evil."

"The two aspects of creed are the personal and the social angle. When a man takes an attitude toward religion, he arrives at a conviction. Religion is not a mere sentiment or undefined feeling; it requires the action of the whole man. This attitude toward religion, be it orthodox, agnostic, or atheist, is a creed."

Authority Of Creed Disputed
Dr. Haas denied that the Bible should be the creed of the Christian. Such a belief means one's interpretation of the Bible. This leads to inconsistency, and in philosophy or science such an attitude would immediately classify its possessor as an ignoramus.

Examining the social aspect of the word creed, Dr. Haas stated that it is (Continued on Page Two)

Mask And Dagger To Hold Annual Contest

Offering the most possible number of students an opportunity for self-expression is the major purpose of the play writing contest that is sponsored by "Mask and Dagger" and the "Muhlenberg Weekly."

In accordance with this policy, the plays will be judged on the following points: a truthful expression of life at Muhlenberg, dramatic construction, originality, and production including acting and directing. These points are named in the order of their importance.

Any Type Permitted
Female characters will be permitted, but they must be subordinated. All students are asked to take part in writing plays for this contest. The first prize will be ten dollars, and the second prize will be five dollars.

The plays should not be more than twenty minutes in length. They may be in the form of a skit, a comedy, farce, or melodrama. There is no limitation on this score. Any student desiring information or help in preparing his play can obtain it from Mr. William Coder, faculty advisor of "Mask and Dagger."

All manuscripts must be placed in his hands not later than April 1. From the group submitted, the English Department will select the five plays that will be produced by members of "Mask and Dagger."

Der Deutsche Verein Gives Humorous Play In Assembly Period

Singing Of Effeminate Quartet Composed Of Club Members Big Feature On Program

Der Deutsche Verein gave many of the Muhlenberg students their first real insight into what takes place at a Pennsylvania-German rag-cutting party in their humorous sketch, "On Der Lumpa Parti" presented in the Science Auditorium at the regular Thursday morning program, February 23.

The main feature of the morning was undoubtedly the singing of the strictly effeminate quartet composed of Jerome Baer, mezzo-soprano, Claude Wismer, contralto, and the two Hartzell brothers, Wilson and Ralph, altos. In their first selection they serenaded Dr. Haas and then as an encore presented an old Pennsylvania-German Folk song. Dr. Barba, leader of the Verein, served as rag-gatherer for the busy group of women.

Dr. Reichard Explains Play

The introduction to the play was given by another leader of the club, Dr. Reichard. He explained how before the coming of the modern farm implements the tired farmers would gather at some home after a hard day's labor for some form of entertainment, usually a barn dance. The women too would gather in "Lumpa Parties" or rag-cutting parties where they collected all the old clothing and rags and cut them into strips for weaving into rugs.

Dr. Barba Dramatizes Idyll

Using this type of a gathering as a theme, the Rev. Astor C. Wuchter, Toledo, Ohio, composed a beautiful rustic idyll which he allowed Dr. Barba to dramatize.

Those members of the Deutsche Verein participating in the rendition were: James Angstadt, Gordon Feller, Elmer Fahringer, Jerome Baer, Claude Wismer, Ralph Hartzell and Wilson Hartzell. Joseph Friedman, Arthur Hottle, Paul Stoneback, and "Fritz" Wavrek aided in the stage preparations.

Four 'Berg Delegates To Attend Conclave

International Problems To Be Discussed At Model League Of Nations At Lehigh

Muhlenberg will participate for the first time at the Model League of Nations to be held at Lehigh University, on April 6, 7 and 8. This organization was formed three years ago by the colleges and universities of eastern United States, for the purpose of acquainting the students with the workings of the League and also to train them in the problems which confront the League.

The group of men representing Muhlenberg will comprise H. Edward Krooss, Richard Garnet, Merwin Shelley and Charles Preston. The expenses of the delegates are being paid by Dr. James E. Swain and Dr. Henry R. Mueller of the History Department.

Reports Will Be Given

The order of the meetings resembles that of regular sessions of the League of Nations. The representatives from the colleges and universities are assigned different countries which they are to represent. Committees are appointed and a regular consideration of problems that are before the League is discussed. This year, special topics to be used are, (1) Manchurian Crisis and the Lytton report; (2) A general treaty for the control of manufacture and trade of arms and ammunitions; (3) A plan for the solution of world unemployment problems.

Representatives from Muhlenberg, Johns Hopkins, Cornell, Barnard, N. Y. U., Syracuse, Colgate, Rutgers, Union, Bucknell, Villanova, Albright, Elmira, Princeton, and Columbia have accepted invitations to join.

A Statement

FRATERNITY and non-fraternity politics are equally bad. In most cases there is merely an attempt to gain offices for the intrinsic honor for the man and his group, and in an effort on the part of the candidate to make himself eligible for O. D. K. With the purpose of overcoming this evil, the "Weekly" is publishing the facts as clearly and as accurately as possible, and permitting all to voice their opinion on the condition of campus politics.

It is our belief that publishing the names of the party candidates before election will stimulate each group to select its best men. It will also encourage, by comparisons between men, a splitting of ballots and the breaking down of strict party lines. By allowing candidates to present their qualifications and aims there will be an increased tendency to select men with real qualifications and aims. It must be clearly understood that each group has an advantage to be gained by this policy that would tend towards splitting the ballots.

The non-fraternity group should remember that the solidarity now achieved will not always last, and the fraternity group should realize that they will be more and more in the minority as years pass by. It is reasonable to suppose that split-ticket voting, accomplished by voting men, rather than parties, will tend towards establishing a balance of power.

The "Weekly" welcomes all suggestions that readers may have that would help solve the problem.

H. Edward Krooss was mistaken when he assumed that the "Weekly" had changed from its opposition to campus politics by printing the party candidates in the last issue. This is caused by the fact that he wrote his contribution before reading the editorial that explained the new policy as merely an expansion of the old. There is now no misunderstanding.

Action Is Needed

THE financial condition of the "1933 Ciarla" is deplorable. In justice to the Seniors who will be compelled to pay, we demand a thorough faculty investigation of all matters pertaining to the class yearbook. In addition to this we demand that some one person be appointed financial dictator of all student ventures.

From the information now available it appears that there has been an utter disregard for current economic conditions in producing a book more elaborate than ever before. The budget seems to have been completely ignored. It is reported that there was a laxity in the collection of bills, and a lack of respect for numerous warning against certain policies.

We also recommend that the president of the Senior class immediately call a meeting of the class at which the "Ciarla" staff should give a complete explanation to the men who will be compelled to pay for what appears to be their incompetence. Surely there must be some justification for the present condition.

It all goes to prove that there should be less concentration in placing men in office, and more in checking on their performance when they have the office.

"Baby Leopards" Claw Muhlenberg Yearlings

The "Baby Leopards" of Lafayette trekked into the Queen city of the Lehigh Valley on Wednesday evening, February 22, and handed the "Little Mules" a 32 to 26 clawing, on the Y. M. C. A. hardwood, prior to the Muhlenberg-Lafayette varsity tilt. The game was fast and snappy throughout. The 'Berg yearlings led at half-time by a 14 to 13 score, but they were unable to maintain this lead in the latter half against the fast-moving, larger first-year men representing the Easton institution.

"Bill" Saalfeld, former Ramsey High School star, was the leading scorer of the game with a total of ten points, two field goals and six fouls. This athlete from the Garden state was easily the outstanding player, conducting himself with exceptional confidence and showing marked ability. Kostenbader, big Maroon center, was the high scorer for the visitors, with four twin-pointers and one foul for a total of nine points.

From Our Readers

Again the question of fraternity politics has become one of paramount importance. The elections of the past week have once again demonstrated the utter failure of our age-old system, and indignant and critical letters, implying totally in error, that fraternity men are the only ones engaged in politics, have been written to the editor.

It is naively suggested that membership in fraternities be limited to one-third of the student body. Regarding this recommendation only in the light of its relation to politics, its shortcomings are obvious. It is the ideal method of surrendering complete control to the non-fraternity men. Pursuing the solution to its ultimate conclusion, let us break up the dormitory combinations which attempt to wield so much influence under our present system.

Again our letter writers have reminded us that our college system is the embryo of corruption in every day politics. We agree, but regret that non-fraternity men try desperately to emulate the tactics used by our well known political steam rollers, a device that has for years been in use in fraternity circles.

We can in no sense agree with the solutions which have been offered us by the non-fraternity men. We fully realize that quality has become subservient to affiliation and that it is becoming more so. As an example of the development, the "Weekly" in the face of its oft repeated denunciation of politics, printed in its most prominent space the rival tickets of the Sophomore Class.

It becomes increasingly obvious, therefore, that the institution of democracy can never rise above the average intelligence of the average student. It is for this reason that we suggest a plan which will present quality. Let us have a committee composed of the best men on the campus, both fraternity and non-fraternity men. Supplement it with faculty advice which has a positive opinion, and allow it to select by discussion the officers of the campus.

We are frankly opposed to the present system of dog-eat-dog, but we are also contemptuous of the type of solution which we have been receiving, a solution which will merely make dictators out of mediocre dormitory politicians.

—H. Edward Krooss, '34

Mr. Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to inquire into the financial status of the 1933 Ciarla which to my mind and to the minds of the majority of the members of the Senior class has been withheld from us.

It would be a much finer thing if the Business Manager would clear his office of any stigma made by rumors. If the Seniors are to be assessed for mismanagement of duly elected officers, we would prefer to know definitely for what reason.

It seems strange that a problem involving a "mere" six hundred dollars should be permitted to slide from one year to another. If the present "slide" is not curtailed, it will end by Commencement Day when Seniors will be forced to pay an assessment for the business mistakes of the Ciarla Staff.

This protest is not to cast any reflection upon the Business Manager, but a "hint" for that individual to present "face-up" all the details involved, to the entire Senior Class.

Respectfully,

Harry P. Dunlap, '33

Dear Readers and Mr. Herb:

No doubt Muhlenberg College has passed through its long-wanted period of transition, but will the individual by the name of Marlin Herb please reflect with some bit of mental content upon what he has written in the most recent issue of the "Weekly". Possibly Mr. Herb, you do not realize that this is a democratic college and that the controlling factor in the accepted democracy of today is politics. It is understood that the sterling qualities of the individual being are not always pronounced by just personal contact with him. It takes a stronger and closer fellowship to understand and appreciate his worth before they are tested in what the Mr. Herb has stated: "The fraternity political machine." I can appreciate his position, however. It must be remembered by him that he is not a fraternity man. Can he rightfully question any integral portion of any fraternity with such a minute amount of actual knowledge? Perhaps it is jealousy on his part or perhaps the values so emphatically pronounced in fraternity life have never become obvious to his hazy mind.

It is both a curious and unnatural condition of school sentiment which makes it a difficult thing in Muhlenberg politics for an honorable young man to enter into its activities without subjecting himself to suspicion as to the honesty of his purpose or doubt as to the possibility of his benefiting his fellow students. Muhlenberg fraternity men, according to the illustrious Mr. Herb, are supposed to sit back and rest contentedly with simply voting on election day and to be careless as to the men selected for school offices or the acts performed by them. If we would follow Mr. Herb's advice the sincerity of fraternities would be doubted after a few years of indifference and their motives would be inquired into.

The original-mindedness of the Mr. Herb in contemplating such looseness in the use of unheard of political phrases in regards to such a thing as "Dark Ages in Politics" at Muhlenberg tends to revert my mind to the Middle Ages. Come, Mr. Herb, it is now the twentieth century try and be modern if at least you can't be excited to the value of politics. I willingly concede to Mr. Herb that the most efficient of our political bosses are college trained men. After all college is a training ground. If such a thing could be encouraged, I suggest that the Mr. Herb read the student-body constitution and try to understand it. Perhaps his thoughts would be enlightened. In our past Black Thursday, as the Mr. Herb gallantly states it, he states that the rich prizes of political gains were all grasped for by the fraternity factions. It must be remembered that an opposition is necessary for politics of the nature to which he refers, and in this we find none other but the creating forces vested in misguided individuals, who failing to gain political prestige in their own classes have attempted by the use of the non-fraternity ticket to corrupt the lower classes.

The fraternities are perfectly willing to open to the student body the merits of any of their candidates. Competition always brings the best man into office and the Mr. Herb may possibly be glad to know that the fraternities are perfectly willing to be frank at any time concerning their candidates. Fraternities have and always will run men who can stand the test of publicity.

Very truly yours,
John H. Yerger, '35

"Bible Should Not Be Creed", Says Dr. Haas

as inevitable as is the individual aspect. He pointed out that society is inclined to denounce a church for a creed while accepting as necessary the platform of a political party.

The origin of our familiar creeds was not immediate but gradual. The Apostle's Creed began with the institution of baptism when the statement of belief was formed.

Mencken is Dead

Without creeds there can be no religious conviction. In contemporary life there is a tremendous ignorance in religious discussion. Creed should give us the why of religion. It is not a foolish thing to have a creed, but it is a necessary thing. Dr. Haas advised the student body to arrive at some fundamental, uncynical basis which will satisfy the soul. He declared that the day has passed when Mencken ruled; he is a dead issue, and our youth have arrived at an earnest and serious view of life.

'Berg Takes Lacing From Lebanon Valley

Launching a brilliant offense in the second half, the Lebanon Valley basketball team nosed out the Muhlenberg hoopsters 36-31, in a game played Saturday, February 25th, at Lebanon, Pa. After having completely bewildered their opponents with a dazzling display of passing, the Mules slumped terribly in the latter part of the contest permitting the Flying Dutchmen to emerge victorious.

The Mules started off with a bang, with Nixon leading the offense. "Deadeye" Bill himself accounted for the first six points of the 'Bergmen, stripping the cords with a pair of twin pointers and a duo of fouls. However, with the exception of one more charity toss dropped later on, Nixon was wholly throttled. Still, because of the excellent marksmanship of "Lou" Sterner and "Bill" Horine, the Allentonians maintained a lead which was not overcome until the second half. It was in this part of the game in which the Blue and White wreaked their vengeance for the defeat administered to them by the Cardinal and Gray a fortnight before. Led by the lanky pivot man, Focht, and two stellar forwards in the persons of Williams and Barthold, the locals started the last half with almost as good an exhibition of passing as was shown by their adversaries. Horine, in guarding Barthold did not give as good an account of himself as is customary, his man, ringing up four double-deckers and a foul for a total of nine points. Focht, the Lebanon Valley center had a very successful evening in that he personally accounted for eleven points, sinking three field goals and five of his

Muhlenberg Easily Defeats Lafayette

The Lafayette "Leopard" felt the power of a fighting "Mule" last Wednesday evening, February 22, on the Allentown Y. M. C. A. court, as Coach George Holstrom's basketekers, without very much trouble sent the Maroon quintet back to the forks of the Delaware with a 23 to 38 defeat ringing in their ears. The "Mules" celebrating the holiday, played the game in a walk-away fashion and at half time held the commanding lead of 16 to 9.

'Berg Dominates Second Half

In the opening period, on two field goals by "Lou" Sterner and fouls by "Bill" Nixon and "Rog" Rohn, the Cardinal and Gray used a fast moving offensive and good foul shooting to score six points before the Lafayette aggregation ripped the cords. It was in the opening portion of the first half that Muhlenberg gained the mastery, never to relinquish it throughout the game but to continue steadily to increase it. The closest Lafayette came to going ahead of 'Berg was midway in the initial period when the "Leopards" dropped in two fouls and two field goals in a row to make the score 10 to 9. Then the Holstromites went to work and had secured a big lead when the first gun barked, on twin-pointers by "Bill" Horine and "Reds" Weiner and fouls by Gene Lepore and Horine.

Bill Horine is High Scorer

Lafayette's scoring in the second half was almost totally confined to the opening minutes. The latter por-

Lehigh Has Revenge By Conquering 'Berg

At the game played last Monday, February 20, at Bethlehem, the Lehigh basketball team defeated the Muhlenberg aggregation 36-32. The play itself was alternately thrilling and slow with neither team displaying unusually good form. The Cardinal and Gray, particularly, during the first half, consistently passed with no evident accuracy. In the latter part of the game, both teams having obviously been inspired, there was a beautiful exhibition of clean, fast, basketball. The second half was almost entirely devoid of fouls.

Substitutes Rushed In

Muhlenberg started off with a field goal by Lepore in the first few seconds of play. Then the big Brown and White quintet began to function. With a series of nice pass plays Bray and Chambers sank seven points in little or no time. Lepore again stripped the cords with a nice long shot following which the Lehigh team went on a rampage, not ceasing until they had amassed a total of thirteen points. Due to the ineffectiveness of the team on the floor, a whole new Muhlenberg squad was substituted. These were also very slow in starting, and before they were organized a fast-passing Lehigh combination added eight more points to their score. After a lapse of almost ten minutes, Sterner finally broke the ice with a short field goal. The half ended after more sloppy and uneventful play, with the score 21-8 in Lehigh's favor.

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day . . . it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want . . . mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have . . . selecting choice, ripe tobaccos . . . ageing them . . . blending and cross-blending them . . . making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy". For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

THOSE SOPHOMORE ELECTIONS ARE just a bit more complicated than they appear on the surface. While the non-fraternity party claims that they scored a sweeping victory, they fail to take into consideration the fact the Bernard Frank, alias the Rambling Reporter, is one of the biggest fraternity men on the campus.

Frank holds the honorable position of leph Godol (head man) of the Aleph Zadik Aleph fraternity, a national which he claims has 167 chapters and is the junior order of the B'nai B'rith.

In that capacity he has done much to promote the ideals of fraternities, even to appearing at his group's dance at the Community Center the other night with the charming Miriam. Miriam, Frank tells us in an exclusive interview, is a former dancer at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, but more lately has become a concert pianist.

Anyway, there is just a bit of consolation for the fraternity men.

THE BANGOR ENGLISHMAN, Warren von Schmidt, has certain definite views on the abolishment of Freshman regulations. He emphasizes his views by counting the student vote. We agree with the Baron that 121-127 is a mighty close count and if the hands are counted quickly enough the result may be anything the chairman and the secretary desire it to be.

A PROPOSAL TO MAKE MUHLENBERG co-educational was made to President Haas on Monday morning by Herbie Frankfort—the Susquehanna Co-eds' big moment. Dr. Haas in an exclusive interview, said he was opposed to the proposition on the grounds that Herbie would monopolize all the women.

IT IS RUMORED THAT Leon Rosenberg and Gene Kardos are cousins . . . Mr. Bernheim says that he believes a law may be passed to prevent the carrying of hip flasks . . . Haps Benfer is put out by the actions of Congress in regards to the so-called prohibition laws . . . When Dr. Haas buys candy at the College Co-operative store, and he does, he buys a nickel's worth of dees, doos and dems and has them put in a tut . . . As we sign off, Frankfort is in a deeper fog than ever before . . . Here's luck to you Herbie old boy and Rindfleish will just love to dance at your wedding.

BOYS' CONERENCE

"The Church and the Boy Today" was the subject of an address by Dr. Charles B. Bowman for the fifth annual Boy's Convention of the Allentown Conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel, Saturday afternoon.

The theme of the Convention was "Lutheran Boys Who Succeeded". After the boys had elected officers, papers were read on Melancthan, Bach, Conrad Weiser, Muhlenberg, and Passavant, by their representatives. The convention concluded with a tour of the college campus and dinner at the Commons. Rev. Wohlsen was the chairman of the Youth Activity Committee in charge of the meeting. Dr. Haas, Rev. Cressman and Dr. Marks attended the session and welcomed the boys to Muhlenberg.

Muhlenberg Cuts Lead

Nixon started the second half with a short twin-pointer. This was followed by a pair of Lehigh field goals. At this point the game started to liven up with flashy play, and both teams displayed a brilliant passing attack. Then the storm broke with as nice an exhibition of long range shooting as was seen on the Lehigh floor in many a day. Left and right they stripped the cords with Messrs. Nixon and Horne leading the attack. The crowd became frantic as the Holstromites cut down their great handicap to four points. The Brownies soon recovered and thereafter kept their defense clamped on tight.

Bray Is Lehigh Star

Lepore and Nixon led the attack for the Holstromites, garnering twenty points between them, each having tossed in five field goals. For the Lehigh clan, Bray, having five field goals and a foul, and Gearhard, with four twin-pointers and a charity toss, led the scoring attack. The latter incidentally, performed excellently on the defense.

In the preliminary game, the Lehigh Frosh took the measure of the 'Berg yearlings to the tune of 43-24.

ILLUSION:

Look at this remarkable lady . . . with three lovely and perfect heads . . . all attached to a normal body. She appears to sit on the stage, with the lower part of her body concealed by flowers. She can wink, smile, and nod. She can talk, laugh, and sing—all at the same time. Thousands of people have seen this feat of magic and pronounced it a wonderful sight!

EXPLANATION:

Audiences used to pay an extra fee to go behind the scenes to see how this trick was worked. They discovered that the three-headed woman was merely a reflection in a mirror. The glass showed the heads of three girls but the body of only one. The other two were cleverly hidden so that only their heads showed in the mirror.

It's fun to be fooled —
...it's more fun to KNOW

This "three-headed woman" trick goes 'way back to the early days of magic.

Also old is the suggestion that protection for your throat and freedom from coughing can be achieved through some magic trick.

THE EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest, ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh to the throat. Ripe, costly tobaccos are mild, mellow—gentle. The question is whether a cigarette is made from cheap tobacco or the more expensive grades.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

American men and women have smoked more billions of Camels than any other brand because of the appeal of more expensive tobaccos and matchless blending.

Won't you stack up your own experience with a cigarette made from milder, costlier tobaccos...against magic claims about "cigarettes and your throat"?

Try fresh Camels—in the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack that seals the freshness and coolness, the mildness and flavor of Camels...inside.

"Like Falling Leaves" To Be Given In High School Auditorium

Mask and Dagger Club Will Produce Play April 21—John Hemmerly To Star.

Final arrangements have been made for the forthcoming Mask and Dagger production of "Like Falling Leaves" which is to be given on Friday night, April 21st at the Allentown High School auditorium.

"Like Falling Leaves" was written in Italian by Giuseppe Giacosa, the famous Italian playwright and later translated into English. In keeping with the present economic condition of the country the play deals with the degradation accompanying depression. The theme of realism is prevalent throughout and there is no trace of the usual sentimentality in the entire play.

Experienced Managers

The student production manager is Warren Smith, who will be remembered as the co-producer of "Journey's End" which enjoyed a successful run at the Lyric theatre a few years ago. Mr. Smith not only has had experience as a producer, but is himself a finished actor.

The Business Manager, Ray Muselman, has had extensive experience in business management—not only along theatrical lines, but in various other branches.

The Publicity Manager, Bob Stinson, has had no experience in this type of work before, but has high hopes of making the play a success if it is at all possible to do so by advertising.

Fritz Wavrek is to head the personnel attending to the stage management. Very little need be said as to the wide experience and the great ability of this young man.

Mask and Dagger is indeed fortunate in having, as one of its members, John Hemmerly. Hemmerly will head the list of stars that goes to make up the cast of "Like Falling Leaves." Mr. Hemmerly, it will be remembered, was one of the producers of "Journey's End" and had one of the leading roles in this play. He has, for the past two summers, been employed by the Capitol Theatre in Hazleton as director of the Capitol Stock Company. Nothing more need be said of the ability of John since his activity in dramatics in Allentown for the past three years speaks well enough for him.

Young Ladies Chosen

The female characters have been picked and from a review of their experience there is no question as to their ability. The "Weekly" is not at liberty at present to divulge the names of these young ladies, but their identity will appear in a later issue.

Taking everything into consideration, "Like Falling Leaves" promises to be one of the biggest hits in the theatrical history of Muhlenberg. A bright future is predicted for Mask and Dagger, and if this play is a financial success Muhlenberg will then at last be able to boast of having a real dramatic organization.

M. C. A. Group Drops Associate Cabinet

The Cabinet of the Muhlenberg Christian Association met in the Chaplain's office, Monday evening, February 27. After a heated discussion it was decided to drop the Associate Cabinet, leaving only the main Cabinet. Plans were discussed for taking Freshmen to Camp Miller for a week-end, before Freshmen Week. The cost for this trip will be $7. It is hoped that the recreation which the new men receive will enable them to live through the grind of Registration. It was then decided to pay the Ciarla Bill, thus aiding the latter organization.

The Weekly extends its deepest sympathy to Paul O. Hoeppner, '36, on the death, last Thursday, of his father, the Rev. G. Julius Hoeppner, pastor of St. Paul's German Lutheran Church, Norristown.

Whether or not Muhlenberg will be represented in baseball and track this spring will be decided at a meeting of the Athletic Board on Friday night.

Four Men Initiated By Phi Alpha Theta

Phi Alpha Theta, honorary History fraternity, held its initiation ceremonies at the Hotel Shankweiler on Thursday evening, March 2. The following juniors because of a high average in history were initiated: Robert E. Mentzer, Paul L. Marzolf, H. Edward Krooss and John D. Carapella. Dr. Jackson, Dr. Mueller and Dr. Swain were present at the ceremony and Richard Garnet was the presiding officer. Following the initiation a banquet was held in honor of the new members.

Twenty-Six Students Attain Dean's List

Eleven Seniors, Five Juniors, Six
Sophs and Four Frosh Rank
Scholastically.

Twenty-six students made the "Dean's Honor List" at Muhlenberg College for the first semester of 1932-1933. This list includes all of the students who have achieved "A's" in two-thirds or more of their semester hours. Certain privileges may be attached to this honor in the near future, it was learned. This innovation is the result of the efforts of Registrar Harry A. Benfer. Of these twenty-six students, eleven are Seniors, five Juniors, six Sophomores, and four of them are Freshmen.

Three Perfect Records

Three of the eleven honored Seniors received perfect records with "A's" in all of their subjects. They are George B. Ammon, A.B., Girard College; George W. Heintzleman, B.S., Slatington High School; and Ray K. Heist, Ph.B., Allentown High School. The Seniors who made "A's" in two-thirds of their semester hours are Edward G. Diehl, Ph.B., Lehigh University; C. Robert Eisenhart, Ph.B., Windsor, N. Y., High School; Richard F. Garnet, Ph.B., Greenbrier Military Academy; George J. Dr. Brown Speaks On Denial Of Our Lord

Chapel Audience Hears Lenten
Sermon On Friday

Comparing modern, everyday attitude with Peter's denial of Christ, Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English Department of Muhlenberg College, declared in a Lenten service in Chapel on Friday, March 3, that "Christ again stands despised and scorned in the eyes of the world."

Dr. Brown used as an introduction a vivid and colorful word-picture of the scene of Peter's denial of Christ. He emphasized the ease with which Peter expressed his loyalty to Christ when alone, and the weakness he displayed in denying Christ before a crowd of enemies.

"Do We Deny Him?"

He stated: "Today corrupt legislative assemblies look upon Christ as a stumbling block; world courts despise him; and ultra-intellectuals regard his doctrine as foolishness. It is easy to drift with the crowd and agree with its attitude, but it is difficult for us to stand alone and proclaim Christ. You, like Peter, have been in the garden with him. Do you deny Him? Let us examine our hearts and see if we fail. Let us use as a prayer the words of the hymn 'In the hour of trial, Jesus plead for me'."

An interesting picture of student life at a Japanese college is given in a letter recently received by Dean Robert C. Horn from Tadao Kai, '31. Kai, remembered by many at Muhlenberg, outlines the varied activities in which he is participating aside from his official duties as instructor of Business English and English Language at Yamaguchi College of Commerce, Yamaguchi, Japan.

In addition to his sixteen hours of teaching each week, he is a member of the "Institute of Oriental Research", and serves as head of the department of American relations in this group. He is co-editor of the magazine "Business English" and has published two text books. Kai is also at work on a large "Business English Dictionary" that he expects to finish within the next six years. He receives several daily newspapers, and many weekly and monthly publications from the United States which he uses as a basis for reports on the economic condition of this country. He expects to be made full professor in the very near future.

Old Commercial College

Yamaguchi, subsidized by the government, is one of the oldest of all the commercial colleges in Japan. There are 700 students and fifty-three faculty members. Classes are held six days of the week. Thirty-four hours of attendance are required for the week and three years study is necessary for graduation. The tuition per year is eighty yen, and the student body fees are ten yen. (The yen is now equal to about twenty cents in American money, but the original exchange value is fifty cents. Its buying power in Japan is about equal to the dollar in the United States—editor)

Japanese College Lively

The students have five publications and the faculty has three. Extracurricular enthusiasts, and those who believe that these activities are found only in American colleges can find much to interest them in the following information.

There are at Yamaguchi the following teams: Fencing, Wrestling, Baseball, Tennis, Athletic, Hockey, Archery, Basketball, Volley Ball, Swimming, Soccer, Rugby, and Ping Pong (a major sport in the Orient.) There is also a Horse Riding club.

An Executive Committee, Student Council, and Managerial Board sees that student affairs are properly conducted. There are the following student societies: Literary, Lecture and Speech, Oratorical, English Speech, Scientific Research (in the departments of Economics, Commerce, and Law), and Military. There are Mu-

Chief Caupolician Of Metropolitan Co. Will Give Recital

South American Native Baritone
To Interpret Grand Opera
Roles At Assembly.

Chief Caupolician, South American Indian, and leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York and the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, will give a vocal recital in the Science Auditorium at the regular Thursday morning assembly.

Chief Caupolician was born in Chile, South America, of a French mother, his father being chief of one of the Arica (Free) tribes of the Araucano Indians, the only South American Indians never subdued by the Spaniards. He was educated in France and in the United States. He was fortunate enough to speak Spanish, French, Italian and English in his youth—an accomplishment of indispensable value to a singer. Several Indian dialects round out his linguistic accomplishments.

Many Accomplishments

The chief has also been a sailor, newspaper writer, and critic, lecturer, soldier, and actor as well as a singer and musical director. As the leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York he created a veritable sensation. His amonaso in "Aida" was acclaimed by all critics as a masterpiece of vocal and dramatic art. He continued his good work in "Faust" and in "Pagliacci."

He is even more popular in concerts and his every appearance has been greeted with enthusiasm. To his fine vocal powers he adds a most engaging personality. His explanations of songs are done in an easy, engaging manner that never fails to charm.

Hock, '32, Engages In City Welfare Work

Donald V. Hock, '32 has been appointed Chairman of the Committee for the aid of the Homeless Boys of Philadelphia. Mr. Hock is well prepared for the office, since he has spent some time in the slums of New York City studying conditions.

While at Muhlenberg, Hock was captain of the debate team. In 1929 he won the Intercollegiate Semi-final Oratorical Contest. He is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, and Alpha Kappa Alpha honorary fraternities. Socially he was a member of Theta Upsilon Omega.

'Berg Debate Team Loses To Gettysburg In Second Tourney

Lebanon Valley Debates 'Berg
On War Debts March 10—Affirmative Travels To An-nville.

Muhlenberg engaged in its second debate of the season, against Gettysburg, at Gettysburg, on Monday evening, February 27, and dropped the decision 2-1, taking the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved: That all Intergovernmental World War Debts Including Reparations should be Paid."

The chairman of the debate was Dr. Bachman, head of the department of Romance Languages of Gettysburg.

Oregon System Used

The team was composed of Morton Silverman '34, and Ray K. Heist, '35, captain. The Oregon system of debate was used, with Morton Silverman doing the cross-examining and Ray K. Heist answering the cross-examination of the negative.

The debating team will endeavor to win its first intercollegiate forensic tilt when it meets the debating team of Lebanon Valley on Friday evening, March 10. This will be a dual debate, the affirmative team traveling to Annapolis while the negative team will entertain the Lebanon Valley affirmative team in the Assembly room of the Administration building. This debate will begin at 8 o'clock.

John R. Brokhoff, '35, Robert D. Kerstetter, '35, and Captain Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33 will compose the affirmative team while Ray R. Brennen, '35, Russel L. Krapf, '35, and Milton Lowy, '35 will defend the negative side for Muhlenberg at home.

L. S. A. To Sponsor Eugenics Lectures

A series of six illustrated lectures on Eugenics will be presented by Dr. John V. Shankweiler, professor of Biology, under the auspices of the Lutheran Student Association. The first lecture, which will be presented on Monday evening, March 13, in the Biology lecture room in the Science building, will be on the subject, "The Truth About Sex."

Dr. Shankweiler will talk plainly as he believes such a topic to be of great importance to every college man. These lectures are a part of the revised program of the Lutheran Student Association. Every Muhlenberg man and his friend is welcome.

Richard Garnet, President of the Senior class, announced that there will be a meeting of the class on Thursday morning following the regular assembly program. The financial condition of the Ciarla will be explained and discussed at this meeting.

Garnet To Represent Muhlenberg At Geneva

The Pennsylvania State Oratorical Contest, at which Richard Garnet, '33, will be the Muhlenberg representative, has been postponed until March 25. The contest, planned to be held at Thiel College originally, has been moved to Geneva College.

Harry Dunlap, '33, and Gordon Feller, '34, will accompany the Muhlenberg representative. "The Forgotten Covenant" is the topic for Garnet's oration which deals with international relations.

Frosh Will Debate With Varied Teams

The "Lighthouse" Debaters,
Newark Prep, and Albright
Frosh To Oppose 'Berg.

Having successfully completed the first half of the 'Berg Frosh Debate season in the form of the Freshman Intramurals, Coach Hock has arranged a series of three or four feature tilts with teams off the campus to complete the season.

These engagements include debates with: the Lighthouse Debaters of Philadelphia on the question—Resolved: That Pennsylvania Enact Legislation Providing for Compulsory Unemployment Insurance; Newark Preparatory School on—Resolved: That the U. S. Recognize the Soviet Government of Russia; and, Albright College Frosh, over station WEEU, Reading, on—Resolved: That the U. S. Cancel all Inter-Allied War Debts.

Phila. Debate First

The first of these feature debates is with the Lighthouse Debaters. The Lighthouse is a large well-known social organization in Philadelphia carrying an active work in Kensington, Philadelphia, for the past 40 years.

The debate will be in the nature of an Open Forum. Over 200 unemployed men will comprise the audience. 'Berg Frosh, upholding the negative of the Compulsory Unemployment Insurance Question, are: Ralph Ebert, Walter Guigley, Henry Klausfelder, and Theodore Fischer.

Ladies' Auxiliary And Verein
Present Artist March 21.

The international famous German contralto, Margarete Olden, will present a unique concert of classic song in St. John's auditorium, South Fifth Street, on Tuesday evening, March 21. Fraulein Olden, formerly of the Berlin State Opera, is widely known in European countries as a foremost exponent of German song. After appearing as a soloist in many of the great musical festivals of Germany and Austria she turned to opera, and has won for herself a distinguished place in Wagnerian opera. Margarete Olden's naturally beautiful and nobly impressive voice is also indicative of the highest cultivation; with her great intellectual penetration she also unites a rare gift of extraordinary capacity for emotional interpretation.

To Sing Request Program

Fraulein Olden, upon specific request, has consented to devote her program entirely to the inimitable songs of Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, and Wolf. This program will be made possible through the combined effort of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College and Der Deutsche Verein. The price of admission has been limited to fifty cents to make it possible for all music lovers to enjoy this rare program.

University Pastor Preaches In Chapel Before Student Body

Pastor Gearhart of Penn Emphasizes Jesus As The Answer To The Depression.

A soul-stirring sermon was given by Rev. Robert H. Gearhart, Jr., University of Pennsylvania pastor for Lutheran Students, in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel Tuesday, February 28. Rev. Gearhart opened his lecture with these words: "The world in chaos is a gift today". He painted a picture of existing conditions in the world today. Parents are asking why this depression should be; the man on the street is asking the same question. "Religion gives him no answer". Then Rev. Gearhart answered this question by pointing to Jesus who will only give the answer. He assailed the students of today for proclaiming that religion is "old stuff". He maintained that religion may be old stuff, but it carries a kick.

Rebukes Hoarding

Rev. Gearhart pointed out three great areas in our lives. In the first, the area of riches, he states that we are too independent, and we want every one including God to keep his nose out of our lives and business affairs. He reminded the students that things are things and that nothing is taken along when death arrives. "You can't hoard and still be happy", he declared. "We Christians should have the attitude toward things as Jesus had."

The area of sex is the next important phase in a man's life. Rev. Gearhart proved to the students that "the seat of responsibility lies with the male". A man does not only commit adultery by fulfilling the act, but he also commits adultery who looks at a woman with lust in his heart. Rev. Gearhart assured the students that "the man who is afraid to face himself in a mirror after permitting his bodily desires to run its course, cannot have fellowship with God." He stated in a straight forward manner that the student must not be afraid to show his art gallery above the need to the public; the man that has a decent art gallery has a clean body.

"The Area of Religion"

In conclusion, Rev. Gearhart spoke on the most important area of a man's life—the area of religion. He pointed out that comradeship with the Master was the primary goal of every person; since it makes life worth while. "You will never find comradeship with Christ if you always look at the indicator." He then pressed the students to read the Bible as a means of gaining this comradeship. "You will never get any joy from religion if you do not put yourself into it." He says that we are afraid to give religion a whirl. Then he pointed out that most people wait until a "pinch" before they seek God. He answers this idea thus: "If you wait until a pinch comes to share comradeship with God, you will never get it." Rev. Gearhart concluded by assuring the students that "comradeship with Christ puts the kick into life."

Social Science Club Weights Farm Relief

Rudolf Koster, '35, addressed the Social Science Club on the topic of "Farm Relief", Thursday evening, March 2. Koster proposed six solutions to relieve the over-production of certain crops. He explained that the present situation is due to mass production in agriculture. John H. Yerger, '35, and Allan E. Schechterly, '35, were admitted into the organization. Doctor Henry R. Mueller will address the club on "Presidential Cabinets" at the meeting, Thursday, March 9th. Registrar Harry A. Benfer will also address the club at a future date on some campus subject. His topic will be announced.

The Student Council

IT IS customary at most colleges, including Muhlenberg, to scorn the Student Council because of its supposed inefficiency. But we are fortunate this year in having a Council that is alive to its opportunities for beneficial action in student affairs. In organizing a meeting for the discussion of Freshmen Regulations, and in attempting to draw up a model constitution for all classes, the council has demonstrated this. The end, however, should not be here.

The attitude of the students on Freshman Regulations was clearly shown. It is now the sole responsibility of the Council to draw up the proposed constitutional amendments in such a manner that the utmost freedom shall result. The Council, also, should not give up in its efforts to have the model class constitutions approved and adopted.

But the work of the Council does not end here, since model constitutions are merely a starting point in improving campus political conditions. There should be a plan drawn up that will go even further than this. The "Weekly" has been printing the facts and will continue to do so. It has encouraged and received student suggestions in its columns. With the facts as a basis, action can result, and that is our purpose in printing them. That is as far as we can go, the Council is the official governing body of the students.

Thus far, the best suggestion for eliminating campus politics has been the plan for friendly conventions. There are serious defects to be found in it, and that is why the "Weekly" has refrained from actively supporting it. But there are sufficient merits in the plan to encourage its consideration. The Student Council can be of incalculable service to the students of the college if it combines this convention plan, the model constitution, and whatever other suggested improvement they may receive, into one unified plan. This, together with the cleansing action of publicity, will immensely improve conditions on the campus, and will give the present Student Council the unique position in the history of Muhlenberg student life which it will have so richly deserved.

Men students at one of the California colleges put in a petition for women teachers. The co-eds could ogle marks so well from the male professors that the men students decided to even the score.

JUNIOR CLASS MEETING

On Tuesday, February 21, the Junior Class of Muhlenberg College elected its officers for the second semester.

Mr. Rosenberg, co-chairman of the Dyad, submitted a report which the class accepted. It was decided to give the committee full power to reach a decision with the Senior Class on the question of a division of the profits.

Following the report of the Dyad Committee, the following men were elected to office: Gordon Feller, president; Russell Kistler, vice-president; John Carapella, treasurer; Malcolm Parker, monitor; and Asa Wohlson, monitor. In keeping with tradition, Lester Smith remains treasurer.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity held a short meeting on Thursday evening, February 23. A constitutional and by-law committee composed of Henry Lubsen, chairman, Robert Horn and John Hollenbach was appointed. Following this, final arrangements were made for sending a delegate to the fraternity's convention at Duke University. Robert Horn had been chosen as delegate with Henry Lubsen as alternate.

Bernard Frank, '35

My Fellow Columnist (With apologies to Si Padolin)

It was with great pride that this writer read the choice bit of Winchellian information that Mr. Fister (Muhlenberg Mirrored) imparted to his many readers last week. It was an indication that at last we had "arrived". After years of strife and tribulations, beset on all sides by obstacles, we had at last received recognition—and from none other than Gordon Broadus Fister. Of course the fact that the name of the charming lady was not Miriam; that she did not dance at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, and lastly, that she is not a concert pianist, did not detract from our admiration of the article.

We Salute Thee, Fister!

Council Plans Model Frosh Constitution

Cooper Delegated To Report On Dormitory Conduct

At the Student Council meeting held Tuesday, in the Administration building the members became engrossed in a discussion on the suggestion of incorporating a model constitution for incoming classes in the regular Student Body constitution. This suggestion was given for the purpose of eliminating future difficulties similar to those which occurred in the past Sophomore elections. This constitution, if passed by the Student Body, would automatically become official for the present and future classes. Thus conflicts between the class constitution and that of the student body would no longer exist, with parliamentary arguments being silenced.

The unruly and unmannerly conduct of the Dormitory Students was also presented before the council for discussion. It was finally decided that Charles Cooper, head proctor, would make a report of the same at the next meeting.

Judge: "So they caught you with this bundle of silverware. Whom did you plunder?"

'Berg Courtmen Close Season In Blaze Of Glory, Crushing Albright, Gettysburg

Muhlenberg 50 - Albright 32

With "Bill" Nixon, former Stroudsburg High School star and a recent benedict, registering twenty-two points, fifteen of them in the first half, Muhlenberg College trounced the Albright College cagemen, last Wednesday evening, by a 50 to 32 score. The game, Muhlenberg's fifth victory in Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate league competition, was staged in the Allentown Y. M. C. A. gymnasium before the largest crowd of spectators on hand to witness a Cardinal and Gray contest so far this season. The "Mules" overwhelming triumph last week over the second-place Albright College "Lions" avenged a 44 to 38 setback received at the hands of this team earlier in the season. It also ruined the hopes of the Albright College cagemen of overtaking Gettysburg for the league title.

Mules Start Strong

The wearers of the Cardinal and Gray started the game with a bang and on three field goals by Nixon and one each by "Lou" Sterner and Gene Lepore, they soon acquired the commanding lead of 10 to 0. After "Johnny" Fromm had caged a foul for Albright, 'Berg increased its lead to 16 to 1, on field goals by Sterner and Nixon and fouls by "Bill" Horine and Lepore. Then the Red and White scored ten straight points to crawl up on the "Mules" and make the count 16 to 11. The Holstromites monopolized all of the scoring from this point until the first gun had barked, as Nixon caged three more twin-pointers and Lepore one and Sterner and Nixon made good their attempts from the charity stripe. The half ended with Muhlenberg on the long end of a 26 to 11 score.

Nixon Leads Attack

The "Mules" continued their good work in the latter twenty-minute period and even increased the margin of their lead. Nixon, Lepore, Sterner and Horine all played commendable basketball in this half.

Running wild, netting shots from all angles of the court, "Bill" Nixon, the mainstay of the 'Berg quintet, led the attack for his team, and it soon became contagious with Lepore and Sterner joining in to put the game safely in the bag.

Prep Wins 28-27

The Allentown Preparatory School quintet eked out a thrilling 28 to 27 victory over the Albright College. Freshmen in the preliminary game last Wednesday evening. Coach "Art" Freitag's, '21, boys trailed at half-time 16 to 18. "Charlie" Bauder, Erie Strong Vincent star of last season, caged a field goal to give Prep the winning margin just as the final gun was fired—ending the game in true Frank Merriwell fashion.

Frosh Will Debate With Varied Teams

The debate will be held in Philadelphia in the Lighthouse Forum Room, Wednesday, March 8, starting at 8 o'clock.

Hock Coaches Both Groups

The interesting feature of this forensic encounter is the fact that Donald V. Hock, 'Berg Frosh Coach is Director of Public Speaking at the Lighthouse and thus coach, too of the 'Lighthouse Debaters.'

"He assures the 'Berg men that they can prepare for a volley of straight-from-the-shoulder questions.

This debate will be the first of its kind ever held at the Lighthouse. Mr. Hock's class in speech at that institution consists of twenty men ranging in age from 16 to 50, half of whom are unemployed.

passing and dribbling.

18-5 at Half

So bewildered, in fact, that the first field goal by the aforementioned crew did not come until after almost eighteen minutes of play. At one time during the game, the score stood at 16-1 in 'Berg's favor, the half ending at 18-5. The boys in Orange attempted a mild comeback in the second half, but this was promptly squelched by the Holstromites.

There is little doubt that play of this sort in the earlier part of the season would have resulted in a conference title for Muhlenberg.

As a result of this unexpected defeat, Gettysburg's chances at the league title depend upon the game to be played against F. and M., second place team, at Lancaster on Saturday night. A victory for the Blue and White would necessitate a play-off game.

Don't you get Pipe Hungry

The Granger pouch keeps the tobacco fresh

"MAYBE it's back to Nature. Maybe it's something else. I don't know just what it is, but somehow or other I've just got to slip out in the woods and sit down on a log. I always take the old pipe along. Thinking somehow seems easier when you are smoking a pipe. I can fill up my pipe with Granger, and somehow just seem to see things clearer than at any other time.

"Don't know what it is about Granger, but it must be made for pipes—real pipe tobacco.

"Somehow, there's a flavor and aroma about Granger I never found in any other tobacco. When I pack my old pipe tight and good with these big Granger flakes, it's about the coolest smoke I ever enjoyed. It makes me downright pipe hungry every time I look at the package."

Some years ago we made a painstaking, scientific study to find out, if we could, the kind of tobacco best suited for pipes.

Down in the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky, we found a tobacco called White Burley. There is a grade of this tobacco between the kind used for chewing and the varieties suitable for cigarettes that is best suited for pipes. This tobacco is used in Granger.

This tobacco is prepared by a method worked out many years ago by Mr. J. N.

Wellman. It gives Granger a fragrance and mellowness that pipe smokers like, and makes it burn to a clean, dry ash. Granger never gums a pipe.

Granger has not been on sale very long, but it has come to be popular, and there is this much about it: We have yet to know of a man who started smoking it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

AND HERBIE FRANKFORT, the coed's ideal, is back with us again, this time on the basis of a letter received from one of the so-called fairer sex at Susquehanna. It seems that Brother Frankfort could never cultivate the taste for olives—that is never until Alma came along. While at a banquet held in connection with the Lutheran Students conference the olives were passed. Herbie delicately refused, but when HIS Alma took two Herbie took three. What pains the uninitiated will suffer at the call of that thing called love!

SPEAKING OF LOVE, DR. BOWMAN has stepped where saints have failed to tread and has offered the following definition of that malady: "Love is a tickling of the heart that cannot be scratched."

AND HERE'S ONE FOR DRS. KELLER, BRANDES and Zartman. Muhlenberg criminology students have determined that in order to become an expert gangster, a thorough knowledge of chemistry and physics is required. There's a good excuse for several new scientific text books.

WE AGREE WITH THE Brown and White of Lehigh and the Dickinsonian in their views of a certain collection of words, purporting to be an editorial, which appeared in the very periodical publication said to originate from that much discussed school hidden in the virgin forest on the neighboring hill-top.

In a literary style which smacked strangely of our dear little friend, the columnette, the mess ventures to ask why a sweet, tender, frail college girlie, pure and violet scented, should either kiss or allow herself to be kissed by a big, burly, bad, bay-rum scented, tobacco using college man. Answer the question dearie, why do you?

But we further agree with the various other college publications whose comments we have read with interest—why in the name of blazes should a college man have even the slightest hankering to indulge in oscillation with some of the specimens of sophisticated humanity who call themselves college coeds. Why a college man should lower himself to such a degree as to have his lips (and face) smeared with some of the ten cent roof paint so frequently used in an effort to enhance an otherwise quite homely face and should degenerate to the degree that he stands for the snobbery of the pseudo cultured who go to college as their first step to a free meal ticket is more than we can understand. Perhaps the author of the little quip might enjoy explaining some of her ideas in detail.

Other Fields Open

If a student cannot find an outlet for his ambitions in the activities listed above, there are the following fields left open: Local Chapter of League of Nations, Foreign Study Group, Y. M. C. A., and Y. M. B. A. But to prevent the growth of activity "hounds", the Japanese have wisely made the provision that no student may participate in more than two organizations.

Tadao Kai states that he was fortunate in having six positions from which to make a choice. This, he says, is because of the kindness of his father's friends. Jobs are scarce in Japan, because of what Kai calls "mighty depression", similar, he naively explains, to the one the United States "had". Conditions are now somewhat better in Japan as the result of a low exchange rate and the policy of inflation.

Kai mentions meeting Dean Horn's brother, Dr. Edward T. Horn, '07, in Tokyo, and corresponding with Carl Sipple, '25. Dr. Horn is engaged in missionary work, and Mr. Sipple is on the staff of the North Japan College.

A sign placed at the dean's door at Creighton University read: "Get your marks here and pass out quietly."

ILLUSION:

The Oriental girl reclines on a sheet of plate glass supported by two slaves. The magician waves a white sheet in front of the pretty maiden...pronounces a few magic words... Presto! She has disappeared in thin air.

EXPLANATION:

"Disappearing" acts are among the most popular in the repertoire of the magician. Dogs, horses, girls, whole rooms disappear—whisked into wings, dropped through trapdoors, hidden by mirrors. But this "disappearance" is a bit different. One of the "slaves" is a hollow dummy. When the magician holds up the sheet the little lady disappears completely—into the convenient figure of the dummy.

It's FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

There is also a trick of cigarette advertising, whereby a few magic words are used to create the illusion of "Coolness."

EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes, retaining their full moisture, burn more slowly...smoke cooler. Parched, dry cigarettes burn fast. They taste hot. This makes the method of wrapping very important.

Improperly wrapped cigarettes begin to dry out as soon as packed.

Camels are cooler because they come in the famous Humidor Pack of welded, three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane...and because they contain better tobaccos.

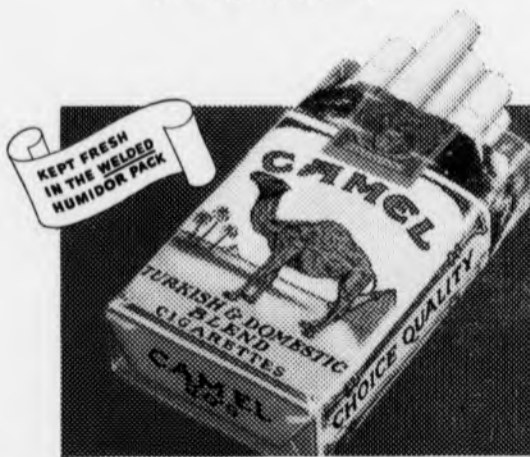

A cigarette that is fresh, full of natural moisture, and blended from choice, ripe tobaccos tastes cooler than one that is harsh and acrid. For coolness, choose a fresh cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Try Camels...give your taste a chance to sense the difference. You'll appreciate it!

Baritone Voice Of Chief Caupolican Delights Assembly

Largest Audience Of Year Hears Grand Opera Star Render Excellent Vocal Recital

Blending a vivid interpretation of old Indian airs with an excellent rendition of modern song, Chief Caupolican, South American Indian and leading baritone for the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York and the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, presented a fine program on Thursday, March 9, before the largest group of students and townspeople gathered in the Science Auditorium this year.

Chief Caupolican commented on the fact that a great demand for Indian music is made of him at every appearance when in reality such a thing does not exist. The Indians, as a nation, never possessed any musical literature and, although their songs and tunes usually had rhythm so that they could be accompanied by dancing, no concern was felt as to whether they were written in a minor scale or any other diatonic scale.

The Chief included in the program a few of his own Indian compositions and those of another collector and arranger of the rare tunes, Burton. "The Sun Rise Call," which portrayed the call of a young Indian to his people to worship the sun, was the chief of these renditions.

The complete program consisted of, "At Dawning," Kipling's old poem "Gypsy Trail" set to music by Gallo-way, "Israphael," "Ideal," an old time favorite, "Because," "By the Waters of the Minnetonka," "The Hopi Rain Song," "Pale Moon," "Two Grenadiers," and "Invictus."

Chief Caupolican was born in Chile. His father was the law-giver of the Arica Indians. His mother, a French woman, left Chile when the Chief was still a youth because of the polygamous practices of the tribe. Since that time Chief Caupolican has led a wandering life. He has been a sailor, newspaper writer, critic, lecturer, soldier, actor as well as a musical director.

He finally became the leading baritone for the Metropolitan Opera Company and in 1926 created a sensation as Amonasro in the opera, "Aida". At present he is the featured soloist for the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia.

Next Thursday W. T. Benze, a missionary in India and a graduate of Muhlenberg in 1922, will speak on "An Appreciation of Hindu Life and Thought."

Freshman Debaters Lose To Lighthouse

The Muhlenberg Freshman Affirmative Debate Team was defeated by the Lighthouse Debate Team of Philadelphia on Wednesday evening, March 8, on the question: "Resolved, that Pennsylvania should enact legislation providing for compulsory unemployment insurance."

The audience, consisting of two hundred unemployed men, was the judge of the debate. A prior canvass of part of the audience showed fifty-six in favor of unemployment insurance with ten undecided. Not one individual was against this type of insurance. Following the debate, a vote of the same men was taken to determine the team which had been superior in debating. Forty-one favored the Lighthouse negative team with twenty-three in favor of the Muhlenberg Freshmen.

The Muhlenberg team consisted of Ralph Ebert, Walter Guigley, Henry Klausfelder with Theodore Fischer as alternate. Lighthouse was represented by Richard Flood, Charles Pollack and Roscoe Manoschian with Raymond Millington as alternate.

Donald V. Hock, '32, Freshman debating coach at Muhlenberg, is also head of the Department of Public Speaking at the Lighthouse Institute.

On March 21, the 'Berg Freshmen will debate the question of recognizing Soviet Russia with Newark Preparatory School team in Allentown.

Eta Sigma Phi Hears Talk By Dr. Fritsch

"Hebrew Names and their Meanings" was the subject of a short talk by Robert R. Fritsch before a combined meeting of the Lehigh and Muhlenberg chapters of Eta Sigma Phi, Honorary Classical fraternity. The meeting was held in the Bible Seminar Room of the Muhlenberg College Library on Thursday evening, March 9.

Following this talk a business meeting of the organization was held and it was decided that the chapter would go to the University of Pennsylvania Museum on the fifth of April. It was also decided that the new members would give a skit in Latin at the regular April meeting of the fraternity. Dr. Ettinger, Dr. Fritsch, Rev. Stine, Dr. Reichard, and Dr. Horn were in attendance. Dr. Wright of Lehigh University was also present.

Intra-Mural Program Creates Competition

Fraternity and Non-Fraternity Organizations Eager To Resume Sports Rivalry

Now that varsity basketball is on the shelf for another season, the limelight of sports on the college campus is being focused on the intra-mural basketball games. Rivalry for supremacy on the court is at white heat, and there seems to be more interest on the outcome of these games than the settlement of the war debts.

All of last year's fraternity and non-fraternity teams are in this race for the silver loving cup donated annually by the college to the organization compiling the greatest number of points in the various contests waged throughout the season.

"Bill" Ritter, the physical director of the College, introduced the intra-mural program, as conducted, in 1925-26. He inaugurated this inter-group competition with the express purpose of creating an interest in sports on the campus, and to stimulate a desire for voluntary physical exercise.

In the first year of competition, there were only six teams in the league. Since then the number has grown to ten teams, representing both

'Berg Debaters Split With Lebanon Valley

The Varsity Debating Team divided a dual debate with Lebanon Valley College last Friday evening, March 10, on the question, "Resolved, That All Intergovernmental World War Debts and Reparations Should Be Canceled."

The negative team, composed of Ray R. Brennan, '35; Russel L. Krapf, '35 and Milton Lowy, '35, defeated the Lebanon Valley affirmative team composed of John Johnson, Eugene Goodman, and Thomas Buezzle, in the assembly room of the Administration building, by a unanimous decision of the judges. Muhlenberg's affirmative team, comprising John R. Brokhoff, '35; Robert D. Kerstetter, '35; and Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33, lost by a 2 to 1 decision to Calvin Reber, Gerald Heilman, and Robert Warner, the negative team of Lebanon Valley.

Wilbur Hemstreet, '35 acted as chairman of the debate at Muhlenberg. The judges for the local encounter were Prof. Charles Benfield, Mrs. William Hudders, and Luther Wahrman. The judges at Annville were Attorney James Atkins, Rev. Malcolm F. Eichner, and H. D. Coll. Professor F. O. Grim of Lebanon Valley was chairman of the debate.

On Thursday evening, March 16, the Muhlenberg negative debating team will meet the Gettysburg College affirmative team on the same subject. The debate will be held in the Assembly room of the Administration building and will commence promptly at 8 o'clock. Russel L. Krapf, '35 and John H. Yerger, '35 will represent Muhlenberg in the debate which will be on the Oregon system.

Ruling Endangers Muhlenberg's Chances For Third Theatre Contest Victory

The cast of "Moon of the Caribbees" is working feverishly for one more victory in the Civic Little Theatre One-Act Play Contest. Everyone of the competitors seems to be imbued with the "Get Muhlenberg" spirit and, they are all struggling for possession of the much coveted cup.

It will be remembered that Muhlenberg has been victorious in two successive contests. 'Berg's first victory was attained by the presentation of "Aunt Mahalay's Cabin" and the second by "Old Man of Edenton". Only one more first prize is needed for permanent possession of the trophy.

Muhlenberg has again shown the rare gift of good sportsmanship of which she has always been so proud. This time it has been displayed thru the medium of Mr. Coder and his cast of "Moon of the Caribbees".

For the past few weeks the basement of the Library has presented the aspect of a carpenter shop. All this activity was caused by the stage management crew under the direction of Mr. Coder and Luther Wenner, '34. For many nights one could see the glow of the electric lights shining thru the basement windows until after midnight. The elaborate set was nearing completion when word was received from the management of the Civic Little Theatre One-Act Play Contest that no scenery would be permitted and that a cyclorama must be used as a common background for all plays. This was indeed a blow to "Mask and Dagger" because it is felt that a great deal of the success of the play rests upon the scenic effects obtained thru the efforts of the crew. When the Contest Management was asked why they objected to Muhlen-berg using their own stage setting they responded that a few individuals deemed it unfair for an organization to employ this means of adding to the assets of their play.

Despite the fact that this ruling was not incorporated in the rules of the contest, Mr. Coder consented to endanger the success of "Moon of the Caribbees" in order that Muhlenberg might still maintain her standard of good sportsmanship.

"Moon of the Caribbees" portrays the activities of the crew of a British tramp steamer lying at anchor in the West Indies. The crew is amusing itself while the officers are ashore. The dreamy moonlight effect is made even more romantic by the melancholy chanting of negroes on the shore. The artistic touch will be added by a quartet which will be stationed just off stage.

Mr. Coder, the director, in a personal interview, said, "Although the ruling of the Civic Little Theatre has greatly crippled our chances of winning the contest I feel that we will give the other organizations a hard run for their money if it is only because of the ability and enthusiasm of the entire cast. I certainly would not have picked this particular play if I had known beforehand that I would not have been allowed to use the scenery that Luther Wenner and I have planned. Since it is too late to change the play we must make the best of a bad bargain and do our utmost to win under these adverse conditions. I do hope though, that the students of Muhlenberg will support us by attending the contest next Friday night. Tickets may be bought from almost any member of "Mask and Dagger" or from me."

"Faith In God Above Necessities of Life," States Doctor Haas

Dr. Haas Distinguishes Between The Various Types Of Belief In Chapel Sermon

President John A. W. Haas, in his sermon in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel on Wednesday Morning, March 8, stated, "To many, God has simply become a word. They may go to church and sing hymns, but God means nothing to them, they have no imagination of God. He is too often regarded as unreal and meaning nothing."

Distinguishing between types of belief he said: "I believe that" asserts belief of a certain fact, whereas "I believe in" infers a personal relationship. What does it mean—"I believe in God?" When you trust in a person, you trust in his character, attitude, and spirit. God has become human in his Son, Jesus Christ. He has thus become a reality as far as the human mind can grasp the holiness of God. "He that seeth me seeth the Father." If God is to become real to us, we have the teachings and sacrifices of Christ as the essential elements to know God.

"The first approach to the reality of God is through Christ as our foundation. Then we must receive by prayer and meditation a confirmation of the greater reality of God. When prayer and meditation is without foundation it is useless. But with this foundation God can become real through our individual religious experiences.

"In our present period, in place of the spiritual, we live in the external, material world. If we have faith in God nothing else should matter to us—not even the necessities of life. This is the ultimate end of faith in God."

Holstrom Expresses Views About The New '33 Football Rules

"Side Line Zones Will Be Great Benefit For Offensive Team," States Coach

The two changes in the football rules for 1933, adopted in order to make the game safer for the player, have been closely studied by George R. Holstrom, retiring head mentor of the Muhlenberg College grid squad, and he strongly believes them worthwhile.

The first rule change, adopted February 12, by the National Football Rules committee after a three-day study of the playing code, would eliminate the side-line play through the establishment of side zones on either side of the field; the other tightened the restriction against clipping. Otherwise, the rules-makers found the code, as revised last year, satisfactory, although they did authorize some editorial changes in the rules in order to clarify ambiguities.

Under the new rule, designed to make unnecessary the wasting of a down when the offensive team is established on either side of the field, end zones, ten yards in width, will be established on either side of the field. Whenever the ball becomes dead within these zones, it will be moved to a point 10 yards in from the side line. At the same time, the committee decided that when the ball goes out of bounds it shall be brought in ten yards from the side line instead of 15 yards as heretofore.

This change was recommended by the Rules Committee of the American Football Coaches' Association at its meeting in Philadelphia several weeks ago. Statistics then were presented to show that an average of 14 downs a game were wasted by offensive teams seeking to gain a better position from which to continue a march down the field.

"This new ruling is going to be a great help to the offensive team," declared Coach Holstrom in an exclusive interview with a "Weekly" reporter. "Too many downs were wasted in the past when the offensive

Dr. Horn Contributes To Times Year Book

Dr. Robert C. Horn has contributed an article on Greek Literature to the American Year Book for 1932, which is a record of the events and progress made during the past year in manifold lines of activities. This annual publication is made possible by the public-spirited generosity of the New York Times. Dean Horn's contribution, the seventh that he has been requested to write, is a study of the various books concerning Greek Literature that have appeared during 1932. In it Dr. Horn briefly comments upon some of the most noteworthy publications of the year in Greek art and archaeology, and Greek civilization in general.

Financial Summary Reported To Seniors

Action Of Seniors And Publicity Given Matter Speeds Up Payment Of Ciarla Debts

A detailed explanation of the financial status of the 1933 Ciarla was given by the business manager, Donald Schlotter, at a meeting of the Senior class held after the assembly program last Thursday morning, March 9. It was found that because of the publicity given the matter, the efforts of the business staff, and the activity of a number of seniors, several of the advertisers and student organizations have paid or made arrangements to pay their debts to the year book.

It is expected that a majority of the others will do the same in the near future. By using the balance that will be in the class treasury after the dues have been collected, it is probable that the deficit will be greatly reduced.

A major reduction in the advertising from that arranged for in the budget was given as the reason for the largest portion of the loss. Methods of collecting were discussed, and it was found that the activity of the seniors in persuading the campus organizations of which they are members to pay their obligations was an effective way of collection.

Class President, Richard F. Garnet, appointed the following committee to conduct an investigation into whatever other details of the Ciarla may be deemed necessary: Chairman, Harry Dunlap, Wellington Walters, Samuel Shimer and William Boone. This was the first class meeting over which the newly elected president presided and he had the novel experience of having his right to appoint a committee challenged. This was done by a student who said that he had the rules of parliamentary procedure behind him.

After the members of the class had recovered from the surprise and amusement caused by this innovation, Warren Smith, Editor of the 1933 Ciarla, made a motion that the President be given this power. This motion was seconded, and passed with one dissenting vote.

Dr. Mueller Talks On Economic Situation

Doctor Mueller gave a very interesting and educational address to the Social Science Club, Thursday evening, March 9. With the aid of graphic representation and the latest Federal Reserve reports Doctor Mueller explained why banks were closed. Although there have been many local panics and economic depressions, this present one is widespread throughout the world. Interdependence of nations, brought about by the machine age, is responsible.

The present bank holiday, said Doctor Mueller, was declared because of the fact that the American depositors withdrew over six hundred million dollars in gold from Federal Reserve vaults and either hoarded it or invested it abroad. He stated that the dollar is never patriotic enough to die for its country. The eagles may scream patriotism, but never the eagles on the gold coin.

Decision On Track And Baseball To Be Made This Thursday

No Definite Statement Can Be Made Now; Plans For Student Delegates Progressing.

The "Weekly" had hoped at this time to be able to report to the students as to whether or not Muhlenberg will be represented in baseball and track this season. As a result, however, of a delay over which those in charge have had no control, there will be no definite statement until after a meeting scheduled to be held this Thursday evening.

There is a rumor that it is practically certain a full baseball schedule will be played, and this is backed by an unofficial statement by one of the members of the Athletic Board. But until after the meeting on Thursday, no official report will be made for the very good reason that as yet no one knows.

Announcement was made that the Board has not forgotten its plan to have student representatives. Many problems, financial and otherwise, now demand practically all of the efforts of the new group. A tentative system of having the presidents of each of the four classes, in addition to the president of the student body, act as student representatives to the Athletic Board is being considered. The group, however is open to any further suggestions from students as to the best method of obtaining student participation.

Scholarship Cup To Be Given In Assembly

The scholarship cup, awarded each semester to that fraternity obtaining the highest scholastic average during the previous term, will be presented during the regular Assembly period on Thursday by Dean Robert C. Horn on behalf of the Pan-Hellenic Council, donors of the trophy.

Theta Upsilon Omega is now in possession of the cup, this fraternity having won it four of the six times it has been given. Phi Kappa Tau and Phi Epsilon Pi (then Sigma Lambda Pi) have each held the trophy once. The group gaining the award six times is given permanent possession.

"Mask and Dagger" announces that it has postponed its production, "Like Falling Leaves" until May 3. This was done to prevent a conflict with the plays planned by the German Club.

Kappa Phi Kappa Has Initiation Ceremony

"Modern School Systems" was the subject of a short talk by Robert Abernathy of Lebanon, Pennsylvania, at the annual initiation ceremony of Kappa Phi Kappa, held on Friday, March 10. Mr. Abernathy declared that the teacher should do his own thinking and be a specialist in his field. He must stand up squarely against what is wrong and he should know his subject better than the parents of the pupils.

The initiation was combined with a banquet held at the college commons, with Dr. Boyer acting as toastmaster. Other speakers of the evening were Mr. Heintzleman, a charter member, who spoke on health, and Professor Roland Hartman who spoke on economists. He optimistically declared that the period of depression is disappearing.

The following men were initiated into the fraternity: Charles Evanovsky, '33; Albert Kunz, '33; John F. Smith, '34; Edgar Steckel, '34; Winfred Kistler, '34; John Hollenbach, '34; Roy Siegel, '34; Harrison Straub, '34; Pompei Orlando, '34; Walter Grasley, '34 and Arwin Splanger, '34. Robert Abernathy, the guest speaker, was initiated as an honorary member.

Student Support

THERE are a number of student organizations that are arranging programs of great interest and benefit, not only to students of the college, but to their friends and to the people of Allentown. These groups are not motivated with the desire to gain glory or money especially for themselves. On the contrary, each has the primary purpose of presenting something that is worthwhile, any financial reward that may result will be contributed to a cause that is beneficial to the college and to the students.

These organizations deserve your support. However, the impression should not be gained that by attending any of the events you are only doing the group a favor. You, yourself, will receive more than full value for any small amount you will be asked to pay. It is well understood that many of the students cannot by any manner of economizing afford to attend. This is unfortunate, but those of the students who are better situated financially, should regard it as part of their duty to give their utmost support. From the quality of the programs given before by some of these organizations it can be safely said that no one will regret his action.

"Leaders of Tomorrow"

WITH the fast moving manner in which both domestic and world history is being made, with wars threatening in some parts of the world and in progress in others, and with 14,000,000 unemployed in the United States, it is astonishing and somewhat discouraging to observe the "economic illiteracy", lack of interest, and downright ignorance manifest among many college students. The "leaders of tomorrow", may be compelled to resort to post collegiate cramming in order to know at least as much as those they intend to lead.

HARRY A. BENFER,
Treasurer Athletic Committee.

Nude figures composing the fountains on the McGill University campus have so aroused the pity of the undergraduates on these cold days that some kindly student sneaked up in the dark and painted some blue undergarments on them. Feeling that this wasn't enough, a suit of warm, red, flannel underwear was tenderly painted on by another group of undergraduates.

Listen to a student from Oxford describe his examinations: "First we all light our pipes and sit around a while discussing the subject. Then we start to write and if we get stuck, we can always ask our neighbor. That is all expected. You can't write a paper unless you know the subject." You've jolly well hit the nail on the head, old top. You can't write a paper unless you know the subject!

Communications

Mr. Editor:

Students using the Recreation Hall during the past several weeks have probably noticed that the great sport of ping-pong has been dropped from the athletic program, not because of the resignation of Coach Holstrom, but on account of the loss of a dilapidated three-year-old ping-pong net. Although appeals have been made to the administration for new material, the "bill" has not yet been passed by the Board of Directors so we (believers of pingpongocracy) are referring our complaints over to the voice of the Student Body.

Signed,

—Ping Ponger.

LONELY BRAVERY

We are mystified in the midst of loneliness. This apparently eternal hunger of the heart is something that has baffled the wisest and bravest.

Christ, Himself, went up into the mountain silences to pray. Washington withdrew from his closest helpers and sought solitude that he might meditate and pray. Lincoln did the same. And, if we knew all about the secret lives of the greatest and most useful on the earth, we would learn that they, too, were lonely and often crept into the out of way that they might grow into a courage which they seemed to lack.

We can never hope to be honestly understood by anyone—not even by our closest friends or most beloved. Alone we are formed in substance, and alone we pass from all that we have met and known. Our deepest and most serious problems must be worked out by ourselves—alone. Only our greatest joys and sorrows are really understood by us alone. Alone we creep. We run—we climb. Even in the midst of a great crowd we remain alone within ourselves.

No two persons have ever seen anything in the same light. We are all unique, as Emerson once wrote. So it is, that while we are lonely at times, those closest to us are only able to assuage this hunger of the heart to a very small degree. We can give of our sympathy, our tenderness and our inner warmth, but this loneliness of ours is something so directly personal, something so inherently our own as individuals, that our only defense in the face of it is to be more brave.

Probably more than half the love that is in the world is kept in jail—behind bars in people's hearts. You ask why it doesn't "break jail"? Well, if it only would, then this problem of loneliness would be undoubtedly solved.

The trouble lies in the fact that few if any of us, know the secret combination of our hearts. In the nests of beauty alone may we smile, brave fingers from out of the mist touching our own, leading us through the nights of loneliness into the light where work must be done, that no day of service may be lost.

—Herbert C. Frankfort, '33.

Margarete Olden To Render "Liederabend"

fraternal and non-fraternal organizations.

T. K. N. Three Times Winner

In 1925-26 the Phi Epsilon fraternity, now the Theta Kappa Nu, romped off with the loving cup. The season of 1926-27 saw the Delta Theta group annexing first honors, the first winning team repeated in 1927-28, only to be nosed out in the following year by the Phi Kappa Tau's. The following three years saw the Theta Kappa Nu bowl over all opposition to retain their high average of wins in the intra-mural clashes.

The sports program opens with basketball and then follow volley ball, playground ball, and tennis. In the late spring the curtain is rung down by a gala display of track talent, "has beens," "might have beens," and "probably will beens." The least we can say is that the track is one of the most thrilling and closely contested events on the whole intra-mural program.

Constant fluctuations in the team standings serve to keep interest at a high pitch throughout the entire season. A keen competitive spirit makes up for the lack of skill when the style of play becomes somewhat mediocre.

Although the officiating at these games is in charge of Mr. Ritter, he, nevertheless, has allowed several former varsity basketball stars to referee in order to gain experience along this line. "Bill", as he is known to the students, may be seen at all times either working the games in conjunction with the new men or supervising the play from the sidelines.

The "Weekly" will publish a summary of the various contests held each week and the positions of the teams in the league.

The following is the point system used to pick the winners:

Heist Debates At Kiwanis Meeting

Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33, captain of the Muhlenberg College varsity debating team, upheld the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that all war debts should be cancelled," against Joseph Yosko, of the Moravian College debating team, who took the negative position. This interesting and spirited non-decision debate was presented before the Allentown Kiwanis Club, on Thursday, March 2, at noon, at their meeting in the Hotel Americus.

Two young pastors, both residents of Allentown and students at Muhlenberg, are attracting much attention because of the novel pulpit methods used by them in presenting their sermons.

Rev. Homer Falstick, a member of the freshman class and pastor of the Cross Roads United Brethren Church, and Rev. Henry Minnich, pastor of the Jordan Mission and member of the sophomore class, employ chalk-talk lectures to illustrate their sermons. Both began this method mainly as an attraction for the children, but soon found that it was also applicable to adult audiences.

Rev. Falstick draws large audiences to his church, who travel miles to see him sketch pictures while the congregation sings hymns.

Rev. Minnich is well known as a designer and sketcher, and was recently appointed Art Editor of the 1935 Ciarla.

Merry-Go-Round

Don, enterprising and active A. T. O. hound, has come into his own. After years of dashing into class rooms and acting like a student (sleeping), but receiving no credit, the Collie was given effusive praise and worthy recommendation last week by none other than the President of Muhlenberg College who remarked that Don "looks more intelligent than some of the students (who incidentally were sophomores)". To further add to the rout of the class of 1935, the Doctor remarked that the students should be more open-minded, whereupon the venerable Professor Simpson put the Mumbo Jumbo hoodoo on the motley crowd by insisting that they were open minded—in fact open at both ends, in one ear and out the other.

The main trouble with American colleges is that the professors don't recognize ability and the students don't possess it. And what is more—the more we go to the college the more we go to college.

The College World

Organ music of a classical and semi-classical nature is going to replace chapel services at the University of Southern California. It was also announced that jazz will be played if there is sufficient demand for it.

A sophomore critic at Rutgers complains of the frivolous upper-class attitude during chapel services on Sundays. The following articles were said to be in evidence: Five funny papers, two nearly complete sports sections, one crossword puzzle, one copy of the "Trial and Death of Socrates" and one other text book.

At Kentucky University the funny papers are filed in the library, and great is the demand for them.

Students at Bennington College for Women are allowed a two months' winter recess so that they can have time for research work.

The faculty of Wesleyan University recently issued a challenge to the Seniors to engage in an athlete contest. Desiring to "show their worth as athletes," the faculty members offered to meet the students in such contests as basketball, squash, handball, volley-ball and bridge.

Four Basketball Stars Will Be Lost By Graduation; New Men May Develop

Muhlenberg Wins Nine Of Twenty Games After Early Season Slump, Finishes Fourth In League

When the curtain fell on the 1932-1933 basketball season at Muhlenberg College, on March 4 with the auspicious victory of the Cardinal and Gray-clad cagemen over the conference champions from Gettysburg, it read finis to the collegiate basketball careers of several individuals. As the gun barked, terminating the season, George R. Holstrom shook hands with his proteges and bade adieu to the basketballers of Muhlenberg, as his resignation, to become effective in June, has already been accepted—so the popular coach for the last time had steered the forces of Muhlenberg to victory on the basketball court.

In addition, the "Mules" for the last time exhibited the sensational performances of the two "Bills"—Nixon and Horine. They have been mainstays on the 'Berg quintet for the past three seasons. Other men who saw action in a Cardinal and Gray basketball uniform for the last time were "Big Joe" Matuska and "Eddie" Judt, both of whom were invaluable cogs in the basketball machine during their collegiate careers.

A record of nine victories over against eleven defeats does not give a true account of the recent court season. After a very slow start the Holstromites developed into the smoothest-working quintet seen in the Queen City of the Lehigh Valley for several seasons. The captain of the championship Gettysburg outfit, after seeing his team subdued by 'Berg, remarked that Muhlenberg was one of the best teams in the league. "They simply out-passed us," he said. And that is the impression of all of the basketball critics who have followed the Cardinal and Gray court-men this season. Out of their last ten games Muhlenberg emerged victorious in seven. Had the 'Bergmen only hit this stride earlier in the season, the championship flag may have been flying on the local campus instead of adorning the Gettysburg battlefield.

During the season the Holstromites turned in victories over Lafayette, Lehigh, Gettysburg, Albright, Ursinus, Lebanon Valley, Moravian, and Drexel (twice). Numbered among the teams that conquered Muhlenberg this season are St. Thomas, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, Franklin and Marshall (twice), Gettysburg, Villanova, Ursinus, Rutgers, Lehigh, Albright, and Lebanon Valley. Only the last three mentioned quintets were able to defeat the "Mules" after they had struck their stride around February 8.

Prospects appear very brilliant for next season as several sophomores have developed into finished passers.

They are Gene Lepore, "Joe" Rodgers, "Rog" Rohn and George Saul. These four men in addition to the three experienced juniors—"Lou" Sterner, "Reds" Weiner and Leon Rosenberg, should develop into a strong aggregation for next season. There will also be on hand "Bob" Heimbach, a second-stringer during the season just concluded and also several stars from this year's Freshman team, the most outstanding one being "Bill" Saalfeld from Ramsey, N. J.

Gettysburg College earned its second consecutive championship in the Eastern Pennsylvania intercollegiate basketball conference by virtue of its victory over Franklin and Marshall last Wednesday evening, at Lancaster, by a 36 to 30 score.

The Eastern Pennsylvania intercollegiate basketball conference finished the 1933 season with the following standing:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Gettysburg	10	2	.833
Franklin & Marshall	8	4	.666
Albright	7	4	.636
Muhlenberg	6	6	.500
Ursinus	6	6	.500
Lebanon Valley	4	8	.333
Drexel	0	11	.000

Tobaccos play in making
Chesterfields Taste Better*

SMOKERS notice a certain "touch" in Chesterfields that comes from having just enough Turkish tobacco in them . . . a spicy, aromatic flavor that's much the same to a cigarette as seasoning is to food.

For only by blending and cross-blending the right amounts of mild Domestic tobaccos with the right amount of Turkish can we get the flavor and aroma that Chesterfield smokers enjoy.

Intra-Mural Summaries

The 1933 Intra-Mural competition began last Monday, March 6. Two basketball games were held daily during the past week—one in the afternoon and one in the evening—in the Allentown Preparatory School gymnasium. The results of the contests staged last week are as follows:

The Grays, a quintet composed of non-fraternity men, eked out a thrilling 17 to 16 victory over the Non-Fraternity entry on Monday afternoon, March 6. "Freddie" Blank starred for the victors, making seven points, while Jules Selden was high-scorer for the Non-Fraternity five, with five points to his credit.

Theta Kappa Nu, Intra-Mural champions of last year, completely trounced the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity by a 49 to 10 count, on Monday evening, March 6. The Saalfeld brothers—Otto, '33 and "Bill," '36—were the big guns for the winners, scoring ten points apiece. "Woody" Kistler did most of the T. U. O. scoring, garnering seven points.

Alpha Tau Omega defeated the Cardinals, another non-fraternity aggregation, on Tuesday afternoon, March 7, by a 26 to 15 score. "Bill" Wilkinson was the mainstay of the A. T. O. quintet, caging fourteen points. "Joe" Zamites, Wilkes-Barre flash, led the Cardinal scorers with seven points.

The Philos club overcame the Delta Theta fraternity on Tuesday evening, March 7, by the count of 21 to 19. "Sheriff" Altemose topped the Philos scorers with six points while "Nev" Singer was the high-scorer for the Delts with eight points.

Theta Upsilon Omega was defeated by the Non-Fraternity quintet, for its second defeat of the season, by a 41 to 15 score in a game played last Wednesday afternoon. Jules Selden again was the leading scorer for the Non-Frats with twenty points to his credit. "Woody" Kistler accounted for over half of the T. U. O. score with eight points.

The Phi Kappa Tau fratmen subdued the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, last Wednesday evening, by a 21 to 12 decision. "Jack" Doolin led the P. K. T. passers with seven points, while "Irv" Shipkin was high-scorer for the Phi Eps with four points.

The Grays copped their second victory of the season, last Thursday afternoon, when they triumphed over the Delta Theta fraternity by a 19 to 16 count. "Rudy" Novak was the big gun for the Grays with six points. Horace Heist scored exactly half of the Delts points.

Alpha Tau Omega won a very important game last Thursday evening, their second win of the season, when they overcame the champion Theta Kappa Nu outfit, by a 28 to 19 score. "Bill" Wilkinson again led the A. T. O. basketballers with eleven points but "Bill" Saalfeld copped the high scoring honors of the game with an even dozen points.

The two games scheduled for last Friday were postponed by order of "Bill" Ritter.

Holstrom Expresses Views on New Rules

team was cramped against one side of the field. However under the new ruling," continued the retiring Cardinal and Gray athletic director, "the quarter-back won't have to be as smart since he will not be compelled to maneuver his team in such a way as not to become squeezed against a side-line. It won't put any premium on smart quarter-backs and will eliminate the necessity for the coach to train the field leader in the various ways to maneuver his team to prevent it from becoming cramped against a side line. It will, in addition, lessen tackling out of bounds. Furthermore, this new ruling will give the offensive team, that has started to march down the field, an advantage over the defensive team."

Clipping Penalty Reduced

The rule against clipping was amplified to make it illegal for a player to run into the back of an opponent not carrying the ball. This adds to the previous rule against throwing or dropping the body across the back of the leg or legs of the opponent below the knees. At the same time, it was decided to reduce the penalty for clipping from 25 to 15 yards.

Concerning this change, Coach Holstrom stated, "If the reduction in the yardage of this penalty will help the the officials to call violations, I'm heartily in favor of the rule. A man is subject to a severe injury by clipping and if this rule will encourage officials to call violations it will help football a great deal. Most leg injuries," went on Holstrom, "are due to clipping from the rear, and in most of these cases the injured player is out of the game for weeks."

Fifty alumni are expected to attend the annual alumni banquet at the Philos house, Saturday, April 1. Doctor Keller and Professor Fasig will speak at this "stag" dinner.

Phi Kappa Tau anticipates the return of a large number of alumni to Founders' Day Banquet, which will be held at the Americus Hotel, March 18. Attorney Roland Rupp will be chief speaker.

Phi Eta, the national mothers' sorority, held its initiation ceremony, March 10.

The new officers of Phi Kappa Tau are: President, Harry Underwood; Vice President, John Gosztanyi; Treasurer, Robert Mentzer; Recording Secretary, Gearhart Lehman; Corresponding Secretary, Asa Wohlson.

Delta Theta pledged Edwin Feinour, '34 and Lewis Varrichio, '35, both of Allentown. The pledges of Henry Wagner, Arthur Green, Alfred Geshel and John Kelleher were dropped. The Mothers' Auxiliary held at card party, Friday, March 10.

Initiation of pledges into Alpha Tau Omega will take place March 18, 9:00 o'clock.

As May and final exams draw nearer, young men's thoughts are straying toward ways of passing them. Here is a suggestion from sunny Spain. Fifty students at Val-lapin found a way to escape their exams by the simple process of locking their profs in a room until they promised to pass the whole class without examination.

A Harrisburg woman had her radio tuned in on a sermon and, not being much interested in the sermon, she tuned quickly to another station. The last words she heard the Reverend say were, "And the Lord was with Joseph," and the first words that came through from the other station were, "and he made a touchdown."

DANCING ON GLASS

ILLUSION:

In India, the fakirs present a spectacle to tourists. Two lovely performers break bottles and lamp chimneys before the eyes of the audience, and throw the jagged pieces into a box already filled with broken glass. They step barefooted into the box and do an Oriental dance in the glass without injury.

EXPLANATION:

The performers toughen their feet in a strong solution of alum water and thoroughly rub them with pulverized resin before they appear. They throw the freshly broken glass around the edges of the platform. The glass on which they actually do dance is very thick, heavy, and filed or ground so that the sharp edges are rounded off. The girls just pretend to dance on the sharp glass.

It's FUN TO BE FOOLED

...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

One of the tricks of cigarette advertising is to pretend that "Heat Treatment" is an exclusive process, making one cigarette better than any other.

EXPLANATION: All cigarette manufacturers use heat treatment. It is a routine process of manufacture. The first Camel cigarette ever made was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of Camels produced since has received the necessary heat treatment.

Harsh, raw tobaccos require intensive processing under high temperatures. The more expensive tobaccos, which are naturally mild, call for only a moderate application of heat. Heat treatment never can make cheap, inferior tobacco good.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is the most important statement ever made in a cigarette advertisement. Weigh its words. Consider what it means. Then try Camels.

Camels are fresh... in the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack.

Muhlenberg Men Will Assert Netherland's Views At Convention

Twenty-eight Colleges Assigned Representatives To Discuss World Problems At Lehigh

Muhlenberg College, collegiate representative for the Netherlands in the Middle Atlantic division of the Model Assembly of the League of Nations, meeting at Lehigh University, April 6, 7, and 8, will send as delegates Charles H. Preston, H. Edward Krooss, Richard F. Garnet and Merwin Shelly. This has been made possible by the efforts of Drs. Henry R. Mueller and James Edgar Swain.

Questions Suggested

The questions that have been suggested for discussion by the assembly are:

"What can be done to alleviate the Manchurian crisis?"

"How can the manufacture and trade of arms and munitions be controlled?"

"What is the solution of the problem of world unemployment?"

James E. Anderson, president of the International Relations Club at Lehigh gives the following procedure which will be adopted for solution of the problems:

The assembly, composed of collegiate representatives of the nations participating in the League of Nations, will meet for the first time on Friday morning, April 6, when a president will be elected.

The whole body will be divided into three committees each taking one of the three questions for solution. At the same meeting four nations will discuss general problems of world importance, assigned before the meeting. This procedure is an innovation and has no direct bearing on the problems of the meeting. This will complete the business of the first meeting.

Will Seek Solutions

During Friday afternoon the three committees, each including one or two representatives of the nations assembled, will discuss the problem assigned to them. This discussion will continue until Friday evening and Saturday morning. By the conclusion of the second committee meeting on Saturday morning, the three groups, acting separately, will have arrived at some constructive solution to the problems. These solutions will be presented to the assembly for vote whether or not to be advocated. This ballot will conclude the formal business of the assembly.

The twenty-eight colleges assigned representatives are as follows:

Albright—Jugoslavia
Barnard—Poland
Cedar Crest—Cuba
Columbia—Australia
Cornell—India
Elmira—Irish Free State
Gettysburg—Argentine Republic
Haverford—Spain
Johns Hopkins—China

Alpha Kappa Alpha Plans Joint Banquet

The Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha met at the home of Rev. Russell Stine, 2116 Allen Street, Wednesday evening, March 15. The possibility of having a joint banquet with the chapters at Cedar Crest and Moravian College was discussed. A report of the joint meeting of the Muhlenberg, Moravian and Cedar Crest chapters held at Cedar Crest on Friday evening, March 10th was given by the secretary.

After the business meeting, Dr. Isaac M. Wright discussed the philosophy of William Tarry Harris, who was the United States Commissioner of Education at Washington from 1902-1908. A lively discussion followed the presentation of the topic. After delightful refreshments were served the meeting was adjourned.

The following guests were in attendance: Ralph Keopert, Herman Krooss, Asa Wohlsen, Lewis Wilker and Roy Siegel.

Faith Declares God Is Universe Maker, Maintains Dr. Haas

Third Of Sermon Series On "Faith" Delivered In Chapel, Tuesday, By President

Dr. John A. W. Haas delivered the third in the series of sermons on "Faith" in the Egner-Hartzell Memorial Chapel on Tuesday, March 14.

He said: "When a Christian confesses, 'I believe in God, the Father Almighty,' the thought implies the relation of God to the universe.

When we relate God to the universe we are led to confess Him as the maker of Heaven and Earth. There are men who think that we can have a finite God, but such a God cannot be at all. Our God must be a God in relation to the universe. Faith asserts that He is the maker of the universe.

"What is a self-developed world? We can imagine beginning life with an atom which multiplies and finally develops into an order. Light, heat, and other outer forces develop. From a minute organism higher forms develop and finally man evolves. If this idea is accepted, then accident is the mother of order.

God Not Absentee Lord

This cannot be. To those who come without prejudice, faith in a Divine Creator is more reasonable than this. God is not an absentee Lord. The

Debate Team Suffers Loss To Gettysburg

Krapf and Yerger Present Negative Side On Cancellation Of World War Debts

Gettysburg College debate team defeated the Muhlenberg debate team by a unanimous decision in the old chapel Thursday, March 16 at 8 o'clock. The Oregon system of debating was used on the question "Resolved that all Intergovernmental War Debts, including Reparations, should be canceled." For Muhlenberg Russell L. Krapf, '35 advanced the negative side of the question, and John Yerger, '35, cross-examined the Gettysburg man. The affirmative was upheld by the Gettysburg debater, Howard Kline, and the cross-examination was made by Charles Wolfe. Russell L. Krapf concluded the negative case with a five-minute summation speech, and Howard Kline followed suit for the affirmative.

First Negative Defeat

This debate marks the first defeat for the negative team of Muhlenberg, having won unanimously from Lebanon Valley. It also marks the first attempt of the new men in the use of the Oregon system.

The judges of the debate were Dr. George Harman of Lehigh University, Prof. Allen Tallmadge of Cedar Crest, and Prof. Robert Neely of the Allentown Schools. Conrad Raker, manager of varsity debating, conducted the affair.

Baseball And Tennis Retained By Board; Undecided On Track

To Make Final Report On Track Prospects And New Grid Coach In April Meeting

A baseball schedule of eight games, and a complete tennis season were agreed upon by the Athletic Board at a meeting held Tuesday morning, March 21. The decision on track will be delayed until a meeting to be held on April 7. It is hoped that the Varsity coach for next season can be selected at that time.

Three games have been removed from the original baseball schedule, the one with Moravian as result of the dropping of this sport by the Bethlehem College, and the other two, the Penn A. C. games.

Retiring Coach Holstrom has been retained at his original salary scale to drill the baseball men. Prospects are excellent for a successful season this year, many of last year's squad are still on hand and "Horse" Heist, '35, is expected to put in a fine performance at the pitching position left open by the graduation of Vince Takacs.

Track will be retained if it is at all possible.

PLAY CONTEST

All students competing in the annual one-act play writing contest are reminded that the closing date for entries is April 1. Give your manuscripts to Mr. Coder before that time. He can be consulted for advice at any time.

Muhlenberg To Enter Oratorical Contest

Splendid Record Is Made By Brown-Coached Men In Past State Contests

Richard F. Garnet, '33, winner of the forty-first annual oratorical contest at Muhlenberg College, held last January 19, will represent his Alma Mater in the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical contest to be held next Saturday, March 25, at Geneva College. This state contest was originally scheduled to be held on March 4, at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa., but was later postponed until Saturday, March 25th, and the scene of the event shifted to Geneva College.

Mr. Garnet will speak on the subject "The Forgotten Covenant," which is a splendid discourse on international relations. Harry P. Dunlap, '33, local representative to the Intercollegiate Oratorical Union, and Gordon S. Feller, '33, local alternate will accompany Mr. Garnet to Geneva. Other colleges competing in the state contest are Gettysburg, Ursinus, Grove City, Allegheny, Waynesburg, Thiel, Albright, Franklin and Marshall, and Juniata.

'Berg Has Fine Record

Under the able direction of Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the English department, Muhlenberg has won first place in the state oratorical contest twelve times in the past twenty-one years, gaining the highest honors for the last five consecutive years. State Senator Henry L. Snyder, '15, was victorious in the 1915 state contest. In 1928 Henry V. Scheirer, '28, came out first in the state competition. The following year Stanley V. Printz, '30, was victorious in the state contest. In 1930 Donald V. Hock, '32, won first honors in Pennsylvania. In that year Mr. Hock was also awarded second place at the all-Eastern competition held at Ypsilanti, Michigan. In 1931 Donald B. Mancke, '32, who had just transferred from Moravian, won the contest held at Muhlenberg. Mr. Mancke placed third in the all-Eastern contest held at Danville, Kentucky. Last year Kenneth H. Koch, '32, was victorious in the state contest and represented Pennsylvania in the all-Eastern contest held in West Virginia.

Colorful Glances Into Hindu Life Interest Assembly

British Government Praised For India's Progress By Rev. W. T. Benze, '22, Thursday

Many colorful and interesting glances into "Hindu Life and Thought" were furnished for assembly-goers in an instructive talk delivered in the Science Auditorium last Thursday morning, March 16, by the Rev. W. T. Benze, a graduate of Muhlenberg with the class of 1922 and now serving as a Missionary at Yeleshwaran, East Godavari District, Madras Presidency, India.

The speaker based his opening remarks on the geography of the land in which he has spent the past few years. India, he said, is a continent within a continent. It is surrounded on all sides by barriers. The east coast is very humid and in the southern part farming is prevalent. The central part is arid while the northern section is the manufacturing section. The majority of the large cities are located in these regions.

India Still Feudal

India has a population of three hundred million and yet all the people are crowded into an area about two-thirds the size of the United States. Wages are low in spite of the inroad of western ways and the greater part of Indian life is still on the feudal basis. Many classes are prevalent.

Rev. Benze praised the British government highly for its part in India's advancement. "They have built good roads, he said, and established telegraphs, posts, and education facilities."

Male Quartet To Present Negro Spiritual Program

Negro Students Of Bethune- Cookman College, Florida, Have Become Famous

Another of the fine musical treats which have characterized the Assembly programs this year is promised for this Thursday morning, March 23, when the famous male quartet from Bethune-Cookman college located at Daytona Beach, Florida, will present a program of negro spirituals in the Science Auditorium. These Floridians are coming to Muhlenberg after having completed successful engagements in many large musical centers including Symphony Hall, Boston, Carnegie Hall, New York and the Atlantic City Auditorium.

Singers Are Students

This quartet is composed entirely of students who were brought North by Clyde Armitage of Philadelphia in order that through their musical ability they might help keep fellow negro boys and girls from being forced out of school because of lack of funds. Although all the members are students they have a remarkable maturity of voice and a perfect blend of quality. They continue their scholastic studies as they travel and have always maintained good grades.

The school from which they hail, Bethune-Cookman College, is the only church school of college grade in Florida except a Florida state school and is recognized as conforming to all standards. It was formed by the combination of a Jacksonville college founded by a former Philadelphian, Rev. Dr. Alfred Cookman and the Bethune college started in 1904 by Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune.

Alumnus Gains Ph. D.

Claude Deischer, '26, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, on Saturday, February 18, at the mid-year convocation of the University of Pennsylvania. The title of his thesis was, "The Ratio of Mercury to Chlorine in Mercuric Chloride." Upon receiving his B.S. degree from 'Berg in 1926, Mr. Deischer entered U. of P., where he attained his M.S. degree in Chemistry.

Phi Kappa Tau Wins Pan-Hellenic Cup

Scholarship Cup Awarded Second Time To This Group; T. U. O. Is Close Second

The Fraternity Cup, awarded twice each year by the Pan-Hellenic Council, to that fraternity which has attained the highest average in scholarship during the preceding semester, was presented to Phi Kappa Tau by Dr. Robert C. Horn at the Thursday Assembly Period, March 16. Woodrow Savacool, representing the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, accepted the cup.

Dr. Horn in his presentation speech stated his regrets that this presentation followed so closely upon the last one. Previously it was not possible to prepare the averages in time, whereas this semester they were available in a few weeks following mid-years. He expressed a hope that this would set a precedent for future presentations. Last year the cup was held by T. U. O.

Second Win For P. K. T.

This is the second time since the practice has begun that Phi Kappa Tau has become custodian of the cup. Theta Upsilon Omega has received it four times and the Phi Epsilon Pi once. The group that is awarded the cup six times gains permanent possession of it.

The ranking follows:

Harold Bowman, '31, Wins Art Scholarship

Harold A. Bowman, '31, son of professor Charles B. Bowman, has been awarded a year's scholarship at the New York School of Applied Arts and has been made a member of the teaching staff of this school in recognition of his exceptional work.

Only two students out of a total of over two hundred were given this distinction which was conferred as the result of the vote of the entire faculty. The scholarship is one of the most highly rated honors in the school and is eagerly sought after by the students gathered from all over the world.

Harold Bowman was editor-in-chief of the 1931 Ciarla and has done the art work for each of the college year-books for the past five years. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and was president of this group during his senior year. He was also a member of the student council, vice-president of the student body, and a member of Omicron Delta Kappa.

Muhlenberg Players Win Little Theatre Tournament Third Year In Succession

"Mask and Dagger" won the finals in the third annual Civic Little Theatre one-act play contest last Saturday night with the Eugene O'Neill production, "Moon of the Caribbees," directed by Mr. William Coder of the English department. This victory marked the end of a three year grind in which Muhlenberg was successful each year. By virtue of its third successive victory, "Mask and Dagger" now has permanent possession of the impressive trophy awarded by the contest committee.

Keen Competition

Infinite attention to detail, and a willingness of all to give their best were the factors responsible for the triumph. The contest this year was made more interesting because of the keen competition brought about by the entry of so many new and capable dramatic organizations. The excitement was at fever heat Friday night after the presentation of "Jezebel" and "Moon of the Caribbees." The applause was breath-taking after each performance. When the judges appeared to announce their decision, a hush fell upon the audience. After the rules had been read and the decision given, the Little Theatre fairly shook with the vibrations caused by the acclaim of the crowd. As Mr. Coder strode down the aisle to accept the certificate many of the audience stood up and applauded the director, with all the enthusiasm of football spectators.

Speculation ran high as the final episode of the contest was about to open on Saturday night. The audience sat on the edges of their seats during each of the performances. When the decision was announced the applause that greeted Mr. Coder as he accepted the cup far surpassed anything in the history of the Civic Little Theatre. He could simply express his thanks by a word before his throat became choked with emotion.

Overcame Difficulties

Mr. Coder deserves a lot of credit for this production. Many people were heard to say that it was the finest thing he had ever produced. Not only was "Moon of the Caribbees" the best play that he has ever produced, but is a play in which he had to work the hardest. From the very beginning he was faced by difficulties. First it was opposition within the "Mask and Dagger," then the ruling of the contest management which was announced in the Weekly last issue, and finally the non-appearance of one of the members of the chorus. Despite the odds that were against him, he went on with the production as wholeheartedly as though nothing were amiss. The result of his efforts was, as it has been said, a victory.

First Eugenics Talk Proves Huge Success

The first of a series of lectures on sex education and eugenics was delivered by Dr. John V. Shankweiler before an assembly of ninety-five students, in the Biology lecture room, Monday evening, March 13.

By making use of slides, charts, and microscopic projections, Dr. Shankweiler stressed the value and importance of proper sex education. He explained that elementary life propagated by subdivision of cells, amphibious returned to the water to spawn, and that eventually mammals developed to a stage when this procedure was no longer necessary and the young could be raised on land. It is from this background that man and his sex life evolved. Dr. Shankweiler further discussed the pollenization of flowers.

This topic will be continued on Monday evening, March 20. Dr. Shankweiler will deal with the differences and peculiarities of the sexes.

An Earned Victory

MUHLENBERG'S third successive victory in the Civic Little Theatre Contest is gratifying in more ways than one, since it not only gives "Mask and Dagger" permanent possession of the cup, but vindicates the policy of the production's director, Mr. Coder. The former is a distinct honor to the group, and the latter is both a personal triumph of the director and a tribute to the mass of the college students.

Ever since entering the competition Mr. Coder has taken the authority of choosing the play to be presented and the students who are to participate. The choice of a play is one of the main points in deciding chances for a victory in a contest of this type, and that it has been done wisely is conclusively proved. That selecting actors and stage hands from the rank and file of the students, rather than limiting the choice to a particular group, is the wiser plan was evident to all who saw "Moon of the Caribbees" last week.

Combine a well selected play, a group of actors and backstage men who are willing and anxious to co-operate, a director who has full power to direct and knows how to do it, and it is easily understood why Muhlenberg again won the honors. The victory wasn't won by the stellar performance of one man, it was the result of splendid team work and spirit. This was evident to all who attended, and many comments were made on this point.

Student Body elections are approaching rapidly. What is being done to prevent a repetition of the sophomore class debacle?

Spring and Mud

SPRING, besides bringing robins and romance, also carries with it rain and warmer weather. And that is what is endangering the beauty of the back-campus. Students walking across the soft ground, others practicing for baseball, are coming pretty close to eliminating the grass and substituting a mud lot in its place.

It doesn't on the surface seem to require an extraordinary sacrifice to walk on the road. Nor does it seem a tremendous hardship to either delay baseball practice or move it to the place allotted for it. It rather appears to be mere carelessness and a tendency to keep it up until someone raises the devil about it.

There used to be a ruling regarding the use of the back-campus during this season and someone backed it up. What is the cause of the present neglect? All that seems necessary to us is to call attention to the condition. We believe the offending students will willingly obey when the results of their carelessness are made apparent to them.

ties throughout the land." The spread of western culture has done a lot to draw away students from their old life and the caste system is being leveled appreciably. There is, however, one mistake being made. There are a lot more college men in India than can be utilized and the remainder only serve to stir up more political and social unrest.

Non-Violence Fails

The political situation is very complicated. The only question in the Indian minds is whether to break away from British rule or to stay on under it. A lot of terrorism is going on at present including indiscriminate boycotts. Guerilla warfare has been going on for some time and it must soon be stopped. Mr. Ghandi's campaign has resulted in something entirely different from what he intended. Instead of non-violence we have the contrary going on with much shedding of blood. His is an impractical dream.

It is time for India to start setting her house in order, concluded the speaker, and stop flitting around with many various and antagonistic political principles. The Indian people are making a serious bid for American friendship and we can help them immensely not only by spreading the gospel, but also by helping in other ways—in medicine, in teaching, and in the various commercial undertakings.

universe is too full of pulsing life for that.

"Our lives are somehow considered by God. Life derives its meaning from God as our Father and Creator. Luther said, 'God has given me my senses.' If we are merely a part of the order of mammals the meaning of our life is lost. We are not merely another part of the universe, but have a very special place as the children of God. Stage Whispers

By Robert W. S. Stinson

Believe it or not, we have a mystery lady in our midst. Yes sir, a real honest to goodness lady of mystery. She has been seen in the vicinity of the Library quite often of late and it is rumored that this fair maiden is the proud possessor of the leading role in "Like Falling Leaves"—"Mask and Dagger's" latest venture. To create a little enthusiasm on the part of the student body "Mask and Dagger" is offering one free ticket to the student who turns in to the Weekly Office the best description of this young lady. This description must be taken from the picture that appears at the top of this column, and must contain what you think is the color of her eyes and hair. The manuscript must be written on one side of the paper only and must be confined to fifty words. Oh yes, the mystery lady's name must appear at the top of the page. This offer is not extended to any member of "Mask and Dagger." All manuscripts must be handed in to the Weekly Office not later than 4:00 P. M. tomorrow afternoon (Friday).

By the way, did you know that "Mask and Dagger" has sent a troupe out on the road? Haps Benfer took it out for the first time two weeks ago and reports favorably on its performance. The members of the troupe are assisting him in his annual advertising campaign.

It seems as though "Mask and Dagger" is doomed to a life of unpopularity as far as a certain member of the faculty is concerned. There was a grand blow-up the other day when it was found that "Like Falling Leaves" was to be produced just a few days before one of the other campus organization's activities was scheduled. Poor old "Mask and Dagger" was accused of a breach of etiquette because it was thought that the date for "Like Falling Leaves" had been chosen as a deliberate attempt to buck the other play. We are told that "Mask and Dagger" was entirely innocent since they had formally registered the date of their production in the Dean's office and the other organization had not. Since this was the case, "Mask and Dagger" had no way of knowing of the other activity. To avoid all hard feelings the new date for "Mask and Dagger's" production was set for May 3. Here's hoping that both ventures will be a success.

The cast of "Like Falling Leaves" has been taking a course in Psychology for the past few weeks. Did you ever know that this branch of science has a great deal to do with the success of a theatrical production? Neither did we until a few nights ago when its importance was pointed out. It seems that by the Psychological Method the individual is permitted to interpret his part in the manner which he sees fit. There is no guidance (as far as character interpretation is concerned) given until the rehearsals have been in progress for a number of weeks. At the end of that time, if any coaching is needed it is applied by making the character as realistic as possible in the mind of the person who is taking the part. By a careful survey and discussion of the play before rehearsals have begun the desired effect is achieved. There is much more to say about the Psychological Method, but time does not permit any further explanation. Taken all in all it looks as though "Like Falling Leaves" will be unique in more ways than one. The fact that this method of training has never before been used at Muhlenberg causes the play to take on a new aspect.

Kappa Phi Kappa Has A Business Meeting

Kappa Phi Kappa, professional educational fraternity, held a short business meeting on Thursday evening, March 16.

Dr. Boyer, faculty advisor of the fraternity announced that H. V. Kaltenborn, WABC news commentator, who was scheduled to speak on April seventh, would not do so at that time because of conflict caused by various campus activities. He announced further that efforts were being made to have Mr. Kaltenborn speak in the early part of the next school year.

A student came to Wetherford College in Texas with a herd of cows, pastured them behind the dormitory, and is meeting expenses by selling the milk to his fellow students.

Decadent Youth

The other night—Sunday, to be exact, we waited at Sixth and Hamilton streets for a trolley car. Don't jump to conclusions, the word "we" is just being used in a modest sense. After a long vigil we were finally rewarded by the sight of a trolley which was so crowded that we thought the light were out in the shambang. As it stopped, we saw familiar face after face disembark—countless freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. Our first thought was that perhaps the school had burned and the fellows were going to spend the night at the Americus. With our face closely pressed against the window we followed the parade of the 'Bergians—Lo and behold they stopped before the Colonial. And then we remembered—The Marcus Shows were in town and giving a special midnight performance. So home we went—our head bent in prayer for those misguided souls. All thru the night the Frank domicile smelled of the odor of joss sticks as we mourned our lost friends. O Absalom, My Absalom.

Hot Cha

This is the tale of a Muhlenberg student and his trunk. A certain P. K. T. sophomore wearying of the company of his fraters, betook himself to spend the evening at the Gordon Fister (Cedar Crest to you) College. It being a nice evening, our subject decided to walk. Upon his arrival at the college, Beemer saw a gigantic object on the dormitory steps, which as you probably have already guessed was his trunk which his obliging fraternity brothers and pledges had placed there.

Days passed—but the trunk still remained at Crest. At last the authorities called up the 'Berg office and asked if they were going to do right by the trunk.

So our story ends—Beemer has the trunk, or should we say the trunk has Beemer?

(Before some student takes it upon himself to write concerning my brazen audacity in selecting Cedar Crest as the background of my article, let me assure you this is the last time. So save your breath.)

believe that we are simply a part of the universe. Much of the tommyrot written to this effect in magazines and books of today is an insult to human intelligence. Nature and the universe definitely mean the presence of a Creator. Our destiny is limited neither by time nor space. If we are simply parts in the universe, our only ultimate destiny is pushing up daisies. That conception is rotten. Today we need not only outlook, but also up-look.

Intramural Summaries

The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and the Grays, a non-fraternity aggregation, continued to show the way in the Intramural basketball competition with perfect records of four games won without any reverses. The Phi Kappa Tau fraternity furnished a surprise last week when it stubbornly fought the A. T. O. quintet and almost ruined the latters' perfect record. The close scores are evidences of the closeness of the competition this year. "Bill" Wilkinson, flashy A. T. O. forward, is the outstanding scorer of the Intra-murals, garnering an average of well over a dozen points per game.

The standing of the teams including the games of Friday, March 17 is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pts.
3. Alpha Tau Omega	4	0	40
9. Grays	4	0	40
1. Theta Kappa Nu	3	1	35
4. Delta Theta	2	2	30
2. Non-Fraternity	1	3	25
5. Phi Kappa Tau	1	2	20
6. Phi Epsilon Pi	1	2	20
7. Philos	1	2	20
8. Cardinals	1	2	20
10. Theta Ups. Omega	0	4	20

The results of last week's competition is as follows:

Monday, March 13—4:30

Alpha Tau Omega decisively defeated Theta Upsilon Omega under a 40 to 17 score.

Monday, March 13—6:30

Delta Theta pulled the unexpected and beat the Non-Fraternity quintet by a 26 to 15 count, almost two to one.

Tuesday, March 14—4:30

Theta Kappa Nu found little trouble in conquering the Phi Kappa Tau aggregation, 25 to 14.

Tuesday, March 14—6:30

The Grays defeated the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity by a 29 to 23 score, in a closely contested game.

Wednesday, March 15—4:30

The Cardinals eked out an interesting 23 to 20 victory from the Philos Club.

Wednesday, March 15—6:30

Delta Theta ran away with a 43 to 9 victory from the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity for the most decisive victory of the season.

Thursday, March 16—4:30

Alpha Tau Omega just about defeated the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity by a 22 to 19 score. The good showing of the P. K. T. passers was one of the season's surprises.

Thursday, March 16—6:30

The Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity won an exciting game from the Non-Fraternity basketeers by a 25 to 24 score.

Friday, March 17—4:30

The Grays conquered the Cardinals by a 20 to 15 score in a hard fought contest.

Friday, March 17—6:30

Theta Kappa Nu beat out the Philos Club by a 19 to 13 score.

The off-stage chorus was composed of Gabriel Lucas, Leonard Hodgkinson, Carl Fisher and Merwyn Shelly.

Messrs. Keenly, '31, and Clement substituted on Saturday.

The stage hands who did an excellent piece of work and who are just as much responsible for the production's success as the cast is are as follows: John Graham, supervisor of lighting and effects; Luther Wenner, staging; Joe Friedman, properties, Morris Gearhart, Max Levine, Whitteker and Sechler.

It was the general opinion among the audience that the cast of "Moon of the Caribbees" gave as good a performance as the best of professional organizations could have given, and that Muhlenberg is indeed fortunate in possessing such talent as was displayed last Saturday night.

The dean at the University of Washington says that one of the reasons that is often given by men for having flunked a course is that they were in love. Some time ago a student suffered from this strange malady, but applied for readmission later. He answered the question on the petition, "Has the cause of failure been removed?" by saying "Yes, I married her." "Well, that is one way of doing it!"

Pan-Hellenic Council Sets Date For Ball

The Inter-fraternity Council of Muhlenberg held a short informative meeting on Thursday evening, March 16, at the Phi Epsilon Pi house.

It was decided that the annual Inter-fraternity ball would be held on Friday evening, April 21. John Bianca, Delta Theta was chosen chairman of the dance committee. The committee for the dance will be appointed by Mr. Bianca.

The undergraduates decided that the lack of college spirit at the University of Denver is due to the absence of adequate traditions so now a committee is hard at work digging up several likely customs. They will be duly sworn in as bona fide traditions as soon as they are unearthed.

Dr. J. E. Wenner Gives Interesting Talk

Dr. J. E. Wenner, pathologist of the Allentown Hospital delivered an address based on his experiences as a member of the hospital staff before the members of the Pre-Medical Society on Wednesday evening, March 15th.

The speaker divided his topic into four major groups: Chemistry, Pathology, Bacteriology and Serology. Explaining the requirements of a first-class hospital, Dr. Wenner stressed the indispensability of a pathological laboratory in a hospital. In these laboratories post-mortem and similar examinations are made. It is in these laboratories, also, that diagnosis are conducted before major operations. A hospital is judged by medical authorities on the amount of post-mortem examinations that it handles, stated Dr. Wenner. Thus the Allentown hospital is in the first class, since its post-mortem examinations total from 20% to 60% of all cases. After the conclusion of the address, an open forum discussion took place.

The Pre-Medical men were further informed on medical subjects through a concise and informative book review presented by Robert Dilcher, one of their own men. The book discussed was "Men Against Death," by Paul O. Kruff, author of "Microbe Hunters."

SAWING A WOMAN IN HALF

ILLUSION:

A large packing case is exhibited on a raised platform. A young woman climbs into the box. Head, hands and feet protrude, and are held by spectators while the magician takes a crosscut saw and, with the help of an assistant, saws through the center of the box and apparently through the woman.

EXPLANATION:

There are many explanations for this illusion. One method of performing this illusion requires the presence of two girls in the box. One girl curls up in the left half of the box with her head and hands protruding, giving the effect you see illustrated above. The other girl is doubled up in the right half of the box, with only her feet showing. Nobody is sawed in half.

It's fun to be fooled —
...it's more fun to KNOW

Cigarette advertising, too, has its tricks. Consider the illusion that "Flavor" can be achieved by some kind of magical hocus-pocus in manufacturing.

EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring. The blending of various tobaccos. And the quality of the tobaccos themselves.

Quality is by far the most important. Domestic cigarette tobaccos vary in price from 5¢ a pound up to 40¢ a pound. Imported tobaccos vary from 50¢ a pound to $1.15.

No wonder, then, that cigarettes differ in taste—since distinctive, pleasing flavor depends so largely upon the blending of the costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Try Camels. Give your taste a chance to sense the subtle difference that lies in costlier tobaccos . . . a difference that means all the world in smoking pleasure . . . in pure, unalloyed satisfaction.

Weekly, '34 Ciarla, Store, Fraternities Must Pay Sales Tax

One Per Cent On Gross Revenue
From Sales Is Due To State
On Or Before April 1

All social fraternities, the 1934 Ciarla, the Muhlenberg Weekly, and the College store will be required to pay a one per cent sales tax on or before April 1 to the State Department of Revenue. This fact was discovered by a Weekly reporter in a consultation with Vaughn Haag, Allentown representative of the revenue department.

The tax, known as the Emergency Relief Sales Tax, is imposed on all retail sales with the exception of farmers' produce. It is an unemployment relief measure passed by the Pennsylvania legislature last Summer. It was in effect temporarily from Sept. 1, 1932 to Feb. 28, 1933.

News of the fact that college organizations are included in the levy was first discovered when the announcement given to the Lehigh Brown and White last week was read. No announcement has been received by the Weekly, and none has been seen in any other college publications.

Lehigh Appeals

The Allentown representative of the revenue department, on being consulted by telephone on Tuesday morning, confirmed the report. He added that officials of Lehigh University were making an appeal at Harrisburg, but until definite announcement to the contrary is received from the state capitol, the original statement is in force. Mr. Haag's statement in the Brown and White follows:

"Fraternities are included in the levy as restaurants and boarding houses. It is held that the fraternity sells food, a tangible article, to its members. (What decisions will be made relative to the Commons is not known.—Ed.) If fraternities can have their supply houses assume the assessment, they may be exempted.

"Business managers of student publications must report a one per cent amount of all subscriptions taken within the specified months. Student fees taken in by the publications are taxable.

"The returns will be placed in the

Two Bequeathments Received By College

Two thousand dollars was left to Muhlenberg, the income to be applied toward a scholarship, by the will of G. H. Kleppinger, Allentown merchant, who passed away on Sunday, March 12. The college will receive the full amount of the bequest since Mr. Kleppinger has directed that all the taxes, both federal and state be paid out of the estate. Other institutions receiving a like amount were Topton's Orphan Home, Good Shepherd Home, Y. W. C. A. and St. John's Lutheran Church.

Miss Constance Erdman, sister of a Muhlenberg alumnus, Max A. Erdman, '94, died recently in Allentown, leaving an estate amounting to $30,000 to the college after the payment of several small bequests. The estate, however, not to be paid to the college until after the death of her mother and a personal friend.

Member of Board of Trustees Succumbs

Former Congressman Henry J. Steele, of Easton, a member of the Board of Trustees of Muhlenberg College, died on Sunday morning, March 19. He was one of the oldest and most brilliant attorneys of the Northampton county bar and was a former president of the Pennsylvania State Bar association. He had many business interests in addition to his legal activities. He was first vice president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Easton; president of the Easton Publishing Company, publishers of the Easton Express; and a director of the Lehigh Valley Transit Co., and the Bell Telephone Co.

Annual Spring Band Concert On Thursday

A distinctive program of lively marches and overtures will be presented in the Science Auditorium this Thursday, March 30, during the regular Assembly, by the college band in their annual spring concert.

In addition to the regular program two characteristic numbers, one featuring the xylophone and the other the trombones, will also be given. The program in part includes:

On the Mall—March,
Edwin Franko Goldman
Noisy Bill—Trombone Characteristic,
F. H. Losey
20th Century Gallop—Xylophone
Solo Wm. R. Stobbe
Stars and Stripes Forever,
John Philip Sousa

The concert will be doubly interesting since it also marks the farewell appearance of "Steve" Fisher, the capable director of the band during the past two years. "Steve" has concentrated all his effort in trying to develop a band that Muhlenberg College can be proud of and although faced with repeated difficulties he has made large steps toward his goal. Not only the band but the entire school will miss him when he leaves us.

Negro Girls' Quartet Gains Fine Ovation

Bennett College Singers Thrill Audience With Old Southern Spirituals

A choice program of negro spirituals, rendered in close harmony by a quartet from Bennett College for Women (Negro), located at Greensboro, N. C., attracted a large crowd to the Science Auditorium last Thursday morning, March 23, for the Assembly program. Although the negro male quartet originally scheduled was unable to fulfill its engagement, no disappointment was voiced at the change.

The program of old Southern melodies as presented by the girls consisted of "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," "Will-o-the-Wisp," "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," "Joshua Fought the Battle of Jericho," "Wade in the Water," "Steal Away," and concluded with "Trembling." "Trees," always a favorite with musical audiences was also included in the program.

Monologues Add Variety

Variety was furnished for the program by a group of two monologues, "Red Roses," and "Trouble" given by Miss Maidie Ruth Gamble, first alto of the quartet. The other members of the group were Misses Jessie Lee Dickson, first soprano, Nannie Wright, second soprano; and Grace Coulbourne, second alto. Miss Carrie Robinson accompanied the group.

Preceding the recital David D. Jones, president of Bennett College and a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, Garnet Wins Second Place At Geneva, Pa.

Oratorical Contest Won By Allegheny Student

Richard C. Garnet, '33, won second place in the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical contest held at Geneva College last Saturday, March 25. First place was won by William Olson of Allegheny College.

The winning oration was entitled "The Merry-Go-Round has Stopped" and dealt with the changed social atmosphere brought about by the depression. Garnet spoke on "A Forgotten Covenant", a discussion of international relations and world peace. Robert Neely of Grove City spoke of "America's Twin Policies", Robert Smith of Gettysburg on "Europe's Disinherited Children," and Charles Mac Burney of Geneva College on "Training Peace."

Cedar Crest Girlies Permitted to Smoke

Dr. Curtis To Punish Men Who Taught Lady Collegians To Indulge In Cigarettes

When Muhlenberg, Lehigh and Lafayette men, together with the graduates of several other colleges, come to the end of a seemingly perfect life and anticipate a happy hereafter, they may find at the Pearly Gate the president of a neighboring college who will deny them the right to enter until full atonement has been made for their grievous sin of teaching his dear little girlies to smoke cigarettes.

That, at least, is the substance of a statement made Wednesday night as Dr. William F. Curtis and the Student Council of Cedar Crest, coincident with the signing of the beer bill, granted their charges the rights and privileges to either puff or inhale cigarettes to their hearts content.

Envied Men

For years, so it seems, Cedar Crest students have eagerly eyed their fellow collegians as those gentlemen brazenly puffed on the little white paper tubes and emitted the delightful aroma of burning leaves from their nostrils. They became filled with the desire to imitate these gentlemen. The pleasure was denied them, however, because the powers that be simply couldn't see the delicate, frail, violet scented little things doing everything that the men do.

But elections may be revolutionary things, witness the banking holiday, the beer bill and the economy measures of President Roosevelt. So when Charlotte Peifley had herself elected President of Student Council, she followed in the footsteps of Mr. Roosevelt and introduced revolutionary measures into the student senate probably promising to withhold patronage if the "bill" was not passed. Conferences followed and finally the administration said "Rather smoke here than hereafter—so go to it girls."

German Opera Star Delights Listeners

Margarete Olden Renders Vocal
Recital For Benefit Of 'Berg Groups

Fraulein Margarete Olden, German operatic contralto, delighted a large group of listeners at her recital of German songs in St. John's auditorium, Tuesday evening, March 21. This successful program was presented under the auspices of Der Deutsche Verein and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Fraulein Olden's accompanist was the famed Ellis Clark Hammon. Mr. Hammon is noted both here and abroad for his successful accompaniments. The presence of these two great artists on the same programme proved to be a delightful satisfaction that lingers on in the memory of the listener. After hearing such an exhibition of Fraulein Olden's wonderful talent, we can agree with the criticism of the Vienna press which states, concerning the rendition at the Schubert-Celebration: "M. Olden sang intoxicatingly beautiful, still in memory resounds a truly regal voice." Hanover acclaims her as, "A perfect model of oratorio style."

Sings Lord's Prayer

The most impressive feature of her program was the concluding song, "Des Vater Unser" (The Lord's prayer). Fraulein Olden especially requested that the audience rise during this song, and refrain from applause after its close. As the last tones of this powerful anthem faded into reverent silence, the mystery of the ages seemed suddenly to be revealed.

Off the stage, Fraulein Olden, is even a more charming and delightful personage. Having been granted an interview, the Weekly's representative found her a very gracious lady. To speak with her is sufficient to realize that her very soul is full of the music which she so ably interprets.

Mrs. Benfer To Sing At Coming Assembly

Again the music lovers of Muhlenberg College will be given a treat when Mrs. H. A. Benfer, wife of the popular registrar, will render several semi-classical selections during the Thursday Assembly period, April 6.

This concert has been arranged because of the popular demand of the students to have Mrs. Benfer again placed on the program. Her previous appearances on the concert stage at Muhlenberg were received with much acclaim from all those who heard her.

Mr. H. M. M. Richards, '32, will accompany her on the piano.

Baseball Candidates Report For Practice

Twenty-Three Try To Cop Positions On Team That Faces
Tough Schedule

Shovels and rakes have been utilized by the managerial staff for the past week, getting the college diamond in shape for the 1933 baseball season. Although the schedule consists of only eight games, the shortest in several years, on account of the financial situation of the Board of Athletics control, the competition will be the stiffest met by any Muhlenberg nine in recent seasons. Coach George R. Holstrom has ordered the tossers to report for their first drill this afternoon. Several of the pitchers have been working-out in the gymnasium for the past fortnight getting their "wings" warmed up to let loose at the call of their mentor.

No Predictions

Coach Holstrom is not making any predictions as to the outcome of the present season, despite the fact that he has listed on his roster some of the best diamond stars ever to don a Cardinal and Gray uniform in recent seasons. When approached by a Weekly sports reporter, Holstrom stated, "All ball-players have their 'in and out years' and we're all hoping that this year will be the 'in year' for all of the boys."

The candidates that have reported to Coach Holstrom are as follows: Catchers—"Reds" Weiner, regular backstop and leading batsman of the Cardinal and Gray nine of last season. "Reds" socked the ball for a .488 average during his first year as a regular on the Muhlenberg nine and continued his hard hitting in the Jersey Shore League after school had stopped. Other candidates for this po-

Locals

The Muhlenberg Freshman debate team lost to Newark Preparatory School of Newark, N. J., Tuesday, March 21 at 8:30 in the old chapel. Muhlenberg upheld the negative side of the question: "Resolved that the United States should recognize Soviet Russia as an economic measure." William Peiffer, Paul Hoepfner, and Robert Decker composed the 'Berg team; M. Peters, A. Friedman, and B. Seidman spoke for Newark.

Mr. Everitt Judges

Mr. Ephraim B. Everitt, Instructor of English at Muhlenberg, was the sole judge. Before rendering the decision in favor of Newark, he gave his reasons for his choice and gave adverse and constructive criticism of the teams as a whole and of the individual speakers.

Mr. L. Seidman, coach of the Newark debaters accompanied his team. Mr. Donald Hock is coach of the Muhlenberg Team. John R. Brokhoff, Manager of Frosh debating, presided over the debate.

The Muhlenberg Frosh Team will conclude its season March 31 at which time it will debate the Albright College Freshman team over station WEUU in Reading on the War Debt question.

Dr. Fritsch Condemns All Lovers of Money

Etymology Of The Word Steward
Traced Thru The Books
Of Bible In Chapel Address

"The LOVE of money is the root of all kinds of evil" declared Dr. Robert R. Fritsch, Professor of Bible and Greek at Muhlenberg, in an address before the student body, Monday, March 21, in the Chapel. By request Dr. Fritsch spoke on the subject, "The Bible Teaching about Property". He opened his scholarly discussion by pointing to the word "steward" which he traced through the Bible and which went through many changes as it came down through the ages, from the meaning of a pig-guardian to the name of a royal family, the Stuarts.

Meaning Changes

In tracing the word through the Bible, Dr. Fritsch first finds it in Gen. 15:2 where it has the meaning of "heir". Second, it is found in Gen. 43:19 where it implies a "ruler". The next occurrence, I Chron. 28:1 has the meaning of a chief or captain. In the New Testament the word occurs twelve times, seven of which are found in Luke. In Luke the word is explained by the adjective "pistos", requiring a steward to be faithful. In Titus, a steward must be blameless; Peter says a steward must be charitable and hospitable. Paul interprets the word steward as meaning an obligation to faithfulness in the preaching of the Gospel.

"God Is Owner"

Dr. Fritsch continues with the words: "What therefore is required with respect to our attitude towards our so-called possession is the stewardship attitude-recognition and acknowledgement that God is the real owner". He points out that Dr. Robertson says that we must cease to be the owner of our property and become merely a steward.

He summarizes the teachings of the Bible concerning stewardship by taking the five points as expressed in Guy Morill's "Life as a Stewardship". Dr. Fritsch took these as a basis and then elaborated upon them.

First, "God is the owner of all things". He supports this by pointing to God who created all things, and thus by right of creation all things

Deutsche Verein Has Interesting Meeting

The spring program of Der Deutsche Verein was discussed in detail at the bi-weekly meeting, Monday evening, March 20. Final preparations were made and last instructions were given concerning the presentation of Fraulein Margarete Olden, German contralto. The dates for the "Damen Abend" (Ladies' evening) and Spring Ausflug were set for May 1 and May 12, respectively. A motion was made to present Fraulein Olden with a bouquet of flowers. It was then announced that Mr. Ellis Clark Hammon, noted New York artist, would accompany Fraulein Olden. A reading of the constitution of the Verein and an explanation of Parliamentary procedure in German followed. This was done to enable all members of the Verein to become acquainted with the proper German phraseology. After the serving of refreshments and the singing of German songs, the meeting adjourned.

Prominent Newspapermen To Address Delegates From Stu- dent Publications Of Many Colleges And Universities

Formal Banquet And Informal Dance On Entertainment Program For Visitors

Preparation for the spring convention of the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States to be held on the Muhlenberg campus on Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29, is well under way. The committees made up of members of the Weekly staff, under the general supervision of H. Paul Gerhard, business manager, are working on plans to accommodate and entertain the many visiting delegates.

A tentative schedule of speakers includes several prominent newspapermen from Allentown and Philadelphia. Plans for entertainment include an informal dance in the Library Building at which the delegates will be guests of honor and to which the student body is invited, a formal banquet, and attendance at the program of one-act plays to be presented by the dramatic organizations of Muhlenberg, Lehigh, and Lafayette at the Allentown Civic Little Theatre.

Announcement Sent

Du Relle Gage, president of the association, has mailed an announcement of the convention to all members, and this will be followed by several more detailed announcements of the convention program to be sent out by the local correspondence committee. Registration will begin at noon on Friday, and the first business session of the association will take place at about mid-afternoon.

Approximately sixty delegates from colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, Delaware, District of Columbia, New Jersey, and New York are expected to attend. Aside from the valuable information to be received by the delegates from the addresses of the guest speakers, there will be special sessions in which student editors and business managers will meet for the discussions of their problems. Trophies will be awarded to the papers containing the best make-up and editorial policy. Professor William Malsby, head of the Journalism de-

"Muhlenberg Night" To Be Held Friday

The fifth "Muhlenberg Night" sponsored by the Lutheran Student Association will be held on Friday evening, March 31st, at 7:30 o'clock.

The program will consist of an illustrated lecture on Japan by Edward T. Horn, Jr., '36, son of Dr. Edward T. Horn, '22, Dean of the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Japan.

The speaker is thoroughly capable of delivering a lecture on Japan having been born there, and, with the exception of a few years spent in this country while his father was on furlough, has spent his entire life in Japan. He received his education in the American school in Tokyo. The pictures he will show will depict the city, town and country life of the people in Japan.

Convention Report Presented to O. D. K.

Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity held its semi-monthly meeting in the Administration building on Thursday evening, March 23. Robert Horn, Jr., in making a report of the national convention held at Duke University, stated that the men were well received and that the convention was held on the most beautiful college campus in the United States. Mr. Horn was elected a member of the Extension Committee and Henry Lubson was elected a member of the Credentials Committee while at the convention.

Following a short discussion some new by-laws were adopted and the meeting was adjourned.

Allentown, Pa., March 29, 1933

AT the time the Weekly went to press, the information concerning the State Sales Tax was official and correct. In the meanwhile, however, since its validity was already being questioned by one institution, there may have been changes that render it inoperative in educational groups. There is one thing that is certain; It is extremely important that all organizations affected should immediately get in contact with the district representative of the revenue department. The costs of delay appear to be too great for any neglect.

BEING host to the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association is an honor not so much to the Weekly as to the college and its students. During the two days of the convention, delegates from leading colleges and universities of the Middle Atlantic States will be on our campus as guests. It is the desire of the Weekly that when the delegates return to their own campus they will carry with them a memory of Muhlenberg that is in keeping with the character and tradition of the institution.

We appeal, therefore, to the students and to their organizations to aid us in our work of preparing to receive as honored guests the delegates from our associated college newspapers. The administration has promised its fullest support, and many of the student organizations have done likewise. We ask that those others who are asked to cooperate will remember that whatever impression the visitors will receive will not be the result of the work of a single organization but of all.

MAJOR changes in the administration and equipment of the dormitories are going to be made for the next academic year. For this reason all dormitory residents are asked to make any suggestions they consider will improve conditions there. All students having what they consider a worthwhile plan relative to equipment, heat, light, radios, proctorships, the assignment of rooms, or other matters concerned with dormitory life are asked to place them in a letter addressed to the Registrar. These communications may be signed or unsigned, according to the will of the writer. Assurance is given that all serious suggestions will be given proper and confidential consideration by the committee that is to work out the new dormitory system.

IN those days of the past, beloved by many, it was possible for a nation to beat up another, for a tyrant to persecute his people, and for a college newspaper to deal with the news of the students with no thought that anyone outside of the affected zone would know or care. Japan, Hitler, and the Muhlenberg Weekly have discovered that this beautiful day is no more. The attitude of the nations of the world towards Japan's bringing "peace" to the East, and towards Hitler for "deflating" Jewish influence is well known. The Weekly suffers in silence.

A worthy member of the staff wrote an editorial, and like that shot at Lexington, it was heard around the world. For awhile we believed that the last traces of the episode had vanished from all memory, but no. Long after the Associated Press had stopped flashing the story of that sterling battle against a horde of pagan Bolsheviks, a journal from far down in the islands of the Caribbean sea drifted up to Muhlenberg, and there spread in full glory was the story of the fight to the death between the forces of God on the one hand, and H. E. K.'s rabble on the other in Spanish.

Long ago, another worthy member of the staff wrote what he considered a good feature story about what happened when the lighting system temporarily ceased to function in the dormitories. Then, after many days, and that story had been forgotten, local students read with amazement the pathetic fate of a college so pushed by the depression that the authorities turned the lights out after seven o'clock. That, in a large metropolitan newspaper, and the college, Muhlenberg.

Gentlemen, it's got us. Last week we wrote an editorial about the boys walking on the back campus when the ground was soft. We are waiting in fatalistic calmness for an issue of the Pravda in which Stalin will cite our editorial as an example of the carelessness of college men towards nature as a result of capitalism. The way we feel now, anything is likely to happen. It probably will.

The college store has already made arrangements for payment.

Stage Whispers

By Robert W. S. Stinson

Due to many requests we are forced to extend the time limit for entrance of the descriptions of the mystery lady who appeared in last week's issue. Results will be announced sometime in the near future.

It looks as though "Like Falling Leaves" is due for one of the greatest successes in the history of Allentown. At least we are safe in assuming this if we take Walter Hampden's criticism seriously. Mr. Hampden, during his last appearance at the Lyric said, "I have read 'Like Falling Leaves' and was at first not very much impressed with it. Upon closer observation, however, I discovered that it possesses wonderful possibilities for successful presentation. These possibilities are likely to escape the casual reader, and I am of the opinion that it is one of those rare plays that must be seen before one is duly impressed."

A large percentage of the population of Port Jervis, N. Y. turned out to see "Mask and Dagger's" contribution to Haps Benfer's advertising campaign a week ago last Wednesday night. The troupe was invited to come to the New York State town by Rev. Warmouth who is a student here at 'Berg.

"Mask and Dagger" is gaining recognition steadily. The organization has been asked to enter a play in a newly organized competitive league which will be composed of: Lafayette, Lehigh, Rutgers, and other institutions in the East that have not as yet been decided upon.

We are wondering why certain members of the Weekly staff and one member of "Mask and Dagger" were accused of leading the applause for "Jezebel", the play that was competing against "Moon of the Caribbees" in the Civic Little Theatre Contest.

Mr. Coder assures us that he places no faith in the accusation, and that it has been definitely proved false. Nevertheless it appears to be a cheap, mean way of trying to cause dissension in the ranks of "Mask and Dagger." Why is it that certain people insist upon doing their best to endanger the success of dramatics at Muhlenberg?

'Berg Debaters Set For Future Tilts

The Muhlenberg College varsity debating team will conclude its forensic season before the Easter vacation begins. There will, however, be three major tilts before the final curtain is dropped. On Tuesday evening, April 4, there will be a dual debate with Temple University. The Muhlenberg affirmative team will journey to Philadelphia while, the local negative team will encounter the Temple affirmative speakers in the Assembly room of the Administration Building. This debate will commence promptly at 8 o'clock.

On the following evening, Wednesday, April 5, Muhlenberg will meet Villanova College in a dual debate. This time the local negative team will travel, going to Villanova, while the 'Berg affirmative speakers meet the Villanova negative team in the Assembly room of the Administration building. This tilt will also begin at eight o'clock.

Susquehanna University will furnish the final opposition for the Muhlenberg debaters, when on Monday evening, April 10, there will be a dual tilt between the two Lutheran institutions. In this debate the 'Berg affirmative speakers will journey to Selinsgrove while the Susquehanna University speakers come to Allentown. This debate will also be held in the Assembly room of the Administration building.

Coach Arthur T. Gillespie has not yet announced the line-up of his teams in the coming debates, but he will probably utilize his strongest men in an effort to cop the last three tilts. Manager Conrad Raker recently announced that there is a possibility that Muhlenberg may yet meet Rider College, of New Jersey, on the forensic platform.

Dr. Haas Emphasizes Qualities of Jesus

President Tells Of Newly Felt Need For Christ In Modern Life

Dr. John A. W. Haas, in his sermon in the Chapel on Tuesday, March 21, emphasized the need of Christ in modern life. He asked: "What is Jesus; where is he; how shall we learn to know Him? The only source is the record of His life which we should use freely. Those who formerly misunderstood Jesus are learning to understand Him through His life. Let us look at Him as He was."

Jesus Was Strong

"Jesus was a strong character, yet with all His strength and courage He was never foolhardy. He was gentle, yet with all His gentleness he was righteously indignant at the misuse of the temple. He was meek, yet He realized and confessed that He was the King. He was the purest of the pure, yet allowed sinners to

Intramurals

Last Friday's Intra-mural games supplied the most exciting competition seen so far this season. The Grays, a non-fraternity aggregation composed almost entirely of commuters, nosed out the strong Alpha Tau Omega quintet in a closely contested game, last Friday afternoon, by a 22 to 21 score. This was the first reverse tasted by the A. T. O. men this season and left the Grays in sole possession of the top rung. The Friday evening game, in which the Theta Kappa Nu basketballers were victorious over the Non-Fraternity quintet by a 26 to 23 score, was characterized by "Bill" Ritter as the roughest and "foulest" game ever played by Muhlenberg men.

The standing of the teams, including last Friday's games, is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pts.
9. Grays	6	0	60
3. Alpha Tau Omega	5	1	55
1. Theta Kappa Nu.	4	2	50
6. Phi Epsilon Pi ..	3	2	40
8. Cardinals	3	2	40
4. Delta Theta	2	4	40
5. Phi Kappa Tau ..	2	3	35
7. Philos	2	3	35
2. Non-Fraternity ..	1	5	35
10. Theta Upsilon Omega	0	6	30

Monday, March 20—4:30

The Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity emerged victorious in a game with the Delta Theta fratmen by a 27 to 24 score.

Monday, March 20—6:30

Theta Upsilon Omega bowed to the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity by the count of 14 to 29.

Tuesday, March 21—4:30

Alpha Tau Omega emerged victorious in a contest with the Philos club by a 21 to 15 score.

Tuesday, March 21—6:30

The Cardinals defeated the Non-Fraternity quintet by a 30 to 22 decision.

Wednesday, March 22—4:30

Theta Kappa Nu, last year's Intra-mural champions, bowed to the fast-moving Grays by a 27 to 37 count.

Wednesday, March 22—6:30

The Phi Epsilon Pi fratmen administered the sixth defeat of the season to the Theta Upsilon Omega basketballers by a 30 to 14 decision.

Thursday, March 23—4:30

The Cardinals beat out the Delta Theta fraternity by a 24 to 19 score.

Thursday, March 23—6:30

The Philos club demonstrated their real strength by conquering Phi Kappa Tau's entry, by the count of 28 to 20.

Friday, March 24—4:30

Alpha Tau Omega received their first setback of the season at the hands of their strongest rivals, the Grays. The score, 21 to 22, shows the closeness of the game. "Jack" Kelleher and "Bill" Wilkinson were the stars for the winners and losers, respectively.

Friday, March 24—6:30

Theta Kappa Nu subdued the Non-Fraternity five by a 26 to 23 score in an exceedingly rough game. "Bill" Saalfeld and "Chris" Riley were the leaders of the warring factions.

gave a brief history of the College. Bennett was founded in 1873 as a co-educational institution and existed as such until 1926 when it was changed to a College for Women, having an enrollment of ten students. Since that time the enrollment has increased until at the present time 202 girls attend classes there.

Recently a large amount was bequeathed to the school by the Educational Board on the condition that it furnish a like amount. For this reason the quartet is traveling through the states using their musical talent to raise the required amount so that Bennett may continue to send out capable and worthy graduates.

Baseball Candidates Report For Practice

sition are "Al" Kunz, a letterman of last year; and "Chris" Riley, husky Sophomore, who is up for his first chance.

Pitchers—"Horsey" Heist, who returned to school last year, is the leading candidate for the pitching position, vacated last June by the graduation of "Vince" Takacs. Heist spent last year compiling an enviable record in the Bi-County League. Other candidates for the mound position are "Charlie" Evanovsky, a star last season in the semi-pro ranks around New York State; Edgar Steckel and "Johnny" Mitchell, all who have been out before. The new men reporting to Holstrom for the first time are "Joe" Markle and "Bill" Bloom, two towering Sophomores with plenty of experience. Markle is considered to be a prize package by the followers of the diamond sport. "Jersey" Bloom demonstrated his pitching skill last year with Hamilton Park in the local Twilight League.

Infielders—At first base Coach Holstrom will have "Big Joe" Matuska and George Saul competing for the position. Matuska is a veteran, having a .297 average to show for last season's work in collegiate circles. "Joe" also played in the Carbon-Schuylkill League after school had terminated last June. Saul who is a newcomer, is a member of the Sophomore class, and comes up with plenty of experience.

For the keystone sack "Bill" Nixon and "Johnny" May will wage a battle. Nixon was the regular shortstop for the 'Bergmen last season and hit the pill for a pretty high average. "Johnny" May is also a veteran having played second base off and on during the past two seasons.

At shortstop two Sophomores are fighting for the position. "Mike" Lisetski, a start in the local valley league and the local Twilight League, comes up with an enviable reputation. His rival for the short field post is "Joe" Skrovaneck.

"Larrupin Lou" Sterner who played the hot corner for the Holstromites last season and batted to the tune of .450 will hold down that position again this year. "Lou" played in the City League after the collegiate season ended last June.

Outfielders—Seven candidates have reported for the three outfield positions. "Joe" Rodgers, a Sophomore who hit .386 in the Valley League (leading semi-pro league hereabouts) last season is one of the newcomers. "Albie" Klotz, who as guardian of the right pasture last season walloped the ball for a .349 clip; "Sam" Shimer, speedy left fielder during the 1932 season, and Otto Saalfeld are the veterans. Other candidates who reported for practice are Gene Lepore, "Freddie" Blank and "Al" Ursin, all Sophomores.

Herbert C. Foster, '34 is student manager of baseball for the 1933 season.

A MIRACLE... You sit at home in easy chairs, behind closed doors, while from a sound-proof room... perhaps thousands of miles away... comes the music that you listen to on the Chesterfield program.

That sealed room in the Columbia Broadcasting Headquarters sends out good music and good songs 6 nights a week to 50 million people from coast to coast... with the voice of Norman Brokenshire... just about the best announcer in this country... to tell you "Chesterfields are milder and taste better."

Why is the Chesterfield Program broadcast 6 nights a week over a coast-to-coast network reaching 50 million people?

Because we want every smoker in this country to know that Chesterfield cigarettes are milder.

We want to tell every smoker from coast to coast that Chesterfield cigarettes taste better...

We want everyone to know that they can depend on a LIGGETT & MYERS product.

Well, well, 'Berg has turned anti-prohibitionist. Yes, sir, while browsing thru one of the Philadelphia papers we happened upon a column entitled "Campus Cocktails". The ingredients used in these cocktails are rare bits of campus news of the highest alcoholic content available. We can't figure out whether or not the following claims as its origin—grain or wheat. What do you think?

"A financially pressed administration at Muhlenberg College is forcing the students to literally burn the mid-night oil by turning off the electric current as a step toward economy."

— RR —

And then we find out that the interesting editorial of H. E. K. and the equally interesting reply of Dr. J. A. W. Haas that was published early in the school year in the Muhlenberg Weekly, was copied verbatim in the good old Spanish language. "El Testigo" a Porto Rican religious pamphlet had our old scandal rehashed in nice spicy phrases. The conclusion drawn by this paper was that Dr. Haas was justified in upholding the high religious standards of the Christian College. We may also conclude from this that our overseas advertisements are picking up.

— RR —

We wonder if a metropolitan opera star would have received an ovation like that given the singers from Bennett College, North Carolina. If campus comments mean anything the students seem to agree that racial distinction is a "lotta bunk" and that "Jim Crow" cars should be junked. The program warranted the applause, but then there is a limit even to noise.

— RR —

You may remember that Yale beat Harvard in their annual football classic this year. What you don't know is that Harvard also took a beating in grammar just before the game. The Yale athletic authorities received the following telegram from Cambridge: "The Harvard Athletic Association wishes you good luck in tomorrow's game stop may the best team win." Yale immediately wired back: "The Yale Athletic Association wishes you luck in tomorrow's game stop may the better team win."

belong to him. In I Chronicles the following words are found: "The World is thine and all that dwell therein. All souls are mine." Furthermore, we are Christ's by redemption—"man redeemed by the precious blood of Christ".

Next, "We are partners with God of what we possess". "Partner" suggests equality and sharing in what is one's own. "But the essential idea behind stewardship is God's unchanging ownership of all things".

Not Only Money

Third, "Stewardship covers not only our money, but our whole life." Dr. Fritsch shows that the thought of life has many sides: time, strength, skill, etc. "Our very time is to be redeemed for and accounted for." In business we are not to be slothful. Stewardship makes us accountable for the vast privilege of prayer. Stewardship of life implies full-time service . . . and no child has a right to invest his life into any activity which does not minister to the glory of God."

Fourth, "The separated portion". Dr. Fritsch explained that we are to set aside one day of the week and to observe it as the Lord's day. He thinks that the problems of the Kingdom of God would be solved if one-tenth of one's income, one-twelfth of the personnel of the church, and one-seventh of one's time were consecrated to the service of God.

In conclusion, Dr. Fritsch reminded the students not to forget the teachings of Jesus who warns against the laying up of treasure and who asks us not to exercise care about material things, but rather to seek the Kingdom of God. Dr. Fritsch concluded thus: "The love of money is a root of all kinds of evil. Covetousness is a tap root from which arise many forms of crime."

Sophomores Decide on Payment of Dues

The Sophomore Class held its first meeting under the new president, Max Levine, after assembly in the Science Auditorium, Thursday, March 23. The purpose of the assembly was to settle the matter of payment of dues. Since the dues committee had failed to collect any, a motion was passed to place the matter in the hands of the Administration.

associate with Him. He was seemingly a paradox, yet all of His qualities were summed up into a perfect character. The virtuousness of His character is far above and supreme to man's.

"The trouble with our civilization is that it is man-made instead of God-made. Patching-up of our civilization is of no avail, rather we must return to Christ and God. We must get away from artificialities, speculation and material things.

"In our studies let us not forget Christ and all He means. In this time let us think of Him and the peace and happiness He brings into our lives, today, tomorrow and forever."

Science Club Meets Bath Cement Plant

The Science Club was guest of the Keystone Cement Plant of Bath on Wednesday afternoon, March 22. The club was taken through the plant by the general manager who explained to the students the use of the machinery. The Keystone Cement Plant which is one of the most modern cement factories in this district, gave the students ample opportunity to study the modern factory system. Included in the party were two students from Lehigh and a student from Budapest, Hungary.

ILLUSION:

The magician exhibits a flower pot with hinged sides on a table in the center of the stage. He opens out the sides to show that this container is empty. Closing it up, he places a screen between it and the audience. After a short period of magic incantations he removes the screen. The astounded audience sees a beautiful girl, covered to the shoulders in lovely flowers, rising from the "empty" container. Where did she come from?

EXPLANATION:

The girl was hiding behind the drape of the table. There is a trap door in the bottom of the flower pot, with a hole large enough to allow her to crawl through. The flowers, called "magicians' feather flowers," are a regular part of a magician's outfit. The flower girl wears a rubber tunic and a bathing cap to keep the flowers compressed into small space. She slides the tunic down and the flowers expand when she emerges.

A trick frequently worked in cigarette advertising is the illusion that mildness in a cigarette comes from mysterious processes of manufacture.

EXPLANATION: All popular cigarettes today are made in modern sanitary factories with up-to-date machinery. All are heat treated—some more intensively than others, because raw, inferior tobaccos require more intensive treatment than choice, ripe tobaccos.

The real difference comes in the tobaccos that are used. The better the tobacco, the milder it is.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

That is why Camels are so mild. That is why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

It's the secret of Camels' rich "bouquet" . . . their cool flavor . . . their non-irritating mildness.

Give your taste a chance to appreciate the greater pleasure and satisfaction of the more expensive tobaccos.

Twenty-Five Tennis Players Prepare For A Difficult Schedule

Cooper and Miller, Two Veterans, Form Nucleus Of Team Composed Of Frosh Stars

A schedule of six tennis matches has already been compiled by Manager Charles Cooper, '33, for the 1933 season. Other matches are pending with teams from Gettysburg, West Virginia and Bucknell.

Twenty-five candidates for the 1933 tennis team reported to Manager Cooper, on the afternoon of April 3 at the Fair Grounds. These men have been working out daily under his supervision, except when the weather has not permitted. Prospects appear very bright for a successful season this year. Besides Cooper the only other veteran left from last season is "Hal" Miller, '33. But in the Freshman class there are numerous candidates that loom big as varsity material. Some of these new men are Earl Koch, "Jim" Seegers, former Germantown star; Jerome Angert, "Ted" Fisher, "Herbie" Hilton, a winner of the Allentown city championship; and "Al" Herzenberg, winner of the Muhlenberg College 1932 annual Fall tourney.

Dr. John V. Shankweiler, well-known local tennis player and head of the Biology Department at Muhlenberg, had been asked to coach the 1933 team, but the press of his work necessitated his declination.

The 1933 tennis schedule is as follows:

April 24—St. Joseph at Philadelphia.
April 29—Lehigh at Bethlehem.
May 1—Moravian at Allentown.
May 3—Lafayette at Easton.
May 10—Temple at Allentown.
May 16—Moravian at Bethlehem.

Moll String Quartet Offers Fine Program

A delightful concert, by the Moll String Quartet, was sponsored by Muhlenberg College in the Science Building Auditorium on Monday evening, March 27, at eight o'clock. The large audience, composed of students and towns-folk, was greatly stirred by the rendition of the works of the classical composers. The artists' interpretations were received with great applause.

This concert was the final one in a series of three, given during the season by the Moll String Quartet. The college has presented this series of concerts as an extra-curricular offering, to further musical appreciation and incite a broader culture in students as well as residents of the city.

Seabury-Walker Case Discussed By Krooss

Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary History fraternity, was entertained at the home of Dr. Joseph S. Jackson, Thursday evening, March 30. During the business session it was decided to continue the Freshman History Award this year. Amendments to the national constitution of Phi Alpha Theta were also voted. At the close of the business meeting, Herman E. Krooss gave a detailed resume of his investigations into the Seabury-Walker case. After the discussion, refreshments were served by Mrs. Jackson.

Spring Elections On May 11

Student Council had a short meeting last Thursday afternoon at which a committee was appointed to draw up several new by-laws to be voted upon by the student body at the spring elections to be held on Thursday, May 11. Nominations for student body and Weekly positions will be made on May 4.

NOTE

It was discovered after last week's issue of the Weekly had gone to press that the State Sales Tax does not apply to college fraternities or to publications supported by student fees since there is no sale in the legal sense made by these organizations.

Student Body By-Laws

Attention is called to section 5, article VI, of the student body by-laws which prohibits cutting the back campus during the interval of February 15 to April 15 inclusive.

Richard F. Garnet,
President of Student Council.

Penalties For Liquor

Article VI, section 3. Liquor is absolutely prohibited on the campus. Students guilty of violating this rule shall be fined $10.00 and shall be subject to Article III, Sectional 1, paragraph "e" of the constitution. Drunkenness shall not be tolerated and offenders shall be subject to the above punishment.

Student Body Constitution

Article III, Section, 1, paragraph "e"—The Council shall have power to fine students, and to recommend to the faculty committee on student organization the suspension or expulsion of students.

No Beer Shall Flow On Muhlenberg Campus

Pre-Prohibition Rulings For The Ban Of Liquor Will Be Continued, States Dr. Haas

Regardless of the attitude of national legislators, no beer will flow on the Muhlenberg campus or in the various fraternity houses. This statement by President John A. W. Haas caused no excitement or comment since this had been the rule before the prohibition law had been passed and the fraternities themselves had included the ban on the cheering juice among their house rules.

Lafayette and Lehigh made identical rulings, while the Lehigh prexy expressed his hope that the sale of beer would not be allowed in the vicinity of his institution. On the eve of the sale of the long banned fluid there was no excitement in the ranks of Lehigh Valley collegians. Some people have been rude enough to suggest that all those who wanted it could get it right along, and that the only difference would be in the price.

Dr. Haas, in response to anxious questioning, announced that there would be no special delegation of "breath smellers" to check up on students who wandered from the campus to indulge. He added, however, that if any student became too hilarious, or betrayed over-indulgence by unconventional behavior, he would be dealt with in a fitting manner.

Some difficulty is being experienced in understanding why there are rulings regarding a beverage that is hailed as non-intoxicating.

Weather Handicaps Baseball Practice

Lafayette Game To Be April 19

Weather conditions during the past week have necessitated the cancellation of baseball practice on several afternoons, and Coach George R. Holstrom is anticipating the first time when his team can work out two afternoons in succession.

The team has looked promising on the several occasions when Coach Holstrom was permitted by the weather man to send his charges through the drills, and it is hoped that they will be on edge for their initial contest on the afternoon of April 19, when Lafayette College will furnish the opposition. The Maroon team is a veteran outfit and when the Mules journey to Easton for this game, on the day that the Easter vacation terminates, they will meet with stiff competition. Last season these two rivals split even in their two scheduled games, the Cardinal and Gray copping the annual Muhlenberg Alumni Day game on the local diamond by a 5 to 3 score.

"Horsey" Heist will be depended upon for a great deal of the mound work this season. The mentor is also gratified with the excellent showing being made by "Joe" Markle and "Bill" Bloom. Both of these towering Sophomores will be utilized frequently in the box during the season. No positions have been definitely clinched as yet and Coach Holstrom has not yet thought about his opening game line-up.

Judge Seabury Of Graft Investigation Fame Will Be Commencement Speaker

Definite arrangements have been made to have Judge Seabury of New York City as the speaker at the sixty-sixth commencement of Muhlenberg College on June 5. Seabury in his fight as chief counsel for the Hofstadter investigating committee uncovered the vile conditions that existed under the iron hand of Tammany rule and was instrumental in causing the resignation of New York City's "Beau Brummel" Mayor, James J. Walker.

Mr. Seabury was born in New York City and had received all of his elementary education from his father. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1894 at the age of twenty-one, after completing a three year course at New York Law School and a year's graduate work in a law office.

Has Prominent Career

He was on the bench of the Supreme Court of the State of New York and resigned to become a member of the Court of Appeals, the highest tribunal in the state. In 1912 he was instrumental in the formation of the progressive party and in 1916 he was democratic candidate for the governorship of New York. After his defeat he retired to private practice where he remained until 1930 when he was called as referee to investigate the magistrate courts of New York.

The students of the school of journalism at Columbia University voted Seabury the citizen who had performed the most useful public service in New York. In 1931 he was the recipient of the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Hobart College, Harvard and Washington and Jefferson Universities have conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on the Judge.

Overcame Obstacles

Mr. Seabury's investigation efforts in New York are all the more remarkable because of the seemingly insurmountable obstacles which he encountered in his work. Beside the fact that he lacked the co-operation of administrative officials he was in constant danger of gangster reprisals and attacks from the hoodlum element of New York. Nevertheless, Seabury spun the web that enmeshed numerous vice tainted members of Tammany's machine.

The program for commencement week is as follows:

Commencement Week Program
June 1—Meeting of the Board of Trustees, at college, 10:30 A. M.
June 1—Senior Reception, Hotel Traylor, 1:00 P. M.
June 2—Junior Oratorical Contest, Assembly Room at College, 3:00 P. M.

June 3—Class Day, College Grove, 4:00 P. M.

Dialect Plays Will Be Given By Verein

Ladies' Auxiliary Sponsors Two Dialect Plays By Der Deutsche Verein, April 26

Der Deutsche Verein of Muhlenberg College will present two plays in the Pennsylvania-German dialect on Wednesday evening, April 26, in the Auditorium of the Allentown High School.

The first play, "Die Verreichte Rechter", is dramatized from the novel of the same name by Mr. Charles More, a resident of Allentown, who has only recently presented all his manuscripts, published and unpublished, to Muhlenberg College.

Mr. More has been acclaimed as the greatest prose writer that the dialect has produced. The German Academy of Sciences two years ago bestowed upon him a medal for distinguished literary achievement. Mr. More, now in his 82nd year, hopes to be present at the performance. In the cast of this merry comedy are Gordon Feller, Jerome Baer, Luther Schaeffer, Luther Schlenker and Doctor Harry Reichard.

The second play, "On der Lumpa Parti," is a very free adaptation from the idyllic poem by the Reverend Astor C. Wucher, now of Toledo, Ohio. This play was given before the student body of Muhlenberg College some weeks ago in a somewhat abbreviated form, provoking much laughter. Those in the cast of the latter are: James Angstadt, Jerome Baer, Claude Wismer, Ralph Hartzell, Wilson Hartzell, Elmer Fahringer, Gordon Feller and Doctor Preston Barba.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College is sponsoring the presentation of these plays. Judging from the advance sale of seats a large audience will attend. The proceeds are to go toward payment of the Chapel Organ and to the German House Fund. There will be a general admission of thirty-five cents.

Der Deutsche Verein held its regular bi-weekly meeting in the Commons, Monday evening, April 3. The success of Fraulein Olden's recital were discussed first. Committees for the Damenabend, which is to be held May 1, were then selected and given instructions. A spelling-bee and refreshments concluded the program.

Moravian And Crest To Be A. K. A. Guests

The Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, honorary Philosophical fraternity, met at the home of Rev. Russell W. Stine, 2116 Allen St., on Wednesday evening, March 29th at 8:30 o'clock.

The chapter decided that they would have a joint banquet with Cedar Crest and Moravian College at the end of this school year. A few minor changes in the chapter constitution concerning the induction of new men will also be made at this meeting.

After the business meeting the rites of initiation were administered to Lewis Wilker, '33, Gordon Feller, Herman Krooss, Ralph Keeport, and Roy Siegel, all members of the class of '34. The symbols of the fraternity were explained to the new men by Ray O. Bachman, '33, the president.

After delightful refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Stine, the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held April 26th.

Xylophone Numbers Climax Band Concert

College Band Closes Active Season With Spring Concert In Thursday Assembly

The annual spring concert of the college band was presented in fine style during the Assembly period last Thursday morning, March 30, in the Science Auditorium. This concert also marked the farewell appearance of Muhlenberg's well known musician and musical director, C. "Steve" Fisher, conductor of the band during the last two years.

The main feature of the morning was the rendition of several solos on the xylophone by Ray Wahl, assistant director of the band, accompanied by his brother on the piano. His numbers, including a "Fantasia on Scotch and Irish Melodies," and a "Fantasia on the Mocking Bird," both compositions by William Stobbe were well received by the student body.

Quartet Entertains

An arrangement of "The Rosary" played by an instrumental quartet and a characteristic march entitled "Noisy Bill" featuring the trombones were also included in the program aiding in making the concert a complete success.

"DeMolay Commandery March", "Mignonette," an overture, a composition by Edwin Franko Goldman, "On the Mall", and Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" constituted the remainder of the program. The presentation concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater.

The concert closed an active year in the band's history, including a radio broadcast, two concerts, and the usual programs at football and basketball games. Next week a final meeting will be held to select a director for the coming year.

Muhlenberg Delegates Attend Model League

Richard F. Garnet, Merwin L. Shelly, H. Edward Krooss, and Charles H. Preston will go to Lehigh University on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week to act as Muhlenberg's delegates to the Model League of Nations. They will present the views of the Netherlands on the three topics which will be discussed and voted upon by 200 students from twenty-five colleges and universities.

What can be done to alleviate the Manchurian situation? How can the manufacture and trade of arms and munitions be controlled? What is the solution to the problem of world unemployment? These will be the questions up for discussion.

The principal speaker of the assembly will be William E. Linglebach, professor of European history at the University of Pennsylvania. His talk on Thursday evening deals with current European problems. James C. MacDonald, chairman of the American Policy Association, and of wide experience in foreign relations, will act as critic of the assembly.

Muhlenberg Varsity Debate Squad Wins Over Temple Teams

Many Sophomores Are Used By 'Berg In Winning Both Sides Of Dual Tilt On War Debts

The varsity debating squad won both sides of a dual debate with Temple University on Tuesday night, April 4, using the subject "Resolved That all Inter-governmental War Debts, including Reparations, be canceled."

At home the negative team composed of Russel Krapf, '35, and Ray Brennen, '35, won the unanimous decision of the judges. At Philadelphia the Muhlenberg affirmative team including Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33, John R. Brokhoff, and Charles L. Kerstetter, '35, was declared winner by a vote of the audience.

After getting off to a poor start, the team composed mostly of sophomores is begging to hit its stride. Coach Arthur Gillespie is allowing all members of the squad to have an opportunity on the debate platform, and although this has a tendency to weaken the year's record, it will be more than compensated for by the experience gained for next season.

The Muhlenberg College Varsity debating team will conclude its forensic season on Monday evening, April 10 when the negative team will oppose Susquehanna University in the assembly room of the administration building. The tilt will begin at eight o'clock. The affirmative team will debate at Susquehanna. The line-up of the teams is as follows: Affirmative: Bernard Frank, '35, John Hollenbach, '34, and Ray Heist, '33. Negative, speaking at home: Ralph Keeport, '34, John Yerger, '35 and Russel L. Krapf, '35.

On Wednesday evening, April 5 an affirmative team composed of Bernard Frank, '35, Morton Silverman, '34 and Ray Heist, '33 spoke against Villanova College while the negative team, composed of Ray Brennen, '35, John Yerger, '35 and Russel L. Krapf, '35, traveled to Villanova.

Coaching Applicants Will Be Interviewed

Seven of the group of men applying for the varsity coaching position will be interviewed this Friday night by the Athletic Board. It was originally planned to make the election at that time, but a deluge of applications and the necessity for a second interview session makes this extremely unlikely.

Contrary to current rumors on the outside, the choice has not been made as yet. No matter who is selected, and when the selection is made, there will be spring practice, since it would be decidedly unfair to expect a new coach, probably with his own system, to train his men in the short interval allowed in the fall.

According to the statement of professor Albert Fasig of the Athletic board, there is a splendid group of applicants and this makes a choice between them difficult.

Associate Editors Chosen For Ciarla

The staff of the 1935 Ciarla was completed last Friday with the appointment of the associate editors and assistant business and advertising managers.

Contrary to an article in the Chronicle and News, no discrimination was made between fraternity and non-fraternity students. Appointments were made on the basis of experience in high school or college journalistic work.

Bernard Frank, editor-in-chief, announced the appointment of Charles Klein as assistant editor. Associate editors will be: Luther Schlenker, Lester Wolfe, William Holzer, Si Padolin, and Marlin Herb. Other appointments were: Henry Minnich, art editor; Russel L. Krapf and Jerome Angert, athletic editors; and Allan Schechterly, photography editor.

Francis Sheehan, business manager, appointed as his assistants: Wilbur Hemstreet, Joseph Nagle, Norman Miles, and Frederick Eagle.

WORK on the 1935 Ciarla has officially begun. A great deal can be done by profiting from the mistakes and successes of previous year books. Most students realize that in this period of business stagnation it is practically impossible to produce as elaborate a book as formerly, and it will be well for the staff to keep this in mind. But there is one thing that is extremely important, and that is to have as much of the work as possible done in Allentown and the Lehigh Valley.

A difference of a few dollars gained by sending material far from the campus is more than minimized by expenses for transportation, delays, and accompanying waste. Added to this is the fact that it has become increasingly difficult to obtain advertising from local firms when the contracts are sent from the community. Finally, let this be considered, when aid is given to the college and to student organizations it is the local business men who give it. There is a growing resentment against our past policy, why can't we support those who give to us when they are able? Surely the little we may lose in possibly increased prices will be more than made up in increased good will and future co-operation.

We believe that each Ciarla staff aims to do its best, let's have the answer of the 1935 Ciarla to this matter.

THERE is, in our opinion, little cause for anyone's alarm over the effect of the newly legalized beer upon college students. The main reason for this is that the attitude on the campus has changed in the past few years from one of carefree pleasure seeking to real, earnest study. There will be drinking off the campus, but what of it? A sense of responsibility, plus the ignoble factor of lack of cash will be sufficient deterrents to over-indulgence. It requires a tremendous stretch of imagination to suppose that a three point two per cent beer will bring about any damage.

THE suggestion that varsity debates be held during regular student body assembly periods is a good one. The fact that debating teams, not by any means at Muhlenberg alone, have had to attempt eloquence before an audience made up of from three to ten persons is ridiculous. Debates do not draw because students have not been made aware of the entertainment and instruction to be derived from them.

If one or two debates were held during the assembly period, interest would be aroused. After all it is merely a matter of inertia that prevents students from attending. If that inertia were overcome by a realization that debates are no longer cut and dried quibblings, little urging would be required to stimulate attendance at future tilts.

Debaters work hard and long at obtaining information on the topics discussed, thus with no effort, the audience gains an understanding of matters of immediate interest. As to the attitude of the debaters themselves on this matter, let the statement of one be illustrative: "Ye gods, it would be a pleasure to debate before a real audience." Possibly it is now too late for this to be adopted during the present system. Nevertheless, we suggest that an attempt be made, and if not now, then by all means next year.

By voting funds for debate work the students expressed their belief in its value, now show them that attendance is worthwhile.

A threat to stop all fraternities at the University of Oklahoma by legislative action has been made in an effort to stop the activities of a secret organization known as, "The Deep Dark Mystery Club," which is accused of having flogged a newspaper reporter.

Paul Blanchard recently gave an hour talk at Northwestern on socialism without once mentioning the word, "socialism."

Statistics from the Northampton Postoffice show that one-half of all the packages sent to the city go to Smith college girls.

Seniors at Rhode Island State college were asked to vote for the living figure they most admired. President Hoover was a close second to Jean Harlow.

Six hundred students of the University of Southern California worked during the last Christmas vacation, earning a total of $8,300.

Questionnaires, sent to 210 students who withdrew from the University of Chicago one year after the new educational policy was put into operation, showed only 35 who ascribed their withdrawal to dislike of the new plan.

Bing Crosby was a college editor at Gonzaga college on the Pacific coast.

The University of Rochester has removed all seniors from offices in organizations so that they can devote their time to studies.

LIBRARY NOTES

The Progress of University Libraries

The history of college and university libraries is also the record of generous gifts from private collectors and friends of education. Harvard college library dates from 1638, when John Harvard bequeathed to it his collection of 330 volumes. By 1764 the library had grown to 5,000 volumes when all but one of the original volumes were destroyed by fire. Yale college library was founded in 1700 but it grew so slowly that even with the 100 volumes received from Bishop Berkeley in 1733 it had only 4,000 volumes in 1766, and some of these were lost in the Revolutionary War. The library of King's college renamed Columbia college after the Revolutionary War, dates from 1756, when Joseph Murray a governor of the college bequeathed to it his private library. It is estimated to have had only 2000 volumes at the outbreak of the Revolution. Though stored in the city hall for safe keeping, many of the books were carried off by British soldiers and the rest scattered and never recovered except for a few volumes which are now in the library of Columbia University.

In 1927 the number of volumes in these libraries were: Harvard, 2,622,400 Yale, 1,838,099; Columbia, 1,092,343; Cornell University, 787,127; University of Michigan, 649,912; University of Minnesota, 501,507; University of Pennsylvania, 635,070 and Princeton University, 594,195.

The Library of Congress

The Library of Congress has become the national library of the United States. It was established in 1800 by Act of Congress, as a legislative library and was housed in the capital until 1897 when it was moved to its own building which is the largest, most ornate and most costly library building in the world. The original cost including the site was close to $7,000,000.

Besides its research and other services for the members of Congress and other Governmental departments, it offers excellent facilities for serious scholars. It stands at the head of a recognized inter-library loan system by lending to college, University, State and municipal libraries books which they do not possess and cannot obtain elsewhere.

On June the 30th, 1927 the Library of Congress contained 3,556,767 books and pamphlets making it the third largest library in the world. At the present time of writing the Library of Congress has already passed the four million mark and if it continues its astounding progress at the rate of a million volumes every six years it will exceed the five million mark before 1940.

Stage Whispers

By Robert W. S. Stinson

It is the purpose of this column to confine itself entirely to the subject of dramatics. However, since Stage Whispers is a firm believer in the quotation "All the world is a stage and all the people merely players", it feels justified in congratulating a man who, though not an actor of the legitimate stage, has portrayed a role far more difficult than any characterization ever written by a playwright for the theatre-going public. This man is the Rev. Charles H. Coughlin, the Detroit priest who has been bravely defying the political attitude of one of Michigan's most powerful newspapers.

It is not the intention of "Stage Whispers" to uphold or dispute Father Coughlin's views, but it does hail him as one of the finest dramatists that the radio audience has had the privilege of listening to in many a day. You will undoubtedly say that he should be classified as an orator. True enough, he is an orator of the highest degree, but at the same time he has filled the role of a modern Mark Anthony who has come to bury the glamorous old warrior "Bluff" in this drama of real life. He has dared to present this uncensored play as a challenge to the world's most critical audience, "The Press." His drama is one in which he himself took the lead and by his interpretation of the scrip brought the last act to a thrilling finale in last Sunday's broadcast, "Chapeau bas to Father Coughlin!" says "Stage Whispers."

The triangular play contest will begin April 27. Lafayette will present "Rising of the Moon" the 28th and Muhlenberg will enter "Moon of the Caribbees" on the 29th.

"The Tempest" has been selected as the Commencement Play by Mr. Coder. The performance will be staged on the Athletic Field, Saturday, June 4.

Prize boners: Reporter for Stage Whispers (yours truly) asks Mr. Coder who the author of "The Tempest" is.

The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, which for a while gave the Grays a pretty battle for the top position, lost another game last week, when they bowed to the Non-Fraternity quintet 19 to 23. Last Friday evening the A. T. O. five eked out a thrilling 21 to 20 triumph over the Delta Theta boys, but two extra five-minute periods were required before the winner had secured an advantage.

The standing of the teams including the games played on Tuesday, April 4, is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pts.
9. Grays	9	0	90
1. Theta Kappa Nu	7	2	80

Wednesday, March 29—4:30

Theta Upsilon Omega again dropped a 17 to 32 decision, this time the Cardinals administered the defeat.

Wednesday, March 29—6:30

Alpha Tau Omega was again turned back. This second A. T. O. defeat came at the hands of the Non-Frats by a 19 to 23 score.

Friday, March 31—6:30

Just a Suggestion

We have heard band concerts, singers, speakers, orators, etc. in our Thursday assemblies? Why not a debate? The debates held in the evening are poorly attended and here is an opportunity to display the forensic ability of the debate team before the student body. Such a program would do much to stimulate interest in debating.

Unmailed Letters from the Files of Muhlenberg Mirrored

Mr. Scandal Monger
Muhlenberg Campus
Allentown, Pa.

Dear Pansy:

We have in our files full proof that you are the individual on the campus who has been spreading fantastic and unwarranted tales concerning several Muhlenberg students. Unfortunately the fact that you are enrolled as a student at Muhlenberg makes you a member of the student body, even though you are decidedly unworthy of that honor.

By this time we feel you should have learned that in the opinion of Mr. Muhlenberg you are even less than a has-been. You ruined yourself in your freshman year and are now endeavoring to ruin others.

Just as a gentle hint, may we suggest that unless your insane passion for gossiping maliciously ceases immediately, we shall address a letter to you (using your full name) in next week's column. In it we shall set forth the proofs for our assertion and a summary of your record both on and off the campus. The same warning may apply to the other indescribable mortal who has spread rumors in regards to certain reputed occurrences at the Civic Little Theatre Play Tournament. Perhaps if your status were revealed you might have difficulty in getting your purported scoops.

Sincerely,

Dear Crestie:

Is it an honest fact that you girls had a chapel service last Thursday devoted entirely to the interests of bigger and better beer? We have heard from very good authority that the service was most enjoyable and that the poem read by your president in which beer was acclaimed as a panacea for the ills of the world, provoked deep lusty giggles from the depths of your throats. That "We Want Beer" song you sang must have been a honey, but wait until Eddie Cantor hears about it.

Was it sarcasm or is that really the attitude you folks take? If it is the latter we'll come over and join you over a stein since you know we can't use the stuff on our campus.

Affectionately,

Class of '33 Asked

To Join Unemployed Alumni Association

John Dewey, in an open letter to the class of '33, makes a plea for members to join the association of Unemployed College Alumni. He states, "While one ought not to disperse the golden halo of senior days by shoving the future under the noses of the class of '33, the association of Unemployed College Alumni would be derelict in its duty if it did not point out the cheerless prospect for the graduate."

The number of unemployed teachers, lawyers, engineers, doctors, and librarians is mounting at a dizzy rate, and there is no hope in sight. Yet while illiteracy is still abroad, while men need physicians and cannot afford to have them, and while bridges, libraries, schools, houses, are needed there is no reason for idleness.

Nothing can be done unless by organized pressure, and rather than a gesture of futility, joining the association is one of far-sightedness for the graduate. Membership can be had in two ways: one can join a college chapter such as Harvard or the Columbia; or one can join a regional group such as the New York. Students desiring to affiliate should send in their names to the Association of Unemployed College Alumni at 112 East 19th Street, New York City.

A "strong man" once gave public performances in which he stopped a 9 lb. cannon ball shot from a fully charged cannon. The audience gasped when the gun flashed and the human Gibraltar stepped forward out of the smoke uninjured, with the 9 lb. shot in his hands.

EXPLANATION:

The trick lay in the way an assistant prepared the cannon for the performance. He used the regulation amount of powder and wadding, but placed the greater part of the charge of powder ahead of the shot. The cannon ball was propelled only by the small charge behind it which was just sufficient to lob the 9 lb. ball over to the strong man.

It's fun to be fooled —
...it's more fun to KNOW

A performance sometimes staged in cigarette advertising is the illusion that cigarettes are made easy on the throat by some special process of manufacture.

EXPLANATION: All cigarettes are made in almost exactly the same way. Manufacturing methods are standard and used by all. A cigarette is only as good as the tobacco it contains.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

In costly tobaccos you will find mildness, good taste, throat-ease. Smoke Camels critically, and give your taste a chance to appreciate the greater pleasure and satisfaction offered by the more expensive tobaccos. Other cigarettes, we believe, will taste flat and insipid to you forever after.

Kirby Page Addresses 'Berg Students In Assembly On World Peace Problems

"Abandonment Of Armed Intervention Is Necessary As Step Toward Peace," He Claims

"War is the result of the collision of good cases," was the statement made by Kirby Page, editor of "The World Tomorrow," in his address on World Peace Problems before the student body on Monday morning, April 24, in the Science Auditorium.

"If it were not true," he continued, "nobody would believe the statement that today the nations of the world are very near to war. In days of past wars the people of the belligerent nations became so convinced of the righteousness of their case that they were willing to die for it. In the World War the cases of each were almost identical. Practically the same four reasons were put out by the statesmen of each country involved. All the belligerents were fighting in self defense. They were fighting for their homes. In the second place they were fighting for smaller and allied nations. All were fighting for Civilization or Culture. In the last place a vast number of people in all countries was fighting for religion. Clergymen everywhere told their congregations that this was a war for the kingdom of God. And the great preponderance of people swallowed this propaganda.

Japan Follows Others

"The condition in the Far-East today is dangerously parallel to that in Europe in 1914. Japan is in desperate need of expansion. Following the example of all other nations she has sought an economic place in the sun and has expanded. Manchuria, a buffer state between Japan, Russia and China, is rich in raw materials such as coal and iron which Japan needs. Japan did what any other country might have done. She permeated Manchuria and this country gradually came to be a matter of life and death to her.

Kellogg Pact Meaningless

"As long as a nation continues to keep troops in another country other nations will do the same and there will be no peace. Nations should keep their troops at home. No one thing would lead us to peace quicker than this move. Secretary Kellogg in his famous peace pact did nothing to check the right of self defense and each nation was allowed to state when such action was necessary. These treaties have no effect on a war.

"The forces of the enemy are never 'patriots', but always 'bandits'. Now Japan will find herself compelled to subdue 350 million bandits."

"If we want to do anything for peace, public opinion must assert itself against the sending of troops out of the country. If diplomatic pressure is not enough to settle problems, nations must give them over to international judgment. War is caused by a clash of interests and the only beginning of peace is to renounce the means of war.

Body of Baby Found In Ticket Office

The body of a baby girl, murdered by strangulation, was found in the ticket office just outside of the Muhlenberg football field last Thursday afternoon. Two small boys, members of a group that had been watching the first spring football practice, made the discovery.

The Allentown police were summoned when the boys called the attention of others to the body. Medical examination revealed the fact that the child was one day old and had been strangled at the time of its birth with the belt of a woman's coat.

The condition of the child was such as to lead local police to believe that the mother would require immediate medical attention. For this reason all nearby doctors and hospitals were asked to report any case of this sort to the police. Although this measure was expected to bring rapid detection, no results are as yet apparent.

Book Is Published

DR. JAMES EDGAR SWAIN

Dr. Swain Is Author Of Volume On Anglo French Relationship

"The Struggle For The Control Of The Mediterranean Prior To 1848" Is Title Of Book

Dr. James Edgar Swain, professor of European history at Muhlenberg College, is the author of a book, just off the press, dealing with Anglo-French relations. It is entitled "The Struggle For The Control of the Mediterranean Prior to 1848," and is published by The Stratford Company, Boston, Massachusetts.

This work is an outgrowth of a study of "The Opposition to the French Control of Algiers, 1830-1848," which was submitted by Dr. Swain as part requirement for his degree of Doctor of Philosophy in History at the University of Pennsylvania. The research for this work was, in part, made possible through the compensations which Dr. Swain received while Harrison Fellow in History at the University of Pennsylvania.

Highly Praised

This new volume by the popular Muhlenberg professor is receiving high acclaim by historians throughout the country. "A Real contribution," states Professor Herbert C. Bell of Wesleyan University. Professor F. R. Flournoy of St. Stephens College said concerning this book, "I find it a remarkably informing treatment of a subject that has been largely neglected."

Upon the flap of the book is found a brief resume of the purpose of the volume. The "Weekly" prints it in full, as follows:

Purpose

"This work is an attempt to trace the beginnings of the complicated international problems of the Mediterranean with particular reference to France and Great Britain. The interest which the British manifested in keeping the 'status quo' in the Mediterranean and the extent to which France was a constant threat to this undertaking is the central theme of this study. These policies were evolved as follows:

Essay By Diehl, '33, Places In Contest

Edward Diehl, '33 won the third prize in an international essay contest which was sponsored by a group of prominent people in the United States in connection with the George Washington Bi-centennial celebration. The theme of the essay was to be relative to the Pennsylvania Germans and their influence during the American Revolution.

Mr. Diehl's prize-winning essay was entitled: "Pennsylvania German Settlements as an Economic Factor during the American War for Independence." As a winner of this essay he received a bi-centennial medal and an invitation to attend the farewell reception to the German Ambassador, von Prittwitz.

Instructor Everitt Is Appointed New Coach Of Debating

Will Succeed Gillespie And Hock As Coach Of Both Varsity And Freshman Squads

The administration of Muhlenberg College announces a change in the personnel of the debating staff of the institution. The English department will take over the reins of coaching the Muhlenberg Varsity and Freshman Debate teams beginning next season. This automatically relieves Arthur T. Gillespie, Coach of Varsity Debating and Donald V. Hock, Coach of Freshman Debating.

This action is in line with the recent changes made in the Athletic department. The new policy is, the coach, either of athletics or other extra-curricular activities, must be a member of the faculty. In the future all extra-curricular activities will be under the jurisdiction of the faculty.

Former Penn State Orator

Mr. Ephraim B. Everitt will act as Coach of both teams, and is well qualified to hold this position. As a student at Penn State, he was a member of the Varsity Debate team. Later he became instructor of English at the same institution for two years during which time he served as Assistant Debate Coach. He is also skilled in oratory and as a student represented Penn State at Washington, D. C., where he spoke upon the nature of the constitution.

Arthur T. Gillespie has been coach of Varsity Debating at Muhlenberg for a number of years. During this period he has turned out some excellent debate teams which attained enviable records, especially during the past four years. This year Coach Gillespie gave each member of the squad a chance to participate in a debate in order to give the unexperienced men some training for next year.

Donald V. Hock, '32, has been coach of Freshman debating the past two years. He instituted the plan this year of holding intramural debates. Most of the present members of the Varsity Squad were given training by Coach Hock on the Freshman team.

Coach Utz Sends 1933 Gridiron Candidates Through Spring Practice Drills

COACH JOHN L. UTZ

Coach "Johnny" Utz, successor to George R. Holstrom as director of Muhlenberg College athletics, had his first meeting with the 1933 Cardinal and Gray gridiron candidates on Wednesday afternoon, April 19. In as much as college did not open until the following day on account of the Easter vacation, Coach Utz did not have a full squad of candidates present for the first session.

According to present plans, Utz will have football practice sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and Saturday morning and afternoon of each week for a month at least. His spring drills will be mainly devoted to the grounding of

"Like Falling Leaves" To Be Presented By 'Berg Dramatic Club

John Hemmerly And Dorothea Wilker Will Be Starred In Play To Be Given May 3

Everything is in readiness for the presentation of Mask and Dagger's new play, "Like Falling Leaves", on Wednesday evening, May 3, at the High School Auditorium.

The play, starring John Hemmerly and Dorothea Wilker, has made rapid strides toward perfection. As usual Mr. Hemmerly has swung into the part assigned him with a zeal that is hard to beat. His interpretation of the script makes the observer almost live the part along with him. Miss Wilker will be remembered as one of the stars of the "Cradle Song", produced in Allentown this winter. A better co-star could not have been found. Her acting possesses a strain of realism that makes the audience fall in love with her even before her husband-to-be realizes his affections. The lucky young man is Bob Eisenhard whose characterization of the successful business man and fortunate lover is superb. The leads are supported by a cast of experienced players gleaned from the vast amount of talent to be found in Allentown.

"Depression" Is Subject

"Like Falling Leaves" makes use of the depression as a subject. As the first act opens we find a formerly well-to-do Italian family about to leave their native land for Switzerland where an attempt is to be made to recoup the lost family fortune. An insight is given into the reactions of the former-rich when suffering from financial embarrassment. One is carried along throughout the entire four acts by their reaction. Comedy, romance, and near-tragedy all go to make up this beautiful drama.

"Mask and Dagger" has received most favorable comments from their many friends about the selection of this play. Everybody seems to think that "Mask and Dagger" has been very wise in their selection, not only because of the subject it deals with, but also because of the beauty of the drama.

Tickets for the production can be purchased from any member of the dramatic organization.

Henry Johns To Play At Convention Dance In College Library

'Berg Students Will Be Given Opportunity To Meet I. N. A. Delegates At Gala Affair

Final arrangements have been made for the "Weekly" Dance to be held in the Library on Friday, April 28. The dance is to be held in conjunction with the convention of the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States which meets here the 28th and 29th. Henry Johns will supply the music.

Although this function has been arranged principally for the entertainment of the convention delegates, all Muhlenberg students and their friends are cordially invited to attend. Admission will be 40¢ per person.

Stinson is Chairman

The committee, in charge of "Bob" Stinson, has been working for the past week on a novelty program that promises to be one of the most unique ever presented to 'Berg dance enthusiasts.

The "Weekly", by opening the dance to students other than delegates, is affording 'Berg men the opportunity of meeting some of the foremost newspaper men in the collegiate and professional world.

The success of the last few dances held in the Library is sufficient proof that a function of this kind can be as enjoyable as a more elaborate affair.

We have been informed by Henry Johns that he will present some very new arrangements of the more popular melodies. Not only has he made some special orchestrations for this dance, but he will, for the first time, show Muhlenberg just how melodious its Alma Mater can be.

Since this is the first time the convention has been held here in recent years, students will be expected to display the type of hospitality that our delegates in former years have boasted at other institutions.

Frank, '35 Wins A. Z. A. Oratorical Contest

Bernard Frank, a member of the sophomore class, was awarded the William X. Ginsberg Cup and the Brueckelen Medal in the Metropolitan Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Brooklyn chapter of the A. Z. A. Fraternity with his oration, "American Jewish Youth."

The contestants, seven in number, represented New Haven, Conn., Asbury Park, N. J., Patterson, N. J., Newark, N. J., Brooklyn, N. Y., Bronx, N. Y., and Allentown, Penna. About five hundred persons attended the contest. Prominent New York jurists were judges.

The Ginsberg Cup is thirty inches high, and is on exhibition at the local Jewish Community Center.

Many more are expected to register on Friday afternoon.

Speeches, discussions of college newspaper problems, election of new officers, business meetings, a dance, banquet, and attendance at the performance of three one-act plays will present a full program for the delegates.

Delegates and officers will be accommodated at the various fraternity houses and faculty homes.

Colleges Give Plays This Saturday Night

Lafayette, Cedar Crest, and Muhlenberg's dramatic organizations will co-operate in presenting three one-act plays in the Allentown Civic Little Theatre on Saturday night, April 29. This is part of the program for the encouragement of collegiate dramatics in the Lehigh Valley.

"The Rising of the Moon," the production of Lafayette, won first prize in last year's Philadelphia Art Alliance contest. "Aria Da Capo", by Edna St. Vincent Millay has been presented several times with great success by the Cedar Crest players. "Moon of the Caribbees", by Eugene O'Neill, is well remembered as the Muhlenberg entrant that won the recent Civic Little Theatre contest.

Delegates to the I. N. A. convention will attend.

A NEW coach has begun work in training candidates for the coming football season. He is faced with the task of preparing for an overwhelmingly difficult schedule and we all understand his problem. He in turn knows that there is here an opportunity to establish a coaching record for himself, since it is a commonplace fact that there is no honor in accomplishing the easy.

There are those who believe that with a new coach we are now on the road to football fame. That is always the case when a new order is begun. But we believe it is unfair to Mr. Utz to build up large ideas of future successes without taking the facts into consideration. It is our opinion that he be allowed to go at his work and let his record speak for itself. Comments are in order then. Thus far he has made a very favorable impression on the campus and his own career in sports is proof for his ability as a direct participant. We don't expect miracles. All we ask is that his teams will show evidence of sound coaching and plenty of spirit. We hope, however, for this one thing: that he goes ahead the way he thinks best and pays no attention to the unfounded demands and advices of athletes, students, alumni, or townspeople. He is hired to coach because he knows more about it than anyone else around him, therefore he should do it in his own way.

We offer him all our co-operation and wish him plenty of success. We feel safe in saying that we speak for the entire student body.

dent even before the Napoleonic period and continued to grow as time passed. After the defeat of Napoleon the British attempted to build up a system that would guarantee the prevention of encroachments by other powers in the Mediterranean but the growing weakness of the Turkish Empire increased the dangers of Russian and French intervention. The French occupation of Algiers in 1830, which the British unsuccessfully opposed, marked the real beginning of French activity in northern Africa which was to continue until the beginning of the present century. This study is intended as an introduction to the Mediterranean problems that played such an important part in the diplomacy of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries."

For reasons of economy, co-eds at Tulane have taken up pipe smoking.

THE writer of an article in the magazine "College Humor" takes pleasure in announcing what he calls the passing of college yearbooks. He maintains that there has been a marked trend all over the nation for students to abandon these volumes of stale wit and traditional bunk because their cost far exceeds their value.

It is easy to see the basis upon which his argument is built, and in so far as it is correct, to agree. If there is lack of originality and a use of stock cuts to embellish the book, as he states, then we agree, and if the layout and planning is left to the printer who gains the contract, this further strengthens his argument. If in addition to the above, there is lack of care in checking expenses, then the fate of the yearbook is clear.

But, if as in the case of the Ciarla, time and effort is spent by the staff in obtaining original effects and in planning a worthwhile book, the statement does not apply. The Ciarla staffs have usually attempted to do worthwhile work and have taken an interest in it. The one chief objection is that in striving for a better volume each year expenses have mounted.

If succeeding staffs carry on the good work already done, and in addition take much needed steps towards economy, there is little need for fear in connection with the Ciarla. Certain portions of the book can be eliminated, not only without harm, but sometimes with decided benefit. In these difficult times, elaborate multi-colored plates can be forgotten without damage. The jokes of ancient vintage can be eliminated with a resultant gain. The records of past events can be arranged in a more concise manner, and cuts of faculty members can be used at least two years without change.

Photographs, especially of events in campus life, and snapshots of students in informal poses can well be made more numerous, as a result of savings in other phases, if the book's cost is to remain the same.

The Ciarla is a valuable and necessary record for the college and its students. It cannot be abolished. If it benefits from the warning blasts from thoughtless people seeking to abolish yearbooks in the interest of economy at any price, it will not disappear. We believe, on the basis of knowledge of the plans of the new staff, that these warnings will be heeded.

Christ's Resurrection Is Topic For Dr. Haas

Dr. John A. W. Haas delivered a post-Easter sermon on the "Resurrection" in the Chapel on Friday, April, 21. He said: "The resurrection of Jesus filled a three-fold purpose. First: the resurrection was the real beginning of the founding of Christianity. Although the fact is often debated from the historical angle, St. Paul says that it proves that Christ is the real Saviour. It is the final historical basis of faith in Christ and his divine life.

"Second: The fundamental distinction of the resurrection is that it enhances true life. It puts a tremendous value on life and makes Christianity the hope for a new life.

"Third: The resurrection is a guarantee of future life, which other religions allude to in myths and arguments. Whether or not we admit it, we all want a future life because our present life is hampered and limited by material things. The return of Christ will mean a new order with Christ as spiritual ruler. If the people and the leaders of the nations would realize that Christ will judge them on the final day, relations between people and nations would be greatly improved and war and conflict obliterated."

"Johnny" Utz, Varsity Coach Choice, Has Wide Sports Career

1929 Penn Football Captain Was Also Active In Basketball, Baseball, And Lacrosse

John L. Utz, for three years a line-man and 1929 captain of the University of Pennsylvania football team, was selected to succeed George R. Holstrom as director of athletics at Muhlenberg College on Friday evening, April 7, by the college Board of athletic control. Holstrom, head coach of Muhlenberg college athletics since 1929, tendered his resignation last February 15, to take effect at the end of the present school year in June.

At present Utz is completing a year of graduate study at the University of Pennsylvania and is also taking several law courses at Temple University. For the spring grid practice he will commute between Philadelphia and Allentown and in the fall will take up his residence in this city.

Selected All-American

During his collegiate days the new coach played tackle and guard for three years on the Quaker varsity eleven, and was also a member of the Freshman team. During his collegiate career he was named on numerous All-American gridiron teams by the experts. Also during his Senior year he was a member of the All-American lacrosse team, the group which played the Canadian team. At Coughlin High School, Wilkes-Barre, from which he was graduated, he played football for four years. "Johnny" Utz also has plenty of basketball and baseball experience.

Following his graduation from Penn in 1930, Utz was named Freshman football coach when "Lud" Wray was directing the Red and Blue Varsity team and following that coached the University of Pennsylvania Junior Varsity along with Dr. "Boss" Miller. Last football season Utz took a post-graduate course at U. of P. and helped coach the West Philadelphia High School team while teaching there. He also played professional football last season with Marty Brill's Clifton Heights team.

Grays Are Intramural Basketball Champs

A. T. O. and T. K. N. Tied For Second

The Grays, a non-fraternity aggregation composed almost entirely of commuters, won the Intra-mural basketball competition for this year with a record of nine victories unmarred by a single defeat. This record gives the Grays a lead of ten points over their nearest competitors, Theta Kappa Nu and Alpha Tau Omega, and they will enter the remaining competition—playground ball, volley ball, tennis and track at an advantage. Last year at this time the Non-Fraternity group was in the lead with eight victories and one defeat for eighty-five points. The Grays and Theta Kappa Nu were tied for second place with eighty points.

The final standing of the teams in the basketball competition is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pts.
9. Grays	9	0	90
1. Theta Kappa Nu..	7	2	80
3. Alpha Tau Omega	7	2	80
8. Cardinals	6	3	75
5. Phi Kappa Tau ..	4	5	65
6. Phi Epsilon Pi ..	4	5	65
2. Non-Fraternity ..	3	6	60
7. Philos Club	3	6	60
4. Delta Theta	2	7	55
10. Theta Upsilon Omega	0	9	45

Wednesday, April 5—4:30

Phi Kappa Tau beat the Delta Theta fraternity 24 to 20. Hollenbach and Underwood each had ten points for the victors while Ward led the Delt scorers with eight points.

Wednesday, April 5—6:30

Phi Epsilon Pi defeated the Philos club by a 28 to 24 score. "Charlie" Cooper, Rothberg and Angert were all tied for the scoring honors for the victors. "Rus" Keebler's ten points were high among the Philos basketweavers.

Thursday, April 6—4:30

The Cardinals conquered Phi Kappa Tau in a postponed game, 24 to 20. "Johnny" Yarshinski led the winning team in scoring with six points while Harry Underwood led the P. K. T. cagers with eight points to his credit.

our practices in any way. We want all the student support that we can get. The students at Muhlenberg who do not go out for football can do a lot for the team by encouraging those men who have reported—also by urging other good men to report."

Coach Utz has a schedule made out prior to each practice and thereby allots so much time to each individual drill. This system is proving popular with the candidates who are wholeheartedly coöperating with their coach in his new undertaking.

The Cardinal and Gray will be minus the services of eleven members of last season's squad when it begins its 1933 campaign. Ten of these, five of whom were regulars last year, will receive their sheepskins in June, while "Luke" Miller, one of the best linemen ever developed at Muhlenberg, has left school. The football men graduating this year are Captain "Joe" Matuska, center; "Charlie" Evanosky, "Bill" Horine and "Bill" Wilkinson, back-field stars; Morrison, Cooperman, Kunz, May, Eisenhard and Oberg, linemen.

Candidates

The men who have already reported to Coach "Johnny" Utz for spring training and from whom the 1933 Muhlenberg football machine will be developed are as follows:

Juniors—Carter, Nehf, Rosenberg, J. F. Smith, Gramly, Wavrek, A. Weiner, Klotz, Sterner and Foster.

Sophomores — Watkins, Storch, Rohn, D. M. Young, Steigerwalt, LaCoe, Kanyuck, Ursin, L. Moyer, Levine, Yarshinski, Lepore, Zamites, Mintz, Wykoff, Kidd, Martin, Rotberg, Padolin, Keebler, Rodgers,

Student Body Hears Quartet In Assembly

A fitting climax to this year's series of musical concerts was presented by the Allentown String Quartet in an excellent program of chamber music during the regular Assembly Period, last Thursday morning, April 20.

The quartet opened their concert with a quartette taken from Hadyn, Opus 77, No. 1, delivered in its entirety. Also included in the program were two movements from Mendelssohn's Opus 12, including the Adagio Non Troppo and the Allegro Non Tardante movements.

The group was organized by the leader and first violinist, Miriam Erdman Leeds, in an effort to revive the popularity of chamber music which was so evident in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The remaining personnel of the quartet consisted of Harold Hammon, second violin, Ralph Ruch, viola, and Kenneth Lamson, cello.

Bloom, Riley, Dietrich, and Fetherolf.

Freshmen—Weaver, Pfeifer, Lichtenwalner, Schantz, Hoffmeister, Geschel, Koehler and H. H. Weiner.

Dean Horn Will Speak At Wagner Commencement

Dean Robert C. Horn has accepted an invitation to be the Commencement speaker at Wagner College, Staten Island, on June 6. He has also been asked to contribute an article on Greek Literature to the American Year Book, published by the New York Times Corp.

Our young men's clothing consistently reflects the style tendencies of the well-bred University Man. Coupled with sensible prices, one is ever assured of the utmost in clothing value.

TURKISH TOBACCO

comes to this country in bales. The leaves are small and tightly packed. Each bale contains about 40,000 leaves.

DOMESTIC TOBACCO

is stored in huge wooden hogsheads. Each hogshead contains about 1000 pounds of tobacco.

A flavor that neither possesses alone

Early in the 17th century, tobacco seed from America was taken to Turkey. Different soil, different climate, different temperatures night and day, and different farming methods produced an entirely new tobacco—small in size, but very rich and aromatic.

Four certain spots are famous for the quality of their Turkish tobacco — Xanthi and Cavalla in Greece; Samsoun and Smyrna in Turkey. And it is principally from these places that our buyers get the Turkish for Chesterfield.

These Turkish tobaccos are blended, in just the right amount, with Domestic tobaccos. It is this blending and cross-blending of just the right amount of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos which gives Chesterfield a flavor that neither possesses alone.

Lafayette Defeats Muhlenberg, 7-6, But Holstromites Down Haverford, 4-1

Locals Show Fine Form In Spite Of Short Practice Period. Penn. A. C. Is Next Game Here, May 6

Muhlenberg's 1933 diamond edition picked on a tough foe for its inaugural encounter, and dropped a 7 to 6 decision to "Bill" Coughlin's Lafayette College nine in Easton on Wednesday afternoon, April 19, but in their next contest on Saturday afternoon, April 22, the season's opener on their home field, the Cardinal and Gray tossers tamed Haverford to the tune of 4 to 1.

A double play in the ninth inning nipped Muhlenberg's rally at Easton enabling Coach Coughlin, former Washington "Senator," to start the home campaign of his fourteenth season as diamond coach at Lafayette with a victory. The Holstromites reached three Maroon pitchers, Millard, Davis and Grynkewich, for nine safeties, one less than the Leopards collected off the delivery of "Horsey" Heist who went the distance for 'Berg despite the near football weather.

When 'Berg came to bat in the ninth, "Joe" Matuska started a would-be rally with a single. "Albie" Klotz beat out a bunt and on a wild pitch both runners advanced. A "squeeze play" was called for but "Joe" Rodgers, at bat, failed to connect in an attempted bunt and Matuska was tagged sliding in home. Rodgers then hoisted a high fly back of first base which resulted in a double killing, Klotz being caught trying to reach third.

New Coach Has Wide Sports Experience

Utz, who is twenty-five years old, is not married. He was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on September 19, 1908. He comes to Muhlenberg with references furnished by Harvey Harmon, at present head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Minnich, head of the Physical Education department at Penn. Dr. Carl Miller and Dr. Oberly, also of the University of Pennsylvania faculty, recommended Utz to the Muhlenberg officials.

Cousins Are Alumni

In addition to being qualified to coach, Utz holds a state certificate entitling him to teach English and History in the state of Pennsylvania. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma social fraternity. Two cousins of "Johnny" Utz are alumni of Muhlenberg College—Leonard M. Utz, '19 and Albert Utz, '25.

In the few days that he has been on the campus, the new coach, selected by the Athletic board from more than two score applicants, is already quite popular. He has taken up his new duties and is directing the spring football practice sessions with much enthusiasm and determination.

Former Student Honored

Frederick Wright, formerly a student at Muhlenberg, and now a senior at Dana College, has been named to the Dean's Honor Roll at that institution.

and Klotz scurrying over the home plate to put Muhlenberg ahead. Shimer fled to left and Heist fanned to end the inning.

Haverford tallied in their half of the fifth, but the Holstromites shoved across another run in the sixth. "Lou" Sterner opened the inning with a double and "Reds" Weiner followed with a one-bagger.

Tripp for Nicholson

'Berg, however, tallied again in the eighth. Nixon was retired, short to first, to start the inning, but Sterner worked Nicholson for a walk. "Lou" stole second, advanced to third on a wild pitch, and scored on a passed ball by Hager. Coach Roy Thomas, who formerly roamed the outfield for the Philadelphia Nationals, ejected Nicholson at this point and sent Tripp to the mound for the "Main Liners." "Reds" Weiner was out because of a foul bunt on the third strike but Matuska was given a free trip to first base. Klotz then inserted a double to short left, Matuska pulling up at third. "Joe" Rodgers was passed, filling the bases, but Shimer struck out, terminating the scoring for the afternoon.

The Penn A. C. will furnish the opposition for the Cardinal and Gray in their next game, which will be played at Muhlenberg on Wednesday afternoon, May 6.

An extension class at the University of Hawaii has its sessions on the rim of a volcano, so that the students may better study geology and volcanic phenomena.

A sociology professor at North Carolina, who has given a course in matrimony to men students for eight years, has recently written the first college textbook on the subject.

ILLUSION:

One of Napoleon's soldiers rose to fame on the "Burning Oven" trick. A roaring fire was built in an oven... the temperature rose to 600° F. Into the oven walked the "fire king," M. Chabert, carrying several raw steaks. A few minutes later the doors were flung wide and out he stepped... safe and sound... with the steaks thoroughly cooked.

EXPLANATION:

Heat rises. When Chabert entered the oven he hung the steaks above the fire, in the center of the oven, then dropped to the floor at the side, covering his head with a hood made from his shirt. He breathed through small air holes in the floor. When the steaks were cooked he threw back the hood, grabbed the steaks, and stepped out in triumph.

It's fun to be fooled — ...it's more fun to KNOW

"The Burning Oven" is an old illusion which has played a leading rôle in cigarette advertising. Its modern name is "Heat Treatment."

EXPLANATION: All cigarette manufacturers use the heat-treating process.

Cheap, harsh, raw tobaccos require intensive processing under high temperatures. The more expensive tobaccos, which are naturally mild, call for only a moderate application of heat.

The first Camel cigarette was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of Camels produced since has received the necessary heat treatment.

But remember that heat treatment never makes cheap, inferior tobacco good. It is not in heat treatments, but in more costly tobacco and fine blending, that Camels find their appealing mildness and flavor.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

You sense this quality in the mildness... the distinctive flavor... of Camels. More costly tobaccos and a matchless blend tell the story of Camel leadership in public confidence.

Try Camels. Judge them critically. Compare them with others for mildness, for throat-ease, for good taste. Key your taste to quality! Camels come to you fresh and cool... in the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack that keeps dryness outside and freshness inside.

Trustees Move To Collect Back Tuition

A Necessary Explanation

The Executive Board of the Trustees of Muhlenberg College has found it absolutely imperative to demand all backward tuition to be paid at once. The college can no longer wait and carry unpaid accounts. It must save its own credit. Up to this time it has been far more generous and easy than other colleges. From now on, all tuition must be paid in advance if students desire to remain at college. It is also very emphatically determined to show those students who have been spreading the rumor that only the foolish pay full tuition, and from now on it will deal peremptorily with those who have injured her income. Students must borrow money to pay what is due because the college cannot and will not extend any further credit. No student will be carried unless his bills are paid.

Varsity Debate Team Finishes Its Season On World War Debts

Penna. German Plays By Deutscher Verein Appeal To Audience

"Die Verrethelte Rechler" and "On Der Lumpa Parti" Are Presented In High School

Der Deutsche Verein scored a complete success when it presented two Pennsylvania German dialect plays before an audience of over 1400 persons last Wednesday evening, April 26, in the Allentown High School auditorium.

The first play to be presented, "Die Verrethelte Rechler," was an adaptation from an unpublished novel by Charles More, a native of Allentown, who has made many contributions to the literature of the dialect and who recently has contributed all his works, published and unpublished, to the Muhlenberg library. During the course of the evening's program Mr. More was introduced to the audience and was received with loud acclaim. The second play "On der Lumpa Parti," a portion of which has formerly been presented in the Science Auditorium during the course of the Thursday Assembly programs, was the work of the Rev. Astor C. Wuchter, formerly of Allentown but now residing in Toledo, Ohio.

Fine Presentation

The players, all members of the Verein, handled their parts in fine style. In the first play Dr. Harry Hess Reichard, playing the role of a "geld-hungerich" bachelor, courted and married a widow, impersonated by Luther N. Schaeffer, for her money only to discover that she had none. Other characters equally well cast were Gordon S. Feller as Der Erasmus Willoughby Beck, the widow's son-in-law, Jerome E. Baer as the widow's daughter and wife of Erasmus, and Luther F. Schlenker as Der Joijer Scholl.

"On der Lumpa Parti" was the enactment of a scene in any Pennsylvania German home during a carpet rag sewing party. In this play the

Three Colleges Give Plays In Exhibition

Cedar Crest, Lafayette and Muhlenberg Present One-Act Dramas At Civic Theatre

The three one-act plays presented by Cedar Crest, Lafayette, and Muhlenberg were received with prolonged applause by the audience assembled in the Allentown Little Theatre last Saturday night. This was the last performance in a triangular exhibition intended to stimulate an interest in collegiate drama in the Lehigh Valley. Lehigh and Muhlenberg travelled to Lafayette last Thursday, April 27, and Lafayette and Muhlenberg went to Lehigh on Friday.

Cedar Crest Coöperates

It was planned to have Lehigh travel here, but they cancelled their part of the agreement because several members of their cast had made arrangements to attend their Junior Prom. Cedar Crest was kind enough to take the vacant place in the program to present their production, the well known "Aria Di Capo", by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Lafayette gave "The Rising of the Moon", by Lady Gregory, and Muhlenberg, "Moon of the Caribbees" by Eugene O'Neill. In spite of the fact that the theatre had been recently enlarged, all seats were filled.

An orchestra under the direction of Charles Cressman, '35, supplied the music between the plays.

Henry Johns Plays At Convention Dance

Nearly one hundred couples enjoyed the strains of Henry Johns and his orchestra at the Convention Dance of the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States. The function was held in the College Library last Friday evening for the entertainment of the delegates attending the convention.

Many Muhlenberg students attended the dance, which was pronounced one of the most colorful of the season. The third floor of the Library was decorated with the usual college banners and drapes.

Phi Sigma Iota Elects Convention Delegates

"The Romance of a Young Man", and "Monsieur De Camars", works of Octave Feuillet, were discussed in a paper presented by Frederick Oberlander, '34, at a meeting of Phi Sigma Iota, honorary Romance language fraternity, on Monday evening, April 24, at the home of Professor Walter L. Seaman.

Robert Eisenhard, '33, and John Carapella, '34, were chosen as student delegates to the annual convention to be held at Penn State this month. Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere will act as official delegate. Refreshments were served by Miss Seaman.

Johns Hopkins "News Letter" Will Act As Host To Fall Con- vention Of I. N. A.

Delegates from sixteen student newspapers attended the spring convention of the Inter-Collegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States on the Muhlenberg campus last Friday and Saturday. A full program of business, discussions, entertainment and speeches in addition to the fine manner in which the delegates were treated at the various fraternity houses made the convention one of the best ever held by the group.

Temple Is New Member

The Temple University News, upon its application and after careful investigation by the Extension Committee, was voted into membership by the assembled delegates. The offer of the Johns Hopkins News Letter of Baltimore to act as host to the fall convention was accepted. Other invitations were presented by the Drexel Triangle and the Pitt News. The latter made a standing offer to entertain the association at any time when there are no other invitations forthcoming.

New officers elected at the Saturday afternoon session are: Hyman Levin of the Johns Hopkins News Letter, President; Jerome Lentz of the Haverford News, Vice-President; and Mary Harris of the Drexel Triangle, Secretary. The retiring officers were: DuRelle Gage of Haverford; Gordon Whitcraft of Gettysburg, and Raymond Walters, Jr., of Swarthmore. The Executive Secretary, Prof. William S. Maulsby, of the University of Pittsburgh, and the Executive Treasurer, Prof. Dale H. Gramley of Lehigh University, remain the same.

Awards Given

First award in the editorial page competition was won by the Lehigh Brown and White which takes possession of the cup as the result. The Westminster Holcad gained distinguished recognition, and the Bucknellian honorable mention. The cup for news superiority was won by the Pitt news. The George Washington University Hachet was given distinguished recognition, and the Brooklyn Polytechnic Reporter honorable mention.

An address on the "Development of Magazine Journalism" by Frederick S. Bigelow, associate editor of the Saturday Evening Post for a period of thirty years, was the feature of the informal banquet held in the College Commons on Saturday evening. Mr. Bigelow discussed the work of Curtis who brought honesty into magazine advertising. Mr. Curtis' success is a result of his policy of being loyal to his readers first and in establishing rigid standards for his advertisers.

Scientific Advertising

Mr. Bigelow brought out the fact that advertising is no longer a hit or miss affair. Magazines like the Saturday Evening Post do not want to take advertiser's money unless they know that it can be returned with a great addition resulting from increased business. The solicitation of advertising is not a doorbell ringing

Surgery Studied By Pre-Medical Society

Dr. W. T. Hausman of the Sacred Heart Hospital addressed the Pre-Medical Club, Wednesday evening, April 26. His topic was the "Methods of Present Day Surgery." Dr. Hausman stated that the first accounts that we have of the practices of medicine are found in Mesopotamia, where primeval medicine men practised their charms 6,000 years ago.

He mentioned that our modern medical knowledge is not based on the discoveries and products of last centuries, but is the accumulated knowledge of 60 centuries. At the close of his address, Dr. Hausman answered the many questions of his enthusiastic listeners.

THE proposed amendments to the Student Body constitutions will be viewed with favor by all thinking students. The factors behind the resolution abolishing freshman regulations were dealt with previously in these columns and nothing has happened since then that makes a change less desirable. Indeed, since the time when the Council was asked to prepare such resolution, several other colleges have taken steps to abolish the traditional freshman rulings. It is desirable, therefore, for Muhlenberg to take similar action—not because it is necessarily beneficial to follow the crowd, but because it shows that the dissatisfaction on this campus is part of the general resentment against foolishly abiding by traditions that have long outlived their usefulness.

The wisdom of the policy of drawing up a constitution that shall serve as a model for all classes is not open to debate. Recent unfortunate occurrences, of which the sophomore class elections are an outstanding example, testify as to its need. Under the old plan, class constitutions were hurriedly and badly drawn up, mislaid, and then forgotten. With the model constitution used in all classes, no quibblings, and bad feeling need arise as the result of hazy opinions of procedure. The old complaint that elections and meetings were held at a time best serving the interest of the President will be eliminated.

The action of the Student Council in preparing these greatly needed proposals is highly commendable. It is hoped that students will show their understanding of present conditions by supporting both of the Council's proposals, each in itself constituting a tribute to its foresight and ability.

The columns, "Muhlenberg Mirrored" and "Rambling Reporter" will appear in the next issue. They are now omitted as a result of the lack of space.

THE statement of the plans of the College Administration regarding action against students with unpaid tuition is of the utmost importance. If carried out as severely as assurance is given, there will be a great hardship inflicted upon many students. The difficulty of the matter is, however, that the College has no choice—it must so act to save itself.

In the past, Muhlenberg has been unusually lenient in making allowance for those who were financially handicapped. The overwhelmingly majority of those students who received kindly treatment appreciated it to the fullest extent and honored the college more for it. The unfortunate thing is that as in most places there are here those who more closely resemble worms than men. These students, instead of keeping silent concerning their special treatment and attempting to do their share in helping the college, adopted the attitude that Muhlenberg was easy and that they as wise guys could get away with anything. They proceeded to broadcast the facts of their special treatment and to view those others who paid all bills as fools.

The result has been that all those who could avoid paying, did so whether they could afford to or not. This condition cannot continue. Assurance is given that students will be treated individually, but perhaps the decent ones will be made to suffer for the attitude of the worms.

The "Weekly" and the committee of preparation for the I. N. A. convention takes this opportunity of expressing the deepest gratitude to the fraternities of Muhlenberg for the splendid way in which they cooperated in making the delegates' stay on our campus a pleasant one. We feel that without their help and that of various other students, faculty members, and the Administration, the convention would have been far less successful.

Muhlenberg Netmen Outplay Moravian But Succumb To Lehigh

St. Joseph's Tennis Team Is Tied 4-4 In Opening Match Of Season in Philadelphia

The Muhlenberg College tennis team deadlocked the racquet wielders of St. Joseph's College, 4-4, in the opening match of the 1933 season for the "Cardinal and Gray", on Monday afternoon, April 24, on the Narberth Tennis Club courts in Philadelphia. Since then, however the "Mules" have copped their first match by defeating Moravian College 5-2, but they also have dropped a hard fought match to Coach Caruthers' Lehigh University netmen by a 3-6 score.

Before the final set of doubles had been completed in the opening match against "St. Joe", darkness necessitated the termination of competition, both teams having won four matches up to that time. St. Joseph held the edge in the singles, while Muhlenberg reigned supreme in all of the doubles matches.

Lehigh Edged Out Mules

Last Saturday, April 29, the 'Berg racketmen were defeated by Lehigh on the courts at Steel field on the victors' campus in Bethlehem, six matches to three. This was the opening home match of the season for Lehigh, and the "Brown and White" edged out the "Mules" in both the singles and doubles matches. This Muhlenberg team, however, was the best that this institution has ever sent against Lehigh University in the history of tennis relations between the two institutions. Many of the matches went into extra sets before one side emerged victorious. Last year the Bethlehem collegians found no trouble at all in coping the Muhlenberg match 9 to 0.

The next match, and the opening home match of the season for the "Cardinal and Gray" was staged at the Oakmont Tennis Club, on May 1, with the Moravian College tennis team as the opposition. The 'Bergmen easily took the match 5-2 and duplicated their 6 to 1 victory of last season. The "Mules" held the edge in singles but only broke even in the two doubles matches.

Coming Matches

The Muhlenberg netmen continued their court campaign to-day when they journeyed to Easton and met the "Maroon" racquetmen of Lafayette College. Next Wednesday, May 10, Temple University's tennis team will come to Allentown and meet the "Cardinal and Gray" at the Oakmont Tennis Club. Two days later, on Friday, May 12, Bucknell will be the attraction on the local court.

"Keep Wolf Away From Door", Say Professors

Many Muhlenberg Faculty Members Given Plots of Ground

The Muhlenberg faculty's back to the land movement is again getting under way now that spring is apparently here to stay. Dr. Corbiere in a confidential interview revealed some startling facts as to how some of the faculty members manage to keep the wolf away from the door. It was disclosed that the professors have a garden located on Chew Street directly west of the A. T. O. house. (Incidentally no strawberries or watermelons have been or ever will be planted there.) Each faculty member is given a small plot of ground on which he may plant anything he wishes.

The professors are agreed that there is nothing like a little gardening to keep the waist-line down and in addition it affords a healthful recreation. Although the vegetables thrive in abundance there is always the annual bumper crop of weeds.

A certain faculty member, as the story goes, attempted to raise vegetable soup by mixing the seeds before planting them, but he apparently sowed lawn seed by mistake. If there were any carrot or turnip seeds in the mixture, the weeds and grass were quite successful in choking the plants before they got started.

Someone suggested that the college store should get an option on all the fresh vegetables raised in the garden. A good turnover in over-ripe vegetables would be assured if a return engagement of Dr. Roth, the North pole wizard, were announced to the students. At present we are not equipped to handle an emergency of that particular type.

Better Attendance At Spring Sessions Asked By Coach Utz

Grid Mentor Announces Possibility Of Training Game With Penn Early Next Fall

Coach "Johnny" Utz and his squad of approximately forty-five candidates for the 1933 football team may be seen going through their drills on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and also on Saturday morning and afternoon of each week. Utz is well pleased with the way in which the men are developing who are attending the practice sessions regularly. However, being handicapped somewhat by being forced to commute back and forth from Philadelphia almost every day upon which drills are scheduled, Utz is not able to check up closely upon those players that are not regularly attending practices. On this account the newly-appointed mentor asks for a little more co-operation from those students who have expressed their desire to try for a berth on the 1933 squad.

Drills Are Important

"Last Saturday, for instance, we had very few men out for practice", Coach Utz stated, "and we went through some very important drills. I should like to see a better turnout at future sessions so that nobody will be handicapped because of having missed important drills."

The Utzmen may stack against Harvey Harmon's University of Pennsylvania grid-iron machine early next fall at the U. of P. training camp at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Coach Utz intimated during a recent interview with a Weekly representative. Utz before assuming his present position was a regular lineman and 1929 football captain at Penn and after graduating from that institution in 1930 coached the "Red and Blue" Freshman team and later also the "Quaker" Junior Varsity.

The Ecuadoran government threatened to close Quito University as a result of a student rebellion over an act of the government in imprisoning one of the students for alleged seditious activities.

actors garnered many laughs with their little ditties and stories that are so peculiar to the language. In this section of the program Gordon S. Feller, Dr. Preston A. Barba, Elmer E. Fahringer, Claude B. Wismer, Wilson H. Hartzell, Ralph R. Hartzell, Jerome Baer, and James Angstadt played the principle roles.

Writers Introduced

Many famous Pennsylvania German writers, present in the audience, were introduced by Dr. Reichard. They included Dr. Edwin Fogel, Fogelsville, a former member of the University of Pennsylvania faculty and writer of volumes on proverbs and superstitions of the folk; Rev. John Baer Stoudt, writer of Pennsylvania German Folk lore; Prof. Marcus Lambert, the lexicographer of the dialect; Dr. George T. Ettinger, dialect humorist; Mrs. Edgar F. Fink, of Western Salisbury Church, Paul Wiand of Guths Station, and Clarence Iobst of Emaus, playwrights; John Birmelin, poet and lexicographer, and William Troxell, who writes the Morning Call's "Pump-nickie Bill".

Penn Athletic Club Faces 'Berg Tossers In Saturday's Game

Hard Hitting Pennacs Already Hold Victory Record Over Three Colleges

The Penn Athletic Club of Philadelphia stacks up against George R. Holstrom's Muhlenberg tossers on Saturday afternoon, on the local field, the only tilt of the week for the Cardinal and Gray.

The Pennacs last season combined well bunched hits with smart baseball in the pinches to grab a free hitting contest from Muhlenberg by a 9 to 4 count in Philadelphia. "Vince" Takacs sent his left-handed offerings over the plate in fine style, and if he had received better support from his mates, the tally would have been closer. "Reds" Weiner and "Dank" Giltner supplied the kick for the "Mules" in this game, collecting two blows apiece.

Heist Will Pitch

Coach Holstrom will probably send "Horse" Heist, star Muhlenberg twirler, to the mound against the visitors this week end. Heist has one victory and one defeat for his record so far this season.

The clubmen are coached by Amos Strunk, former Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder. Al. Ushka, Walsh or James will probably throw them up for the Pennacs with Leon Whitlock, regular receiver for Temple for two seasons, behind the bat. The Penn A. C. will also be well fortified with some heavy club-wielders—"Johnny" French and "Bill" McGill, outfielders, and "Jimmy" Callaghan, first-sacker. The clubmen already have several victories over collegiate opposition to their credit. They inaugurated their season by handing Swarthmore a 7-0 drubbing and followed that by smothering Temple University 18 to 5 and Pennsylvania Military Academy 10 to 7.

Play Swarthmore Next

On Wednesday afternoon, May 10, the Holstromites will travel to Swarthmore and meet Coach "Bob" Dunn's "Little Quakers". Either Howard Sipler, former George School athlete, or "Bill" Stetson, former Penn charter lad, will get the curving assignment for the "Garnet" against Muhlenberg. "Bob" Schembs, burly Newark athlete, who is catching for Swarthmore, broke a unique record this season. In the first inning of the Army-Swarthmore game, he struck out for the first time in his four years of intercollegiate baseball. The "Little Quakers" defeated Haverford two weeks ago by a 1 to 0 score.

Fraternity Row

The Ipana Troubadors will furnish the music for the Spring Formal and house party of the A. T. O., to be held on May 5 and 6. These radio favorites have been playing in Cleveland. Dr. and Mrs. Swain, Dr. and Mrs. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Fasig, Mr. and Mrs. Hartman will act as chaperones.

Shrubbery has been planted in front of the A. T. O. house, and during the past week frosh have been taking out dandelions with their trusty pocket knives.

At the T. U. O. Spring Formal, to be held May 10 at South Mountain Manor, Wernersville, Harvey Marburger and his orchestra of Reading will supply the music. A large number of alumni and friends are anticipated. Wilmer Wolf is chairman for the affair.

The mother's club of the fraternity held a card party in the chapter house on Saturday night, April 29.

Phi Eta, the mothers' sorority of Phi Kappa Tau, will hold a farewell banquet for the seniors May 5.

A Poverty Dance was held at Laury's Grange Hall last Friday evening, by Theta Kappa Nu.

The Spring Formal will be held at the New Lehigh Country Club, May 5. Al Mervine of Reading will supply the music.

The initiation of alumni of Theta Kappa Nu will take place on Saturday, May 6.

Steve Fisher and his orchestra will furnish the music for the Spring Formal of Delta Theta, to be held at the house on May 5. The house will be decorated in black and silver. A large number of alumni are expected to attend.

tion, debating at home in the Assembly room of the Administration building, easily defeated the Villanova affirmative team by a three to nothing verdict of the judges (Professor John Baker, Professor W. S. Geisinger and Raymond Ehly). The winning team was composed of three Sophomores—Ray R. Brennen, John H. Yergler and Russel L. Krapf. The Villanova representatives were Paetrus Danmiller, Francis Digley, and Charles Goggi. Assistant debate manager, Wilbur L. Hemstreet, '35, also acted as chairman at this debate.

Drop Decision

Travelling to Villanova, the Muhlenberg negative team (Bernard Frank, '35; Morton I. Silverman, '34; and Captain Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33) dropped a one to two decision to the Villanova affirmative team composed of Joseph Conlan, Rudolph Lehman, and Joseph Houseman. Debate manager, Conrad Raker, '34, also made the trip to Villanova. The judges at this tilt were Brother Paul, O. S. A.; Leo Lilly and a poll of the audience.

Although experiencing a rather poor season in comparison to the last few years when the Muhlenberg debating team was composed of such orators as Henry V. Scheirer, '28, Stanley V. Printz, '30, Donald V. Hock, '32; Donald B. Mancke, '32; and Kenneth H. Koch, '32, winners of the Pennsylvania State oratorical contests in 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931 and 1932, respectively; Henry M. M. Richards, '32; Ray K. Heist, Jr., '33; and Donald B. Hoffman, '32, the present season ended with the record of fifteen out of the thirty-one ballots cast during the season being in favor of the Muhlenberg debaters. The 'Berg arguers, however, only won four out of eleven tilts this season, the Cardinal and Gray negative team winning three and dropping two, while the Muhlenberg affirmative team won one and lost five. The affirmative team traveled in all but one of their engagements.

Captain Fredericks Explains Jury System

Mr. Fredericks spoke on the various phases of criminal procedure, tracing the study from the classes of crime through arrest, accusation, hearing, indictment, preliminaries to trial, selection of jury, types of juries, the plea, trial procedure, to the sentence by the court.

Mr. Fredericks stated that anybody, private citizen, or policeman, may cause arrest with or without a warrant. In the case of felonies, this

Something to Say not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click... I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

proposition. Large national magazines maintain a staff of investigators who make extensive surveys into a prospective client's industry, and gain his business by showing that they know more of the field and the possibilities for the client's advancement than the directors of the industry do.

Extremely valuable discussions took place in editorial and business staffs' separate sessions.

Representatives W. B. Littell of the College Publishers Agency on Friday afternoon and Robert R. Robertson of the National Advertising Agency on Saturday afternoon informed the delegates of the work their companies were doing and informed them of the best methods of cooperation. Open forums were held after each had spoken.

Banquet

At the banquet on Saturday evening Dr. Haas spoke on the difference between European and American newspapers, and told of the varying conceptions of just what constitutes news. "Steve" Fisher, '33, played a group of xylophone selections that were warmly received by the delegates. Henry Richards, '32, accompanied him on the piano. Dr. Anthony Corbiere was toastmaster.

Retiring president, DuRelle Gage, expressed his thanks for the cooperation he had received while in office and called for a standing vote of thanks to H. Paul Gerhard, '33, and his committee for their work in preparing for what he termed the "best convention he ever attended in his years of serving as an I. N. A. delegate." A standing vote of thanks was given to him, also in recognition of the work he did for the organization. Guests at the banquet, aside from the speakers, were Dean Robert C. Horn, Prof. Albert C. Fasig, and Prof. Stephen G. Simpson.

Dance and Plays

On Friday evening delegates mingled with students at a dance given in the Library building. After the banquet on Saturday night, they were guests at the plays presented at the Allentown Civic Little Theatre. Dean Horn made the address of welcome to the delegates at the opening session on Friday. He expressed his desire that good, clearly written, English would always be their goal, and read several humorous examples of what sometimes happens when this is neglected. Dr. Corbiere, faculty advisor of the Weekly spoke on the work of a faculty advisor.

Institutions Attending

Colleges and universities sending representatives were: Susquehanna, Bucknell, Swarthmore, Cooper Union, Haverford, Lehigh, Ursinus, University of Pittsburgh, Muhlenberg, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, Dickinson, Drexel, Gettysburg, Juniata, Stevens Tech, Johns Hopkins, and Temple.

The committee on preparation was: H. Paul Gerhard, chairman; Wilmer Wolf, Samuel Bertolet, Herbert Foster, Edward Diehl, Charles Preston, and Richard Kistler. Robert Stinson was chairman for the dance.

Holstrom To Re-open Lehigh Country Club

George R. Holstrom, who tendered his resignation as director of athletics at Muhlenberg College last February 15, to take effect at the end of the present school year in June, announced last Thursday that instead of returning to his home in Superior, Wisconsin to enter into business there with his father-in-law, as he had originally planned, he would go into business in Allentown.

George announced that, in partnership with Mark L. Peters, who for the past two years has conducted "The Rosemark" at Twenty-third and Liberty streets, he had signed a three-year lease with the Lehigh Country Club officials and that they would immediately take over the operation and management of "Ye Olde Country Club."

Holstrom and Peters plan to start work at once renovating, redecorating, and refurbishing the clubhouse, and will conduct dances there every Wednesday and Saturday nights for which some of the country's leading orchestras will be obtained. They also plan to cater to all kinds of fraternity and sorority social functions, and for other er parties and entertainments. Mr. Peters' long experience in this line makes him very well qualified to handle this end of the business.

The three tennis courts will be put into first class condition, and the nine-hole golf course will be improved upon wherever possible. The tennis courts and golf course are now available to the public and a gold or tennis membership will entitle the bearer to all the facilities of the clubhouse. There will also be a daily fee for both golf and tennis.

At "The Rosemark", Mr. Peters, in the two years that he has been located there, has built up a splendid trade and is very popular with his patrons in the western section of the city of Allentown and especially on the Muhlenberg campus.

The assistant district attorney also said that an officer may take a life affecting the arrest of a person whom he believes to be committing a felony, whereas a private citizen kills at his own risk. To justify the killing, he must establish that the person killed was actually committing a felony.

Dr. Haas Is Speaker At Y. M. C. A. Convention

Dr. John A. W. Haas was one of the principal speakers at the annual Y. M. C. A. Training Conference for Eastern Pennsylvania which was held at the Kutztown State Teachers College, April 27 to 30 inclusive.

Dr. Haas spoke on Saturday morning to the faculty members and advisors and told them that it is important that they overcome the stiffness and impersonalism that comes with adherence to the academic routine.

"The Visible Church Is Not Real Church"
States Doctor Haas*Although Outward Unity Of Church Will Not Be Achieved,
There Is Mystical Unity

"The greatest difficulty presented to the modern mind by the Creed is the subject of the Church," said Dr. John A. W. Haas in his chapel sermon on Friday morning, May 5. "The usual conception attached to the church is as an outward organization. It cannot be denied that the Church has some bad pages in its history. The inquisition and other such institutions carried on persecution with the conviction that they were doing right. Possibly the Church today is too ready to defend the status quo.

"However, the Church has many things which stand in its defense. Philanthropy had its real beginning in the Church. Hospitals, schools, and homes for the poor and aged have sprung from the Church. Music and art were fostered by it. In modern times the Church raises its voice against economic wrongs.

"However, the real Church is not the visible Church. The real Church is created in the spirit by those who really believe in their hearts. The Church is an international institution regardless of denomination, color, or creed. In the real Church the only signs of visibility are the sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

"Present-day movements, because of the new awakening of nationalism, seek to nationalize the church. But the church is super-national, super-racial and super-sectual. Outward international unity of the church will never be achieved. Instead we must try to live in the hope of a mystical unity, recognizing the spirit of love between all people. Perhaps the day will come when this mystical unity may be achieved."

Silverman Elected
Captain of Debating

The varsity debating teams of Muhlenberg College held a short meeting in room 103 of the Administration building on Thursday afternoon, May 4 at 4:30 o'clock. Morton I. Silverman, '34, was elected captain of next year's team and Wilbur L. Hemstreet, '35, was elected as manager with Norman U. Miles, '35, as assistant manager. Mr. Silverman has been a member of Muhlenberg's debating team for the past three years and is qualified to captain the team during the next debating season.

Following the election, Mr. Everitt of the English department and newly appointed coach of debating outlined the plans for next year. He stated that in the future more debates would be scheduled and that the season would be extended. Mr. Everitt declared further that he would carry out methods of coaching similar to those of Arthur T. Gillespie, the retiring debate coach.

The following men because of excellent work in debating were pledged to Tau Kappa Alpha, the largest national honorary forensic fraternity in the United States: Morton I. Silverman, '34; John H. Yerger, '35; Russell L. Krapf, '35 and John Brokhoff, '35.

'Berg's Chapel Choir
Sings At Catasauqua

The Muhlenberg College Chapel Choir, under the direction of Dr. Harold K. Marks, rendered a concert of sacred music last Sunday evening, May 7, in Holy Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Catasauqua. Rev. Herman F. Gohn is pastor of the Church. This concert is one of an extensive series arranged by the student director, Richard C. Kistler, '33.

The program in the Catasauqua Church included the following selections: "Jehovah Reigns," "Swedish Vesper Choir," "On Great Lone Hills," "Lo A Voice," "An Even Song," "Gloria from Twelfth Mass," "Hymn To Night." Following the service the choir members were entertained at the home of Mrs. Harding, who proved to be a very delightful hostess.

Mask and Dagger To Broadcast Over WCBA*Purpose Of Program Is To Arouse Interest In American Drama

A five act comedy, "Fashion," by Anna Cora Mowatt, will be presented by the Mask and Dagger Dramatic Club over the Allentown radio stations WCBA-WSAN during the first week in June.

Gordon Feller and John Hollenbach, who have been given charge of the production in the absence of Prof. Coder, have requested any one desiring to try out for the play to report for rehearsal. A copy of the play will be found on reserve in the library.

Several other dramatic societies have signified their intention of co-operating in this particular type of educational work. A group of players from Lafayette and another organization headed by Carl Hinner-scheetz will participate with Muhlenberg.

Select Only Best Plays

It is the purpose of the sponsors of these broadcasts to stimulate interest in the field of drama. In order to carry out this plan only those plays that are deemed to be the best in the history of American drama will be selected.

Mask and Dagger has already made arrangements for the cooperation of the college science department in the building of an amplifier that can be used to project the voices and sounds of the drama exactly as is done in the rehearsal room of broadcasting studios. Mr. Coder realizes the speculation.

Monstrosities, Topic Of Dr. Shankweiler's
Illustrated Lecture*False Impressions Concerning Deformities Conveyed To Us
From The Ancients

Dr. Shankweiler's interesting speech on "Monstrosities," delivered at the Pre-Medical Meeting on May 3, tore to pieces numerous false ideas concerning deformities acquired before birth.

"These false impressions have been carried down to us from ancient times. We know that anything out of the ordinary in the development of the human body is a monstrosity. How many of us still believe that an expectant mother can injure the child through mental impressions of fright, or by a blow on the body? These ideas are all untrue, for there is no direct nervous connection between mother and infant.

"Heredity is a cause of monstrosities, such as "freaks" born with webbed fingers or toes. The accepted theory as to the formation of a monstrosity is, that there is a critical period of development for every part of the embryo. If a certain part doesn't develop at this period it will not develop later. Joined twins result in the majority of cases, from the embryo splitting into two bi-lateral halves and developing thus.

The lecture was illustrated by slides. Dr. Shankweiler explained in detail how each of the formations resulted. Among the pictures shown were: left palates, the unclosed roof of a skull, cravial hernia, tail on human body in young (explained by the fact that in the embryo of all humans a tail is present, and when six months old this tail is one tenth the length of the embryo, and is later absorbed), man who could fold in his shoulders, and many other instructive slides.

W. Savacool, president of the society, presented a concise review of Paul De Kruij's latest book, "Microbe Hunters."

There was an informal meeting of the group on Wednesday evening, May 10 during which there were cards, refreshments and entertainment.

A Pennsylvania Historical Association was formed on Saturday morning, April 29, at a meeting held in Packard Hall, Lehigh University. Dr. Henry R. Mueller of Muhlenberg was elected as one of the nine members of the Council for a term of two years.

The purpose of the organization is to promote the collection, preservation, and utilization of materials for Pennsylvania history, and to compile bibliographies of such materials, to edit and publish them, to promote research, to hold meetings with addresses, lectures, papers, and discussions.

A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the State Senate, was elected president. Any person or organization may become a member with the payment of annual dues amounting to two dollars.

Prof. Fasig Elected
Conference President*Muhlenberg Professor Is Honored
At Meeting Of Eastern Athletic Conference Here

Professor Albert C. H. Fasig, Secretary of the Muhlenberg College Board of Athletic Control, was elected president of the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Athletic conference for the coming year at its semi-annual meeting held last Monday, May 8, on the Muhlenberg campus.

Representatives were present from all of the colleges that are members of the conference—Gettysburg, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, Ursinus and Muhlenberg. Representatives were also present from Drexel seeking information concerning the conference, relative to applying for admittance.

President John A. W. Haas, also head of the local Board of Athletic Control, greeted the delegates at the opening session, held in the Bible Seminar room in the Library building. The main business of the meeting was the consideration of the report of the committee on rule revisions, of which Professor Fasig was chairman. There was also considerable discussion created by the Drexel representing inquiries. However no definite action was taken at this meeting concerning the status of that institution.

Following this session, the delegates enjoyed a delightful dinner in the College commons under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer. During the afternoon the representatives visited the chapel, after which they toured General Trexler's Game Preserve. A dinner at the new Hotel Shankweiler in the evening terminated the fall meeting.

Other officers elected last Monday were Dr. H. H. Beck, of Franklin and Marshall, vice-president; and Mr. C. E. Billheimer, of Gettysburg, secretary-treasurer. Dr. J. W. Clauson of Ursinus, the retiring president, was in charge of the fall meeting.

Alpha Kappa Alpha

The chapters of Alpha Kappa Alpha, honorary philosophy fraternity, consisting of Cedar Crest, Moravian and Muhlenberg will hold a banquet on Thursday evening, May 25. The banquet will be held at the Hotel Traylor.

Elections for the Editor-in-Chief of the Weekly and the Muhlenberg Christian Association as well as action on the proposed class constitution and on the amendment abolishing freshman regulations will also take place.

The M. C. A. also announced their candidates as: William Macmillan, President; James Angstadt, Vice President; John Smith, Secretary; and Malcolm Parker, Treasurer. The nomination of Harry Underwood for President was made from the floor.

Alan Ritter, Vice President, presided over last week's meeting in the absence of the Student Body president, Richard Garnet.

Blue Crescent Band Scores At L.S.A. Dance

Gliding to the smooth rhythm of "Charlie" Cressman and his Blue Crescent Orchestra, one of the newest musical organizations of the Lehigh Valley, were the fifty couples that attended the first dance sponsored by the Lutheran Student Association, last Friday evening in the ballroom of the Library building. This dance, the first free dance offered to the student body of Muhlenberg College for several years, was one of the high spots in the spring social calendar. The orchestra made such a hit that it was forced to play for the entire evening until 1 o'clock, and the orthophonic victrola, which was originally supposed to have been used for half of the program, was hardly used.

The chaperones that attended the affair were Professor and Mrs. Russell W. Stine, Registrar and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer, Miss Helen R. Richards and Miss Margaret R. Schwartz. Russell L. Krapf, '35, and his committee composed of Luther N. Schaeffer, '35; William D. Coleman, '36; Herbert E. Frankfort, '33; H. Paul Gerhard, '33; and Russell S. Beazley, '34 were in charge of the preparation for the affair.

Holstrom's Tossers Oppose Penn State And Lehigh This Week

Rain Washed Out Saturday's Scheduled Tilt With Pennacs; To Play "Garnet" Today

A light, all-day rain, washed out the scheduled diamond tilt between George R. Holstrom's "Cardinal and Gray" tossers and the Penn Athletic Club nine which was to have been played last Saturday afternoon on the Muhlenberg field. The "Mules," however, are booked to travel to Swarthmore today and stack up against Coach "Bob" Dunn's "Little Quakers," former Muhlenberg rivals but who have not appeared on the local's schedule for a number of years.

On Saturday the 'Bergmen will travel to the Nittany mountains of Center county and oppose the Penn State tossers, who are also back on the Cardinal and Gray schedule after a one-year lay-off. The State Collegians have a reputation of always putting out a good diamond team and the Holstromites will meet plenty of competition on Saturday. Two years ago the "Lions" overwhelmed Muhlenberg 12 to 3 when they fell on the delivery of "Vince" Takacs, star Muhlenberg southpaw, for four and eight runs in the first and fourth innings respectively. "Stan" Carney replaced Takacs in the fourth and pitched an excellent brand of ball for the remainder of the distance.

To Meet Lehigh Next Week

One week from today, on Wednesday afternoon, May 17, the "Mules" will oppose their traditional rival, Lehigh University, on the Muhlenberg diamond. Last season Coach Holstrom's proteges upset the old dope bucket and scored two overwhelming victories over Lehigh. In the first tilt on the Muhlenberg field the 'Bergmen were victorious 11 to 2 while in the return game played in Taylor Stadium, Bethlehem, during the Lehigh Alumni Day program, the Holstromites won by a 13 to 4 score. Takacs hurled both games and gave a good account of himself while his mates also accorded him fine support on both the offense and defense. Lehigh will be out to scallop the "Mules" this season and regain some of the prestige that they lost last year.

Coach Holstrom will in all likelihood use his dependable righthander, "Horsey" Heist, in most of these contests. Heist is the most reliable moundman on the "Cardinal and Gray" hurling staff this season, although "Big Joe" Markle and "Jersey Bloom" are prepared to answer the call of their mentor at any time that he may wish them to toe the slab.

Great improvement can be noticed in most of the other positions on the team. "Joe" Matuska has developed into a smooth-fielding first sacker and he is pounding the old apple at a fairly high clip. "Freddie" Blank, speedy Sophomore outfielder, has also shown so much stuff, both in the field and at bat, that he may shortly find himself a regular in the line-up. Muhlenberg is in addition, well fortified with reserve material this year. "Cris" Riley is showing plenty of stuff as a back-stop and is also a good batter. Otto Saalfeld, in the outfield, and "Beans" Dietrich and "Al" Kunz, in the inner garden, are showing up nicely and are awaiting their first opportunity to break into the line-up.

Intramurals

Spring football training in preparation for the 1933 campaign, which holds the spot-light in the athletic program at present, outside of the intercollegiate competition, necessitated a merger of the Grays, undefeated champions in the recent intramural basketball competition, with the Cardinals, another non-fraternity aggregation, forming the Cardinal and Gray team, and the dropping out entirely of the Non-Fraternity group. This action was necessary because of the many non-fraternity men engaged in the spring gridiron drills.

Intramural playground ball, volley ball and tennis are now in full swing and every evening one can find numerous groups of students enjoying these forms of athletic competition in a very sportsmanlike manner under the direction of "Bill" Ritter.

The standing of the teams including the competition of Friday, May 5, is as follows:

	B.B.	P.B.	V.B.	T.	Pts.
T. K. N.	80	20	30	2	132

"As long as We're Settling things

YOU SMOKE
GRANGER"

"WELL, it's like this. Back in the old days, when men wore high hats and frock coats, they had plenty of time to think things out, and they had sense, too. They used to sit down on a log and take the time to whittle their tobacco from a plug, to be sure of having a cool smoke.

"In those days, a man named Wellman, right here in Quincy, Ill., made about the best tobacco you could get. He knew how to keep the flavor fine and mellow.

"Well, sir, the people who make this Granger Rough Cut acquired Mr. Wellman's method, and they must have known how the old boys used to whittle their tobacco to make it smoke cool. Yes, sir, this Granger is the real stuff. The same mellowness and fine flavor that Wellman used to hand out to his friends. And it's whittled into big shaggy flakes all ready for the pipe. 'Rough Cut' they call it—'cut rough to smoke cool' is the best way I can describe it.

"Regardless of price, Granger is about the best pipe tobacco I ever smoked. That's why I smoke it, and that's why they call it America's Pipe Tobacco, sir."

Now we wanted to sell Granger for 10¢. It was just a question of how to do it for the price. So we pack Granger in a sensible foil pouch instead of an expensive package, knowing that a man can't smoke the package. We give smokers this good

GRANGER tobacco in a common-sense pouch for 10¢.

GRANGER has not been on sale very long, but it has grown to be a popular smoke. And there is this much about it—we have yet to know of a man who started to smoke it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.

Muhlenberg Enters Middle Atlantic Meet

Despite the fact that a lack of finances necessitated action by the Board of Athletic Control, curtailing the major part of the 1933 intercollegiate track and field program as far as Muhlenberg College is concerned, the "Cardinal and Gray" will be represented at both the Middle Atlantic States track and field meet and the Central Pennsylvania Intercollegiate track and field meet.

Coach "Scotty" Renwick informed a Weekly sports reporter that Muhlenberg has entered three men in the track events of the Middle Atlantic meet to be held at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster on Friday and Saturday, May 12 and 13. "Winnie" Welsh, "Don" Schlotter and "Jack" Requa are to be the "Cardinal and Gray" representatives. Welsh will run the half mile and the mile; Schlotter, the sprints; and Requa, the broad-jump and the sprints. These three men are all experienced, having participated in these meets last year.

At the Central Pennsylvania meet to be held at Dickinson College on Saturday, May 20, Muhlenberg will again be represented by Welsh, Schlotter and Requa. However, there is a possibility that several other trackmen from 'Berg may enter.

Spring Grid Drills To End On Saturday

Stiff scrimmages have occupied the major part of the spring training program of Coach "Johnny" Utz' Muhlenberg gridsters of late. However last Saturday, on account of the steady rainfall, Coach Utz kept his proteges in-doors and gave them detailed blackboard lectures, outlining numerous new plays.

The 1933 spring training will terminate on Saturday afternoon. Utz is well pleased with the work accomplished since the drills began on April 19. He feels that he has acquired some knowledge of the abilities of each of the forty-five candidates that have reported to him. In addition, it is very evident that he has transferred to these men a large amount of valuable football knowledge gained through many years of active participation in the sport, both as a player and coach.

"If there is enough enthusiasm", Coach Utz told a Weekly sports reporter, "we'll stage an exhibition football game on Saturday afternoon between two teams picked from the squad". A game of this nature is bound to be interesting as it will give most of the candidates a real opportunity to display their ability under fire. The Utzmen will in such a contest display not only their own abilities but also will demonstrate for the first time the results of their month of tutelage under their new mentor.

Student Body Dance At Dorney Park, May 26

The Student Body dance, the final function on 'Berg's social calendar for the current season, will be held at the Dorney Park dance pavilion on Friday, May 26. "Mickey" Meyers and his orchestra will provide the melodious strains for the terpsichorean artists.

Dancing will last from nine until one o'clock. For the seniors this affair will be a delightful culmination to the annual senior Ausflug. The following men are the members of the dance committee: Ray K. Heist, Jr., chairman; Jules Selden, Carl "Steve" Fisher, and Joseph Matuska.

The last meeting of Alpha Kappa Alpha will be held at the Theta Upsilon Omega house on Thursday evening, May 11. At that time, Dr. John A. W. Haas will lead the discussion of the evening. His subject will be "The Philosophy of John A. W. Haas."

A committee has been appointed to revise the constitution of the local chapter before the activities for next year begin.

Marzolf Chosen Student Body President At Unusually Orderly Annual Election

Macmillan Is Selected M. C. A. Head and Carapella Chosen I. O. U. Representative

In an orderly, but well contested election held last Thursday morning, May 11, in the Science Auditorium, Paul Marzolf, '34, was chosen president of the student body. At the same time a proposed amendment, abolishing freshman regulations, failed the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

The remaining successful candidates for the Student Body offices were Fred D. Oberlander, Vice President; Conrad Raker, Secretary; and Howard Miller, Treasurer. John Carapella was selected as I. O. U. representative for the coming year.

H. Edward Krooss was named editor-in-chief of the Weekly and Herbert Foster emerged victorious over Robert Mentzer in a closely contested battle for business manager of the publication.

The M. C. A. positions were undisputed with one exception in which William Macmillan was successful over Harry Underwood for president. In the other offices James Angstadt was unanimously elected Vice President; John Smith, Secretary; and Malcolm Parker, Treasurer.

The model class constitution was passed by a large majority. Because of the defeat of the Freshman Regulation amendment, a new amendment, printed elsewhere, will be proposed at the coming student body meeting urging modification instead of the complete abolition.

The annual tapping ceremonies of O. D. K. will take place in the Assembly next week. At this time the new officers will also be sworn into their respective positions.

The new President of the Student Body matriculated at Muhlenberg after graduating from Mechanicsburg High School. Beside being the head of Student Council, Marzolf is a Senior Associate Editor on the Weekly staff, an associate editor of the 1934 Ciarla, a member of Phi Alpha Theta and of Alpha Kappa Alpha.

Herbert C. Foster new business manager of the Weekly, has a long list of campus business activities to his credit. In addition to being Business Manager of the 1934 Ciarla and manager of the varsity baseball team, Foster is a member of the varsity football squad and of Alpha Tau Omega, social fraternity.

H. Edward Krooss, Editor of the Weekly, is an associate editor of the 1934 Ciarla. Scholarly, he was an honor man at Muhlenberg during his first two years. He is a member of Phi Alpha Theta, honorary history fraternity, Alpha Kappa Alpha, national philosophic fraternity, and Theta Upsilon Omega social fraternity.

Senior Class To Use New Style Of Gown

At the Senior Class meeting, held in the Science Building auditorium immediately after Assembly on Thursday, May 10, the class decided, on the recommendation of President Richard Garnet, to place a maximum assessment of two dollars on each member to cover bills due for the 1933 Ciarla. The deficit, which must be made up before graduation, has occurred because of bills not collected from advertisers in the Ciarla.

Charles Cooper, reporting for the Cap and Gown committee, revealed the fact that an entirely new style of gown, never before seen at Muhlenberg, would be used in the 1933 Commencement exercises on June 5.

President Richard Garnet and Treasurer Donald Schlotter were requested to inquire of the college treasurer about the returns on the student breakage fee for this year. This request was prompted by a rumor that the entire amount of the breakage fee had already been consumed.

Notice To Freshmen

All freshmen interested in reporting for the Weekly are asked to attend the meeting to be held in the Weekly office, on the second floor of the Administration Building, on Monday, May 22, at 4:15.

In order to facilitate placements, it is important that new reporters have a definite idea which department they would prefer, either sports, news, features or extra-curricular activities.

Muhlenberg Alumni Are Inhabitants Of Thirty-four States

Canada, Nova Scotia, Japan, China, India And Other Countries Are Also Represented

Sixteen hundred and forty-two living graduates of Muhlenberg College are inhabitants of thirty-four various states of the Union, two Canadian provinces, Nova Scotia, Virgin Islands, Japan, China and India, the recent alumni survey made by the Alumni Secretary, Professor Albert C. H. Fasig, disclosed.

Of this number thirteen hundred and twenty-three graduates are living in Pennsylvania. New Jersey has 107 graduates to rank second and New York a close third with 92. The other 120 graduates are scattered throughout the other states and the foreign countries. Ohio with thirteen ranks fourth and Connecticut fifth with eleven.

Illinois claimed nine graduates and North Carolina and California had six each. Five were living in each of these states, Delaware, Florida, Massachusetts, Minnesota. Four graduates were listed from each of the following: Washington, D. C., Indiana, Maryland, and Washington. Three each from Michigan, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin, and two each from Colorado, Tennessee and West Virginia. Only one alumnus was located in each of the following states: Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, and South Carolina.

Among the foreign countries Japan leads with four alumni. India, Novia Scotia and the province of Quebec each have two graduates and China, Virgin Islands and the province of Ontario lay claim to one each.

Allentown has 418 Muhlenberg graduates living within its borders. Philadelphia with 95 ranks second, Reading with 66 is third and Bethlehem with 55 is fourth. Lehighton has 24 and Easton 23 to be fifth and sixth respectively. Other cities with more than nine graduates living there include: Hazleton, 18; Emaus, 17; Nazareth, 17; Northampton, 17; Catawqua, 16; Slatington, 15; Kutztown, 13; Lancaster, 13; Wilkes-Barre, 12; Lebanon, 10; Perkasio, 10; Sellersville, 10; and Pittsburgh and Pottsville with nine each.

Dr. Shankweiler Gives Last Eugenics Talk

Dr. John V. Shankweiler concluded a series of six instructive lectures on Eugenics on Monday evening, May 8, in the auditorium of the Science building. These lectures were sponsored by the Lutheran Student Association in line with its more liberal program adopted during the present semester.

During the course of these lectures, Dr. Shankweiler plainly presented to the large number of students who attended the sessions, a general survey of sex and subjects related thereto. His lectures included answers to many of the perplexing problems of the students. Following each lecture, a question and answer period was used to great advantage. Both Dr. Shankweiler and the Lutheran Student Association deserve much credit for presenting to the student body such an interesting and educational series of lectures.

Ausflug Is Held By German Club To End A Successful Season

New Officers Are Elected At Unique Meeting; Dr. Barba Reviews Year's Achievements

Der Deutsche Verein held its annual Ausflug at Sand Spring Park, Friday afternoon, May 12. In spite of the fact that a light rain persisted throughout the early evening, the "Germuetlichkeit" was not in the least effected. The last business meeting of this semester was held, during which the election of new officers took place. They are: Gordon S. Feller, '34, president; Luther F. Schlenker, '35, vice president; Charles A. Klein, '35, secretary; and Arthur H. Hottel, '34, treasurer. The business meeting was in charge of Ralph R. Hartzell, '33, retiring president of the Verein. Other officers whose places were filled at this election are John R. Albright, '33, vice president; and Frank C. Paukovits, '34, secretary.

During the meeting, Dr. Preston A. Barba, head of the German department, reviewed the very successful year enjoyed by the Verein. A few of the many achievements of the year are as follows: two dramatic recitals by Herr Max Montor, of Vienna; the showing of the official German Goethe film prepared for the centenary of Goethe's death, with a lecture by Dr. Barba; Goethe evening at which music was supplied by the Lehigh Saengerbund; an illustrated lecture on the construction of the transatlantic steamship, Bremen, by Mr. Theodore Spaeth; an educational picture of a cruise to the North Cape; the annual old-fashioned Christmas party at the beautiful residence of Dr. Barba; a lecture by Dr. Barba on the "Life and Travels of Victor Scheffel"; a German song recital by the internationally famous German contralto, Fraulein Margarete Olden; the presentation of two Pennsylvania-German dialect plays, "Die Verrechelte Rechler" and "On Der Lumpa Part" before large audiences on several occasions; a very successful Damentanz at which "Ray" Wahl and his German band provided the music for dancing after an entertaining program; and finally the traditional Ausflug.

After the adjournment of the business meeting, the entire group joined in the singing of Deutsche Volkslieder. Lester Fetter, '35, rendered the accompaniment on the harmonica. A genuine German supper was then served, including the German national beverage. The refreshment committee consisted of Harold R. Kuhns, '33; George O. Zanger, '34, and Frederick J. Schlick, '35. This Ausflug was one of the most successful that the Verein has enjoyed since its founding.

Social Science Club May Go Pi Gamma Mu

At a meeting held on Thursday evening, May 11, in the Administration Building, the Social Science Club decided to make formal application for a charter to Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity.

The present officers of the club were unanimously re-elected. Russel L. Krapf, '35, will be president for the fourth consecutive semester. Norman U. Miles, '35 was re-elected vice president and Rudolf Koster, '35, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Koster has been serving in that capacity for the past four semesters.

"Birth Control" was the subject discussed at the meeting. Clifton W. Gant, '35, led the discussion and brought out numerous points in favor of such action. He showed particularly its advantages by pointing out the economic inability of a great many families to support a large number of children and pointed out the disastrous results prevailing today when birth control is not legal. He also showed how public opinion, including that of many church leaders, is gradually beginning to favor birth control.

Octogenarian Alumni To Attend Twelfth Muhlenberg Reunion

Class Of 1873 Has Six Living Alumni. Several Other Classes Also To Hold Reunions

A veritable octogenarian convention will be held at Muhlenberg College this Spring when the class of 1873 will hold its sixty-year reunion. The oldest living Muhlenberg alumnus, George F. Kribbs, of Kissimmee, Florida, who passed his eighty-sixth birthday last November, graduated in this class.

A total of six living members of that class are planning to attend this reunion. Dr. John A. Bauman, professor emeritus of mathematics and astronomy at Muhlenberg College, will reach his eighty-sixth birthday this coming September, while Rev. Jesse S. Erb, of Palmerton, is about one month older than Rev. Bauman. The other members of the class, Rev. Luther D. Roth of Greenville, Pa., Rev. William H. Meyers, of Reading, and Rev. George G. Kunkle, of Kresgeville, are all well past the eighty mark. Revs. Roth and Meyers are in their eighty-sixth year while Rev. Kunkle is in his eighty-second.

The graduating class of 1878 will also hold their fifty-fifth year reunion. Only three members of that class are still living. Rev. Charles L. Fry, 222 Manheim St., Germantown, Pa.; Rev. Frederick W. Kohler, 554 Jefferson St., Rochester, Pa., and Professor O. G. J. Schaadt, of Butler, N. J. comprise that class roll.

The golden reunion of the class of 1883 will also be held this June. There are seven members of that class still living. Professor M. Luther Horne, 1310 Chew St., Rev. Jacob J. G. Dubbs, 38 S. 7th St., are from Allentown; Rev. John J. Kline, Ph.D., of Pottstown, Rev. William A. Sadtler, a member of the faculty of Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa., Dr. N. Wiley Thomas, Wallingford, Pa., Rev. Morris Smith, of Wapakoneta, Ohio and Rev. Jeremiah H. Ritter of St. Petersburg, Florida, are the only members still living. All have signified their intention of attending this fifty-year reunion during commencement week.

New Officers Elected By Mask and Dagger

Gordon S. Feller, '34, was elected president of Mask and Dagger for the next term, at a meeting of that organization held last Monday afternoon, May 15, in the Assembly room of the Administration building. Other officers that were elected at this time are John W. Hollenbach, '34, vice-president; Russel L. Krapf, '35, secretary; and Asa S. Wohlsen, '34, treasurer.

John Hollenbach, vice-president, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, John Hemmerly, '34. Ray Musselman, business manager of the club's recent three-act production, "Like Falling Leaves," presented a financial report. This report, though incomplete, showed that a slight deficit may be realized.

The present officers, whose places were filled at the election last Monday, are John Hemmerly, president and Gordon S. Feller, secretary. John Hollenbach and Asa Wohlsen were re-elected vice-president and treasurer, respectively.

Science Club Elects Officers At Meeting

The final meeting of the year of the Muhlenberg College Science Club was held at the Hotel Germania, on Tuesday evening, May 9. During the meeting the officers for the next Semester were elected. They are: President, Winfield Schwartz, '34; Vice President, Harry B. Underwood, '34; Secretary, John R. Dietrich, '35; and Treasurer, Robert H. Dilcher, '34. At the close of the meeting delightful refreshments were served, during the course of which the members performed various experiments with certain organic compounds.

Original Drama By Warren S. Smith, '33 Will Be Produced

Play Entitled "Bramble Paths" Will Be Given For One Week At Civic Little Theatre

Warren S. Smith, '33, the retiring secretary of the student body, of Muhlenberg College, has written a play entitled "Bramble Paths" which will be presented for a full week at the Civic Little Theatre, on Chew Street, Allentown. Although the formal subscription series of the Civic Little Theatre has been completed, the group plans to present this additional production during the week of May 29. It will mark a distinctly important event for the local group because it will be its first original production. The cast has been selected from among the best that the local group affords and it is now rehearsing under the direction of Mr. Smith, assisted by the directing staff, headed by George L. Smead.

Warren Smith is keenly interested in drama. He is a member of Mask and Dagger and was the production manager of the recent successful play, "Like Falling Leaves", given by that organization in the Allentown High School auditorium, on Wednesday evening, May 3. He has taken part in numerous large productions hereabouts including "Cradle Song," given by Cedar Crest College. He was also the winner of the play writing contest held last year at Muhlenberg College. His play was entitled, "Intermission".

Students To Vote On Proposed Amendment

In as much as the proposed amendment abolishing freshman regulations failed to receive a two-thirds vote of approval in last Thursday's balloting, and because of the almost unanimous desire on the part of the student body to modify the existing situation, the following amendment has been drafted by Student Council. The faculty committee has already ratified it, and it will be brought before the student body in this morning's meeting in the Science auditorium.

PROPOSED ARTICLE XIV.

1. Beginning with the school year of September 1933, all Freshmen rules and penalties listed under Article VII. of the By-laws shall be abolished, with the exception of Part One. [Ed. Note.—This deals with knowing the "Alma Mater" and "Fair Muhlenberg".]

2. From the opening of the scholastic year until the Thanksgiving recess Freshmen shall wear uniform grey skul caps with cardinal buttons, approved by the council.

3. Freshmen shall wear plain black neckties until the Thanksgiving recess.

4. Freshmen shall wear regulation buttons, approved by the Council until the Thanksgiving recess.

Welsh, Schlotter And Requa Represent 'Berg At Annual Track Meet Held At F. and M.

The scarlet-clad track and field team from Rutgers University swept through the twenty-first annual Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Association track and field meet without very much opposition last Friday and Saturday afternoons, May 12 and 13, on Williamson field at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster and succeeded to the title that Manhattan College did not defend this year. The stalwart band from the banks of New Jersey's Raritan river gathered up a total of 42 points, while their chief competitor, Lehigh University, could only score 36 points. Swarthmore registered an upset by nosing out Lafayette, 30 points to 20 for third place. In order behind Lafayette were Dickinson, 16 points; St. Joseph's, 13; Johns Hopkins, 12; Muhlenberg, 9; Franklin and Marshall, 8; Drexel, 6; Delaware, 5½; Gettysburg, 4½; and Haverford, 2.

Wendell Welsh, '33, for the past three years a "Cardinal and Gray" track luminary, copped all of his team's nine points. He placed first in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:01 and 4/10, and took second place in the one mile race, Franklin Miller, of Swarthmore, coming out first. "Don" Schlotter and "Jack" Requa were Muhlenberg's other two representatives. Schlotter qualified in the first of the 100-yard dash preliminary heats on Friday afternoon by taking second place but was eliminated on Saturday afternoon in the semi-finals.

Individual high scoring honors in the meet went to Wilko Winkler, Rutgers' strong weight man, who took the javelin throw event and finished second in both the shot and discus to account for thirteen points for the "Scarlet". "Charlie" Fuller, versatile Lehigh athlete, scored ten points by tying for first place in the pole vault, deadlocking for second in the high jump, and taking fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles. Edwin Walker, Swarthmore flash, retained only one of his two sprint crowns, the 100-yard dash, by racing over that distance in 10.1 seconds. He also crossed the finish line third in the low

Non-Fraternity Men Name Representatives

The non-fraternity students selected their representatives to Student Council and the Muhlenberg Christian Association cabinet at a meeting held last Friday, May 12, at noon, in the Administration building. John Y. May, '33, at present a non-fraternity Student Council member, presided over the elections.

Inasmuch as Paul L. Marzolf, '34, and Fred D. Oberlander, '34, newly elected president and vice-president of the Student Body respectively, are non-fraternity men, only three additional representatives had to be chosen to fill the quota set by the Student Body constitution. The three men chosen were Gordon S. Feller, '34; Frederick F. J. Wavrek, '34, and Frederick Krause, '34.

The non-fraternity representatives on the Student Council this year were the following: President of the Student Body, Richard F. Garnet, '33; H. Paul Gerhard, '33; John Y. May, '33; Joseph Matuska, '33; and Jules Seldon, '34.

Four Muhlenberg Christian Association cabinet positions also were filled by the non-fraternity group. Inasmuch as the quota allotted to the non-fraternity group is five and James A. Angstadt, '34, a non-fraternity man, was recently elected to the vice-presidency of the cabinet, only four positions had to be filled. The following were unanimously chosen to fill the non-fraternity seats in the Cabinet: Russel S. Beazley, '34; Charles Cresman, '35; Russel L. Krapf, '35 and Samuel Kidd, '35.

The Amendment

If a Student Body vote is any criterion of opinion, there can be little doubt that freshman regulations are definitely opposed. Yet in last Thursday's balloting, the amendment, completely abolishing this antiquated feature of college life, failed to receive the required two-thirds vote of ratification. Possibly the inconsistency may be explained by the more important vote for Student Body officers.

In any case the amendment was defeated, and through the far sightedness of the retiring Student Council, a substitute amendment was already on hand. The question in this morning's vote is whether the present outmoded and unworkable system is to be retained or whether a rational modification is to be put into effect. If the latter is true, then vote for the amendment this morning.

Last week's Weekly carried a letter of appeal for new students. The need on the part of the College for a large number of freshmen can not be over-emphasized. If the present budgetary educational expenses are to be maintained, new students must be obtained. The College is not only appealing to the alumni body, but to the undergraduate body as well. In the face of economic conditions, salesmen are needed. We wonder how many we have.

This morning's assembly will bring into power a new group of student officials. To the outgoing officials, the Weekly figuratively doffs its hat. The work which the Student Council has done during the past year has been most excellent. To retiring President Garnet should go special laurels. In spite of great disadvantages, he found it possible to give to the Student Body an administration which made of Student Council something more than a name. The excellent manner in which the election of last Thursday was held was a sufficient evidence of the value of the retiring Council. The Student Body owes it more than a vote of thanks.

The editorial policy of the new administration will be one of a conservative nature. An attempt will be made to take a non-partisan and unbiased position on all matters relative to campus activities. In the past there has been much surreptitious criticism of the two columns which have appeared in the Weekly. In line with the policy of making "The Weekly" a periodical of the students, new columns, having a definite appeal to campus opinion will be welcomed as substitutes for the present contributions. A column on national and international affairs has been suggested, while an expression of opinion on various subjects by faculty members has also been strongly recommended. The latter policy, while not completely representing student opinion, has had remarkable success on several other camps.

We shall welcome an expression on this controversial subject of columns by the student body whether it be destructive or constructive.

O. D. K. TO SELECT MEN AT TAPPING CEREMONY

O. D. K. will hold its annual spring tapping ceremony, this morning during the regular Assembly period in the Science Auditorium. At this time the foremost men among those who were elected to office will be pledged to the activity fraternity.

At present there are ten active members in the chapter. They are: H. Paul Gerhard, who is president; Samuel S. Shimer, vice-president; Henry A. Luben, secretary; Richard Kistler, William Horine, Edward Judt, Donald Schlotter, Robert C. Horn Jr., Ray Heist, J. Woodrow Savacool, and John Hollenbach. Faculty members are Dr. I. M. Wright, Dr. John A. W. Haas, Dr. George Ettinger, Rev. Harry Benfer, and Coach George Holstrom.

It is the present policy of the fraternity to select good men from both the Junior and Senior classes in an effort to form a nucleus for the succeeding year. The point system, under which the men are chosen, has undergone considerable change since

ALUMNI NOTE

The Rev. Harry K. Lantz, '97, for the past ten years the pastor of St. James Lutheran Church, Reading, passed away on Sunday morning, May 14, after a two-months illness of complications. Rev. Lantz was the son of the late State Senator Cyrus R. Lantz, who was at one time a trustee of Muhlenberg College. He attended the Chicago seminary after graduating from Muhlenberg and prior to becoming the spiritual leader of the Reading Church he had served as pastor of churches in Frankfort, Indiana and Shiremanstown, Pa.

It was inaugurated, but there should be little doubt as to who the leading activity men are.

GERMAN PLAYS TO GO ON TOUR NEXT WEEK

Because of the huge success which the two Pennsylvania German plays "Die Verehelte Rechter" and "On der Lumpa Parti", had in their presentation by Der Deutsche Verein and the Ladies Auxiliary of Muhlenberg College, definite arrangement have been made to tour the regions around Allentown. Yesterday the two plays were staged at Coopersburg. On May 23, the Fullerton Welfare Committee will aid the Verein in its presentation of the dialect plays.

The other presentation will be on May 25, under the auspices of the alumnae of Allentown Nurses College at Allentown High School.

Negotiations have for some time been under way for the presentation of the plays in Reading and Lebanon.

The splendid manner in which the plays have thus far been acclaimed has well pleased the German Club. However, Dr. Preston A. Barba and Dr. Harry H. Reichard are especially gratified by both the thespian and economic success. To Dr. Barba it means definite progress in the idea of the German house for the campus, and to Dr. Reichard, it means a definite beginning in the progress of the Pennsylvania German dialect.

Intramurals

Rain played havoc with the intramural schedule last week and very few games were staged. The postponed games will be played off next week, however. The annual intramural track meet, which always proves to be of great interest, will be held next Wednesday afternoon, May 24, on the local track.

The standing of the teams including the games of Friday, May 5, is as follows:

In selecting an I. O. U. representative, the student body elected one of the finest students on Muhlenberg's campus. John Carapella has been an honor man ever since he came to Muhlenberg from Allentown High School. He is, besides being an associate editor of the 1934 Ciarla, a member of Phi Alpha Theta and of Phi Sigma Iota, honorary Romance Language Fraternity.

The new M. C. A. president is also a member of the Staff of the 1934 Ciarla. MacMillan is Photography Editor of the year book. He has, in addition, been President of the Sophomore Class and is a member of the College Choir. He is affiliated with Theta Upsilon Omega social fraternity.

M. C. A. Reveals Plans For Freshmen Week

At a meeting of the officers of the M. C. A. held yesterday afternoon in the Administration Building, plans for future freshman weeks at Muhlenberg were discussed.

William H. Macmillan, recently elected president of the Association, explained his plans for re-organizing the group in order to regain the prestige lost during the past year.

Freshman Week will, of course, furnish a major opportunity for the successful culmination of Mr. MacMillan's plans. The freshmen, who have signified their desire to spend a few days previous to the beginning of Freshman Week proper in becoming acquainted with Allentown and its surroundings, will immediately be placed in charge of the M. C. A. It is hoped that Dr. Barba will consent to lead several hikes through Lehigh County. In any case, three days will be allowed for the purpose of becoming acquainted. Immediately upon the completion of this period, the M. C. A. will hold its traditional freshman reception.

"Cardinal and Gray" To Meet Penn A. C. Nine In Philadelphia

Holstrom To Send "Horsey" Heist To Mound Against Club-men In Game This Week-end

Old Sol failed to shine at all last week and caused the cancellation of two more of the tilts on the Muhlenberg College diamond schedule, making a total of three consecutive games having been washed out within one week. On Saturday, May 6, the Penn Athletic Club - Muhlenberg game, scheduled for the local diamond, was rained out. Last Wednesday, May 10, when the "Mules" were booked to encounter Coach "Bob" Dunn's "Little Quakers", at Swarthmore, heavy rain the night before and continued cloudiness and occasional showers made it necessary to call off the game.

Then last Saturday, May 13, Coach George R. Holstrom and his "Cardinal and Gray" stickmen were slated to stack up against the Penn State nine at that up-state institution. The 'Bergmen embarked on a Lehigh Valley Transportation bus, which had made a belated arrival, early Saturday morning. Two breakdowns necessitated lengthy lay-overs and finally a change of buses before the Holstromites reached Harrisburg for dinner. Here, Manager Herbert C. Foster, '34, communicated with the State College officials and was informed that occasional heavy rains there on and off during the day made it impossible to play the game.

As the weather was fair in Harrisburg, the "Cardinal and Gray" tosters went to the ball park where they were the guests of the Harrisburg management. Here they saw the Harrisburg "Senators" defeat the Birmingham "Triplets" 8 to 4, in a New York-Pennsylvania league contest.

Yesterday the "Mules" met the Lehigh University nine on the local diamond. The "Brown and White" have had a fair record so far this season, although their schedule also has suffered greatly on account of the poor weather conditions this spring. Some of their tilts this year have resulted in the following scores: Yale, 2-Lehigh, 1; Dickinson, 4-Lehigh, 1; Lehigh, 7-Rutgers, 3; Lehigh, 8-Army, 5; and Lehigh, 10-Ursinus, 5.

On Saturday the Holstromites will travel to the city of "Brotherly Love" and meet the Penn Athletic Club tosters. The Pennacs last season grabbed a free-hitting contest from Muhlenberg by a 9 to 4 count in Philadelphia. Coach Holstrom will probably send "Horsey" Heist, star "Cardinal and Gray" pitcher, to the mound against the Clubmen this week-end.

The Penn A. C., made up of erstwhile college stars, is coached by Amos Strunk, who formerly cavorted in the outfield for the Philadelphia Athletics. Their well-rounded team with plenty of power has an undefeated record in six starts against collegiate teams this season having defeated among others—Swarthmore, 7 to 0; Temple, 18 to 5; Pennsylvania Military College, 10 to 7; and the University of Pennsylvania last Saturday, 8 to 5.

hurdle event. "Bob" Jackson, Lehigh timber-topper, took the low hurdle event and finished third over the high barriers. "Lou" Casey, of Swarthmore, succeeded to Walker's 220-yard crown with a 25.1 seconds performance.

The same three 'Berg representatives, Welsh, Schlotter and Requa, will be entered in the Central Pennsylvania Collegiate track and field meet to be held next Saturday afternoon, May 20, at Dickinson College, Carlisle.

Coach "Scotty" Renwick, however, announced the possibility that three additional men may represent the "Cardinal and Gray" at this meet. Si Padolin may enter the running high jump event; "Bill" Wilkinson, the sprints and hurdles; and Norm Land, the 440 and 880-yard runs.

Two years ago 'Berg won this meet, while last year, at Bucknell, the Muhlenberg team was nosed out of first place by the narrow margin of one point. Dickinson and Franklin and Marshall were tied for first honors with 38 points each, while Muhlenberg gained 37 points. At this meet, Welsh pulled an iron-man stunt and copped three races, the 880-yard, the mile, and the two mile runs. It is doubtful whether he'll be permitted to duplicate this feat again this year.

Only one M. S. C. A. A. record is held by a Muhlenberg alumnus. "Hen" Ulrich, '31, tied the record for the 120-yard high hurdles in the 1931 meet at Haverford by equalling the 15½ second speed made by O'Neill, of Rutgers, in the 1929 meet at Haverford. However, four individual C. P. C. A. A. records are held by Muhlenberg graduates. George Majercik, '32, set two records, in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, while "Hen" Ulrich also set two records, in the 100-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles.

The summary of the M. S. C. A. A. Meet is as follows:

One mile run, won by Miller, Swarthmore; second, Welsh, Muhlenberg; third, Lippincott, Rutgers; fourth, Woodward, F. and M.; fifth, Rimby, F. and M. Time—4:32.1.

440-yard dash, won by Clarke, Lafayette; second, Casey, Swarthmore; third, Dison, Lafayette; fourth, Seigfried, Lafayette; fifth, Thornhill, Lafayette. Time—49.9 seconds.

Freshman medley relay (does not count toward team championship), (220, 440, 880 and mile), won by Rutgers, (Manfredi, Young, Sullivan, Smith); second, Johns Hopkins; third, Jauss or "Bill" Reynolds will probably throw them up for the Pennacs with Leon Whitlock, regular receiver for Temple for two seasons, or Harwi behind the bat. The team includes among others four former University of Pennsylvania stars: Rolf Carlsten, shortstop; "Bob" Callaghan, first baseman; Walter Brownback, keystone sacker; and Al Ushka, pitcher. The Clubmen also have several hefty stickmen in their line-up—"Johnny" French and "Bill" McGill, outfielders; "Bob" Callaghan, first-sacker; and Whitlock or Harwi, back-stops.

fourth, F. and M. Time—8:02.1.

120-yard high hurdles, won by Sperling, Rutgers; second, Davidson, Dickinson; third, Jackson, Lehigh; fifth, French, F. and M. Time—15.9 seconds.

880-yard run, won by Welsh, Muhlenberg; second, Ward, Lafayette; third, Reynolds, F. and M.; fourth, Bayer, Lehigh; fifth, Lippincott, Rutgers. Time—2:01.4.

Javelin, won by Winika, Rutgers, distance 173 feet, 5 inches; second, Bower, Dickinson, 166 feet, 10 inches; third, Slezak, St. Joseph's, 159 feet, 6½ inches; fourth, Gold, Lehigh, 157 feet, 9½ inches; fifth, Berg, Lehigh, 150 feet.

Broad jump, won by Hossenlopp, Rutgers, 22 feet 1½ inches; second, Weeks, Johns Hopkins, 21 feet, 10 inches; third, Hill, Lafayette, 21 feet, 6½ inches; fourth, Meissner, Lehigh, 21 feet, 4 inches; fifth, Finney, Dickinson, 21 feet, 2 inches.

Discus, won by Slezak, St. Joseph's, 130 feet, 11½ inches; second, Winika, Rutgers, 125 feet; third, Garrett, Swarthmore, 121 feet, ½ inch; fourth, Bear, Drexel, 120 feet, 11½ inches; fifth, Hauer, F. and M., 114 feet, 1½ inches.

220-yard low hurdles, won by Jackson, Lehigh; second, Davidson, Dickinson; third, Walker, Swarthmore; fourth, Andrews, Haverford; fifth, Harkins, Lafayette. Time—25.1.

Pole vault, tie for first between Gifford, Gettysburg, and Fuller, Lehigh; third, tie between Pohl, Delaware, Garber, Lehigh, and Muller, Swarthmore. Height—12 feet.

The Dean of the University of Washington says that one of the reasons that is often given by men for having flunked a course is that they were in love. Some time ago, a student suffered from this strange malady, but applied for readmission later. He answered the question on the petition, "Has the cause of failure been removed?" by saying, "Yes, I married her." Well, that is one way of doing it!

Yes, I have heard about two words; and now and then three words—but "They Satisfy" means "To gratify fully."

Why do these two words "they satisfy" fit Chesterfields? Because Chesterfield Cigarettes are milder. Because Chesterfield Cigarettes taste better.

Chesterfield's way of blending and cross-blending fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos brings out better flavor and aroma.

'Berg Squad Victors Over Lafayette, But Bow To Bison Netmen

Local Racquet-Wielders Have Easy Time at Lafayette, But Meet A Tartar in Bucknell.

The "Cardinal and Gray" netmen broke even in the two intercollegiate tennis matches played last week. The Bucknell University racquet-wielders took a 4 to 3 victory from the 'Berg players, while the "Mules" upset the dope bucket and severely trounced the Lafayette College tennis team 7 to 1.

Last Friday afternoon, May 12, Bucknell took a 4 to 3 decision from the 'Bergmen on the Allentown Fair Ground courts. The visitors took two out of the five singles matches and made a clean sweep of the two doubles matches to win by a one point margin.

On Monday afternoon, May 15, the Muhlenberg tennis team dealt out a severe trouncing to Lafayette in a match played at Easton, scoring a 7 to 1 victory over the "Maroon". This match was originally scheduled for Wednesday, May 3, but was postponed until last Monday on account of rain. 'Berg won five of the six singles matches and two of the three doubles, the third doubles match resulting in a draw.

The Muhlenberg-Moravian tilt scheduled for last Tuesday afternoon, May 16, in Bethlehem was also rained out. However, the "Cardinal and Gray" netmen will continue their 1933 season today when they oppose Lehigh University's court team on the Oakmont Club courts. Previously this year Lehigh defeated 'Berg 6 to 3 in Bethlehem.

Next Tuesday, May 23, the "Mules" will travel to Lewisburg and compete with the racquetmen of Bucknell University in a return match. Three days later, on Friday, May 26, the 'Bergmen will conclude their season by opposing the Temple University netmen on the Oakmont Club courts. Utz Men Terminate Spring Grid Drills

A heavy drill last Saturday afternoon terminated the 1933 spring grid-iron practices of Coach "Johnny" Utz's Muhlenberg College football team. The pigskins have now been put away for several months until Coach Utz issues the first call for the grid candidates sometime around Labor Day, next fall.

Since April 19, the Utzmen have been drilling hard every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and Saturday morning and afternoon of each week. Definite progress can be readily noticed although there was a considerable lack of cooperation among the candidates as far as regular attendance at drills was concerned. This was probably on account of the numerous social activities, baseball practice and intramural competition that was taking place on the campus during the past month.

However, the drills have proved extremely worthwhile. Coach Utz had ample opportunity to size up his players and get acquainted with them. There was also plenty of opportunity for the players to get acquainted with their new mentor. The coach during the past month introduced his methods, including among other things, a new signal system and interesting and useful blocking and tackling tactics, to the forty-five grid-iron candidates.

Utz was very systematic in his method of carrying on the practice sessions and this among other reasons was responsible for the fine impression that he has made among not only the candidates that reported to the drills, but also among the student body, in general.

Dr. Haas' Sermon On Ascension Day Heard By Large Audience

One Of Most Important Holidays In The Church Calendar, De- clares President

Dr. John A. W. Haas delivered his Ascension Day Sermon to a congregation composed of students and many visitors in the Chapel on Thursday, May 25. He said that apart from the Catholics and Episcopalians, few Christians realize that Ascension Day is one of the most important holidays in the Church calendar. The Resurrection would not have been complete without the Ascension. Christ demonstrated by it that he possessed that well of eternal life.

"The Ascension took Jesus out of the immediate life of Jewry and elevated him from a national figure to a supernatural one. Otherwise Christianity would never have become a world-wide religion. Christianity cannot be applied merely to one national culture but to universal culture and life. If Jesus had lived and remained in Palestine instead of going to Heaven, his words, 'Wherever you are I am with you' would have no meaning.

"There is no indication that Jesus did not take his human body to Heaven. This means a great glorification of human life, a marvelous hope and comfort for Christians. We may look forward to one day seeing our loved ones in Heaven not only in spirit but in the body as we know them. The great hope for a new age of unselfish love, brought by Christ, may be realized if we do not adhere to the drawbacks placed in the way by the selfish modern leaders of nations.

Annual Banquet Held By Classical Group

Eta Sigma Phi's final meeting of the year was held in the form of a banquet at the Americus Hotel on Monday evening, May 22. The annual banquet is made possible through the generosity of Dr. George T. Ettinger, faculty member of the classical fraternity.

Following the banquet, Dr. Horn and Reverend Stine, both members of Eta Sigma Phi and both former students of Dr. Ettinger's, paid their tributes to Muhlenberg's common sense philosopher.

M.C.A. Cabinet Forms Plans For Freshman Week Of Next Year

Elaborate Entertainment To Be Arranged For Members Of In- coming Freshman Class

Definite plans for Freshman week, September 18-22, 1933, were formulated at a meeting of the cabinet of the Muhlenberg Christian Association held on Monday evening, May 22, in the chapel of the college. William H. MacMillan, '34, the newly elected president, was in charge of the meeting. Dr. Carolus P. Harry, secretary of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America was present during the session.

The Muhlenberg Christian Association will provide entertainment for the afternoons and evenings of Freshman week. On Monday evening there is to be a campfire in the grove with refreshments and special speakers.

On Tuesday evening the Cabinet will stage an "Athletic Night," the purpose of which will be to acquaint the new men with the college athletic program. Registrar Harry A. Benfer, Professor Albert C. H. Fasig and Coach "Johnny" Utz will be among the speakers. On the next evening, Wednesday, the Muhlenberg Christian Association plans to entertain the Freshmen at a theatre party at the Nineteenth Street Theatre. Inasmuch as Allentown Fair Week coincides with Freshman Week, there will be nothing scheduled to interfere with "Big Thursday" at the local fair.

For the afternoons, the Cabinet is planning to take the Freshmen on hikes throughout the Lehigh Valley, besides providing other forms of amusement. It is possible that Dr. Preston A. Barba may lead several of these expeditions. On Monday, entertainment will be provided for the A. B. students; on Tuesday, for the Ph.B. men; on Thursday, for the B.S. students; inasmuch as only one group will be free each afternoon.

The committees appointed by President MacMillan to take charge of the Freshman Week activities are as follows:

Reception—Malcom M. Parker, '34, chairman; Samuel E. Kidd, '35, and Russell S. Beazley, '34.

Speakers—Russell L. Krapf, '35, chairman; and Myron A. Eichner, '35. Evening programs—Harry B. Underwood, '34, chairman; Raymond W. Musselman, '35 and James A. Angstadt, '34.

Recreation—Allen E. Schechterly, '35, chairman; Charles P. Cressman, '35 and Conrad W. Raker, '34.

Student Body Dance Ends Social Season

The Annual Student Body dance, the final function on the Muhlenberg social calendar, was held at the Dorney Park dance pavilion on Friday, May 26. The dance was a hilarious success, with 200 couples dancing to the music of "Mickey" Meyers' orchestra, in collaboration with various members of the Student Body.

Dancing lasted from nine until one o'clock. For the seniors this affair was a delightful culmination to their social life at Muhlenberg. The following men were members of the dance committee: Ray K. Heist, Jr., chairman; Jules Seldon, Carl "Steve" Fisher, and Joseph Matuska. The chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. John C. Keller.

Commencement Honors will be Divided between Science and Arts Departments

Valedictorian

GEORGE B. AMMON

George B. Ammon, candidate for the Arts degree, will deliver the valedictory at next Monday's commencement exercises.

Ammon matriculated at Muhlenberg after graduating from Girard College with the class of 1927. Since then he has been one of Muhlenberg's foremost students. Although not extremely interested in extra-curricular activities, he has been able to accomplish much. As librarian, he was well known to the college during his last two years at Muhlenberg. He was a member of the Lutheran Students Association, of the Muhlenberg Christian Association and of the Ministerial Club. His home is at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, and his intended profession is the Ministry.

Salutatorian

GEORGE W. HEINTZELMAN

For the second time in as many years, a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Science has been able to secure one of the two highest honors in collegiate circles. George W. Heintzelman will be the Salutatorian of the class of 1933.

Heintzelman came to Muhlenberg from Slatington High School where he was also an honor man. During his entire College course, he was the pride of the Science Department, seldom, if ever, being seen in the Arts Department. He was physics assistant for two years, a member of the Pre-medical Society and of the Science Club. In the Arts his only activity was the German Club. His home is at Schnecksville, Pa., and his intended profession is medicine.

History Prize Given By Phi Alpha Theta

Bernard Blackman Receives Freshman Prize For Excel- lence In History Exam.

The annual Phi Alpha Theta prize for accomplishment in history will be awarded to Bernard Blackman of Riverside, N. J. on Commencement Day.

The History Fraternity awards this prize on the three essentials of interest in history, improvement in class and the grade on the special examination.

The examination for this year consisted of three questions, two of which necessitated a knowledge of current events.

The questions follow:

What part has the United States taken in world affairs since March 17? Are there any precedents for this in past history?

Identify the following:
"The Good Earth"
"Design for Living"
Pre-fabricated houses
Manchukuo
Kirby Page
Francis Perkins
Lewis A. Douglas

Name five great historians and their particular field of study.

Field Book Contract Awarded By "M" Club

The varsity "M" club held its final meeting of the year at noon on Wednesday, May 24, in the Commons. Bids for the 1933 Field Book were received and the contract was awarded. The final settlement on the 1932 Field Book was also completed.

Registrar Harry A. Benfer, treasurer of the college Board of Athletic Control, enlightened the letter-men concerning the question whether or not they will receive awards earned during the past year in the various types of athletics. It was also decided to eliminate the annual athletic banquet on account of financial difficulties.

The present officers who will serve until the first meeting of next semester are: Albert Weiner, '34, president; Albert B. Kunz, '34, vice-president; William E. Boone, '33, secretary; and Albert T. Klotz, '34, treasurer.

The members enjoyed a dinner at the Commons under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Benfer.

Oratorical Contest To Be Held Friday

Four Juniors To Compete In An- nual Contest Under The Direc- tion Of Dr. Brown

The annual Junior Oratorical contest will be held on Friday afternoon, June 3 at 2 P. M., in the Assembly room of the Administration building. Four orators, who have been drilling for the past several weeks, under the direction of Dr. John D. M. Brown, coach of oratory, will compete in the contest. All alumni, students and friends are urged to attend as the competition will be keen.

Final Organization Of Forensic Council To Take Place Friday

Plans For Radio Broadcasts Dis- cussed At First Meeting; Hemstreet First President

The Muhlenberg College forensic council will be definitely organized on Friday afternoon, June 2, at 1 o'clock, in the Assembly room of the Administration building, just prior to the annual Junior Oratorical contest. This Council was formed through the efforts of Instructor Ephraim B. Everitt, the newly appointed coach of debating.

The purpose of the Council is to take charge of all debating and oratory at Muhlenberg. Membership will be limited to participants in at least one varsity debate and one oratorical contest. The manager of debating is to become the president of this organization, the I. O. U. representative will automatically become vice-president and the assistant manager of debating will serve as the secretary. Faculty advisors of the organization will be Dr. John D. M. Brown, coach of oratory and Mr. Ephraim B. Everitt, coach of debating.

The constitution, drawn up by a committee composed of Ray R. Brennen, '35, chairman; Russell L. Krapf, '35; Wilbur L. Hemstreet, '35; Morton I. Silverman, '34; and John R. Brokhoff, '35, will be discussed at this meeting.

A loving cup has been purchased to be presented to the winner of the Freshman Intramural debating competition. There is also a possibility that the Freshman oratorical contest will be revived by the Council in the near future. Efforts are also being made to secure broadcasting apparatus so that the various forensic activities as well as other cultural programs offered at the college may be put on the air for the benefit of the public and the advertisement of Muhlenberg College.

New Elections Held By Mask and Dagger

The election of officers for Mask and Dagger held on Monday afternoon, May 15, was declared unconstitutional because of the lack of the necessary quorum as stipulated in the constitution, and another election was held on Monday afternoon, May 22, in the Assembly room of the Administration building. Angelo P. Bianco, '34, was chosen president for the next semester; Russell L. Krapf, '35, vice-president; Luther Wenner, '34, secretary; and John C. Gosztanyi, '35, treasurer.

Dr. John D. M. Brown, head of the local English Department, was selected by the club to serve as faculty adviser for next year. He succeeds Mr. William D. Coder, who was named to that position when the club organized at the beginning of this academic year.

John S. Hemmerly, '34, the retiring president, was in charge of the meeting. Other officers, whose places were filled at the election on May 22, are John W. Hollenbach, '34, vice-president; Gordon Feller, '34, secretary; and Asa S. Wohlson, '34, treasurer.

Six Class Reunions To Be Held During Commencement Week

Over Four Hundred Alumni Are Expected To Return For Week-end Functions

Upward of four hundred alumni are expected to attend during Commencement week the six class reunions to be celebrated by banquets on June 3 and 4. Under the direction of Prof. Albert H. Fasig, alumni secretary, the reunions promise to be highly successful. Assisted by the secretaries of the various classes, he has made a strenuous effort to secure the return of not only the old grads but also of non-grads who had attended college for more than one semester. However, due to present conditions several classes are unable to return for reunions.

Following is the list of banquets:

Class of 1873: Guests of the College in the Commons; Saturday, June 3, 12:00 M.

Class of 1898: Dinner at Elks Club, Friday, June 2, 6:00 P. M.

Class of 1903: Dinner at Americus Hotel, Friday, June 2, 6:00 P. M.

Class of 1913: Dinner at Americus Hotel, Friday, June 2, 8:00 P. M.

Class of 1923: Dinner at Old Lehigh Country Club, Saturday, June 3, 6:30 P. M.

Class of 1928: Dinner at Hotel Allen, Saturday, June 3, 5:30 P. M.

Following the dinner on Saturday, the alumni will attend the Muhlenberg-Lafayette baseball game. On Saturday morning many of the fraternities on the campus expect large attendances at their annual Spring alumni meetings.

The unusual increase in the number of class reunions demonstrates clearly the increasing consolidation of Muhlenberg's alumni body.

Lutheran Students Discuss New Plans

Plans for next year were intensively discussed at the final meeting of the Lutheran Student Association for the present academic year held on Tuesday evening, May 23, in the Bible Seminar room in the Library. Dr. Carolus P. Harry, secretary of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America, informally addressed the club, suggesting numerous projects and plans for the consideration of the local L. S. A. when planning for its 1933-1934 program.

The election of new officers also took place at this meeting. Russel L. Krapf, '35, was chosen president; Edward T. Horn, Jr., '36, vice-president; Russell S. Beazley, '34, secretary; and Luther N. Schaeffer, '35, treasurer.

The retiring president, Herbert E. Frankfort, '33, was in charge of the meeting. The other officers, who will retire at the end of this semester, are William H. MacMillan, '34, vice-president; Byron R. Stauffer, '34, secretary and George B. Ammon, '33, treasurer.

Dr. Corbiere Gives Convocation Report

On May 9 Phi Sigma Iota, honorary Romance Language Fraternity, held an election of officers for the coming year. Dr. Anthony S. Corbiere was re-elected president of Lambda Chapter. Professor Seaman was again elected vice-president with John Carapella, secretary, and Fred Oberlander, treasurer.

The national convocation of Phi Sigma Iota was held at Penn State on May 19 and 20. Dr. Corbiere was re-elected to the position of historian and editor of the "News Letter" of the national chapter. This will be Dr. Corbiere's third term in this office. The delegates to the convocation from Lambda Chapter were Dr. Corbiere, also delegate ex-officio, Robert Eisenhardt and John Carapella.

In Parting

In a few days another group of college graduates will enter the apparently hopeless struggle at which so many college men are at present engaged. Yet in spite of the many disadvantages which the class of 1933 will meet, they are fortunate in one thing—the fact that they realize the situation which they are to face. Nothing whatever remains sacred as compared to that golden age of 1921-1929 when the millenium was fast approaching and the college freshman dreamt of the days when he would graduate and begin to obtain his first million. The present crop of college men realize that those days of illusion are over. Banking is no more, stocks and bonds are not to be sold, business has passed its zenith and all the shibboleths of prosperity have suddenly ceased to exist. There apparently remains but one thing—a large question mark which may sometime be answered by the present college men themselves. The past generation has admitted its failure and given the task of reconstruction to its successors. How well they will succeed depends entirely upon the amount of intelligence which they have been able to obtain in four valuable years, years which we sometimes are inclined to regard as wasted.

During the coming week-end, the campus will welcome back many of her old sons. The alumni of Muhlenberg have during the past many years returned in ever larger groups. We can not too strongly express our gratitude. A strong alumni group, exerting influence on the college, is the most potent factor in establishing a strong spirit. Traditions are founded and preserved by old grads and on their maintenance of a consolidated group depends to a large extent the worth of the College. The interest which alumni have taken in Muhlenberg has been largely instrumental in formulating the new athletic policy which was one of the most progressive steps taken by the administration, and its stabilization, in turn, rests to a large extent upon the graduate body. Once again we extend our appreciation with the added sentiment that they become even more consolidated and more influential.

HIGHER LEARNING

The University of California, in an attempt to eliminate a waste of time and money, has decided to give examinations in all courses at the end of four weeks of study. . . . On condition that the student receives an "A" in this test, he is not required to continue the course and he receives a five dollar rebate from the University.

Students who fall asleep in the library at Swarthmore are given warning. . . . After three warnings they are fined. Ergo, no students in library.

This business of economic instability is no joke to the weaker sex at Syracuse University. . . . Thirty of them took up the matter at a recent sorority meeting where the fact was revealed that sixty per-cent have dates only once a month and the rest not at all. . . . At Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, sixty men are banded together to alleviate such situations. . . . They have organized a fifty-fifty club. . . . It's the old idea of a Dutch treat with a different monicker. . . . Co-eds answer, "no," when asked whether such dates cheapen either the girl who "chips in" or the man who allows her to do it. . . . At Arizona the same fashion is in vogue while at Denison, the average cost of a date is ten cents.

At the University of Minnesota co-eds are liable to a $10 fine or six days in jail if they are found wearing a fraternity pin. . . . To contrast, at the University of Washington a "female aid society" has been organized and will furnish any sort of fratern-

Dr. Haas' Sermon On Ascension Day Heard By Large Audience

"Many of Christ's friends did not believe that he would return after death, but he did return, and will do so again. Ultimately he will come in glory and power, showing that glory does not lie in worldly power, but in the power and majesty of God. This, hope of return is a wonderful thing for Christians, and they should pray in the closing words of the Bible, 'Even so, Lord Jesus, come again!'"

.... IT'S TIME TO TELEPHONE HOME!

EIGHT-THIRTY P. M. is the time to telephone home!

The day's rush is over; the night's still young. There's plenty of time for a newsy, intimate chat. The family's at home, eager to hear your voice. (They'll be there for sure if you telephone as a regular habit, the same time each week.)

What is more, it is cheapest to telephone after 8:30 P. M. That is when the low Night Rates go into effect on Station to Station calls. For 45c you can then call as far as 140 miles away!

Yes, it's surprisingly inexpensive, as these typical rates show. But be sure you make a Station to Station call. Just give your home telephone number to the operator and hold the line. If you like, the charges can be reversed.

Bad Breaks Lose Temple Game. Heist And Blank Star Against Brown And White

Bunching hits with Lehigh errors the "Cardinal and Gray" turned back Coach "Bob" Adams' Lehigh nine by the score of 6 to 4 in a game played on Wednesday afternoon, May 17, on the home diamond. "Horsey" Heist toiled on the mound for the victors and although reached for eight hits, one more than Muhlenberg collected off the delivery of "Chip" Dow, the diminutive Lehigh right-hander, he was invincible with men on bases.

In a game twice interrupted on account of heavy outbursts of rain, and in fact, never completed, the Temple University nine defeated Muhlenberg 7 to 5 last Saturday afternoon, May 27, in Philadelphia. "Eddie" Cramer, a starboard twirler, went the whole distance for the "Cherry and White" and hurled effective ball. He kept the "Muhls" well in check until the hectic sixth when they sent four runs across the plate. "Horsey" Heist tossed them up for the "Cardinal and Gray"-clad nine. He was also in rare form during the early cantos. For the first five frames he only allowed three hits, and not more than one to a frame. In addition to this fine display of twirling he turned back eight batters at the plate during this time, and two more later in the game.

Some things you can Prove

Like the Milder, Better Taste
of Chesterfields

JUST trying a package or two will show you that Chesterfields are Milder and Better-Tasting. But you can't learn much about why they're that way... except by taking our word for it.

Wherever cigarette tobaccos are on sale, there you will find our buyers, busy picking out and purchasing ripe, mild tobaccos—almost good enough to eat.

Then they are blended and cross-blended—Domestic and Turkish both—in just the right proportion... so that there'll be just one good flavor and aroma.

Welsh and Schlotter Annex Fourth Place For 'Berg At C.P.C.T.C.

Renwick's Three-man Track Team Makes Powerful Bid On Dickinson's Cinder Path

Coach "Scotty" Renwick's "vest-pocket" track team, composed of "Winnie" Welsh, "Don" Schlotter and Jack Requa, terminated its abbreviated 1933 schedule by copping four first places and one second place, for a total of 23 points, to finish fourth in the class "A" competition of the annual Central Pennsylvania Collegiate track and field meet, held on Saturday afternoon, May 20, at Biddle Field at Dickinson College in Carlisle.

For the second time in two years, the Dickinson College "Red Devils" and the "Blue and White" of Franklin and Marshall College tied for first honors with 43 points each. Last year, at Bucknell University, these two colleges finished the C. P. C. T. C. meet with 38 points each, while Muhlenberg's cinder artists gained 37 points. Bucknell University finished in third place in the Class "A" competition this year with 25 points; Muhlenberg, fourth with 23 points, and Gettysburg, fifth with 20 points.

Welsh and Schlotter, "Cardinal and Gray" stars, rang down the curtain on their intercollegiate track careers in this meet with excellent performance. In the finale of his collegiate endeavors on the cinder path, Welsh, who by the way, is undefeated in intercollegiate dual track competition, was entered in the three distance races. This diminutive long distance star carried off the high individual scoring honors of the meet at Dickinson by winning both the mile and two mile races and taking second place in the half-mile for a total of thirteen points. This is the second time that the former Allentown Preparatory School star has pulled the iron-man stunt in the C. P. C. T. S. meet. Last year "Winnie" won the three distance races and also held the high individual scoring honors of the meet.

Schlotter also ended his collegiate track endeavors with a remarkable performance. He duplicated Majerik's feat of last year and grabbed both the century and 220-yard dashes for a total of ten points. His time in the century was ten flat, but several inches of water on the track retarded his speed in the 220-yard dash.

Drexel Institute won first place in the class "B" competition, nosing out Albright, last year's winners, 44 points to 35. Juniata finished third with 33½ points; Susquehanna University, fourth with 31 points, and Ursinus, fifth with 14½ points.

Six new conference records were established, breaking several marks which have been standing for many years. Kennedy, of Dickinson, and Gifford of Gettysburg, shared honors for moving the Class "A" pole vault mark up three-eighths of an inch to 11 feet, 11½ inches. The former record was set by Haslam, of Bucknell, in 1922. The other new records were set in the class "B" competition.

The track was fast during the greater part of the meet, but a heavy rainstorm halted the contests repeatedly in the later events, with the jumps and several of the sprints staged in more than two inches of water, marring several additional records. All records established in this meet are official, since the same group of officials used in the Penn Relays also handled the 1933 C. P. C. T. C. meet.

In the Class "A" freshman medley relay, the runners of Franklin and Marshall came in first, with Dickinson a close second and Bucknell third. The time was 8 minutes, 9.6 seconds.

The summary of the 1933 C. P. C. T. C. class "A" meet is as follows: 120-yard high hurdles—First, Davidson, Dickinson; second, MacKenzie, Bucknell; third, French, F. and M.; fourth, Morrill, Gettysburg. Time, 15:9 seconds.

Tennis Team Drops Two Final Matches

The "Cardinal and Gray" netmen dropped the last two contests in which they participated when they were subdued by Bucknell University and Lehigh University.

Coach Caruther's "Brown and White" racquet-wielders nosed out the 'Bergmen on Thursday afternoon, May 18, on the Oakmont Tennis Club courts, by the score of 5 to 4. Each team won three singles matches, but Lehigh gained their advantage by copping two out of the three doubles. Previously this year Lehigh had conquered Muhlenberg 6 to 3.

The Bucknell tennis players defeated the "Muhls" 7 to 2 in a match played on Tuesday afternoon, May 23, in Lewisburg, to end the home team's season with seven victories and two defeats. The victors won all three doubles matches and four of the six singles. The "Bisons" had also defeated the "Cardinal and Gray" previously this season, four matches to three.

Largely through the efforts of Captain "Charlie" Cooper, '33, Muhlenberg is enjoying one of the best tennis seasons in its history. As a reward for this progress Muhlenberg has been invited to send a tennis team to participate in the National Intercollegiate Tennis competition to be held at the Merion Cricket Club, at Haverford, from June 26 to July 1.
